Ky's Planes Attack Pro-Rebel Troops

Nation Seen On Brink Of Civil War

SAIGON (UPI) — Government fighter planes today strafed a relief column of eight trucks moving rebel reinforcements to Da Nang and killed five rebels, reliable sources reported tonight in the war torn city. Heavy fighting broke out in Da Nang itself and two U.S. Marines were wounded.

The nation appeared closer to all-out civil war.

Buddhist students swept through Saigon in a wild outburst of anti-American rioting protesting continued U.S. aid to Premier Nguyen Cao Ky. Vietnamese police used clubs and tear gas to disperse the 2,000 or more demonstrators in a wild melee.

PLEA TO U.S.

Rebel forces surrounded in Da Nang near two Buddhist pagodas appealed to U.S. Marines to intervene and threatened to destroy the big U.S. Air Base on the outskirts of the city if the Leathernecks did not help.

The rebel relief column moving on Da Nang was reported from the rebel 2nd Division which has headquarters at Hoi An, south of Da Nang. The troop movement was one of the most ominous developments of the spreading chaos.

MARINE HURT

The situation worsened in Da Nang itself when rebels opened up with 91 MM mortars from their perimeter near the pagodas, lobbing shells at government paratroopers in a park six blocks away. Three rounds landed near the U.S. Marine press center and wounded two Marines when fragments riddled a tent.

Government planes have circled low over Da Nang for days but did not fire on the rebel troops although rebels fired on the planes and shot down an American observation plane earlier this week. The attack

U.S. Sells Warplanes To Israel, First Time

JERUSALEM, Israel (UPI) — The United States has agreed to sell American "tactical" military aircraft to Israel, the government announced today.

It was the first time the United States has sold warplanes to the largely French-equipped Israeli air force. The sale was apparently undertaken to meet increased Soviet assistance to hostile Arab nations during the last decade.

The government announcement did not mention the type or number of American warplanes involved in the deal.

(Diplomatic sources in Washington said the deal involved military jet aircraft).

A Washingto correspondent for the New York Times identified the planes as older models of the A-4 Skyhawk, a lightweight attack bomber that has been a mainstay of the U.S. Navy's carrier strike force in Viet Nam.

(In Cairo, the Egyptian newspaper Al Ahram reported in a dispatch from New York that a number of swept-wing F-111 jet bombers and 80 F-104 jet fighters were included in the sale. The paper also said that Israel would receive 200 Patton M48 tanks).

The government said that American and Israeli negotiators concluded the deal sometime ago. It called the sale a positive step toward the maintenance of stability in the Middle East.

Some diplomatic observers here said the sale may have been made to balance a similar deal with Jordan last month.

On April 2, the U.S. State Department confirmed reports that America had agreed to let Jordan buy from U.S. manufacturers "a limited number" of F-104 jets "for its air defense system" to replace older British models.

Highway Patrol Firing Upheld

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The state Personnel Board ruled today that William H. Brennan was legitimately dismissed from the California Highway Patrol.

Brennan was fired after a killing in Salinas last October. He was acquitted of murder and appealed for reinstatement.

A recommendation was submitted to the state board by Robert L. Hill, who presided at a hearing in San Jose April 29.

Radio's Andy In Hospital

SANTA MONICA (AP) — Charles Correll, 76, Andy of radio's oldtime Amos 'n' Andy radio team, was in St. John's Hospital today for heart study.

Correll was reported to have collapsed at his Beverly Hills home.

Mountain Kidnap Girl Interviewed

SHADE GAP, Pa. (AP) — Peggy Ann Bradnick said today that other than the fear, tension and hardship of being a prisoner in the woods with a killer she emerged from her weeklong ordeal without harm.

The pretty 17-year-old spoke with newsmen at a 10-minute news conference in the Fulton County (Pa) Medical Center where she has been hospitalized since her rescue from her kidnap-killer Wednesday.

Questions were allowed only on the state of her health and her future plans.

Ship Refused

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet government has refused permission for a U.S. ship to come to this country for an international oceanographic conference, American sources reported today.

San Rafael General Hospital Ordered Closed By May 31

Former Owner Protests

By ROBERT STREBEIGH

San Rafael General Hospital will close May 31 after 61 years of service, its board of trustees announced today.

No new patients will be accepted after Monday.

The terse announcement by the trustees of the non-profit foundation that operates the hospital offered no encouragement to the continuing efforts of former owner John K. Taylor to keep the ailing institution going.

The board said it would close, the hospital "to continue with its plan to build a new hospital in San Rafael and to relieve the pressure of trying to maintain and operate the present inadequate facility."

'NO REASON'

The decision was challenged by Taylor's attorney, Robert H. Fouke of San Francisco. "There is absolutely no insoluble reason for closing the hospital," he said.

Fouke said Taylor would meet with the trustees to seek extension of the deadline while alternatives to closing are sought.

Taylor, who sold the hospital to the foundation in 1959, holds a $365,000, 6 per cent interest mortgage on the hospital, on which payments are $2,150 a month.

Fouke said he has recommended that Taylor offer to give up all interest on the note and reduce the principal to help the foundation continue operating.

OTHER IDEAS

Fouke said other alternatives to closing are:

1. Resignation of the present trustees and appointment of a new board, in which case Taylor would assist in running the hospital and arranging financing.

2. Extension of the deadline to permit "a new group in the county, that is interested, to take over the hospital and run it as a specialized medical facility."

Fouke also said that physicians in Marin could save the hospital if they would send patients there and provide a case

POVERTY WAR RENTS TUXES FOR DANCERS

DOS PALOS (UPI) — The government's war on poverty program will outfit 16 boys in tuxedoes for the Dos Palos Union High School Junior prom next week—and treat them and their dates to dinner.

School Supt. Jack E. Mulkey, who made the announcement yesterday, said going to the Junior Prom is "an experience of cultural development."

Mulkey said that both federal officials and the school faculty agreed with him and approved spending $290 from poverty funds on youths who otherwise could not afford to attend the affair.

Abortion Charges For Two Doctors

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The state board of Medical Examiners filed today charges of unprofessional conduct against two San Francisco physicians, alleging they violated abortion laws.

The non - criminal charges, which could result in suspension or revocation of the physicians' licenses, were filed against Dr. Seymour Smith and Dr. John P. Shively.

Earlier, the attorney general's office said more than 40 Bay Area doctors would eventually be charged with performing therapeutic abortions on women who had been exposed to German measles during pregnancies.

China Atom Blast Upgraded By U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government disclosed today that the recent Red Chinese nuclear blast was considerably more powerful than originally estimated.

An announcement by the Atomic Energy Commission indicated the yield of the May 9 explosion was at least in the 200 kiloton range — equivalent to 200,000 tons of TNT.

This would be considerably higher than a preliminary estimate of 130 kilotons given to newsmen by State Department press officer Robert McCloskey on May 11.

The AEC's announcement said:

"Information now available from the May 9 Chinese Communist test indicates that the yield was in the lower end of the intermediate range."

It added:

"Intermediate range means 200 kilotons up to one megaton (one million tons)."

The commission said it had "nothing further to add" to its statement of May 13 in which it declared Red China's most recent test—the third so far — was not that of a thermonuclear (hydrogen) weapon, although there was evidence that thermonuclear material was present in the device.

"The test was probably an experimental device," the AEC said in that same announcement, "either attempting to increase the yield of the previous low-yield fission device or looking toward an eventual thermonuclear capability."

U.S. Recall Weighed

WASHINGTON (AP) — State Department officials said today the United States is considering ordering the removal of about 400 American civilians in the strife-torn Hue-Da Nang area of South Viet Nam.

Federal Renewal Funds Released

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The federal government released redevelopment grants of $36.5 million to California yesterday as a result of a recent State Supreme Court ruling that Proposition 14 unconstitutional.

Robert L. Runsey, acting director of the San Francisco Redevelopment Agency, said he received notice of the action from the regional office of the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

The grants had been held up by the government because Proposition 14 permitted property owners to discriminate in sales and rentals on the basis of race or religion.

Living Cost Rises Again

WASHINGTON (AP)— Living costs jumped four-tenths of 1 per cent last month, rounding out the biggest January-to-April price rise in 15 years, the Labor Department said today.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics said the major area of the April increase was that of consumer services. Food prices virtually leveled off for the first time since last fall.

Asst. Commissioner Arnold Chase of the bureau said the price increases totaling 1.4 per cent the past three months were the biggest for any corresponding January-to-April period since 1951, and was matched since then only one other time for any three-month period. That was from December 1957 to March 1958.

The increase brought the government's consumer price index, measuring a broad range of goods purchased by the typical American family, to 112.5.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Safety Phase Hurts Car Sales

DETROIT (UPI) — Stockholders in the nation's "big four" auto companies are learning that the safety controversy definitely has had an effect on sales.

At a three-hour meeting yesterday, Henry Ford II, chairman of the board of Ford Motor Co., admitted the "enormous publicity" given attacks on the auto industry has hurt car sales.

Ford said the decline in car sales in April and May "makes it clear that the totals for the year will be less than in '65." Last year, the auto industry made and sold a record 9.3 million cars.

General Motors Corp., which suffered the biggest drop-off in sales during the last sales-reporting period, scheduled its annual meeting for 2 p.m., here today. Safety and a decline in sales were expected to be the prime issues under discussion.

Sea Deaths Feared

MANILA (AP) — Philippine rescue officials said today most of the 122 persons still listed as missing in the sinking of the Pioneer Cebu probably are dead. At lease 262 persons were aboard the interisland steamer when Typhoon Irma struck and the ship ran aground and broke up Monday in shark-infested waters of the Visayan Sea.

Undersea Test Blast

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department says the Navy resumes its underwater seismic research program next Tuesday with the detonation of nearly 1,000 tons of obsolete explosives 4,000 feet deep in the Pacific. The blast will be 75 miles off Cape Mendocino, Calif., in an effort to improve methods of detecting underground and underwater detonations.

Students Sound Off

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — Some 2,000 members of Kami, the powerful Indonesian student action front, rallied at the University of Indonesia today and accused the new government of failing to take decisive action to solve the nation's economic crisis. UAW Elects Reuther, Woman Aide

LONG BEACH (AP)—Walter Reuther has won an 11th term as president of the 1.4 million United Auto Workers, but it's the election of a woman to a high UAW post that is holding delegate interest.

The new woman official, the fourth international representative at large, is Miss Olga Madar, 51-year-old head of the UAW's Detroit-based recreation department.

She was the choice of Reuther and his caucus, but her election came yesterday only after conflict within the union and the convention's first roll call vote in a decade.

Miss Madar collected 8,274 votes to her opponent's 2,819—and it took more than five hours to poll the delegates' votes by voice.

Defeated was Mrs. Beverly Gibson McCloskey, 37-year-old General Motors upholstery worker from Oshawa, Ontario, Canada.

Reuther, 59, breezed through re-election as expected. He was elected to a new term by acclamation of the 2,500 delegates to this week-long 20th constitutional convention of the nation's auto builders.

Also re-elected, without opposition, were secretary-treasurer Emil Mazey and vice presidents Pat Greathouse and Leonard Woodcock.

Guilty Verdict In Murder Trial

SAN JOSE (AP)—A 21-year-old San Jose auto mechanic has been found guilty of murdering an elderly nurse and beating a college student so badly she may never walk again.

Clarence McDowell, a former mental patient, was found guilty yesterday by a jury of murder, assault, first degree robbery and first degree burglary.

The murder charge resulted from the stabbing last September of Mildred Pedrick, 62. The slaying occurred in a coin laundry.

The other charges involved the beating earlier of Bernadette Henderson, 21, a student at the University of California at Davis.

Miss Henderson was in San Jose last summer to visit Steve Jones, a former University of Oregon basketball player who was trying out for the San Francisco Warriors professional team at their San Jose Camp. The girl was beaten as she parked her car at a San Jose hotel garage.

Miss Henderson is confined to a wheelchair because of her injuries.

McDowell's sanity hearing before the same jury begins on Monday.

Mansfield Gets Support On NATO Troop Pullout

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional support mounted today for Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield's proposal that the United States consider pulling most of its troops out of Europe.

Sens. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., and Thomas J. McIntyre, D-N.H., two members of the Senate Armed Services Committee, endorsed the proposal in separate interviews and also voiced irritation with America's partners in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

"We're keeping our commitments and they aren't keeping theirs," Symington said.

Their comments indicated the growing congressional concern, shared by administration supporters and critics alike, that the cost of U.S. commitments around the world are too high and the NATO allies are not pulling their weight.

McIntyre told the Senate yesterday that West Germany's proposed sale of a $176-million steel complex to Red China symbolizes "the naive attitude of certain West European nations toward the very serious situation which now exists in Viet Nam."

Consideration of the removal of U.S. troops "would make it abundantly clear to Western Europe that we can and would withdraw our land forces from Europe — and put them to work in South Viet Nam where they are urgently needed to protect the lives of American soldiers who are already there."

In place of American troops, McIntyre said, U.S. Polaris submarines could be made ready "to bring the striking force of the United States to bear if Europe were attacked."

Blast In Fraternity

FRESNO (AP)—An explosion rocked a Fresno State College fraternity today, shattered windows, and woke residents blocks away. No one was injured. Police said the blast, apparently caused by "a bomb or military-type firecracker of some sort," went off shortly after 2:15 a.m. at Sigma Nu fraternity.

Regents Open Meeting On Anti-Kerr Charges

IRVINE (UPI) — Strong support of highly criticized University of California President Clark Kerr was expected today at a meeting of the UC Board of Regents.

The action was to come in response to a State Senate report which charged that Kerr had allowed the Berkeley campus to become a "haven for "Communists and sexual deviates."

The Kerr controversy first was planned to be discussed behind locked doors, according to Board Chairman Edward W. Carter.

However, after the Academic Council expressed "complete confidence" in Kerr and called on the regents to take a firm stand, Carter opened the doors. He first held the meeting was confidential because it dealt with personnel matters.

In other business at the Irvine campus, Daniel G. Aldrich Jr. was inaugurated as the new chancellor of the UC Irvine school.

Chancellor Aldrich reported that 1,589 students were enrolled for the university's first academic year. The enrollment included 19 foreign students.

Three regents' committees meeting jointly, yesterday approved a budget calling for $195 million for 9167-68. There will be a $13 million increase from state funds over the 1966 - 67 capital outlay budget.

Graduate School Gets Top Ranking

BERKELEY (AP) — The University of California at Berkeley was rated today the nation's most distinguished center of graduate education.

A report by the American Council of Education said the Berkeley faculty was distinguished in five categories — humanities, social sciences, biological sciences, physical sciences and engineering.

Because only the Berkeley campus is ranked so high in all five cateogries, Dr. Allen Carter the chief author, said "this finding supports the claim that it is the best - balanced distinguished university in the country."

Harvard and Stanford appeared in four of the five categories. Columbia, Illinois, Yale, Princeton, Michigan and Cal Tech are in three.

The report said more than 4,000 scholars, scientists, professors and administrators were questioned in the survey of 106 major universities. The survey, made in 1964, was intended to update similar surveys in 1924, 1934 and 1957.

U.C. President Clark Kerr said he would inform the Board of Regents meeting on the Irvine campus today, of the award.

The report, called "an assessment of quality in graduate education," does not list the top 10 universities, but concentrates on evaluations of the universities in 29 fields from anthropology to zoology.

Ten of the academic departments at Berkeley are ranked best in the nation according to the quality of the faculty, and seven departments are rated best according to the effectiveness of graduate programs.

Of 28 departments at Berkeley, only one — philosophy — was rated as low as sixth.

Weather Spy Is Working Perfectly

GREENBELT, Md. (AP) — Nimbus 2, first of the new large class of weather satellites, is in an almost perfect orbit and operating in all respects as nearly perfectly as could be, scientists of the Goddard Space Flight Center said today.

The spacecraft, launched into a near polar orbit May 15, for the first time offers instant weather pictures from space, around the clock.

Project officials were baffled and alarmed briefly Wednesday when the power output dropped suddenly almost by half. Someone recalled, after about five minutes, that a complete solar eclipse was due in Greece.

Dr. John Clark, Goddard director, said that after Nimbus passed beyond the moon shadow—a total period of about 10 minutes—the power came back on.

Mexico Doesn't Like 'Corruption' Image

By DANIEL JAMES
Advance News Service

MEXICO CITY — "Sinatra Barred From Mexico" was the headline. Why would Frankie be barred from a country he loves and which loves him?

The officially stated reason is that Sinatra's latest film, "Marriage On The Rocks," is "offensive to Mexico. That is the verdict of the Ministry of Government, which recently ordered immigration officials to refuse Sinatra "any type of (immigration) documents without prior authorization."

Was the Sinatra film that "offensive?" The answer to this question touches on a disturbing trend in Mexico today that goes beyond the question of one actor and one film.

The Ministry of Government's film censorship office objects to the Sinatra movie because it shows a couple (Frankie and Deborah Kerr) getting a quickie divorce in "a dirty border town," with the aid of a corrupt Mexican official (Cesar Romero) who is a drunken "clown."

Was the movie untruthful in those portrayals?

Is it untrue, for example, that you can get quickie divorces in Mexico? All the world knows that you can. And as long as the Liz Taylors and Sophia Lorens continue getting them here, the world will continue to think of Mexico as a divorce mill. So much for that.

Is it untrue that Mexican border towns are "dirty?" Millions of Americans who visit them every day can attest that most, if not all, are.

Is it untrue that some Mexican border-town officials are corrupt? Again, ask the same American visitors, who know from personal experience that such officials often earn a fat living fleecing visitors.

Actually, the Mexican ministry of government never accused the film of being inaccurate. Why, then, has it banned Sinatra?

The actor himself essentially answered the question when he said:

"It appears that someone in our neighboring country is lacking in a sense of humor."

"Marriage On The Rocks," let it be said, is neither a first-rate movie nor very flattering to Mexico. Yet, as a Mexican magazine has pointed out, Sinatra was not flattering to Italians in "Von Ryan's Express" and Italy has not banned him or his movie.

A humorless and hypersensitive Mexico was understandable in the days when she was the butt of off-color jokes, contemptuous remarks, and insulting statements — sometimes made by important foreigners —and when Hollywood always showed a Mexican as a "greaser" or "bandit." But those days have passed.

Moreover, Mexico is no longer the poor little blighted country of barefoot peasants she once was. She is fast on the way toward becmoing a major industrial nation, and her voice is heard with increasing respect in hemispheric and world councils.

One would have imagined that Mexico's remarkable achievements would have given her more maturity, self-confidence and inner security. Instead, the contrary seems to be the case. The Sinatra incident is only the latest—and the most extreme—in a series which seem to reflect a Mexico more sensitive to criticism, and more nationalistic than ever.

The issue goes beyond movies. There is the famous case of "The Children of Sanchez," a book by the U.S. sociologist Oscar Lewis which portrays the seamy side of Mexican urban life. It was damned by one prominent Mexican after another, and at least one major organization demanded that it be banned.

The Mexican government had the good sense not to ban the book. But in prominent circles here it is not proper to discuss its contents.

The American magazine, "Playboy," has been quietly banned from Mexico for several years. The reason is that an article on Acapulco contained a photograph of a well-known, luxurious house of ill-repute in the resort city. (One wonders why the house, instead of the magazine, was not banned.)

Anti-foreign bias sometimes creeps into Mexican hypersensitivity. When a movie based on the novel, "Pedro Paramo," was about to be filmed, objections arose against it on the ground that its protagonist, John Gavin, is not a Mexican and therefore cannot really express Mexican feeling.

As it turns out, Gavin was born here and is of Mexican descent. But the objections implied that the most accomplished foreign actor cannot do justice to Mexico.

Hypersensitivity is accompanied by self-adulation. To read the Mexican press, one would think that Mexico is near-perfect. Her leaders are always right and never make mistakes. Her foreign policy is "impeccably correct" (the favorite current phrase). Her economy the soundest in the world.

The unhealthy trend toward self-glorification and smugness, not only threatens to make Mexico an object of universal ridicule—as in the silly Sinatra episode — but to frustrate her chances of becoming the mature and strong nation she shows promise of being.

load that would support the facility.

Hospital Administrator Arthur G. Burns said there were 32 patients today in the 59-bed hospital.

City Mgr. Dan E. Andersen, foundation president, said the average hospital stay in seven days and therefore there should be few patients by closing day. Letters are being sent to physicians with patients in the hospitals, Andersen said the foundation would bear the cost of any transfers necssary.

Andersen said the foundation will renew plans to raise money to build a new hospital on seven acres on Channing Way on Highway 101 opposite Terra Linda. The property was given to the foundation in 1962 by land developer Harry H. Heifetz.

Fouke said the foundation should seek to keep the present plant operating while it develops plans and financing for the new building. He said that Taylor cannot "for tax and personal reasons" accept the existing property back and operate it himself. If the hospital closes May 31, Fouke said, "Taylor will have to foreclose" and realize what he can "on enforced sale of the land, building and equipment."

Brown Wants Judicial Respect

REDONDO BEACH (AP) — Gov. Brown today urged California's attorneys to come to the defense of judges, who he said were the victims of mounting personal and political attacks.

Addressing a joint Bar Assn. luncheon, the governor said there is a growing tendancy in the state and nation to revile judges rather than oppose the decisions they hand down.

"Every time some public official, who should know better, makes a baseless or senseless attack on our judicial system, our whole structure of government suffers," said Brown.

by government A1E Skyraiders was disclosed when U.S. Marines brought eight wounded rebels to rebel headquarters.

Reports swept Da Nang that help for the rebels was underway. Rebels said troops of its 2nd Division were coming to the rescue of the rebels pagoda sanctuary, now so hard pressed civilians were being used for sentry duty .

Despite an increase in anti-American feeling in Da Nang and other cities, two American Marines who bumped across the battlefield in a jeep with the wounded were received gratefully and treated to beer. Just outside, Buddhist boy scouts were hammering together new coffins for victims of the near civil war.

The government thus far has avoided a direct assault against two Buddhist pagodas where hundreds of women and children have gathered behind a ring of anti-government troops. But a daylong battle nearby was reported to have killed 10 Buddhists today and wounded scores more.

Buddhists said another 10 persons were killed yesterday.

Militant Buddhist spiritual leader Thich Tri Quang virtually declared war on the regime of Premier Nguyen Cao Ky as the political chaos grew steadily worse. His statement issued in the northern rebel stronghold of Hue was broadcast over loudspeakers from pagodas in other cities.

Buddhist students threatened mass demonstrations in Saigon with bodyguards to protect themselves from government troops called in to put down just such activities. And in Hue, crowds of soldiers and civilians stood on the banks of the Perfume River in a driving rain and heard their leaders pledge to resist any government invasion "to the last drop of blood."

Buddhist monks in Da Nang stood ready to carry out their threat to burn themselves alive —in a bonfire made from scraps of American ammunition crates —if the government troops tried to storm the pagodas. At least 30 monks in Saigon threatened self immolation.

Presbyterians Argue Confessional Change

BOSTON (AP) — A year-long, nationwide debate among United Presbyterians today churned to a head over a proposed new confession of faith, their first creedal revision in more than three centuries.

It has been a rousing issue among the 3.3 million members of the United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A. for the last year.

It touched off more sparks when it reached the floor of the denomination's governing General Assembly last night, with more discussion expected late today.

Action on the matter isn't expected until near the close of the eight-day meeting early next week.

The 4,600-word confession is the first effort to define the Church's beliefs since the Westminister Confession of 1649.

"If we're going to talk to the world today, we have to change to its language," said the Rev. Dr. Edward A. Dowey Jr., of Princeton Theological Seminary.

He headed a team of scholars which worked seven years in producing the document.

Much of the initial questioning centered on the document's treatment of the Bible, which the Westminster Confession described as verbally inspired, infallible and authored by God.

The proposed confession says:

"The one sufficient revelation of God is Jesus Christ, the word of God incarnate, to whom the Holy Spirit bears unique and authoritative witness through the holy Scriptures, which are received and obeyed as the word of God written."

Rather than asserting the Bible's word-for-word infallibility, the new confession says:

"The Scriptures, given under the guidance of the Holy Spirit, are nevertheless the words of men, conditioned by the language, thought forms and views of life, history and cosmos which were then current."

"The Church, therefore, has an obligation to approach the Scriptures with literary and historical understanding."

Resignation Of Pike Accepted

NEW YORK (AP) — The Episcopal Church's House of Bishops yesterday accepted the resignation of the Rt. Rev. James A. Pike as bishop of California, effective Sept. 15.

Pike, 53, said last week that if the resignation was accepted, he would join the Center for Study of Democratic Institutions at Santa Barbara.

The Rev. John B. Haverland, rector of St. Peter's Church in Redwood City and president of the California Diocese's standing committee, said the bishop would relinquish his duties July 15.

The Rt. Rev. G. Richard Millard, suffragan bishop of California, is to assume diocesan religions leadership then while the standing committee takes over administrative authority. Bishop Pike will serve as assisting bishop in the interim.

Jail, Fine Imposed For Drunken Driving

Neal A. Clayton, 29, was fined $200, given 15 days in county jail, and placed on a year's probation yesterday by Judge Alvin H. Goldstein Jr. of Marin Municipal Court for drunken driving.

Clayton, of 5410 Redwood Highway, Novato, was arrested by San Rafael police after his car crashed into a street sign and tree at Green Way and Belle Avenue on Dec. 17. His wife, Diana, 26, a passenger, suffered a broken back and collarbone.

Sausalito Rejects Finance Director To Pare Budget

Sausalito city councilmen last night started paring a proposed $837,785 city budget for fiscal 1967, by deciding not to have a finance director.

City Mgr. Charles A. Brown had included the new position in his budget recommendations, at cost of $3,960 for a half year, starting Jan. 1, 1967.

"I think our finances are handled very well," said Councilman Jan Paul Dyk.

Brown, who will leave his post next month, said a finance director is necessary. "Where you have a finance director, you free the manager for more administrative tasks," he argued.

The council started the first of 11 scheduled budget review sessions with the city council account, which contains no pay for council members. They decided they wouldn't ask for any.

They cut out $40 listed for repair of the public address system at the council chambers, claiming it was never satisfactory. "It's better to talk loud and clear," said Dyk.

During the discussion Brown pointed out the value of spending $2.50 each for flu shots for employees. For those who took the shots, the incidence of flu is one in 18 while among those who didn't take the shots, one-third were ill, he said.

Councilmen agreed to discuss with the planning commission Brown's proposal that the city contract with the Marin County Planning Department for assistance in routine planning matters.

The council questioned Brown's proposal to create an additional sergeant's position in the police department, to provide a sergeant as a watch commander on each shift.

The council scheduled budget review sessions for next Thursday, May 31 and June 1, 2, 8, 9, 14, 15 and 16, all at City Hall at 7:30 p.m., and a budget review tour of public works projects June 4 at 9 a.m.

Hub Chamber Offers Help For Sick Trees

San Anselmo Chamber of Commerce will ask the city council for permission to plant now-potted magnolia trees in the sidewalks in the city's downtown area, chamber directors decided yesterday.

Roots of the trees have filled the pots, they noted, and the trees must be planted out somewhere until they regain their health, then they could be planted in the sidewalks. Directors suggested the pots be planted with flowers and placed around the City Hall.

Too-Sleepy Motorist Injured In Smashup

Alfonso Carrasco, 35, was treated at Marin General Hospital today for a cut chin and bruised knee suffered at 2:50 a.m. when his car went off Sir Francis Drake Boulevard in the 2000 block in Fairfax.

Fairfax police said Carrasco was on his way to his home at 224 Arroyo Road, Forest Knolls, from work at the Mark Hopkins Hotel in San Francisco when he fell asleep at the wheel.

Thefts of an automobile tire, $10 in cash and two household appliances were reported by Belvedere police today.

Mrs. Mary C. McGuiness of 350 Belvedere Avenue reported the tire and rim were stolen from her car yesterday morning. Dale E. Scholzen of 140 Bella Vista Avenue told police that during the past week the money, a steam iron and a portable radio were stolen from his home.

DOUBLE RETIREMENT NEAR—E. B. Gearhart, business education teacher at San Rafael High School, and his wife, Gladys, school librarian, scan through a school yearbook from the World War II era, when Gearhart was an adviser to the publication. They will retire at the close of the school year.

Gearharts Leaving San Rafael High School; Set For Travel

By FRANK FARRARA

San Rafael High School will have two large gaps in its staff when a long-standing business education teacher retires and takes the librarian along with him.

Leaving at the end of the school year are E. B. Gearhart, who has been at the school since 1930 as teacher and evening school principal, and his wife, Gladys, who has been librarian since 1954.

"I'm getting the second generation now, almost the third," said Gearhart.

"But we don't feel old," put in Mrs. Gearhart.

When Gearhart started teaching, there were 525 students at San Rafael High School, some from as far away as Novato and San Geronimo Valley.

"You knew almost all of them," Gearhart said. "The rivalry with Tamalpais High School was strong, and they used to have big bonfires before games."

One of the big educational changes has been the increasing use of visual aids, he said. Another factor was Sputnik, which changed the emphasis toward science, he said.

"There was not much of a spot for business law, business economics, and the fringe courses were frozen out."

One of the satisfactions has been watching former students move up to key positions in the business world, he said, recalling some who now hold executive positions in Marin.

Some students keep in touch, and up to a few years ago, he used to get a call every Christmas from a former student living in Texas.

Gearhart was principal of the evening department from 1940 to 1954 when his wife became librarian. With Mrs. Gearhart working days, he decided to switch back to teaching days so they "wouldn't just see each other coming and going."

Gearhart noted that the evening school program has declined since its peak years in the late 1940s. "At one time the night school was larger than the day school," he said.

Although he has been in education for 35 years, Gearhart started working in business after graduating from University of California in Berkeley. After four and one-half years in the business world he decided to enter teaching.

Aside from her term as librarian, Mrs. Gearhart worked as a substitute teacher from 1942 until 1954, and taught for a year at Nicasio Elementary School.

The Gearharts, who met at University of California, were married in 1927.

Mrs. Gearhart directed playgrounds and served as a Camp Fire Girl executive before settling down to the job of rearing two sons.

She is leaving behind a new library, about three times as large as the library where she started 12 years ago.

When the Gearharts had a sabbatical leave four years ago, she spent much time visiting school libraries to collect ideas for use at San Rafael High School.

When the school year ends, the Gearharts plan to leave their home at 121 Linden Lane, San Rafael, and take to the road with a newly purchased trailer.

"We want to see the country as teachers don't usually see it, in the spring, fall and winter," she said.

One of the Gearharts worries is providing for care of their garden while they are traveling. Both ardent gardeners, they specialize in dwarf conifers, some more than 20 years old.

The Gearharts also are among the few teachers who regularly attend meetings of the San Rafael Board of Education, and when they appeared at the last session of the board, they were given sustained applause.

"We leave with mixed feelings," said Mrs. Gearhart.

Sleepy Hollow Roads Criticized

Conditions of some of the roads in Sleepy Hollow are causing concern among residents, so the Sleepy Hollow Homes Assn. board decided last night to ask a road and traffic expert to speak to the next quarterly membership meeting on July 21.

New state fire laws concerning unincorporated area fire ordances were read to the board by Mrs. Ralph Carey, and it was announced that the new $900 entrance gates to Sleepy Hollow are complete.

Three lifeguards have been hired for the community pool this year, the board said. The pool will open Memorial Day weekend.

Former Aide To Welcome General Dean

Maj. William J. Gerard (Army retired) of 106 Brookside Drive, San Anselmo, has been appointed co-chairman of the military reception committee to honor Maj. Gen. William F. Dean on Memorial Day observance in San Rafael May 30.

Major Gerard served as an aide to General Dean in the Korean War, and is now special investigator for the 12th Region, U. S. Civil Service Commission.

General Dean, Korean War hero and holder of the Congressional Medal of Honor, will speak from the courthouse steps. Ceremonies begin at 10:30 a.m.

Francis W. Mosher Jr., general chairman of the event, said continuing efforts to locate other Marinites who served under General Dean in Korea have been to no avail. The search is being conducted by Capt. Edward F. Springer, 48 Plymouth Avenue, Mill Valley.

Also serving as co-chairman of the military reception committee is Maj. George J. Reuss of San Anselmo, a deputy sheriff stationed at the Civic Center.

Commanding officers of 31 Marin County units of the Armed forces, regular and reserve, have been invited to serve on the committee.

San Rafael Teachers Say Welcome, Goodbye

Old and new were honored Wednesday, when the San Rafael Teachers Assn. held its annual meeting for retiring staff members and newly tenured teachers.

Gladys Gearhart, librarian at San Rafael High School for 12 years, and her husband E. B. Gearhart, business education teacher and a district employee for 36 years, are both retiring, and were presented life memberships in the California Teachers Assn. and the San Rafael Teachers Assn.

Life membership was also presented to Mrs. Ruth Reist, fifth grade teacher at McPhail School, who is retiring after eight years there.

Supt. Bert C. Corona made the awards, lauding the trio for their contributions to education.

School board member Anita Strom addressed the newly tenured teachers, 22 from elementary schools, 32 from high schools, who were introduced by Asst. Supt. William C. Jordan and Principals Alfred N. Thomson of San Rafael High and George Yertson of Terra Linda High.

Several former teachers attended the meeting, including Mrs. Eleanor Murray, recently honored by the San Rafael City Council as its nominee for Marin County's outstanding senior citizen of the year; Loretta Pacheo, once principal of West End School; Irene Pacheo; Hugh Paterson; Belle McPhail; Mrs. Audrey Laurison; Mrs. Louis Lewis, and Charlotte Frehe.

The meeting was held in San Rafael High School's new library with art work by Charles Maurice's students on display. Chairman for the event was Coleman School Principal Edwina Codoni, assisted by Mrs. Peggy Levy and Mrs. Zelma Hinshaw.

The administration stand was outlined in a letter from Robert E. Giles, the Commerce Department's general counsel, to Sen. Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., chairman of the Senate Commerce Committee considering auto safety legislation.

Full House Set For Seminar On Medicare

An overflow audience is already assured for next Wednesday's Medicare seminar sponsored by the Marin Medical Society at Ross General Hospital's classroom.

The classroom seats 100. So far 120 physicians and medical assistants have accepted an invitation to attend the 8 p.m. session.

Society executive secretary Ed Collins is trying to arrange for sound to be piped outside the classroom for those who won't get seats.

Purpose of the seminar is to hear three authorities talk about Medicare and the Casey Act. Collins said the speakers won't explain the programs — "we already know how they work. This is more in the nature of a philosophical discussion, what's in the future, where do we go from here?"

On the panel will be Dr. Roberta Fenlon, special consultant to the Federal Bureau of Health Insurance, Department of Health, Education and Welfare. She is past president of the San Francisco County Medical Society.

The other experts are Fernando Torgerson, director, Office of Health Care Services, State Health and Welfare Agency, and William M. Whelan, who is associate executive director of the California Medical Assn.

McDonald, 41, has been employed in the aerospace industry and will be in charge of adapting systems work and data processing to state government operations, Brown said.

Yoga Teacher Ponders Need Of Use Permit

By RICHARD LYTTLE

Does contemplation in search of the inner God require a county use permit?

Walter F. Baptiste, teacher of yoga and a bishop in the Liberal Church, is not sure, but he has asked the Marin County zoning administrator for one just to be safe.

Bishop Baptiste wants to establist a retreat on a 16-acre farm he has owned for two years on Franklin School Road between Dillon Beach and Valley Ford roads in northwest Marin.

His plans call for no additional structure on the property; in fact, the most who would be using the retreat at one time would be about 12 followers of the Liberal Church, and that would be on weekends, Baptiste said.

Baptiste, a resident of San Francisco, operates the Walt and Magana Baptiste gym, yoga and dance studio at 419 Sutter Street.

He became an ordained minister of the church of Ohio in 1944.

In his application for a use permit, he said the Marin property would be used mostly by those seeking also to become ordained ministers.

Baptiste said the church was an offshoot of the Liberal Catholic Church. It has adopted many of the Eastern philosophies, particularly those of the Sikh religion.

"God is within us and we must seek him through contemplation," he said. At the Marin farm, he explained, "one can also imbibe in the natural surroundings."

Baptiste was reared as a Catherty would not be used as a school. He has plans for a school on land he owns at Moss Beach in San Mateo County.

Baptist was reared as a Catholic, but joined the Liberal Church while living in Florida. "Sometimes you just need greater realities," he said.

His request for a use permit will be heard by zoning administrator Thomas E. Cordill at 11:30 a.m. Monday at the Civic Center.

"I'm really not sure we need one," Bishop Baptiste said.

Quake Described By Bay Tourists

TOKYO (AP)—Prominent San Francisco businessmen who were bounced out of their hotel beds in an earthquake in Tashkent May 11 estimate that one fourth of the Soviet city was wrecked.

"Blocks of homes collapsed," said Vincent de Domenico, an official of a San Francisco macaroni company. "There were tent cities and soup kitchens everywhere."

Tashkent, a central Asian industrial city of one million, was hit by an earthquake during the last week in April. New quakes shook the city May 11, when the Americans were there on a tour arranged by the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce. There were 20 in the San Francisco group.

Feidler is a director and chairman of the budget and finance committee for the Marin County Heart Assn., and treasurer for the California Heart Assn., San Francisco.

He is the Marin County delegate to the Los Angeles assembly.

Vandalism Puts Halt To Teen Dances

The San Marin Club in Novato has cancelled its teen-age dances after more than $200 damage was done to the club last Saturday night, Larry Fagan, club manager, said today.

This was the climax to a long series of acts of vandalism at the club during teen dances, he said. The dances had been held monthly for members' children and their guests. Attendance often reached 120, Fagan said.

Vandals damaged rest rooms and stole outdoor lighting fixtures, Fagan said. One dance was cancelled several months ago as a warning.

The climax came last Saturday when the teen-agers wrecked one rest room, tearing the plumbing of the walls, chipping and cracking the urinals beyond repair, and marring the paint until the room has to be repainted.

"I wish the parents could see the damage their youngsters have done. It's a shame that the few spoil it for the majority," Fagan said.

Sausalito Class Will Be Televised

The Sausalito teacher education project will record a regular classroom session on television in the fifth grade class of Bonnie Clark at Richardson Bay School, Wednesday.

The aim is to get more participation from pupils and will be analyzed later by teachers and students, according to Elizabeth Titsworth, project staff member.

FOR 90TH BIRTHDAY: A GLIDER RIDE

"Oh, how wonderful, just wonderful. It's so pretty," enthused Mrs. May Kimball in Methuen, Mass., yesterday after glider pilot James Doyle took her on a 20-minute flight. The sprightly Boston widow made a pledge last year that if she lived to be 90, she would go aloft in a glider. Airline flight is old hat to Mrs. Kimball, and she says that San Francisco's cable cars are more scary than her glider ride. (AP Wirephoto).

Supervisor Candidates Condemn, Defend Present County Actions

By ALAN P. CUNNINGHAM

Outcome of the June 7 election for supervisor from the first district may hinge on whether people feel the board of supervisors has been doing a good or bad job.

This, at any rate, was the impression left by the three candidates—Melvin S. Warenbeck, Dr. William F. Upton and John F. McInnis—as they spoke to 14 persons in the cafeteria at San Rafael High School last night. The meeting was jointly sponsored by the Loch Lomond and Glenwood home owners associations.

The link among the three candidates, none of whom has ever been a county supervisor, and the record of the present board was forged by McInnis, last of the three to speak in the opening round of remarks.

He insisted that the other two in their speeches, had shown a "general attitude of acceptance and approval of the present supervisorial practices and history." On the other hand, insisted McInnis, he wanted to make it plain that he was "extremely disturbed. . .by the board of supervisors' complete failure to act" on numerous pressing problems.

Warenback, who has the backing of incumbent Superivsor Byron W. Leydecker, agreed he was generally happy with the way things are going, and declared that if voters "feel the present-day concept is wrong, you should vote for him (McInnis)." This drew a quiet "thank you" from McInnis.

Upton, a 14-year member of the county planning commission, agreed the county had been doing a good job.

Upton sharply criticized the City of San Rafael, of which McInnis was formerly mayor, calling it "an example of general mediocrity."

He said the county had done a good job of controlling signs and billboards, in contrast with the neon glare of Francisco Boulevard and the huge sign on the Rafael Theater, which Upton called "an example of clutter."

"I did not build San Rafael," McInnis quoted himself as saying at another candidate's night earlier, "I changed it—and I changed it drastically for the better."

Warenback said the biggest challenge before supervisors in the next four years would be "evolving a concept of what shall the future of Marin County be."

"I represent a concept which believes we can retain control of planning and developing," he said, determining which areas shall be high or low density and which held as open space.

In regard to taxes, Warenback said the county must decide whether to reduce its services, keep the present tax rate, or somehow broaden the tax base.

Tourist traffic and attracting a University of California campus to Marin could bring about "orderly growth and development," he said.

Upton predicted the county would see "many new concepts in planning" under its new planning director, Paul Zucker.

He said he was "very encouraged" by the attitude of the Bay Conservation and Development Commission, of which he is a member, and predicted that transportation problems can be solved by imaginative ideas such as "hovercraft that could carry loaded buses."

"I don't think people should have sterile thinking," he said.

He also praised the county for encouraging "cluster development."

As for taxes, Upton said cuts, must be made in the special districts.

McInnis recited the history of his civic participation and role in city government in San Rafael.

"I am absolutely convinced some new viewpoint must be injected into the board of supervisors," he said.

He charged the county has doubled its tax rate during a period when population has increased 30 per cent, and insisted that the only improvement in services during that time has been the new mental health program-largely paid for by federal funds.

Answers to questions of audience members generally broke down along lines of whether the county had been doing its job.

One man asked for comment on recent raises for county department heads, including County Administrator Alan Bruce, and the hiring of John M. Douglas as county economic development director. Douglas was paid more than the salary originally advertised for the job.

Upton said he did not know why Douglas got the higher salary, but said there are times when it is desirable to pay more for a man whose knowledge and ability is worth it.

McInnis said the supervisors' action in granting recent raises was "beyond belief" and "should be criticized thoroughly." He particularly cited a $5,000 raise given to Bruce "before anyone spelled out the duties of his job."

Warenback said Bruce gets only $2,000 more per year than San Rafael City Mgr. Dan E. Andersen, although Andersen is in charge of a much smaller budget each fiscal year. (Bruce's current salary is $21,000 per year's Andersen's, $18,000.)

He said Bruce gets as much as he does because "the job is important."

Papers, Money Reported Gone

Loss of a box containing personal papers and about $23 cash in burglary of the home of Eric Mawson at 675 Knocknaboul Way, Terra Linda, was reported by sheriff's officers.

Deputies said Mawson discovered the loss when he returned from a vacation early today. Entry was via a rear door.

An attempted break-in of a house on Marine Way, Stinson Beach, owned by Marjorie Fowler of Richmond was reported. Officers said a garage window was broken.

Marin City's Oldest Get Party, Gifts

The two oldest residents of Marin City were honored last night at the second annual senior citizen party sponsored by the Marin City Community Services District board.

They are Mrs. Mary Frost, 86, oldest woman resident, who lives at 99 Cole Drive, and Isaac Handy, 84, oldest man, of 22 Dutton Court. Both were given gifts.

Highlight of the evening, reported John A. Thomson, board secretary, was a performance by Mickie McGowan and his folk dancing group followed by the dancers teaching some of the residents a "round dance."

Mrs. Lula Hooks was in charge of refreshments and decorations at the event, held in St. Andrew United Presbyterian Church.

The board is to meet soon with an agent of the federal urban renewal program to discuss a grant for a new community center.

County Supervisor Byron W. Leydecker attended the activity and sopke briefly urging approval of the county park bond issue.

Caddo Indians Wailed When Saying Hello

ALTO, Tex. (UPI) —The Caddo Indians who lived in the Alto area many moons ago were friendly and intelligent, but it took awhile for a stranger to find out.

They greeted travelers with wailing and moaning as if some tragedy had befallen them. If he withstood the first greeting, he was given a cordial welcome to the camp.

Many Local Issues On Primary Ballot

Marin County voters turning out for the June 7 primary elections will decide parks and school bond issues, school unification and taxes as well as candidates running for county and state offices and U.S. House of Representatives.

The principal measure put before all county voters will be the proposed $4.3 million park bond issue.

Voting on the other measures, from bonds to taxes, will be restricted to voters in the areas concerned, the Lagunitas, Fairfax, Dixie and San Rafael school districts.

Proponents of the countywide parks bond issue have said passage would benefit both incorporated and unincorporated areas of the county.

The money would be used for the acquisition and development of parks in the county, the 11 cities and five special districts.

In the county areas, the parks and recreation commission has set up a list of priority projects for recreational development. Those at the top of the list include Stafford Lake, Bolinas Lagoon, and China Camp.

The proposed $200,000 bond issue and $400,000 state loan sought by Lagunitas School District will be the second time around for district voters.

Both issues were defeated Feb. 15, but no sooner were the returns in than the trustees started up the machinery to give the voters a second chance.

Money is sought by the district to finance the acquisition of two school sites and construction of a new school, site of which was to be at Woodacre but has been changed to Forest Knolls.

Main opposition in the first election came from property owners whose homes would be torn down—or at least moved—if a school went up on the central nine-acre site in Woodacre.

A proposal to unify the Dixie and San Rafael Elementary School Districts with the San Rafael high school district will be before the Dixie and San Rafael district voters.

The future of the district will be entirely up to the decision of the electorate as the two school boards involved have taken no stand for or against unification.

A fact sheet shows the maximum allowable "general fund operating" tax rate in the new district would be $4.30 per $100 of assessed valuation.

This compares with combined elementary and high school district "general operating" rates this year of $5.10 in the Dixie district and $4 in San Rafael Elementary School District.

An increase in the maximum operating tax rate will be sought for by Fairfax School District board.

Voters will be asked to approve an increase from $2.05 to $2.70 in the operating rate. Total tax rate levied this year, including overrides and loan repayments, was $2.63.

Budget Voted, Tam Fire Tax May Increase

Fiscal 1967 budget of $134,464 was adopted last night by Tamalpais Fire District commissioners, and the board estimated the tax rate will go up eight or nine cents per $100 assessed valuation.

Increase over the current budget of $16,712 includes about $10,000 for fire main extensions. $2,600 for a pickup truck, and regular pay increments for all firemen, reported chairman Carl H. Modell.

The commission agreed to increase volunteer firemen's insurance, now $40 per week in case a man is injured on the job, to $75 per week. This is above state compensation, Modell explained.

The board studied the possibility of calling for a bond issue to finance improved water mains and build a new main fire station, but took no action. Modell said the commission will meet next on June 15, a day earlier than normal, due to a conflict of dates among the board.

Prison Ordered For Police Killing

REDWOOD CITY (UPI)—Timothy L. Silva, 21, was sentenced to a prison term of from five years to life yesterday for the fatal shooting of a broadmoor police officer in 1964.

The sentence was imposed by Superior Judge J. A. Branson after Silva pleaded guilty to a charge of second degree murder.

Silva was committed to Atascadero State Hospital after he shot Officer Charles E. Manning, 42, near the entrance to a Daly City warehouse. Silva allegedly was stealing gasoline.

Bridge Director Challenges Low Interest Income

Director Stephan C. Leonoudakis of the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District yesterday repeated his dissatisfaction with how district funds are being invested.

Instead of investing at 4.25 per cent interest, the district should shop elsewhere and get as much as 5½ per cent interest, Leonoudakis declared at a meeting of the finance committee.

Finance Committee Chairman William D. Hadeler maintains that the district does business with large banks because they offer various services to the bridge district.

"We're following sound business practices," Director Dan London added. "We're not going to invest in issues that are marginal, where there's risk."

Health Project Short Of Funds

Publicity about this year's ambitious plans for the Marin-based Alliance for Health project has brought an encouraging number of small donations from people around the county.

Unfortunately, the $1,500 raised by such small contributions is still short of the $16,050 needed.

Dr. Richard S. Hahn, who started the alliance, said he is pleased by the fact that 100 people have donated since reading about the Project Zacapu in the Independent-Journal or seeing him interviewed on a San Francisco television station this week. He feels as much of the money as possible should come from "a broad base of community support" to give the alliance more meaning as a people-to-people project.

On the other hand, Hahn is beginning to wonder if those who could afford to give a lot—including some of his colleagues—are overlooking the project on the false assumption its financial needs will be met by small contributions.

"How do you raise money?" he asked aloud yesterday. "A professional fund-raiser in San Francisco told me 'all you need is 16 people who will give $1,000 apiece,' and he was serious."

A frank appeal for funds, accompanied by a budget spelling out where every cent will go, has been mailed out to doctors, dentists nurses and those who have helped the alliance in its two previous years. But Hahn has rejected the thought of a general mailing.

Meanwhile, an Air Force C-123 cargo plane remained at Hamilton Air Force Base this week while Hahn waited for clearance to take its load of five tons of medical equipment and supplies to Zacapu in the Mexican state of Guanajuato.

Hahn said he got a call yesterday from those handling the problem in Mexico City, and was promised clearance would come in a few days.

Project Zacapu will go on, however, even if the Air Force plane does not get out of Marin.

Contrary to a statement in the May 10 Independent-Journal, the alliance does not pay transportation costs for its volunteer workers. They pay it themselves. To reduce this, however, Hahn is trying had to find private airplane owners who can make four trips—two trips for each team going at different times this summer—to Zacapu and back.

Such plane rides would cut 10 days travelling time for each volunteer and would eliminate one of the largest part of their expenses.

Private pilots would have to be prepared to take volunteers down July 10 or Aug. 1 and return them July 21 or Aug. 21.

One hope for raising more of the needed funds, said Hahn, comes from the Northern California district of the Lions Club. Spurred by William Howell of the Sharks Lions Club in Tiburon and George Croke of the San Anselmo Lions Club, clubs throughout the district have started trying to raise $1 donations with the slogan "Lions Immunize a child for $1."

Yorty Blasts Gov. Brown For Accepting CDC Support

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Los Angles Mayor Samuel W. Yorty has called Gov. Brown a "political coward" for "not having the courage to change the straight Communist line stand being taken by the California Democratic Council."

Yorty, running against Brown for the Democratic governorship nomination, blasted the governor yesterday in Sacramento in remarks prepared for telecasts throughout the state.

Yorty said that Brown has accepted the support of the 40,000-member CDC whose policies "all add up to the Communist line."

Earlier, Yorty told newsmen in Los Angeles that members of the Communist party and Communist - front groups played a leading role in organizing anti-police demonstrations in South Los Angeles Tuesday night.

Here's what other candidates had to say around the state yesterday.

Democratic Lt. Gov. Glenn M. Anderson said in a Los Angeles statement that true believers in education must unite in defense of the University of California's critics. Anderson, a member of the university's board of regents, disagrees with the State Senate UnAmerican Activities Committee report that the U.C. Berkeley campus is a haven for communists and homosexuals.

"I believe that the critics of our university are completely wrong," said Anderson, a candidate for re - election. "I think they do a great injustice to the students now in Berkeley — and the students to come."

George Christopher, candidate for the Republican gubernatorial nomination, told the League of California cities in Beverly Hills that local autonomy is being encroached upon by federal and state governments.

Christopher said, however, he can't agree with those who shun federal cooperation in such problem areas as water and hydroelectric power.

Ronald Reagan, also seeking the Republican governorship nomination, told supporters in Riverside he is taking his case to the people.

Reagan said that Robert Coate, state Democratic chairman, recently commented that Reagan avoids newsmen "who asks intelligent questions."

"Obviously," Reagan said, "Mr. Coate doesn't believe in the people's ability to ask intelligent questions. Well, I'm taking my case to the people and . . . I find that they not only ask intelligent questions but also questions that reveal their awareness of the failures of (the Brown) administration."

Fine, Probation After Bar Brawl

Judge Peter Allen Smith of Marin Municipal Court yesterday fined Dr. Gordon Havstad, 64-year-old Tiburon resident, $56 and placed him on six months probation following his no contest plea to battery on a deputy sheriff.

A second count, resisting arrest, was dismissed on recommendation of the district attorney's office after the first plea.

Dr. Havstad, of 2131 Paradise Drive, struck Deputy John Goff after three deputies arrived at a Tiburon bar April 24 to investigate a report of a disturbance.

Mother On Probation In Child-Beating Case

A year's probation was given Mrs. Clara Leigh Baker, 45 Reed Boulevard, Strawberry, yesterday by Judge Peter Allen Smith of Marin Municipal Court for misdemeanor childbeating.

Mrs. Baker, 23, had pleaded guilty to beating her 2-year-old son, John Christopher Baker, on March 27. Her husband, John Anthony Baker, returned home, learned the child was injured by the blow, and took him to Mill Valley police where photographs were taken of face and neck bruises.

Blackout Kills Man

TRACY (AP) — A mechanic blacked out while driving and was injured fatally Wednesday when his pickup truck struck a power pole. Warren L. Barber, 44, who lived four hours, told the California Highway Patrol he became unconscious while at the wheel and didn't recall a thing.

Legislature Move Toward Adjournment

SACRAMENTO (AP)—Senate approval of a compromise to rewrite the state constitution and boost lawmakers' pay was all that stood in the way of legislative adjournment today, leaders in both houses agreed.

A joint Assembly-Senate committee, after two days of intensive meetings behind closed doors, yesterday produced its compromise — a version of the Assembly -passed constitutional revision amendment that retained most of the features of the lower house wanted.

Assemblyman Don Mulford, Republican caucus chairman and a member of the two-house committee, predicted Senate acceptance of the rewritten measure and said such action would break up the legislature's lengthy budget deadlock.

"If the Senate approves this measure, the budget will immediately be considered and we'll wrap things up in a matter of days," said Mulford.

Senate President Pro tem Hugh M. Burns, while withholding any prediction, agreed Senate approval would bring the session to a speedy end.

Burns said the joint committee agreed to support annual sessions of the legislature, a move strongly backed by the Assembly.

Power Intertie Savings Claimed

DENVER (UPI)— A Bureau of Reclamation official said today the Pacific Northwest-Pacific Southwest Intertie would prevent the waste of $20 million in electrical power annually when it is completed in the early 1970s.

E.V. Lindseth, a bureau technical advisor, reported on the $697 million federal-public-private project at the week-long national meeting of the American Society of Civil Engineers (ASCE).

Lindseth said the project, covering 11 western states, also would produce continuing multiple benefits for about 250 power distributors.

Bernal Diaz; companion of Cortez, wrote of California as a "bay", following an expedition to Baja California (Lower California). For a number of years California was inscribed on the maps of Alta California (Upper California).

SWEETENING THE WIND

Sewer Board Pledges Bad Smell To Be Gone

The east wind will blow sweet for the residents of Novato's Poplar Terrace after the Novato Sanitary District gets a portable "de-smeller" to treat its excess sewer sludge, district directors promised last night.

The district has budgeted $75,000 for the device, a truck-mounted centrifuge which, said Engineer-Manager Charles Joseph, will dehydrate the sludge until it is the consistency of wet sand. The dried-out sludge will then be hauled to the dump.

Only a few such machines are in use in the United States, Joseph said.

His explaination came at last night's meeting of the sanitary district board, after Kenneth G. Smythe of 572 Louis Drive and K. I. Scott of 573 Louis Drive appeared to complain that when the wind is in the east, Poplar Terrace is not a pleasant place to breathe.

Joseph said the smell born by the east wind comes from "improperly digested sludge in ponds." Hence, it was decided to budget $75,000 for the centrifuge.

Being portable, it can be used also at the Ignacio treatment plant when the sludge is high and the wind from the wrong quarter there, he said.

It should be received and in use by the first of next year, directors promised.

The Novato Sanitary District board also approved annexation of three parcels of land totaling 14 acres on Simmons Lane at San Marin Drive, Benton Lane and Leese Lane. The request will go to the Marin County Local Agency Formation Commission.

Trial Postponed On Embezzlement

Trial of Donald J. Gordon, charged with embezzlement that put a Mill Valley man's paper company out of business, was postponed today until June 1 in San Francisco Superior Court.

Gordon is accused of taking $90,000 from the now-defunct Bonestell and Co., owned by Daniel K. Beswick of 35 Elaine Avenue, Mill Valley.

Some $270,000 was reported missing when Gordon disappeared in September. He was captured March 18 in Cleveland by Federal Bureau of Investigation agents. The indictment, however, cited only $90,000.

Second Artificial Heart Patient Fails To Survive

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)— Walter L. McCans, the second patient in Methodist Hospital to undergo a partial artificial heart implant, died today, the hospital reported.

The hospital bulletin said, "The patient had developed complications in the past 48 hours. The probable cause of death was pulmonary insufficiency."

The artificial heart unit was removed from McCans' chest Wednesday after it had functioned for 27 hours. Physicians said that during that time, the damaged portion of the heart had healed from the rest sufficiently to function normally without mechanical assistance.

Marcel DeRudder, the first patient at Methodist Hospital to undergo such a partial artificial heart implant, died April 26, about five days after the operation.

DeRudder, 65, of Westville, Ill., never regained consciousness after the operation and his death was blamed on probable rupture of the bronchia or the trachea.

McCans, 61, was conscious shortly after the operation and apparently had been doing well although he was returned to surgery twice in two days for removal of chest fluids.

Shakespeare Festival Tickets Are Available

Tickets can be obtained by calling the festival office.

ABAG Backs Marin Parks Bond Issue

The executive committee of the Assn. of Bay Area Governments last night voted unanimous approval for Marin County's 4.3 million dollar park bond issue, which goes before the voters June 7.

The committee also gave its approval on an application of the City of Novato for a matching open space federal grant of $11,000 for a half-acre park, to be known as the Arroyo Auichi Park. The application will be forwarded to Washington, D.C.

In its motion supporting the park bond, the committee commended Marin County for the close city and county co-operation demonstrated in the park bond issue.

Larkspur City Councilman Earl J. O'Grady represented the county at the meeting in Berkeley. Also attending from Marin were County Supervisor Peter H. Behr and City Councilman W. Jack Adams of Novato.

City Servant Shot

Joe Ponte, Mill Valley motor sweeper operator, reported to police early today that, while he was operating the sweeper at 340 Magee Avenue, someone shot him in the shoulder with a B-B.

Novato Trustees Set Meeting On Salaries

A special meeting of the Novato Unified School District board has been called for 8 p.m. Monday in the administration building by Daniel H. Barber, president.

- While we're proud of our beautiful showroom we don't buy cars just to look at them. It costs in overhead to "floor" a car for any great length of time.
- While, just as in any other business, we have to make a profit to stay in business, we can't hold cars beyond the "break even" point. WE HAVE TO MOVE THEM OUT REGARDLESS OF PROFIT PER UNIT!
- While other dealers feel they have to get so much profit per car or they're in red ink, Ames Ford has always believed in low profit, high turnover IN GOOD TIMES OR BAD. Novatan Dies; Victim Of Wreck

Theodore A. Lusher Jr., 38, of 724 McClay Road, Novato, died last night from head injuries suffered in a traffic crash in San Francisco May 7.

Lusher, a San Francisco police inspector, had been in critical condition at a San Francisco hospital since the accident in which his wife died. He did not regain consciousness.

Police were still investigating the car-bus collision which took the couples' lives.

The Lushers were riding in an unmarked police car, and apparently went through a red light with the car's siren going, according to police and witnesses. A Greyhound bus crushed the car, killing Mrs. Claire Lusher, 32, instantly.

Lusher was born in Aberdeen, Wash., and had lived in Marin County for eight years, three years in Novato and five years in Forest Knolls. He had been with the San Francisco Police Department for 17 years, and was an inspector with the missing persons bureau. He spent seven years as a motorcycle officer, and earned a number of commendations for aprehending speeders and wanted men. He became an inspector in 1956.

He is survived by four children, Mrs. Jeanette C. Dodds of Novato, who is taking care of the other three children, Lora, 15, Craig, 14, and Ted, 5; his mother, Mrs. Dorothy M. Lusher of San Francisco, and a sister, Mrs. Bertella Humphrey of San Francisco.

Mrs. Lusher's funeral was May 12. Funeral arrangements for Lusher are pending at Daphne San Francisco Funeral Service.

Marinwood Endorses County Park Bonds

Directors of the Marinwood Community Services District last night endorsed the $4.3 million county bond issue for parks to be voted upon June 7.

Directors asked, however, that there be further study on the population of the district, estimated in the distribution formula at only 4,000. Secretary Genevieve Bolding said directors believe the population is greater and the district should be in line for more than the $67,000 proposed.

County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney spoke for the bond issue. He said that he directors could use the money to pay off existing bonded indebtedness in the district if they wished.

Directors discussed again the possibility of a unified community services district that might include upper Lucas Valley, Marinwood and Terra Linda, or possibly just upper Lucas Valley and Marinwood.

Robert Morris and Guy Baty, representing the Marinwood district on a study committee, reported it was agreed at a recent committee meeting that the area did not have enough population or assessed value to justify incorporation of a new city.

Marinwood Community Services District directors also:

1. Raised from $525 to $550 a month the pay of maintenance Supt. Alan Horobin.

2. Put off discussion of hiring a landscape architect for planning of pool area development until the budget session, June 1.

3. Appointed Charles Hassell as alternate member of the Marinwood Fire Commission.

Warships Collide In Harbor

SAN DIEGO (UPI)—Two veteran aircraft carriers of the Vietnamese War, the USS Coral Sea and the USS Iwo Jima, collided today in San Diego Harbor but no serious injuries were reported.

A Navy spokesman said the Coral Sea, longer than three football fields and having a normal complement of 3,500 personnel at the North Island Naval Air Station.

She was heading for the open sea on a refresher training cruise and tugs were maneuvering her in the turning basin when the accident occurred, the spokesman said.

The Coral Sea brushed the Iwo Jima which was anchored midstream, knocking off several life rafts, smashing a whale boat but apparently causing no series damage to either carrier.

Woman Charged In Stabbing

Eileen M. Collette, 45, of 75 Billou Street, San Rafael, was booked in Marin County Jail last night on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon following the reported stabbing of her husband with a nine-inch butcher knife.

The victim Roy B. Collette, 50, was treated at San Rafael General Hospital for a wound in the left hand.

Mrs. Collette called police. She told officers her husband attacked her with a broom and she became agitated and grabbed the knife. Later, she said he fell against the knife.

Mrs. Collette was released on $550 bail today pending a hearing.

DINING OUT AND INNS

By HARRY CRAFT

Carousel Is New, Different; Captain's Curries Set To Open

Possibly something of a sleeper is a small place called Carousel Kitchen at Fourth and F Streets, San Rafael.

Nothing pretentious - just a little convenience spot in the historical West End section. I think Bissola's Grocery was once in here. So, too, was the Gourmet d'Italia Delicatessen of Jack Risso, then Gordon's Delicatessen. Generally the corner is referred to as "the old sausage factory," but which of its earlier enterprises was responsible for this escapes my recollection.

Carousel Kitchen was opened by Mrs. Lois Moir from San Jose last September and she has been operating it in diminishing volume as a delicatessen and more as a restaurant and coffee shop. With John Raynor of Washington doing the cooking, the two hope to build up this activity to respectible proportions.

It was one of my readers who called my attention to Carousel. She had scurried in for a quick snack, hoping to get moving in time for another engagement. She did, and more than that, liked the food and service so much she just had to tell me about it.

Right now it's open Mondays through Saturdays for lunches and dinners from 11 a.m. to 9 or 10 p.m. Later this schedule may be extended to include Sundays. Same menu applies at all hours—hot and cold sandwiches, spaghetti, enchiladas, tacos, salads, hamburgers, chicken, steaks and hamburgers. Full entrees run from $1 to $1.79 — all home cooked and good quality food. There are daily specials from time to time to create interest and it's one place you can have a milk shake for 25 or 35 cents, a hamburger for 39 cents — and occasionally both for the latter figure.

Anything that's prepared to eat on the premises is also available to take out.

Lois and John are now considering making the place available for banquets. Minimum group would be 20, maximum not much over 60.

AND SPEAKING of banquets, will those good people who have booked luncheons, parties or dinners at the San Geronimo National Golf Club kindly confirm their arrangements once more with Don Caseldine?

Don needs some help to remove him from a "tough spot." His engagement book listing all reservations and bookings was stolen from his car the other day and he's fearful of taking duplicate bookings for dates already filled. Please call him.

ONE OF THE MOST capable organists I know — Lee Lees — is now playing at Cherish Inn in Strawberry Town and Country Village. You can hear her at the console every night except Sunday from 8 p.m. to 1 a.m.

This, by the way, is in the cocktail lounge—a favorite haunt of many and an enjoyable stopoff for the pre-dinner period. If you should get there between 5 and 7 p.m., this is the two-hour long cocktail hour, when both hot and cold hors d'oeuvres are served.

If you've tried Cherish Inn for lunches—and it's usually pretty active that time of day—give it another whirl in the evening. The menu's different and so, in some respects, is the atmosphere. Just as charming, but a soupcon more relaxing.

CAPTAIN'S CURRIES at 71 Red Hill Avenue, San Anselmo, is now scheduled to open tomorrow, and hours will be from 4 to 10 p.m. everyday except Monday, when it's closed.

I wish I could report this as a restaurant, because with its type of food it certainly would be popular. But it's a take-home operation. Still, that's less expensive and you can eat the sumptious fare of Dick Lindauer and Gordon Morse in the quiet of your own house.

There are four main types of servings: Meat balls, chicken, lamb and sea food—all beautifully seasoned with curries and served with several condiments. I've sampled the chicken and must say the flavoring is ever so delicate—not thrown at you.

Certain to be a favorite item of everyone is the Indian bread called "puris"—a thin, wafer-like creation I'll wager you'll want in increased quantity as a side order on subsequent visits.

Individual servings are in the $1.25-$1.50 bracket, which allows you some margin for extras.

MENU AT THE ARK in Sausalito is taking on more of an international flavor as a result of its new double chef arrangement.

Now sharing honors with Swiss Louie Margnetti is Jacques Perreau, previously from Los Angeles. He'll take care of the French cuisine—with escargots, veal cordon bleu, duck l'orange, tournedos Rossini and other such preparations—while Louie continues with his popular Italian fare as heretofore.

Also, the Ark has now returned to serving lunches for the summer season.

MY ATTENTION has just been called to the fact that menu hasn't changed at Tiburon Tommie's Mai Tai since it opened in 1958 as Pier 41. Even the prices have remained the same. Tommie Cox and Johnnie Won claim they've been able to absorb rising food costs and labor by increasing business.

Two of the chicken dishes on the menu—celestial chicken and South Seas chicken—were originated by Johnnie when he was chef at Skipper Kent's Zombie Village in Oakland. Now you'll find both of them served in many Chinese restaurants in the Bay Area.

I'M INFORMED by Leon Smith at the Country Club Bowl, San Rafael that the swimming pool is opening here for the summer to family memberships. A number of repeat memberships are already booked, but a few more are available. Facilities include private room with locker. Pam Field, a student at College of Marin and qualified as a life guard, is giving private swimming lessons and is on duty six days a week. Call Leon Smith for membership details.

Dining room at the Country Club Kitchen is open from 11:30 a.m. Mondays through Fridays, and the snack bar is open from 9 a.m. seven days a week.

THERE'S A NEW ADDITION to the backyard staff at Franchini's Chateau—a tiny filly foaled by Missy the pony—and still unnamed. As soon as she gets her balance there may be a contest to remedy this deficiency.

Franchini's is holding its fifth anniversary party Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday next week. Champagne will be served on each complete dinner—compliments of Niki and Roy, whose only complaint these last five years is they'd like to expand and improve the facilities, but don't dare. The State Highway Department has plans for a cloverleaf here but won't say just when the work will start.

Panel On Taxes, Conservation Set

A panel discussion on the effect of conservation on property taxes will be held at 8 p.m. June 10 in Olney Hall on the College of Marin campus.

Speakers will be Dr. Daniel Luten of University of California's department of demography and geography, city councilman Michael Wornum of Mill Valley and John Nagy, president of the Statewide Homeowners Assn.

The public discussion will be sponsored by the Henry George School of Social Science.

Park Bond On Agenda

Almonte Improvement Club directors will discuss the proposed Marin County park bond issue at a meeting at 8 p.m. Wednesday in Almonte Hall, Almonte Boulevard and Wisteria Way, President Herbert E. Davis said today. The meeting, scheduled Tuesday night of this week, was cancelled.

Rezoning On Agenda

Proposed rezoning will be discussed by Muir Woods Park Improvement Assn. members in a progress report at an 8 p.m. meeting, today in the clubhouse on Ridge Avenue off Panoramic Highway. The 1966 Mountain Fair plans will also be discussed.

GARDENING GARB CLEARED

Mrs. Mary Lou Hood, 21, a coed at Central State College in Edmond, Okla., wore a demure suit to municipal court last night (right) where she was cleared of charges of indecent exposure. The ruckus started over 36-24-36 coed's wearing of a bikini to mow her lawn on May 16 (left). Mary Lou had offered to model the bikini for the judge, but it wasn't necessary. (AP Wirephotos)

Apologies Given For Miswording

A carelessly worded paragraph in Monday's Independent-Journal has left some readers with the wrong idea about a Corte Madera youth's role in the theft of a tire and wheel from a parked car in San Rafael last weekend.

The story was intended to say only that Winston Butscher Jr. of 10 Baja Court, Corte Madera, had reported the theft after he parked the car in San Rafael Saturday. The wording, however, could have been taken to mean he committed the theft.

The Independent-Journal regrets any embarrassment caused the youth and his family by the ambiguity.

Tam Pool Hours

Tamalpais High School swimming pool will be open tomorrow and Sunday from 1 to 5 p.m. It will be open successive weekends throughout the summer with the exception of June 18 and 19.

Search Warrant Upheld In Marinites' Arrests

A municipal court judge in Santa Rosa has upheld the legality of a search warrant which led to the arrest of six persons, two of them are from Larkspur.

Judge Joseph P. Murphy ended a five-day hearing by ruling Santa Rosa police were acting within their rights March 9 when they searched the home of Patrick Cox, 25.

Cox was not at home, but police arrested Richard Johnson, 30, Michelle Miller, 22, and Michael Woodward, 21, and charged them with possession of dangerous drugs. Johnson and Miss Miller are from Larkspur; Woodward is from San Francisco.

In a second raid two days later, police arrested the same trio, plus Cox; Janet Sprol, 26, of San Francisco, and Joseph Dalzell, 22, of Oakland.

Judge Murphy called the hearing after defense attorneys accused police of trickery in conducting the searches, and moved that the search warrant be thrown out of court. In denying the motion, he ruled that Police Lt. Wallace Stephens was "attempting a legal arrest."

Supervisor Wants Tax Rate Frozen

County Supervisor Ernest N. Kettenhofen today proposed that the county tax rate be frozen and that increased budgetary needs be covered by the county's "growth rate."

He suggested the freeze be somewhere between $2.20 and $2.25 per $100 assessed valuation, well under the $2.39 estimated to support the proposed $25.9 million budget for fiscal 1967.

Kettenhofen said in a letter to fellow supervisors that the county budget, excluding capital improvement costs, has been increasing at a rate of about six per cent per year, the same rate of growth of the county.

He said he plans to recommend a bond issue to finance capital improvements and predicted this could bring the tax rate down to $2 or $2.10. Rate for this year was $2.185.

Supervisors have discussed the possibility of such a bond issue being put to the voters in November.

County Hotel Tax Idea Urged For Promotions

County Supervisor Ernest N. Kettenhofen today proposed that the county's promotion and development budget, which funds chambers of commerce and other promotion groups, be supported entirely by a new hotel-motel room tax.

Kettenhofen, who asked fellow supervisors to discuss the idea next Tuesday, promised that he will vote against any expenditures for promotion and development unless the board agrees that fiscal 1967 will be the last year it is in the budget.

In a letter to the board, he suggested creation of a Marin County promotion and development commission with representation from board of supervisors, Marin Development Assn., Marin Visitors Bureau, and Marin Council of Mayors and Councilmen.

Kettenhofen has long stumped for a hotel-motel tax in the county. He estimated in his letter that it would bring in $100,000 a year.

County Administrator Alan Bruce has recommended $101,532 be budgeted for next fiscal year, to cover allocations to the various groups and the salary of director of economic development John M. Douglas, plus a half-time secretary.

Las Vegas Has LSD Problem

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Police say the hallucinatory drug LSD is causing new problems in Las Vegas.

They have asked Gov. Grant Sawyer to ask a current special session of the legislature to outlaw the drug.

"If we had the backing of the law," said North Las Vegas Police Chief Nick Janise, "we could go out today and make a dozen arrests. We know who is using LSD and where they are getting it."

"This is a problem," said Las Vegas Police Chief Lorin Bunker. "We need a law in self defense. Without it, there is not much we can do."

Woman Missing From San Rafael

An all-points bulletin was put out by police today for a San Rafael woman reported missing between San Francisco and her home at 11 Chestnut Street.

William A. Sieter told police his wife, Nancy C. Sieter, 29, left a friend's home in San Francisco at 1 a.m. today. She had not returned by 5:30 a.m.

Mrs. Sieter was last seen wearing a blue knit suit, tan shoes and was carrying a suede purse. She was driving a 1964 convertible.

College Study Group Picks Davis Leader

Daniel C. Davis of Greenbrae last night was elected chairman of a citizens committee of the Marin Junior College District board to study, the district's policy of financing capital outlay and building programs on a pay-as-you-go basis.

Board president Elizabeth M. Deedy told the committee that the board will look for recommendations six months to a year from now.

President Stephen E. Epler of College of Marin talked of the growth of junior colleges in the state, saying their total enrollment is now larger than the combined enrollment of state universities and colleges.

College planning coordinator James W. Duke told the committee the college's enrollment is greatly outrunning predictions of 1962, which the board used as a basis for building on a pay-as-you-go plan financed by a special tax.

Other committee members are: J. L. Agnew, Fred F. Enemark, George M. Henderson, John D. LaNoue, Robert L. Parish and Charles Van Horne of San Rafael; Dr. A. J. Brinckerhoff, Henry Hicks, Clark M. Palmer and E. J. Picchi of Novato; Albert Goodwin and H. G. Marchant of Kentfield; Francis Carr and Robert Rich of Sausalito; Dr. Arnold Nutring of San Anselmo, and Edward Ward of Tiburon.

Stolen Car Found

A 1962 Chevrolet Impala, which Dave Kline of 1 Shelley Road, Mill Valley, reported was stolen last night, was discovered by sheriff's deputies at 8:45 a.m. today, above Marin City, the wheels and tires removed.

MARIN COLLEGE TEAM BEST CAR FIXER-UPPERS

Two College of Marin auto technology students corrected malfunctions in the electrical circuits, fuel line and carburetor of an automobile in one hour and 54 minutes yesterday to claim the title of best junior college mechanics in Northern California.

Donald Forsyth of Stinson Beach and Donald Holton of Marinwood, competing in a Chrysler Motors Corp.-sponsored contest for junior college mechanics in San Mateo, won first prize, correcting their car's troubles one and one-half minutes earlier than the second best team from Yuba Junior College.

The students and their instructor Jesse Salmon were awarded trophies. The youths will compete in state finals next Friday in Fresno. Winners there will receive a trip to Chrysler headquarters in Detroit.

TODAY'S EDITORIAL

Older Heads Still Needed To Supervise Education

Students today, particularly college students, are demanding more voice in the administration of schools and in the choice of curriculum.

Some are even going so far as to suggest that students become equal partners with the faculty and the administration.

This aspiration by students to play a bigger role in setting educational policy and developing curriculum reflects, in a sense, the growing maturity and sophistication of modern youth.

Because of big strides made in mass communication and in greater mobility by automobiles and jets, modern youth has opportunities to keep abreast of national and world developments that previous generations did not have.

There's no doubt that students today are more conversant with a wider variety of topics than those of the older generation. Responsible student groups will no doubt be entrusted with larger roles in the administration of their colleges and universities.

Nevertheless, we believe that student opinion, no matter how brilliant, must be tempered by the wisdom that comes with age and experience.

At the fifth annual California Conference on Higher Education held in Los Angeles earlier this month, a couple of college presidents expressed that idea succinctly. Education News Service quotes Richard C. Gilman, president of Occidental College as follows:

"The academic profession has the obligation to look to itself to decide what college should be about. Curriculum and other matters must be decided from a position of competency and capability.

"I submit that students have neither.

"Furthermore, the college which says it will teach only what the student wants is doomed."

The strong language used by President Gilman may be a deliberate exaggeration to emphasize his point.

Student opinion, especially constructive ideas, certainly should be encouraged, and acceptable ones should be incorporated. But we agree with President Gilman's point—that the ultimate decision making should continue to rest with the faculty, administration and trustees.

As Charles Frankel, U.S. assistant secretary of state for educational and cultural affairs observed:

"Today's protesting students must recognize that there has been a great deal of valuable knowledge and experience passed down to them from this and preceding generations. They can't start from scratch and learn everything for themselves."

Buckeyes And Crippled Bees

The California buckeye trees are blooming now on Marin's hills and dales. This tree, with its long spikes of blossoms, is a member of the Native Flora of the Golden West—a native amid a host of aliens.

Buckeye nectar is notorious among beekeepers. The worker bees gather it and their digestive system processes it into honey. Evidently it does not hurt the adult bees, but when fed to the developing larvae in the brood combs it produces deformed and crippled bees. A sort of bee thallidomide.

Conservative Action Committee Throws Backing Behind Patrick

By WAT TAKESHITA

Takeshita

REMEMBER FRED Ullner, the Larkspur TV store owner who backed Barry Goldwater, formed the 26 Million Club and the Republicans for Conservative Action, and backed Ronald Reagan?

Just this week, Ullner and his group (now called the Conservative Action Committee) pulled a surprise switch. They're deserting Reagan and supporting William Penn Patrick, the Marin cosmetic manufacturer.

"We think Reagan is a wonderful man," Ullner explained. "But we think his campaign people are something else again. They won't let Ronnie speak. We feel Patrick can really do something."

Ullner said Patrick's strong stand against the "UC Beatniks" had won his group's admiration. Ullner hopes to deliver "several hundred thousand Goldwater votes" to Patrick.

IF YOU'RE LOOKING for a respectable college position, try the College of Marin. They've got a vacancy for the post of college trustee, because Kent Seymour resigned. Only catch is, it's a non-paying position.

THE COMMITTEE to Re-Elect Governor Brown is mailing out letters, pleading for funds so that Governor Brown can get on TV to refute "the misstatements and innuendos of both the Republican candidates for Governor and the false candidate in the Democratic Primary."

The letter is signed by Libby Gatov and Roger Kent of Kentfield, and George Fleharty of San Francisco.

ACTOR RONALD Reagan won't tell you publicly, because he is committed to the 11th Commandment (not to speak ill of other Republicans).

But he swears in private that he's got a transcript which shows that the word "bigot" was used by George Christopher at the Santa Monica meeting from which Reagan stalked out in anger last March. Reagan said at the time that Christopher had referred to him as a racist or bigot. Christopher emphatically denied this.

SEVERAL STAUNCH supporters of Supervisor Byron Leydecker, when he ran against John McInnis in 1964, have now swung over to the side of McInnis. Among them are Walter Zurcher and Irving Chapman.

THE GEORGE Christopher milk case of 1940-41 keeps cropping up like clockwork, each time Christopher runs for public office.

A close check of all available records show that (1) no felony was involved at any time, (2) he was never "sentenced to jail", although he was photographed, booked, and held in jail.

He did plead guilty to several counts of misdemeanors (violating sections of the California Agricultural Code). He bought milk from producers at the minimum price required by law, the got rebates from the producers. The net result was that he paid the milk producers less than the minimum price.

HE WAS FINED and put on probation for two years. During the probation, he was rebooked for violation of the terms of probation (he failed to make a monthly payment of $125). At that time, he remained in jail for five days, in lieu of bail. This is probably what causes the erroneous reports of a "jail sentence."

As the then District Attorney, A. E. Bagshaw recalls it, the "courts ultimately modified the order of probation so as to substantially reduce the amout of fines to be paid and Christopher completed the payments as thus modified and was released from probation."

All of this has been rehashed many times before. Any suggestion that the case involves felonious acts or that Christopher got a jail sentence is pure hogwash.

Free Samples Seen As Peril To Children

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Recently, we again received an envelope of "free coupons" via the Post Office, addressed to Occupant. This envelope from Lever Bros. Co. did in fact contain coupons in addition to a sample of medication, Stendin, with six tablets of an adult dosage of an aspirin compound.

Inquiries directed to the pediatrician and druggist were inconclusive as the exact amount of aspirin in the tablets was unknown to them. However, from the label of the product, they surmised the sample contained the equivalent of sixty grains of aspirin (a lethal dose for a toddler).

The outer envelope did not indicate the contents and may readily have been laid aside or discarded, a "prize" for children. Then too, apartment houses frequently have a table in the lobby where a number of these envelopes could have been left to accommodate the occupants of the building.

This dosage in itself could be harmful to any youngster but the possibility of several of these packets ingested could well go undetected with fatal results.

We urge legislation banning this practice for the safety of our children.

Fruitless Wait For Good Smog Laws

Editor, Independent-Journal:

We can sit quietly by no longer. Our vain 12 months' wait for someone to introduce sensible legislation into California's auto smog control has been fruitless, and we must protest the measures now in the legislative hopper.

Two especially noxious bills are now being considered: AB98, eliminating the previously guaranteed protection against a monopoly in the exhaust control device field; and AB's 98, 112 and 119, in conjunction, providing for the expansion of air pollution control legislation into any area of the state, whether desired by LOCAL governments, or not . . .

These bills extend the smog program beyond the currently involved counties. They eliminate the present FEW safeguards of the motoring public. They present to the Dept. of Public Health the authority to override any county board of supervisors who have previously demonstrated an interest in the people's wishes. They open the door for more disastrous and damaging requirements apparently aimed solely at profiting some manufacturers—not at alleviating or controlling air polution.

Now, the question: What can be done? For over two years our organization has urged voters to wake up and realize the extent of victimizing to which they were being subjected. The response has been dismally poor.

It is not too late yet! These bills have not yet been passed by the respective houses! They have not yet been signed into law! Write a letter to your Senator and Assemblyman — NOW! Express your displeasure—as often told to us—with the requirements already in force, and that you do not want further encroachments on your automobile, pocketbook, or your atmosphere (such as the passage of these bills will cause). Let's all present a united demand for sensible laws for the control of air purity—not panic measures for profiteering as voted for by Senator McCarthy and Assemblyman Bagley. Tell them now that you don't expect them to make the same mistake again.

Reader Explains Why He Opposed Barry

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Tonight (May 17) Morrie Ryskind rightly (no pun intended) complains that the country took a sharp swing to the left in the 1964 election but fails to comprehend why this occurred. It was because 43,000,000 people were unwilling to take an even sharper lurch to the right, which would have occurred if that wild man from Arizona had been elected.

I personally, hold rather conservative views with regard to economic policies and matters dealing with personal responsbility. But when confronted with a choice between a wild foreign policy and a wild domestic economic policy, I found the latter less menacing and voted accordingly. So did a large number of other people who would have gladly voted for a more reasonable Republican candidate. This feeling carried a huge number of liberal Democrats into Congress, hence the leftward swing Mr. Ryskind complains of.

That people who voted thus since have been betrayed and have ended up with both a wild foreign policy and a wild domestic economic policy is another issue. This latter will be attended to this fall and in 1968.

A NERVOUS DRIVER, who had just insured his shiny new car, backed it with a resounding crash into the car parked behind him. As he emerged sheepishly from behind the wheel, he found the man who had sold him the insurance policy waiting on the curb for him. "Boy," exclaimed the driver, "you sure were prompt." "You bet I was," agreed the insurance man. "That was my car you backed into."

"If you don't watch out," warns Brooks, "you'll be thinking just the way they do. First thing you know, you, too, will be saying, 'I'll write this so Elke Sommer can play the lead. She's hot right now.'" The first time an agent actually asked Brooks, incidentally, "Could you make the lead suitable for Elke Sommer?" Eastern Europe Trade May Help Cut Ties To Kremlin Dictators

WASHINGTON—I wonder if the powerful chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, Rep. Wilbur D. Mills of Arkansas, is sure he is doing the nation a service by greeting with a bludgeon the Administration proposal to expand U.S. trade with Eastern Europe?

Mr. Mills doesn't like the idea and when Mr. Mills doesn't like something it usually doesn't happen — in Congress, that is.

THERE ARE, indeed, honest, arguments about widening the channels of trade with the Eastern European Communist countries. We certainly don't want to do anything to fasten these repressive dictatorships more tightly on the peoples who never chose them in the first place.

But might not the opposite be the effect of enlarging the economic relationships between Eastern Europe and the West?

I would cite three developments that show there are forces in motion there which it is greatly in our interest to encourage:

1. Nicolae Ceausescu, Rumania's Communist party chief, has just delivered a blunt attack on Soviet "meddling" in Rumania affairs. He made it clear that, while he wants Rumania Communist, he wants it independent, not run from Moscow, and that it would be all right with him if there were no Warsaw Pact.

2. A distinguished Slovak scholar, Michal Lakatos, writing in Pravny Obzor, is continuing his campaign—obviously tolerated by the regime itself — for free elections in Czechoslovakia. He contends that elections of a kind which no Communist state has ever allowed are essential if Communism is ever to produce a "just society."

3. Walter Ulbricht, Communist chief of state in East Germany, after proposing two public debates—one in East Germany and one in West Germany—between the Communist leaders and Mayor Willy Brandt and his colleagues of the Social Democratic party, is suddenly running for cover. He postponed the date and apparently is postponing the venture entirely.

REASON: the East Germans showed themselves too eager to listen and he is afraid of what the reaction would be if ideas of the West German leaders were allowed to go over the radio as promised.

Rumanians talking back to Moscow. Even the hasty trip of Leonid Brezhnev, Soviet party secretary, to Bucharest didn't soften their protests. Czechoslovakian Communists advocating free elections Western style. East Germans breathlessly waiting for closer association with the West.

SOMETHING is happening. Many of the Communist leaders of Eastern Europe want to get away from Soviet domination.

Most of the people of Eastern Europe want to free themselves from dictatorial regimes. They see increased political and economic contract with the West as a boon.

Increased trade with the U.S. can help these regimes become less dependent upon the Soviet Union.

But it will require Congressional approval to permit the necessary reciprocal tariff agreements.

FULL Congressional and public debate would be useful and Chairman Mills is not doing a good thing in refusing to conduct hearings or to introduce legislation so that Congress can decide.

President's Club Has Key Financial Chore

By ROBERT S. ALLEN
and PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — The expensively exclusive President's Club is coming to the financial rescue of the debt-ridden Democratic National Committee.

Given an unannounced $3 million fund-raising goal by the White House, the club, through its $1,000-a-year memberships, already has banked $1.5 million to pay off the party's $2 million debt.

MOST OF this money has come from three club dinners attended by President Lyndon B. Johnson at Houston and Chicago, and Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey in New York. These affairs brought the club's dues-paying members to 1,520, more than half of the 3,000 goal personally set by the President, according to club president Arthur Krim, who doubles as finance director of the Democratic National Committee.

Krim, wealthy New York attorney and movie executive, stated that the club's recent dinner in Houston was attended by 700 members and produced around $800,000 for the national committee. The extra funds, he indicated, came from members who paid $10,000 for "life memberships" — a new feature.

THE CLUB dinner in New York was attended by Vice President Humphrey and raised $186,000. Krim also reported that the "advance enrollment" of members at this week's dinner with the President in Chicago had brought in "more than $400,000."

A $1 million dinner-dance is scheduled for June 11 in New York at which the President will be the star attraction. Other parties to raise from $500,000 to $1 million are being arranged in Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Minneapolis, Des Moines and San Francisco this summer and fall.

Sixteen unions have bought memberships for top officials, despite labor complaints that the administration has failed to vigorously support their legislative proposals.

IN ADDITION to meeting and shaking hands with President Johnson or Vice President Humphrey at fund-raising affairs, President's Club members also are invited to White House events.

"The President's Club is still very exclusive, although it has been in existence since 1961," says Clifton Carter, Democratic National Committee executive director, in soliciting new members. "Its members are assured of direct relationship with President Johnson."

Carter explained that in addition to being asked to the White House social functions, "Members who want to talk to the President, the Vice President, or one of their assistants, have only to contact my office. Members will immediately be put in contact with whomever they want to reach."

In his sales pitch Carter stresses that President Johnson uses the Club's membership list "to solicit advice" in making appointments and "in developing a consensus on important domestic and foreign issues."

PRESIDENT Johnson is finally going to send his long-promised message to Congress on the handling of campaign funds by candidates for President and Congress.

Within a few weeks he will call for:

More accurate reporting of campaign contributions, and how such funds are spent, federal authority over all fund-raising committees for presidential and congressional candidates, and stiff penalties for false reporting.

Still undecided is whether to propose the creation of a special commission to study the question of limiting the cost and duration of congressional and presidential campaigns.

Sausalito's Walk-Away Dishes Come In A Variety Of Packages

Checking the walk-away dishes in Sausalito the other day, we found that you can get English fish and chips in a paper checked basket at Fish and Chips and walk-away shrimp and crab cocktails at Casserino's with a walk-away tap beer.

Edna Wells of London, temporary manager, said, "You just eat fish as you walk along . . . very common all over England." She said that shop owner Haddon Salt is from Skegness, England, and all the fish and chips sold in the place are English.

ON THE Napa Street Pier we saw a girl in one of those skirts above the knee and high heels and two women in dungarees on the fishing boat, Annabelle, fishing. The fishing wives, fishing with drop lines, said fishing was good and they had hauled in 16 smelt.

The walk-away business is old hat in Sausalito, a sea-ey town. Patty's and Porky's and The Kettle have walk-aways as does the Venice Gourmet boutique.

It was the week we kept bumping into Len Bjorklund, stumping for D.A. office and the week that Manny Gomez, away on sabbatical, returned to the Mill Valley City Council chambers. He tested the new council, found them heady and then put in a plug for his Cresta de la Norte which he said is Spanish for north ridge. Gomez is as long and strong as ever.

It was the week that Ellen Dawson, rebel of Stinson Beach, announced she is going to emigrate to Israel in late June or early July.

"I'm sending the children to their father in New York," she said, "and my library of books will be left with Elizabeth Okamura who has promised to continue allowing their use to grammar and high school students." A pacifist, Ellen says she hopes to live on a kibbutz near the frontier.

IT WAS the week Phil Palmer realized that he could sleep longer since he no longer hears the Greyhounds warming up in early morning. And Tamalpais student John Curtis, hitchhiking, worried he hopes his fare of 30 cents one way does not increase because, though he has and can ride his bike from Sausalito, he finds the route very dangerous.

Six bongo drummers sat in the grass last Sunday at Vina del Mar Plaza, apparently very much "with it," playing to numerous tourists who seemed very curious but "out of it." One man said they are not a drumming group but just get together to blow, a way of free expression.

We met a man with a half Siamese, half calico cat on a red leash. The cat, named Balgiabab after a famous Russian chess player, had chosen to sit on a stranger's lap, completely at one with his surroundings. We asked the cat owner, who wore a Jason Robards thousand clowns hat if Balgie likes music and the man replied, "He likes the beat."

At Gallery Horizons there is a sculpture by Thomas Marioni which you can walk into, then look out at the world through a one-eyed aperture. Called "Inner Space No. 1," Miss Tony Laue, gallery guarder, said these are good to place beside pools.

WE MET drug inventor Fred Mayer at Sausalito Pharmacy for the first time and he said his latest product, a wrinkle remover, is going great guns. He showed us his laboratory and said there are only four small drug manufacturers left in the U.S. and he's one. "Dick Van Dyke and the Bat Man have been in for hangover pills," he said. And, he added, we have delivered eight expectant mothers to hospitals, one of the shop's special services.

Willie Chee, 75, at Marin Fruit and Grocery Co., (he gives credit), was taking a nap and so we spoke to his son, Nathan Yee. Yee has a different name because, when his dad came to this country he came under somebody else's name—Chee.

Chee has been in the grocery business in Sausalito since 1915 and still has no automation. But he does have two wonderful red-topped stools where you can sit at a counter and order your foodstuffs. The fastest seller right now is fresh fruit, said Yee.

White House High Living Even Involves A Dancing Minister!

WASHINGTON — Representative H. R. Gross, the Republican Congressman from Iowa, has finally blown the whistle on one of the best kept secrets in Washington. And that is that the Johnson administration is composed of a swinging "mink coat set," which dances until 3 o'clock every morning through the White House halls.

The Good Congressman made a speech on the floor of the House deploring not only the swinging at the White House, but all the Dolce Vita activities that have been going on, such as Press Secretary Bill Moyers doing the Watusi and Frug, and one woman who was sent home from an opera ball because she was wearing a transparent dress which Rep. Gross said made her "half naked."

I WAS as shocked to read about all these goings-on as anyone.

As soon as I heard about Rep. Gross's speech I called my wife and said, "We haven't been invited to the White House this week, have we?"

"What's the matter with you?" she said. "We've never been invited to the White House."

"It's just as well," I said. "Do you know what they do there?"

"Don't tell me."

"They dance the Watusi and the Frug until 3 in the morning."

"THAT'S the first good thing I've heard about the White House in months," she said.

"Hush, my sweet," I said. "The Devil may have the line tapped. Did you know that an ordained Baptist minister has been leading the dancing and doing the 'Swim,' the 'Monkey,' and the 'LBJ Stomp'?"

"Heavens preserve us," my wife said. "Could it be Rev. Bill Moyers?"

"The very same," I told her. "It's as if Sadie Thompson had come back to earth and moved into the Lincoln Room of the White House."

"The LBJ crowd seemed like such nice people," my wife said.

"YOU NEVER know what goes on in someone's house after the sun goes down," I told her. "Did you know that the President dances also?"

"It couldn't be true."

"And Mrs. Johnson and Luci and Lynda Bird and Hubert Humphrey and Muriel."

"We shall have to pray for all of them," my wife said. "I'll make up some 'Repent' signs just in case we want to picket the White House."

"DO YOU KNOW what else I found out from Congressman Gross? I discovered that the women in Washington walk around half naked in evening dresses."

"Thank heavens, you would not let me buy a new evening gown," my wife said.

"Exactly what I was thinking," I replied. "We're the only ones in Washington who live in a glass house and can still throw stones."

"Is there any hope," my wife asked, "that they could change their sinful ways?"

"Not according to Congressman Gross. Once you start dancing there is no way back."

"You and I and Congressman Gross seem to be the only clean living people in this town," my wife said.

"We're twice blessed," I said. "You don't own a mink coat and I don't dance."

"WE MAY NOT have fun," my wife said, "but at least we can look each other in the eye in the morning."

Catching Up On WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Competition Could Be Better For Garbage

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Where we have exclusive franchises we eventually have price controls. A reader in today's (May 14) I-J, for instance, complains about the high cost of garbage collection and urges that cities more effectively control such prices.

It would be a lot easier and more effective to simply encourage greater competition in the scavenger business. Cities don't grant exclusive franchises for milk delivery. Does it have to be different for another public service such as garbage collection? Let the individual property owner rather than the city make a deal with which ever company he likes best. If one company's price/service ratio gets out of line, another company would soon underbid it.

If the community were willing to grant scavenger licenses to anybody who is able to meet the health and safety codes, prices would go down, service would improve, and price controls would become obsolete.

Regardless of their arrangement with our city, hats off to the Belvedere garbage collectors. Year in and year out, rain or shine we see (and often hear) them carrying out a necessary and often thankless public chore.

Steel Water Tanks Draw Reader Protest

Editor, Independent-Journal:

I feel that the recently constructed 1,500,00 gallon water storage tank in the Strawberry area is a real eye-sore and, perhaps, there is another and better solution. If there is a solution, and I believe that there is, it should be taken into consideration before work is started on the 5,000,000 gallon tank for Mill Valley or on any other future water storage tanks of similar capacity.

Mr. Craig Randall, who is chairman of the advisory committee for the Contra Costa County Water District, along with Mr. Frank Swanson, who is their chief engineer, gave me the following information:

Their district has not constructed an above-ground metal tank for the past five years and is phasing out all metal above-ground tanks as fast as economically possible. The four new reservoirs of their district are all below ground and constructed of reinforced concrete. The roofs put on these reservoirs are so designed to safely accommodate three feet of top soil and this area could be converted into a park, picnic area or developed as tennis courts.

True, the initial cost is higher but when all things are considered, the difference does not appear to be that great.

I noticed in last week's Independent-Journal that the water district showed a net profit of $753,417.00 for the fiscal year so, perhaps, some of these funds could be used to cover the additional initial cost.

To help offset the initial cost, the maintenance of a concrete tank is negligible, whereas an above ground steel tank should be repainted, and possibly cleaned on the inside as well, at least every five years. A concrete tank also has a greater life expectancy than a metal tank and, of course, we immediately eliminate the objectionable unsightly appearance of an above ground metal tank.

Support Committee Aiding Marincello

Editor, Independent-Journal:

The newly formed Citizens Committee for Justice to Marincello should be supported. The issue now transcends the merits of Marincello. If the present course of the opponents continues, the cost to tax-payers and property owners will be prohibitive.

Anyone who wishes to develop his own land in Marin must make his commitments on the strength of the commitments made to him by the Planning Commission and the Board of Supervisors. If their approval cannot be depended upon, the whole system of county government becomes tenuous and meaningless.

Pearson Called Liar By Three Presidents

Editor, Independent-Journal:

With regard to Drew Pearson's purported expose of George Christopher's alleged infraction of a state milk price regulation many years ago, and with regard to Pearson's integrity and reliability, I seem to remember that three of our Presidents, FDR, Truman and Eisenhower, have publicly called him a liar on three different occasions.

Is my recollection erroneous?

I'd like very much to know whether Pearson is Brown's self-appointed hatchet man or whether Brown has asked him to do his dirty work for him while he, Brown, remains aloof in sanctimonious silence.

Pro-Butane Writer Poorly Informed?

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Regarding the comment by Mr. Edward R. Bunting of Ross, on the editorial by the Independent-Journal entitled "People Must Act Quickly on Gas Over White's Hill."

In my opinion that editorial was an outstanding masterpiece and rates in the top five of newspaper editing. Mr. Bunting is, no doubt, sitting comfortably on the cold winter nights, with his natural gas furnace in operation, and not a worry in the world about the gas tank running out. His garden, in the summertime is probably gorgeous in flower, and not marred by an unsightly steel gas tank.

The schools in the area where Mr. Bunting lives are not compelled to surround these ugly, dangerous gas tanks with a six-foot steel and wire fence to protect the children from the possibility of fire or explosion, as our schools are.

Butane gas is not allowed to be used in San Francisco, only under certain conditions, due to its dangers.

The people of this lovely valley are not interested in gas for burning weeds or propelling of motor vehicles. We want underground pipes to carry gas to our homes for the purpose of heating and cooking, and at a reasonable cost. One must live in our valley to appreciate our needs.

Mr. Bunting writes about the other side of the coin, and calls the I-J editorial a little below standard. No doubt he meant to say, the other side of the track. As for the below standard, Mr. Bunting should be told that more than two companies supply propane gas to the valley, and that the $50 deposit to the PG&E (as ordered by the PUC), is returnable when gas is delivered.

In a few succinct words, Mr. Bunting isn't too well informed.

Professor Turning Youth From Music

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Re: "Letter to Editor" written by a Professor Kolitsch . . . regarding a recent Marin Youth Orchestra concert at College of Marin.

To the uninitiated it would appear that the level of music offered to our public school students is lacking in depth and quality and the teachers involved are poorly trained and selected. This is wholly untrue.

First of all, the concert in question was of excellent quality and showed not only fine programming and leadership, but also the coordinated efforts of young people who have trained and practiced to present a mature and thoroughly enjoyable performance. There were at least 800 people there who enthusiastically received them.

Writing to state politicians as suggested by this Professor Kolitsch would have only minor effect, because as taxpayers in Marin County know, a percentage of each school tax dollar is designated for use in furthering music education—as per school district.

Some districts spend more than others. Mr. Rinaldi is supervisor of music for all San Rafael schools. The Marin Youth Orchestra, however, is no part of the public school system. It is supported wholly through the sale of tickets and by the Sypmhony Guild of Marin—there are no public funds.

Mr. Rinaldi has been director of this truly excellent group, beyond his school responsibilities, for 11 years. The Marin Youth Orchestra is open to any young musician in Marin County who so qualifies by a regular try-out system.

This Professor Kolitsch was befriended by Mr. Rinaldi because he is a refugee of some two or three years ago—it seems hardly "cricket" to publicly bite the hand that has helped you. He has started what he calls the Violin Institute of California and is the sole "faculty." It has no reciprocal affiliation with any other recognized music training center in this area.

His further local contribution to music is lacking and on what basis he rests his accusations of school music escapes me. We have almost without exception an outstanding faculty in all school districts teaching our children a balanced range of music at all grade levels, and Mr. Rinaldi's district can be cited as especially exemplary.

It is obvious that Le Professeur is totally unfamiliar with the music program in the local schools or community.

New Island On Road Potential Death Trap

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Highway 37 which has been the scene of many fatal accidents at the Blackpoint approach to the Petaluma River, has now had another hazard added in the last few days. This is a traffic island at the west end of the Crest Road approach to the highway.

It was meant to prevent traffic from entering the highway in the wrong direction, which is good. The island, however extends so far into the paved shoulder - about 10 feet—that a car traveling partly on the shoulder can come upon this obstruction suddenly without being able to avoid it.

Already the road sign implanted in the island has been knocked down by someone who did not see it in time.

If this obstruction is not removed from its present location it will become a death trap when the fogs are thick and motorists are hugging the outer shoulder of the road.

Behr's Views On Taxes Conflict With Promotion Of Park Bonds

FUSSELMAN

In the I-J on Wednesday, "Supervisor Peter Behr called the bills (being proposed for state legislation to give tax relief to those over 62) 'nothing but a sop to the elderly citizens—an insult to the common sense of the population of this county—This little comes too late for the too many people who have had to suffer from the too high property taxes'." We must all applaud him for the speech. Nevertheless I have difficulty in reconciling it with his present activity as co-chairman of the drive to put over the $4.3 million bond issue to purchase land for parks and open spaces.

Last week I questioned the timing of this submission. When we read in the press on page after page that city after city plus the schools and other districts find that more increases in taxes are needed to carry on their activities, it seems to emphasize the bad timing.

IN THE I-J news story of the quarterly meeting of the Marin Property Owners Assn. (Not the old time Taxpayers Assn.) which was held last week in San Rafael, this was reported: "Kettenhofen, who is co-chairman of the bond drive with Supervisor Peter H. Behr, declined to make an outright appeal for the property owner group to endorse the bond issue, but insisted members should get all the facts before they opposed the plan." He then proceeded to furnish them with sufficient reason to do just that, (oppose the plan). "The current booklet of information on bonds", said Kettenhofen, "is a 'half promise to all people for all things,' and interested citizens should challenge the supervisors to show precisely what will happen if the bond issue is approved June 7."

He was asked if the supervisors wanted the bond issue passed badly enough to cut the county tax rate elsewhere by as much as the bonds would add to it. He urged that the question be thrown to the entire board. He could have brought the question up at the Tuesday meeting of the board for an answer. There was no reporting that he did.

APPARENTLY there is going to be very little effort to make any cuts, in spite of their reported concern over the size of the increase in the budget the administrator submitted. Tuesday they authorized the new $18,000 a year planning director to hire three new people for that department. He wished to hire "June graduates." Must be that an expanded staff is needed to properly support and justify the $4,000 increase in the director's salary.

If you missed the KTIM broadcast of the supervisor's meeting Tuesday afternoon, try to catch the replay Sunday afternoon. There is great rivalry by the majority members to be "top banana" of the show. You owe it to yourself to hear your top official group in action.

I hope you read Richard Lyttle's report in the I-J of this week's supervisors' meeting. It was on page 23. Here are some excerpts—"This is a hell of a deal" chairman Leydecker said. He wondered why they were just hearing about the matter before them. "We've all known about this all along—you just haven't been doing your homework" said Kettenhofen. "Now all the rest of you are being heroes. It's ridiculous."

He said Leydecker wanted to write the governor because, "he's a friend of the governor"—"You don't have to get nasty," the chairman countered. Behr said he would be the villain if it would please Kettenhofen. From a lady in the audience, "The behavior of this board is a disgrace."

"You're out of order" from the chairman, banging the gavel.

"You are out of order" said the lady.

Real nice. What?

Watts Youths Again Stone Police In Inquest Anger

LOS ANGELES (AP) —Groups of rock throwing juveniles wandered through uneasy South Los Angeles' Negro community last night as residents awaited the outcome of an inquest into the death of a Negro motorist shot by a policeman.

Police said apparently only one man, a white newspaper vendor, was injured last night. They identified him as Edward Neeley, who said he was beaten by a gang of Negroes and shot at as he fled.

Police said they could not confirm any shot had been fired and added Neeley apparently left the area after getting first-aid treatment.

The incident occurred shortly after police broke up agathering of 150 juveniles, reported throwing rocks at cars in the heart of Watts, where rioting last August took 34 lives.

Police said the crowd gathered along 103rd Street shortly after a brief demonstration in a nearby park, where about 80 persons gathered to protest the death of Leonard Deadwyler, 25. He was shot May 7 as he was driving his pregnant wife to a hospital.

A similar demonstration Tuesday on the eve of the inquest preceded several hours of violence in which two newsmen were beaten by Negroes wielding pieces of lumber.

The Deadwyler inquest, which opened yesterday was adjourned to today after a crowd which overflowed the hearing room became unruly.

Police remained on the alert as the hooting, jeering spectators, who had traveled several miles north to the Los Angeles Civic Center, dispersed and returned to South Los Angeles. Soon small crowds began to gather in Watts and, as night came on, grew uneasy.

Twenty policemen were dispatched to 103rd Street at reports of rock throwing. They marched up the middle of the street, giving the order to disperse. A police car and a radio station's mobile news unit were hit by rocks, but the crowd broke into small groups and drifted away.

At 10:30 p.m., police began enforcing the routine curfew, picking up juveniles and holding them for their parents.

Shortly before midnight, police in the area were instructed to remove their hard helmets.

"It was a lot better night than we thought it would be," said Lt. Alan Archibald, stationed at the 77th Street Precinct, which patrols the Watts area.

The officer who fired the fatal shot, 23-year-old Gerald Bova, says he stopped Deadwyler's speeding car and his revolver fired accidentally as he reached into the vehicle to rab the ignition keys.

Deadwyler's widow, Barbara, 25, claims Bova fired without questioning her husband. She says he was speeding her to the hospital because she thought she was having labor pains.

Engines Drop Off Navy Plane

SAN DIEGO (AP)—It was a routine training flight, but suddenly it was mighty quiet aboard the normally noisy twin-engine Navy P2 Neptune patrol plane.

Both engines had dropped off.

The pilot, Lt. Robert S. Richmond, 28, managed to crash-lnd the plane Wednesday within 300 yards of a Coast Guard Cutter. His six crewmen preceded him in leaving the plane and all were picked up in a life raft from the cutter.

The plane sank seven minutes after landing in the water.

Greyhound Strike Still In Deadlock

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—"No real progress" was reported by federal mediators yesterday in efforts to settle a strike against Western Greyhound Bus Lines.

The AFL-CIO Amalgamated Transit Union struck six days ago after its contract expired with the firm that serves 12 western states.

Roger Randall, Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service commissioner, said the position of both parties "continues to be slightly unrealistic."

Randall spoke in San Francisco although negotiations are underway in Washington, D.C.

Court Refuses Order On Gifts

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Donald R. Scott has been denied an injunction to prevent actress Corinne Calvet from disposing of any gifts he may have given her.

In denying the injunction yesterday, Superior Court Judge Ralph H. Nutter said Scott, 35, did not allege Miss Calvet, 41, has made any threat to dispose of the disputed property.

Scott has filed suit against the French-born actress to recover $878,000 in gifts he said he gave Miss Calvet to keep her from disclosing their relationship to his wife.

The gifts, said Scott, include a $205,000 Beverly Hills home and a $155,000 ranch near Malibu.

The girl, who had been wearing her escort's class ring suspended on a black velvet ribbon on her neck, removed the ring, immersed it in a binnacle box filled with water symbolizing the seven seas. After the ritual, which is intended to bring good luck to the young sailors, the ring was placed on the midshipman's finger by his date, and the couple stepped into the ring and sealed the ceremony with a kiss.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

They 'Honey,' 'Dearie' And 'Doll' You To Death In The Better Shops

DEAR HELEN:

My (male) hairdresser calls me "honey," though he doesn't know me that well. He calls everybody "honey." I run into this a lot, and surprisingly in the better shops and stores. They "dearie," "sweetie," "dear," "doll," you to death. You'd be surprised how many male clerks go in for this. Is it part of the "new wave," like everybody kissing everybody; and first-naming you, even on the phone before you've met?

After all, I'm in my 40s. Should I feel—INSULTED?

DEAR INSULTED:

If you prefer "Ma'am" or "Madam" you can say so, but don't expect top service from here on out. Informal friendliness, even overdone, is better than the cold fish treatment. One thing for sure: you'll never be upstaged by a clerk who calls you "honey."

However, the clerk who gets my vote is the middle-aged gent who greets all female customers, from five to 55, as "young lady." This man knows his women.—H.

DEAR HELEN:

You shouldn't have been so flip in your answer to "Holey Jo" whose cat chewed up her angora sweaters. We have a cat who eats the wool off blankets. She will even crawl under the bedspread to do it. I for one would like to know why.—L.M.

DEAR L:

Three veterinarians gave me the answer: Depraved appetite: and that isn't flip—it's a medical term. A taste for wool may be due to 1. Diet deficiency; 2. A nip of oil residue, which cats relish; 3. Constipation or intestinal irritation.

Best cure? Just what I advised—keep cat and wool separated. The vets agreed you can't train instincts out of a cat, and it would take a lot of luck to track down the cause of "depraved appetite."—H.

DEAR HELEN:

I'm past 65 and never wrote a letter to a paper before, but I couldn't pass up your note on static shocks. For years I got shocks from our cars. We even put a strap on the bottom but that didn't do the trick. All your suggestions help, but I was cured by adding a cap full of fabric softener to my rinse water. Keeps nylon slips from clinging too. Try it.—GSR.

DEAR HELEN:

Dames may make the world go round but they sure slow up lines! If you have a half hour for lunch, you'd better bring it in a paper bag, because that gal in front of you at the cafeteria is sure to lose her coin purse, drop everything on the floor, and then change her mind about her order. And why don't you females ever have your money ready for the cashier?

And why is it you never have any cash at a supermarket? I stood in a line once where seven women cashed checks, which they wrote out after their groceries were totaled up. Two of them trotted back for things they forgot; one had a fistful of coupons to cash in, and another argued with the clerk over a 10-cent "mistake," (which wasn't).

It's no wonder women are lousy drivers. They can't make quick decisions and they don't think ahead or know how to "move it." And they are like cats — you can't teach them anything.—RESIGNED MALE

DEAR RESIGNED:

Granted, we're scatterbrained, but if we were perfect you men would have nothing to beef about, and that would drive you batty.

P.S. I've often wondered how a man, who can't wait in line five minutes, can spend all day fishing, catching only a sunburn.—H.

This column is dedicated to family living, so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen help you. Address Helen Bottel in care of the Independent-Journal.

Caffeine In Tea Less Than Coffee

The brew is up to you.

A pound of tea produces about 200 cups of the beverage. A pound of coffee makes about 40 cups. There is ¾ grain of caffeine to one cup of tea, compared with 1½ grains to a cup of coffee. So reports the National Assn. for the Specialty Food Trade, Inc.

MARIN FILM FARE

Paul Newman Flashes In As 'Harper'

By LES DARD

Here's what's on tap this weekend at Marin area theaters:

101 DRIVE-IN

Paul Newman takes the title role in the flashy new suspense drama "Harper," now on screen. This is no Bondian imitation — if anything, it harps back to the films of the late Humphrey Bogart.

Newman as Lew Harper is a brash, intelligent, glib private eye who is called in to locate Lauren Bacall's roving husband. She makes it clear she doesn't want him back, but is curious as to what he's up to. In her search, Newman gets involved with the frantic, sinister world of the very rich and with the slick underground that provides for them and preys on them.

The characters are as interesting as the fast action. Aside from Newman, there is Miss Bacall's stepdaughter, Pamela Tiffin, who is engaged to Robert Wagner, a carefree, ingratiating young playboy who meets a very surprising end. Arthur Hill plays the missing man's attorney — a man with a secret — and Shelley Winters is a fat, boozy one-time movie starlet.

NOVATO THEATER

Now playing is a powerful survival film—"The Flight of the Phoenix."

At first glance, the story looks familiar. An air bus carrying 12 oil firm employees crashes in the Sahara. Two die, the others must fight it out with the desert and the sun.

Ah, but take another look — the handling here is something special. The survivors salvage the workable parts from the old plane and create a smaller, hopefully flyable vehicle. This unlikely craft is the Phoenix of the title, and as it nears completion, the tension builds accordingly.

James Stewart is a veteran pilot who has little patience with modern mechanization.

His opposite is a slide rule-wielding German played by Hardy Kruger, who holds an advantage because of his knowledge of aerodynamics. Richard Attenborough, Ernest Borgnine and Ian Bannen co-star.

Co-featured is Captain Jaques Yves Cousteau's "World Without Sun."

MOTOR MOVIES

Now showing is "Morituri," a very good war picture.

Marlon Brando stars as an anti-Nazi German pacifist living in India. He is recruited by the Allies, with a bit of persuasion, for a mission on board a German freighter. The captain, Yul Brynner has been ordered to scuttle the ship in case of trouble. It is carrying a cargo of rubber—as badly needed by the Allies as by the Nazis. Brando's job is to defuse the scuttling explosive so the Allies can salvage the rubber.

Supporting actors include a German-Jewish girl who has been terribly mistreated by the SS, and a frantic Nazi first mate.

RAFAEL THEATER

Now showing is Doris Day's latest dip into domestic comedy —"Do Not Disturb."

The story is set in London. Rod Taylor, Miss Day's husband, is a newly appointed director of a British woolens firm. His task is to improve their poor sales.

When Miss Day becomes convinced that Taylor is giving another kind of sales pitch to his beautiful secretary, Maura McGiveney, drastic measures are in order. On the advice of friend Hermione Baddeley, she pretends to be infatuated with handsome antique dealer Sergio Fantoni.

Co-featured is a sensitive French picture of the two days in June 1940 when the British are evacuating troops from the beleaguered beach at Dunkirk. "Weekend at Dunkirk" offers vivid photography and excellent acting by Jean-Paul Belmondo and Catherine Spaak.

TIBURON PLAYHOUSE

Now playing is a fine double bill:

First, there's "David and Lisa" for which title players Keir Dullea and Janet Margolin won Best Actor and Best Actress at a recent San Francisco International Film Festival.

The story is based on an actual psychiatric case study. David and Lisa meet in a school for problem youngsters. He is a brilliant but hysterical youth who fears he will die if anyone touches him. She is schrizophrenic, speaks only in childish rhymes.

How their relationship grows, and how they seem to emerge from their clouds of mental anguish, is the moving theme. The two young stars are magnificent, and Howard Da Silva is equally strong as their psychiatrist.

Also showing is "Lord of the Flies," ruthless and probing film version of William Golding's words, "An attempt to trace the defects of society back to the defects of human nature," and it succeeds admirably.

LARK THEATER

Holding over is the big adult entry "Darling," for which Julie Christie received the Best Actress Oscar.

She plays a jet-set jade who deserts her husband for the highflying life, first forms an alliance with bookish TV commentator Dirk Bogarde, but then sees more opportunities with advertising executive Laurence Harvey.

She ends up as a princess in an honorable Italian house, doomed, to live in what is to her, suffocating luxury.

It's predatory, hopeless, fascinating world where everyone is "Darling" and nobody is dear.

SEQUOIA THEATER

Also held over is "A Thousand Clowns," featuring Jason Robards.

Robards plays a TV gag writer who resigns from gainful employment in order to pursue the true meaning of life. But there are problems: for one, he is taking care of his 12-year-old nephew, who loves and honors him for his unconventionality.

Yet when a pair of social workers drop in to check on the child, Robards is warned that he must either conform or the boy will be taken to a more "normal" home. As a sidelight, there's a touch of romance between Robards and one of the social workers, Barbara Harris, who falls in love with him and his way of life.

Particularly worth note is Martin Balsam's Oscar winning portrayal of Robards' go-getter brother.

FAIRFAX THEATER

A 1908 grudge race—by car—from New York to Paris sets the scene for the mad antics of "The Great Race."

Tony Curtis represents the side of good and pure and wears white throughout. His despicable opponent, the meanest man on four wheels, is played by Jack Lemmon (who is perpetually enshrouded by black capes and the like).

Great escapism.

TAMALPAIS THEATER

Elizabeth Hartman, Sidney Poitier and Shelley Winters join forces in "A Patch of Blue," held over, a simple, unpretentious drama that makes a statement from the heart.

The story is that of a blind girl (Miss Hartman), who has never been to school and is horribly mistreated by her sluttish mother, Miss Winters. One day in a park she meets Poitier, an educated, sophisticated young man who offers her inspiration, hope and warmth. He shows her a way out of the slavery imposed by her mother.

The theme here is one of racial understanding, but it is touched on gingerly, and never overplayed.

ANNA AND THE KING — Marin's newest indoor motion picture theater, the Northgate in the Shopping center at Terra Linda, will open its doors Thursday with the showing of the Rogers and Hammerstein musical extravaganza "The King and I," starring Yul Brynner and Deborah Kerr. The stars seem to be toasting the new theater, in this scene in the opulent royal palace of Saim.

Congressmen Criticize Draft, Request Probe

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional critics pressed today for an exhaustive re-examination of the nation's military draft system. They charged present procedures are inconsistent, inequitable, discriminatory and as outdated as the horse cavalry.

Two resolutions were introduced in the House asking appointment of special investigating committees. In the Senate, Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., called upon the President to appoint a commission to review the "many inconsistencies and inequities" of the draft.

The developments came as Pentagon officials reported yesterday Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara opposes the idea of allowing service in the Peace Corps or similar programs to be accepted as a substitute for military service.

McNamara left this question unanswered when he said in a Montreal speech Wednesday that the inequities in the draft might be remedied "by asking every young person in the United States to give two years of service to his country" in uniform, the Peace Corps or other help-mankind programs.

In Dallas, Tex., Lt. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, Selective Service director, said he doubts Congress can be sold on a plan that would substitute some other form of service for military duty.

"It's awfully hard to keep that 'something else' within reasonable limits," Hershey said.

Rep. Donald Fraser, D-Minn., cosponsor of one of the House resolutions, termed present draft laws "patently discriminatory against the poor and uneducated." He said those who don't have the money to go to college stand a better chance of being drafted.

But Rep. L. Mendel Rivers, D-S.C., chairman of the House Armed Services Committee which normally would handle an inquiry into the draft, opposed the creation of special committees to take over the task.

Rivers said his committee would yield its jurisdiction over Selective Service for no one. He also said Hershey had been invited to testify on the "state of the health" of the draft at an early date.

Star Observers Will See Slides

Star Observers of Marin will see slides, hear a talk about the moon and hear the first part of a series of lectures on the solar system when the club meets at 8 p.m. Thursday at the home of Melvin Beck, 170 Hillside Avenue, San Rafael.

The group will travel June 4 to the Chabot Observatory near Oakland for a joint meeting with the East Bay Astronomical Society.

'Study-In' Set To Help Profs Get More Pay

NORMAN, Okla (AP)—A student "study-in" was set for today at the University of Oklahoma in what is believed to be the first demonstration in the nation by college students in support of increased faculty salaries.

The students planned to study in an open area on the campus between 8 a.m. and 1 p.m., said Gary Blasi, chairman of the student committee on faculty salaries and working conditions.

Blasi said the "study-in" is to draw attention of gubernatorial candidates to the situation and extract from them what they plan to do for higher education in the state.

The committee seeks to reduce the average faculty load from 12 to nine hours; increase faculty wages to the "B" average on the American Assn. of University Professors' scale which runs from A to F. Oklahoma is now between "D" and "E", Blasi said.

Stanford Students March For, Against Draft Tests

STANFORD (AP) — Students at Stanford University are campaigning vocally today both for and against their school giving tests to help draft boards.

Outside President Wallace Sterling's office, 20 students staged a sit-in last night, protesting the intelligence tests.

In dormitories, another group organized for a parade backing the faculty and administration.

Carey Coulter, 23, a history senior who spent nine months as a civilian volunteer working in Viet Nam, mobilized the group backing the faculty.

Protests against the Selective Service tests, which are aimed at keeping brainier students in colleges and out of the armed forces, began with a noon rally yesterday.

About 100 of Stanford's 10,000 students attended the rally which was organized by a committee of which Craig Loudon is chairman.

Loudon, a senior from St. Paul, Minn., demanded the university call a moratorium on the tests until the Academic Council's executive committee reviews Stanford's involvement with Selective Service.

More than 300 professor members of the council had voted Tuesday for a committee study of the involvement.

Stanford gave tests to 2,000 students a week ago and plans to give 2,000 more Saturday. Loudon said his group would picket the test building and attempt to disrupt testing by noise-making and other means.

Dolly Madison, wife of President James Madison, was born on this day in 1768.

On this day in history:

In 1902, Cuba became a republic as American occupation under Gen. Leonard Wood came to an end.

In 1927, Charles Lindbergh began his 33½-hour, solo flight from New York to Paris in the spirit of St. Louis.

In 1939, Pan American Airways started the first regular air passenger service across the Atlantic.

In 1963, the Supreme Court legalized sit-in demonstrations.

A thought for the day — American author Anne Morrow Lindbergh said: "The wave of the future is coming and there is no fighting it."

Frischauer Defense Shows Why 'Normal' Move Not Always Best

The late Edward Frischauer, one of the greatest card players in the history of the game, would have won everything in sight if he had been a disciplined bidder.

Today's hand, one of his defensive gems, was played in Los Angeles Bridge Week a few years ago.

Opening lead — ♠ 5

West opened the five of spades, and South won with the ace.

Declarer led the queen of clubs, and Frischauer took the ace of clubs and returned a spade, forcing declarer to ruff in dummy with the five of hearts.

Declarer discarded his remaining spades on the king and jack of clubs and then led the queen of hearts from the dummy.

'NORMAL' PLAY

Frischauer naturally played . . . well, the "normal" play is a low heart. West wins with the ace of hearts and leads a third round of spades. South ruffs in his hand and leads a trump, losing the jack to East's king.

What can East do? No matter what East returns, declarer draws the last trump and runs the good diamonds to take the rest of the tricks.

FIRST TIME

It's easy to see the right play now. We're looking at all four hands and have already seen how the "normal" defense goes wrong.

Frischauer got it right the first time, looking only at his own hand and the dummy.

LAST SPADE

When the queen of hearts was led from dummy, Frischauer stepped up with the king of hearts and led his last spade. South ruffed in his own hand and led another trump.

Now West took the ace of hearts and led a fourth spade. If dummy ruffed, East's nine would become the master trump.

If dummy failed to ruff, East would ruff with the nine and thus take the setting trick at once.

ANSWER: Bid one club.

When you have a strong hand with 5-4-4-0 distribution, bid the five-card suit first. If you later bid one of the other suits, your partner will assume it is just a four-card suit.

Kauai King Favored In Tomorrow's Preakness

BALTIMORE (AP) — Asked which horse he was concerned about in tomorrow's $150,000-added Preakness, Mike Ford replied "mine."

Ford was questioned about which of the eight other 3-year-olds he thinks has the best chance of upsetting his Kauai King.

"Well, you have to be concerned about Advocator and Blue Skyer since they finished within one-half length of us in the Kentucky Derby," he replied.

"Then there's Indulto whom we never have met. And Amberoid whom I still think is a horse to give you a lot of trouble."

Which is just about the way the odds forecasters figure the 91st running of the Preakness. Kauai King probably will leave the starting gate at 5:46 p.m. EDT about an even money favorite, with Indulto, Advocator, Blue Skyer, Stupendous and Amberoid ranging up to about 10-to-1.

That leaves Robert Lehman's Rehabilitate, Mrs. Helen Jennings' Exceedingly and Mrs. Ethel D. Jacobs' Understanding as the outsiders in the race over 1 3-16 miles.

Ford's inclusion of Indulto as among the colts to watch is widely supported around Pimlico barns. Handicapper will make him second choice at 4-1.

Owned by the former film actress Jane Greer and trained by 85-year-old Max Hirsch, Indulto is moving into the troupe of traveling 3-year-olds for the first time.

All 13 of his races have been in New York and he has never competed beyond one mile. But Indulto has won four of his five outings this year. The latest was a victory in the Withers Mile over undefeated Creme dela Creme.

Ford's concern about whether Kauai King stays fit for keeping alive his opportunity to become the ninth triple crown winner was typical of the 41-year-old owner from Omaha.

He has been at the barn and track daily.

The son of Native Dancer led all the way in the Derby for his seventh victory in nine races this year. First he beat off a challenge by Stupendous and then held off Advocator and Blue Skyer in a driving finish.

There will be $129,000 for the Preakness winner, $30,000 for second, $15,000 for third and $7,500 for fourth if none of the nine entries is scratched. Each withdrawal subtracts $1,000 from the pot.

The only predictable scratch was Exceedingly in event the track was muddy. But there was no rain forecast.

CBS will televise the event scene between 2:30 and 3 p.m., PDT.

ALONG MARIN'S SPORTS TRAIL

By JIM GILMARTIN
I-J Sports Editor

Buoys And Curls Make A Splash; Prep Gals Form Swimming Teams

DON'T LOOK NOW, you guys, but girls are beginning to make a bigger splash on the local high school sports scene.

I don't want to scare you guys, but at least three Marin high schools have organized girls' swimming teams. For interscholastic competition. And next year at least three more schools are going to jump into fun and games. First thing you know the dollies will be wearing lettermen sweaters. Their own!

UP UNTIL now athletically-inclined dames dropped all sports once they reached high school, what with the discovery of boys and bouffants occupying their time. This was particularly true of swimmers who grew up in the Amateur Athletic Union's swimming program only to drop it once they reached high school age.

The Girls Athletic Assn. decided to sanction swimming teams and spread the word, I said broadly. Redwood, Marin Catholic and San Rafael high schools had teams this year and participated in a bit of interscholastic competition. And wouldn't you know it, Clyde, they wound up in a three-way tie for first place. Or last place. Redwood dunked San Rafael, Marin Catholic sprayed Redwood and San Rafael splashed Marin Catholic.

NEXT YEAR, I am told, Terra Linda, Novato and Drake will organize teams of dogpaddlers to vie for honors. Can't you just imagine a six-way tie for first place?

Coach of the San Rafael team this year was Larry Lack who described the job as "really a lot of fun." A former varsity boys' coach, Lack said coaching the mermaids was quite different. "No high pressure," he observed, "and they have almost unbelievable spirit. Heck, after we beat Marin Catholic they almost threw me into the pool."

Coaches for Marin Catholic and Redwood are Beth Jury and Betty Blodgett.

I mention these facts today just to warn you guys that the girls are making progress in our sports world and you'll just have to share some of the spotlight next spring.

The only good thing about it is that you will get to keep your lettermen sweaters. The girls will have their own.

SAN FRANCISCO STATE College's football prospectus for 1966 lists three Marin County stars, Elmer Collett, Lyle Baucom and Dick Schultze.

Of Collett, the 225-pound guard, the prospectus boasts: "All-Far Western Conference; Little All-Coast; already drafted by the San Francisco 49ers. Along with his size 6-4, 225, 22 years old (and still growing), Elmer has the speed. He is the fastest S.F. lineman. This includes both initial start and overall speed."

OF BAUCOM, the college notes: "Middle guard or defensive tackle. Oh, what potential and power resides within the 6-6, 260-pound complex known as Lyle Baucom of Mill Valley! Along with Collett, also of Mill Valley, these two linemen could rewrite SFSC line play history. Baucom has both size and speed to continue where he left off last year as one of the squad's top defenders in the front line. He should add more in behalf of the Gator cause in '66."

The prospectus also noted that Terra Linda alumnus Schultze is a "roll-out expert" at quarterback and indicated he should see considerable action this fall.

Giants Open Met Series

Still leading the National League by 2½ games despite losing four of their last six games, the San Francisco Giants open a four-game set with the New York Mets tonight at Candlestick Park.

Manager Herman Franks had named righthander Bob Bolin to pitch for the Giants, but indicated he might switch to Gaylord Perry. Bolin has a 3-3 record and Perry is 5-1. Starting for the Mets will be ex-Giant Jack Fisher, 1-4.

It was Fisher who snapped the Giants' 12-game winning streak in New York. The Mets won two of three games back east, then the Los Angeles Dodgers took two of the next three Giant games, the last one coming last night, 3-0 behind Sandy Koufax' three-hitter.

The Giants entertain the Mets again tomorrow and then play a doubleheader Sunday.

The Foreign Touch For Colonial Open

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — The Colonial Invitation Golf Tournament had the usual foreign touch today.

Bruce Devlin of Australia led the field going into the second round. Another Aussie, Peter Thomson, was tied for second with Bob Charles, the left-handed New Zealander.

Devlin shot ahead yesterday's opening round with a three-under-par 67, while Thomson and Charles fired 68s over the Colonial Country Club's 7,123-yard layout.

Bruce Crampton of Australia and George Knudson of Canada staged a thrilling battle for the 1965 championship and jockeyed 1-2 all the way, with Crampton finally winning by three strokes. The year before Gary Player of South Africa led the first round.

In 1962 Crampton finished third and Player led the second round. In 1962 Kel Nagle of Australia led the first round and shot a hole-in-one. He won second money.

In 1960 Nagle led the second round and tied for second place. Back in 1957 Roberto de Vicenzo, from the Argentine, won the tournament.

Devlin, returning to the tour after a layoff following the Masters in mid-April, had four birdies and one bogey—when his wedge approach trickled over the green. He wound up with a saving par on 18 when he used his putter to get out of a trap and roll within five feet of the cup.

Thomson, the British Open champion, had a fine putting round, ending up with a 10-footer on 18 that gave him a tie with Charles for second.

Tied at 69 for fourth place were Bert Weaver, Dan Sikes, Don January and Gene Littler.

Doug Sanders, the year's leading winner both in money and tournaments and the favorite here, started out with a 33 on the front nine but slumped to a 37 coming in and finished at 70 with six others, including Player.

A record crowd for the first day—16,000—turned out despite a threat of rain.

ON YOUR MARK, GET SET . . .

As starter John Panagakis gets ready to fire, Marin County prep swimmers get ready to start a backstroke race at Novato High School, last Saturday in the Marin Athletic League meet. Top six finishers in all events at that meet qualified for the North Coast Division II meet scheduled tomorrow at Del Valle High School of Walnut Creek. It will begin at 9:30 a.m. Marin's track and field stars started competition today at the North Coast Division III meet in Santa Rosa.

New War Erupts In Pro Grid

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The National Football League, guilty of firing the first shot, found itself on the receiving end of a double-barreled raiding attack from aroused American League owners today.

AFL representatives have approached at least 10 players from National League clubs, trying to persuade them to play out their options and jump to the yoinger circuit.

Wellington Mara, owner of the New York Giants, confirmed last night that the San Diego Chargers of the American League had made approaches to four members of his team—Steve Thurlow, Bob Crespino, Tucker Frederickson and Greg Larson.

And in Detroit, a television sportscaster said the AFL is chasing six members of the dissension-ridden Lions, naming Alex Karras, Gail Cogdill and Wayne Walker.

The latest trouble between the rival leagues was touched off Tuesday when the Giants signed placekick specialist Pete Gogolak, who jumped to the NFL after playing out his option with the Buffalo Bills.

The Giant owner said he didn't remember if the players told him the amount of money offered by the Chargers.

Koufax Triumphs With A 3-Hitter

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Sandy Koufax has a great left arm, but he also has a good pair of feet going for him.

Koufax pitched a three-hitter and gained his first shutout and sixth victory of the season last night as Los Angeles defeated San Francisco 4-0.

While Koufax' arm baffled the Giant hitters, though, the feet dazzled the Giant fielders.

The feet, plus the rest of Maury Wills, beat out two infield singles, stole two bases and scored the first two Dodger runs.

Wills, who has won a record six straight National League base-stealing titles, now leads the league with 16 thefts — and 12 have come in games in which Koufax has pitched. Wills also has scored 18 runs over-all, half in support of Koufax.

The game against the Giants was typical.

The 33-year-old shortstop led off the first inning by beating out a grounder to second base for a single. He promptly stole second, moved to third on a ground out and scored as Willie Davis singled.

In the third inning, he again led off with an infield single, this time beating out a high bouncer to the mound. Again he stole second, and this time he scampered home on Jim Gilliam's single.

Koufax, meanwhile, was headed for his shutout, walking only two, striking out 10 and allowing just two Giants to reach second base. He also reduced his earned run average to 1.83 and recorded his sixth victory three days ahead of last season. He has lost only once.

In other National League games, St. Louis blanked Philadelphia 2-0 and Chicago whipped Houston 7-1. Rain washed out Cincinnati at New York.

In the American League, Washington stopped Cleveland 7-2, Boston trimmed Baltimore 3-1 and Minnesota nipped Chicago 4-3 in 10 innings.

The Dodgers completed their scoring with a run in the fourth inning on errors by Tito Fuentes and Cap Peterson plus Jeff Torborg's single and in the eighth on Wes Parker's homer.

St. Louis' Al Jackson limited Philadelphia to four hits until the ninth when he was pulled after walking leadoff batter John Callison on four pitches. He still extended his scoreless inning string to 21. Charlie Smith supported Jackson with three hits, including a seventh-inning homer.

Rookie Randy Hundley sparked the Cubs past Houston, driving in three runs with a double and a triple and stealing home.

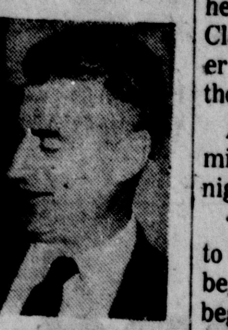
Third And Final Act Has Ended The Marichal-Roseboro Drama



HANLEY

Close the book on the Juan Marichal-John Roseboro feud. The drama is over. The last bit of nerve wracking suspense was drained from it in the third and final act before a Chavez Ravine audience of 53,561 the other night in Dodger Stadium.

An epilogue is all that is necessary now and that, like all epilogues, will be anti-climactic to the most celebrated feud of modern day baseball, the first act of which started with shocking violence last Aug. 22 in Candlestick Park when Marichal bopped Roseboro with a bat.

THE SECOND ACT also was set in Candlestick May 3 when the Giants and Dodgers met in their first 1966 series and Marichal and Roseboro came face to face on the scene of their battleground. Neither spoke, neither shook hands. But there was no renewal of violence. The Candlestick crowd severely booed Roseboro, letting the Dodger catcher know that he, not Marichal, initially provoked the fight.

The third act was set in Dodger Stadium last Tuesday. It was the first appearance of Marichal there since the feud flared because the National League president had banned him from Dodger Stadium after the bat incident for the remainder of the 1965 season.

DODGER FANS, letting the Giant pitching ace know that they did not condone his illegal use of a bat, booed Marichal when he began his pre-game warmup and continued to boo him every time he came to bat. But as the game progressed and Marichal took a 1-0 shutout into the ninth inning, a subtle change took place in the crowd's attitude.

When Marichal ran to the mound in the ninth, the boos were negligible, actually drowned out by cheers of loyal Giant fans who had traveled to the southland for the game. The absence of any appreciable ninth inning boos was the tipoff that the dramatic suspense of the feud was over.

IN WITHHOLDING a volume of ninth inning boos, Dodger fans silently expressed admiration for a great pitcher. To be sure, it was grudging admiration but nevertheless admiration.

The feud momentarily was forgotten completely as the Dodgers tied it 1-1 in the ninth, later winning the game 2-1 in the 13th off Frank Linzy after Marichal had been lifted for an 11th inning pinch hitter.

THERE WILL BE diehard Giant fans who will continue to boo Roseboro in his future Candlestick Park appearances. Similarly, there will be unforgiving Dodger fans who will catcall at the Dominican Dandy whenever he appears in Chavez Ravine. When all venom in their spleens is released through vocal chords, the Marichal-Roseboro feud will become just a memory.

The epilogue may or may not be written in the courts where Roseboro still has on file a $110,000 suit against Marichal. It may even be written in a dismissal of the action by Roseboro's attorneys.

Charlie Dressen Will Undergo Further Tests

DETROIT (UPI) —Detroit Tiger Manager Charlie Dressen will undergo further tests at Ford Hospital here today to determine the extent of the heart attack that sidelined the 67-year-old skipper Monday.

Doctors reported yesterday that Dressen was resting comfortably and his condition remained stable. It was the second heart attack to sideline Dressen in just over 14 months.

The Tiger manager entered the hospital Monday after complaining of arm and chest pains. Doctors diagnosed the pains as "coronary artery thrombosis." He remains in serious condition and may be moved out of the intensive care section of the cardiac care unit at the hospital in several more days.

Third base Coach Bob Swift assumed the managerial duties as he did in 1965. A Tiger spokesman said no decision will be made for several weeks on Dressen's future with the club.

Clay Outlines Tomorrow's Title Bout

LONDON (AP)—World heavyweight champion Cassius Clay says Britain's Henry Cooper will "finish on his back" in their title fight tomorrow night.

And it could be all over in one minute, Clay predicted last night.

"Cooper comes at me, trying to land a left. I crouch low. It begins to end right at the beginning.

"I put some combinations together to the head. Cooper reels back.

"I switch to the body. Poor old Henry's hurt. I move the attack to the head again. More combinations and he goes down for the full count.

"I am sorry it only lasted a minute. Cooper could not live with me and it is all over. I am still the champ."

When Cooper heard the story he shook his head and said:

"Funny fellow. In the morning he says I'm a worthy challenger. Then this."

How does Cooper think the fight will go?

"I'll start fast. I'll win just as soon as I catch him," Cooper said.

Clay is an 11-2 favorite for the open air fight at London's Arsenal football stadium. A sellout crowd of 46,000 is expected.

The fight is being carried live on television to the United States via the Early Bird satellite, starting at 2 p.m. PDT.

Sohner Splits Doubleheader

Sohner Tree Service softballers split a doubleheader last night, winning 7-1 over Windsor Merchants and then losing 3-0 to Coast Merchants, in Santa Rosa "A" league action.

Sohner plays tomorrow night in San Mateo, taking on Half Moon Bay in North Bay Traveling League action. The Treemen are now in three leagues, also competing in the San Rafael Recreation Department loop.

PAC TRACK MEET

UCLA Favored To Win

STANFORD, Calif. (AP) — UCLA's Bruins, who last won a conference track and field championship in 1956, swing into action today favored to win another.

Undefeated in dual meets this spring, the strong and swift Bruins of Coach Jim Bush appear powerful enough to take the Pacific Athletic Conference crown if sprinter Norm Jackson and distance star Bob Day are sound.

Otherwise, defending titlist Oregon or perennial power Southern California might pull an upset at Stanford Stadium.

Jackson has been bothered by a muscle injury and Day suffered a heel cramp a week ago.

"I look for a very close meet," Bush declared. "We especially have to beat Oregon's defending champions and USC, two mighty s trong teams."

Javelin thrower Dick Selby with a best of 247-11 and pole vaulter Marc Savage, the intercollegiate record holder at 16-9, should be the strongest in their events for the Bruins.

Oregon boasts NCAA champion Neal Steinhauer in the shot and he also should pick up points in the discus throw. Bob Blum has run a 13.8 in the 120-yard high hurdles and 53.5 in the intermediate hurdles. Despite injuries during the season, the Ducks won five of six dual meets and captured the PAC Northern Division crown last week. Their only loss was to UCLA.

Southern California's Trojans have individual stars who could pile up points in this conference meet.

Dwight Middleton has the fastest PAC time in the 880 this season at 46.2 and Dennis Carr has run the best 440 at 1:47.9. Mahoney Samuels leads triple jumpers with 52-2½ while Greg Heet of USC and Bob Keppel of Washington State share the high jump lead at 6-10¼.

Washington State's great sophomore, Gerry Lindgren, lowered his American three-mile record to 12:53, just six-tenths of a second off the world mark, last week and rates the class of this field.

Preliminaries opened today at 2:30 p.m. with finals tomorrow starting at 1:30.

Water Skiing Championships Set June 11-12

More than 100 contestants are expected at the annual Novato Water Ski championship tournament June 11 and 12 at the Master's Ski School at Mira Monte Marina, north of Novato.

In prior years, the tournament has been held the same days as Western Weekend, but because of crowd conflicts, the water ski event has been moved up one weekend.

Contestants will be coming from the 13 Western states. Last year about 70 entered the tourney, but since more catagories are listed this year, the figure is expected to swell.

An added feature this year will be a noon show put on by the Master's Ski School. It will be the same show that will be televised on Channel 5 on May 27.

The tournament will be held from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. both days, with a banquet scheduled June 11 at the Lodge. The tourney is being co-sponsored by the Master's Ski School and the Novato Chamber of Commerce.

Final Indy Qualifying Runs Scheduled This Weekend

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — Thirty or more 10-mile qualifying runs probably will be made tomorrow or Sunday in attempts to win the last 10 open spots in the 33-car line-up for the Golden Anniversary 500-mile auto race May 30.

None of the unqualified drivers have shown any threats to the qualifying average of 165.899 m.p.h. made last Saturday by Italian-born Mario Andretti. Most of them would be satisfied with a strong 158.

All but three of last weekend's 23 qualifiers bettered 159 but only a few of the unqualified have been in that bracket. They include rookie Carl Williams of Kansas City, who was running better than 160 before he crashed Saturday in missing an out-of-control car. He was practicing at nearly 159 Thursday in the repaired Dayton Gerhardt-Ford.

Other likely qualifiers include Bobby Unser, Albuquerque, N.M., in a Huffaker-Offenhauser; his brother, Al, in a Lotus-Ford; Cale Yarbrough, Charlotte, S.C., in a Vollstedt-Ford; Bud Tingeistad, Hawthorne, Calif., in a Gerhardt-Offy; Arnie Knepper, Belleville, Ill., in a Cecil-Ford; Sammy Sessions, Nashville, Mich., Ward-Offy; Bobby Grim, Indianapolis, Watson Turbo-charged Offy and Bobby Johns, Miami, Fla., in a BRM-Ford.

Other strong runs are expected from Eddie Johnson, Richmond Heights, Ohio, shooting for his 15th straight start in a Huffaker-Offy; Al Miller, Roseville, Mich., Lotus-Ford; Bob Wente, St. Louis, Gerhardt-Offy; Dick Atkins, Hayward, Calif., Shrike Offy, and Bob Harkey, Indianapolis, Gerhardt, Offy.

Yarbrough, Sessions and Atkins are newcomers to the Indianapolis Motor Speedway.

After 33 qualifying runs have been completed, a driver can still put a car in the line-up by exceeding the speed of the slowest earlier qualifier, who then is dropped out or bumped.

Slowest of last weekend's qualifiers were three rookies, Gary Congdon, Garden Grove, Calif., 158.688; Mel Kenyon, Davenport, Iowa, 158.555, and Art Pollard, Medford, Ore., 157.985.

The trials will run from 11 a.m., EST, to 6 p.m. tomorrow and noon to 6 p.m. Sunday.

THE GIANTS' ONE GOOD PLAY

About the only bright spot for the San Francisco Giants in their game last night in Los Angeles was this play at the plate, when rightfielder Ollie Brown threw out Dodger Willie Davis. Davis, one of the fastest men in baseball, was thrown out trying to score from second on a single to right. The tag was made by catcher Bob Barton as umpire Ed Sudol makes the call. L.A. scored four times as Sandy Koufax limited the Giants to three hits and no runs. (AP Wirephoto)

FIGURING THE MAJORS

About Face For Elroy Face

By BEN OLAN

NEW YORK (AP) — Figuring the Majors:

Elroy Face, Pittsburgh's veteran reliever, looms as a strong candidate for National League Comeback-of the-Year honors. The 38- year-old right-hander has a 3-1 record and a 2.81 earned run average. He won 18 games in 1959 and 10 the next year in relief, but had only three victories in 1964 and five last season.

Earl Battey, Minnesota Catcher, already has stolen more bases this season than in the last four combined. He has two steals, the second during the Twins' 4-3 triumph over the Chicago White Sox yesterday. Battey did not steal a base in 1962, '63, and '65 and had only one steal in 1964.

The Los Angeles Dodgers, who led the majors in home attendance 2,553,577 last year, are almost 10 per cent ahead of their 1965 pace. They lead the big leagues again with 503,643 for 16 playing dates after having attracted 144,696 for their hree-game series against the San Francisco Giants which ended last night.

Third baseman Charlie Smith and pitcher Al Jackson, both obtained from the New York Mets in the Ken Boyer deal last winter, are doing better than all right for St. Louis. Smith had three hits, including his fourth homer, and lifted his batting average to .324 and Jackson extended his scoreless streak to 21 innings last night as the Cards downed Philadelphia 2-0. The victory was Jackson's third against one loss.

Hank Aaron of the Braves, the National League home run leader, has hit nine of his 13 homers on the road and only four in the new Atlanta Stadium.

A Robinson, Brooks or Frank, has gotten at least one hit for Baltimore in ach of the Orioles' 29 games except one. Bruce Howard, Eddie Fisher and Jack Lamabe of the White Sox combined to hold both Robinsons hitless May 12.

The trade in which they obtained outfielder Matty Alou from San Francisco has turned out to be a bonanza for Pittsburgh. Alou has taken over he National League batting lead with a .350 average after hitting .388 with 19 hits in 49 times at bat during his last 13 games. He was acquired last December for pitcher Joe Gibbon nd catcher Ozzie Virgil.

Rico petrocelli, Boston's shortstop, is considerably ahead of last year's runs-batted-in pace. He has 20 RBI, eight on two grand slam homers, in 31 games. In 1965, he did not drive in his 20th run until his 65th game.

The Chicago Cubs have no reason to regret the acquisition of Adolfo Phillips. The young outfielder has slammed six doubles and four homers among 20 hits since being obtained in a five-player trade with the Phils last month. Phillips, who's batting .286 for Chicago, homered yesterday as the Cubs ended a six-game losing streak by defeating Houston, 7-1.

Beanball War Between Twins And White Sox

ST. PAUL-MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Eddie Stanky, the Chicago White Sox manager, has a budding feud going with Minnesota, and so far all he's got to show for it are five straight losses to the Twins.

The feud broke into the open yesterday in an exchange of batter-hitting in Minnesota's 4-3, 10-inning victory. Manager Sam Mele of the Twins charged afterward that Stanky had ordered one of his pitchers to hit his pitching opponent in a retaliatory move.

Stanky offered no flat denial, and countered that the Twins started it by hitting one of his players.

Umpire Nestor Chylak stopped it with a warning that the next knockdown pitch would cost the pitcher $50.

The seeds of conflict were sown May 3 when the Twins went into Chicago for a two-game series. A headline in a Chicago paper proclaimed, Sox Welcome Timid Twins.

Minnesota was in the throes of a hitting slump at the time, and coach Billy Martin plastered the headline on the bulletin board, underlining Timid.

Then the close pitches started in the three-game series here.

In yesterday's game, J. C. Martin hit a two-run homer for the White Sox off Jim Perry in the second inning. The next man up, Al Weis, got hit in the back by Perry's first pitch.

When Perry came up in the third inning, Chicago's John Buzhardt fired three inside pitches, then hit Perry just above the elbow on his right arm with his fourth pitch. Perry wasn't seriously hurt, but left the game and likely will miss at least one starting assignment.

Both Perry and Buzhardt denied throwing at batters, but Stanky and Mele exchanged charges.

"Buzhardt definitely was throwing at Perry, and I saw he was under orders to do it," Mele claimed.

And Stanky countered:

"I have managed a long time, and I have never told a pitcher to throw at a hitter in my life before a ball game. But when my hitter gets hit on the number and he's hitting only .120.."

Mele said it wasn't the first time Stanky had ordered his pitchers to throw at opposing batters.

"One of the Chicago players told me he ordered this in Detroit, too," Mele said. "And the kid wouldn't do it and he chewed the kid out on the bench in front of his players."

Mele identified the Chicago pitcher as Bruce Howard.

Perry said Buzhardt "certainly was trying to hit me. He tried for three pitches, and on the fourth he succeeded."

But Buzhardt said, "I wasn't throwing at him. I pitch Perry inside because he's a good hitter."

Crews Compete In Vallejo Tomorrow

VALLEJO, Calif (AP)—Washington's undefeated Huskies are favored to repeat as victors tomorrow in the Western Intercollegiate Sprint Regatta on the Mare Island Channel.

The Huskies handily defeated California over a three-mile route two weeks ago to establish their supremacy. A year ago when Cal beat Washington at the longer distance, the Huskies gained revenge at the 2,000-meter sprint distance.

Eleven schools are entered in the varsity race, 12 in the junior varsity and seven in the frosh.

(There will be three Marin County boys in the competition. Denny Lane of Ross in on the Cal varsity crew, John Hoeffer of Belvedere is on the Cal junior varsity, and Grant Tanner of Corte Madera is on the St. Mary's frosh team.)

Washington and California have hogged the Ky Ebright trophy for varsity honors in the Westerns the past five years. This time, both Stanford and British Columbia are given chances of pulling an upset. Stanford beat Cal during the regular season.

Other crews in the varsity race represent Oregon State, Santa Clara, UCLA, Southern California, Long Beach State, Loyola of Los Angeles and San Diego State.

Washington's junior varsity also is undefeated and favored against the also unbeaten Orange Coast Junior College. Stanford, UBC, Oregon State, Santa Clara, UCLA, Southern California, Long Beach State, San Diego State and UC Santa Barbara also are entered.

Racing opens at 9 a.m. with the first heat in junior varsity competition with the varsity finals closing out the day's program at 3:05 p.m.

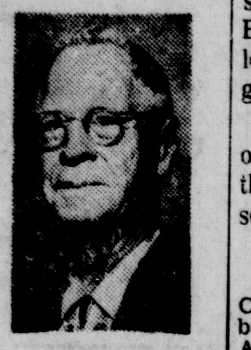
The FISHIN' FOOL

By RALPH STEVENS
I-J Fish and Game Writer

Wanted: A Piscatorial Liaison Man; Sturgeon Flurry Reported



STEVENS

What this area needs is a good piscatorial liaison man who is able to communicate with the salmon, thus learning their present whereabouts. We know the various schools located a couple weeks ago haven't started the long trek to the spawning grounds because someone would have hooked and landed one. So we must assume that the several schools are playing hide-and-seek with the party boats.

At least a half dozen party boats worked all the usual spots where salmon have been wont to congregate on Wednesday. I know of three boats that worked the Farrallones area and pulled blanks, and another pair that finished fishless closer to the shore.

SO—HOW ABOUT chances for a mess of stripers. I talked with Tony Caruso, of Caruso's harbor at Sausalito, and he told me that the lads who know the technique for fishing the Rockpile have been doing a grand job. "Fish are all big ones," he reported—probably an average of better than 15 pounds per fish.

For the individual fisherman who wants the "Rockpile" pinpointed for direction, all I can say is that it is about midway between Alcatraz and Yellow Bluff.

UNVERIFIED REPORTS have it that some fancy fishing with artificials at the south tower of the G.G. Bridge continues to yield some nice bass to those who savey the fishing method.

Some exciting news came in from the upper San Pablo spots. Charlie Schmeltz of Dowrelio's Crockett harbor reported a new flurry of sturgeon on the Flats downstream from Crockett. "Two of our party boats netted both sturgeon and striped bass. Eeach of two party boats had two sturgeon along with 12 bass and 9 bass from 5 to 14 pounds. All the bass were definitely fresh run—with pink gills and red dorsel fin and red at the base of the tail," said Charlie.

ANY READER feel the urge to catch a bass, the classic way, with light or spinning tackle, sans sinker, and able to stand the shock of a striped bass rolling on the surface and even leaping like a tarpon? Then let him (or her) get a skiff out of Rodeo Marina or Joseph's and troll a small Pet Spoon or Big Daddy off the Union Oil Wharf and particularly in the vicinity of the "Outfall."

THE FOLLOWING waters in the central coastal region are scheduled to be planted this week—by counties: Marin—Lagunitas Reservoir, Bon Tempe Res. and Rodeo Lagoon. Napa—Hennessey Lake Impoundment. Lake—Anderson Creek and Upper Kelsey Creek. Alameda—Alameda Creek. San Mateo—Pescadero Creek. Santa Cruz—Loch Lomond Lake. Santa Clara—Stevens Creek Reservoir. Monterey—Carmel River, Los Padres Res., Lower Arroyo Creek, Upper Nacimiento River. San Luis Obispo—Lower Nacimiento River, Reserve or Canyon Lake, Chorro Reservoir and Lopez Creek.

Stock Market Makes Rally Toward Closing

NEW YORK (AP) — A brisk rally was under way at the close of trading on the stock market today.

Trading quickened after a session which went at the slowest pace in weeks until General Motors made an optimistic report about the auto business.

GM's report came in the final half hour and stock improved across the board.

Airlines and aerospace issues improved earlier prices.

Here was the picture toward the close:

Volume for the day was estimated at 6.1 million shares compared with 8.72 million yesterday.

The market was down to a fairly sharp loss at the start but recovered a great deal. The comeback, however, lacked steam, just as did the early decline.

Sperry Rand was the volume pacemaker, rising more than a point.

Western Airlines gained 5, American nearly 3, Eastern and Pan American about 2 and Continental more than a point.

Xerox, which raised its dividend, was up 5, Teledyne 4, Admiral 5, Polaroid 4, Zenith and Magnavox 3, Boeing, Burroughs, Motorola, General Instrument and U.S. Smelting about 2 each.

Gains of around a point or better were made by a wide range of stocks, including Caterpillar, Radio Corp., Anaconda, Calumet & Hecla, and Eltra Corp.

A number of key blue chips were reluctant to join the recovery movement, thereby dampening the averages.

Du Pont and International Nickel were off 1 each, General Electric nearly a point, General Motors, Texaco, Eastman Kodak, Standard Oil (New Jersey), Westinghouse Electric, American Tobacco, Woolworth and Sears, Roebuck fractions.

American South African Investment lost 3, Merck, Beneficial Finance and Atlantic Refining about 2 each.

Prices were generally higher in active trading on the American Stock Exchange.

Corporate and U.S. Treasury bonds were mostly unchanged.

Evans Products Has Record Sales, Profit

PORTLAND, Ore. — Record sales and earnings for Evans Products Co. in 1966 were predicted by Monford A. Orloff, chairman and chief executive officer, at the annual meeting of shareholders held in Portland.

He said that demand for railcars and railway equipment had produced highest ever backlogs in the transportation equipment group, that favorable plywood price levels have enhanced the profits of the building products group and that the Capp Homes Divisions completed homes and orders booked were at the highest levels in its history.

OAKLAND — International Harvester set new sales and profit records in the first half of fiscal 1966, President Harry O. Bercher has announced.

Six months world sales by IH were $1,264,277,000, an increase of 12.4 per cent over last year. Consolidated net income was up 26.8 per cent to $59,952,000.

Chamber To Seek Merchant Ideas

The Mill Valley Chamber of Commerce will ask for merchants' suggestions on how to meet increased competition at an "awakening" no-host breakfast from 7 to 9 a.m., next Friday at the Outdoor Art Club.

"We have, too long, felt that we have had an exclusive hold on our Mill Valley customers," said Sam W. Schneider, chamber businessmen's committee chairman, today.

"Now in the face of increased competition we must awaken to find ways and means of showing our local residents that we have more to offer than our many competitors."

BOYD MUSEUM'S NEWEST BABY

Once again, San Rafael's Boyd Science Museum has received a new baby deer, signalling the start of a cycle which ends each year when the museum gives its grown-up deer to the University of California for research. The animals are put to pasture in the Berkeley hills so they can attract flies which researchers believe carry a little-known type of parasite. Here, Lisa Frugoli, 9, of San Francisco, feeds the museum's new arrival.

City Denies Garbage Pact Violations

The City of Mill Valley has not violated its contract with the Mill Valley Carbage Co., City Mgr. Bert A. Balmer said today. Further, he declared, contrary to the company's charge, rates have been increased as recently as last month with city approval.

Balmer said the present garbage contract binds the company and it cannot terminate service nor increase rates without city permission.

The company spokesman, Albert Bianchi, said yesterday that minimum rate is to be hiked from $1.35 to $2 per can per month July 1, and that the company is willing to halt garbage collections completely or enter competitive bidding for a contract. Bianchi said the city had violated its contract.

An audit of garbage company books was undertaken by the city auditor but was not completed, Balmer explained, because information given by the scavenger company was not classified properly in terms of Mill Valley expenditures. Balmer said the city, on an interim basis, approved an increase in April from the minimum $1.35 to $1.50 per cent per month.

Bonsai Society Plans Visits To Nurseries

Members of the Marin Bonsai Society will tour several Bonsai nurseries in the East Bay Sunday.

A soil demonstration is scheduled for the next regular meeting at 7:45 p.m. Tuesday. Robert Krohn will talk on growing moss, while Alec Thomas will discuss wiring the small trees which give the society its name.

Cameos were made of Conch shells.

Phone Threats Bared In Union Death Case

A telephoned threat against a Richmond man and a murder suspect's vow to silence witnesses against him led police today to fear more violence in the involved scandal surrounding the union.

Earl Hellet, 67, Painting Contractors Assn. executive secretary in Richmond, told police an unidentified man had called him three times and said, "You're next."

Two union officials, Dow Wilson of the San Francisco local and Lloyd Green of the Hayward local, have died of shotgun blasts. The administrator of the Sacramento local's welfare fund, Sture Youngren, a former San Rafael resident, took his own life this week after telling San Francisco and Sacramento officers he had taken money from the fund.

Yesterday, an assistant district attorney in San Francisco declared in court that Carl Moses Black, one of five men indicted in connection with Wilson's killing, had threatened the life of anyone who testifies against him.

Asst. Dist. Atty. Walter Giubbini made the statement before Judge Gerald S. Levin as he was arguing against bail for Richard Rock, 33, of Mill Valley.

Judge Levin transferred the question of bail to Judge Francis McCarty, who postponed his decision to 9:15 a.m. Tuesday.

In jail with Black and Rock, who are brothers-in-law, are Norman Call, 46, of Sacramento, Max Ward, 47, of Carmichael, and Clyde Simmonds, 75, of Sacramento.

Audits of various records connected with the case continued today. Involved are the U.S. Labor Department, San Francisco police department and the Alameda County sheriff's office. Alameda deputies hope to link the five suspects in the Wilson killing with the death of Green.

Sacramento County Sheriff John Misterly reported no new development in his end of the case today, but said deputies have concluded there was no breaking and entering involved when someone ransacked Youngren's office a few hours after his death.

Misterly said whoever entered the office used a key to open the door after breaking a coroner's seal.

He conceded it would be hard to find out which of the many people with keys to the office it had been. Sacramento Dist. Atty. John M. Price had earlier removed all welfare fund records from Youngren's office.

Ball Gone Again, But No Return

For the third time, someone has stolen a blue glass ball from outside a San Rafael home, but this time it hasn't bounced back.

On the two previous occasions, Mrs. Eileen Proctor of 8 Bayo Vista Way said yesterday, the ball had always been returned within a few days.

When it disappeared last weekend, Mrs. Proctor waited as usual, but when it hadn't reappeared by today she told police. It measures 18 inches in diameter and is worth $35.

Terra Linda Class Officer Ballots Cast

Three positions were left for decision in runoff elections today. Neither Dee Williams nor Jeanne Rhudy received a clear majority for vice president of the junior class, and four were in the running for two seats on the student council for the junior class. They are Jon Ambery, Nancy Brokaw, Kathy Fix and Peg Morris.

Others elected yesterday for senior class officers were Sue Mc Gee, vice president; Clare Lafrenz, secretary, Thomas Flautt, treasurer, and Ellen Greenberg, Cathy Harris, Nancy Jordan, Bob Martinez, Greg Oczkus, Wendy Parker and Dave Stapp to the student council.

Named by the junior class were Steph Schau, secretary; Carey Brink, treasurer, and Don Clement, Carey Brink, Terry Hoff, Bob Ulner, Blaire Wardlaw and Dee Williams to the student council.

Named by the sophomore class were Kathy Strachan, vice president; Terri Becker, secretary; Marilyn Rhoads, treasurer, and Marti Dekay, Sarah Heints, Rick Mulhaupt, Dave Newman, Tini Nissen, Robin Runge and Lynn Trimble to the student council.

The senior officers serve only one semester, but the others will serve the full school year.

Twelve Indian reservations cover more than a million acres.

Bret Harte Sewer Plans Approved

Plans and specifications for a quarter-million-dollar sewer system in the Bret Harte area, to be financed by an assessment district, were approved yesterday by the San Rafael Sanitation District Board.

The board called for bids to be opened June 9 on the project, estimated at $257,700 by the engineering firm of Dan Coleman Associates.

A public hearing will be held at 8 p.m., June 23 at city hall on the need for the assessment district.

About 85 property owners along both sides of Bret Harte Road from Highway 101 northwest to Twain Harte Lane are affected. The purpose is to eliminate health hazards which the county health department has said are created by septic tanks.

The San Rafael Sanitation District Board also approved annexation of three lots in the old Golf Course Tract.

Boat Bottleneck May Mean Ramp Use Fees

Charging non-residents of Sausalito $1 to use the Turney Street boat launching ramp was recommended last night by Sausalito recreation commissioners in an effort to stop people from parking boats on the ramp and "bottling up" the facility.

Commissioner Elmo V. Maggiora, upset about the boat traffic situation, will propose to city councilmen that the charge be levied on weekends and holidays, and that the ramp be handled by senior citizens, who will be paid, similar to the setup at the city's main parking lot.

The commission proposed a three-week tennis program for youngsters, each child to pay a $3 feet and the city picking up the balance, estimated at a total of $350. Lessons would start when summer school clasess let out at Richardson Bay School.

Commissioners said they wish to retain Princess Park and Tiffany Beach, as well as the municipal fishing pier adjacent to Ondine restaurant, when the city builds a sea wall and widens Bridgeway.

James E. Muldoon was named chairman, to succeed Albred M. Arenz, who resigned since he is moving to Greenbrae. Muldoon requested he be called chairman pro tem since his term ends in June. Mrs. Eleanor Cruikshank was re-elected to a full year as secretary.

The commisison praised Arenz for his seven years of work on the commission.

Court Martial Is Told Blood Changed To Plasma

Blood samples taken from an airman and the man he is alleged to have murdered at Hamilton Air Force Base were reduced to plasma the night of the killing and would not give a true blood-alcohol ratio reading, prosecuting attorney Lt. Col. Wesley C. Marsh Jr. told a court martial at Hamilton today.

He was cross-examining a defence women at the court martial of A/1c James O. Young, charged with the first degree murder of A/1c Robert M. Jennings during a Christmas Eve quarrel in the base barracks. He said he would produce evidence to back his statement.

First Lt. Richard A. Kammeier, head of the laboratory at the base hospital admitted the alcohol content in the two samples could have been changed by method used to produce plasna.

He was prevented from answering when he was asked by Sol Abrams, civilian defense attorney, if he could estimate how much alcohol Young had consumed four hours before the samples were taken.

Only other witness heard this morning was A/1c William P. Price, who told the court about drinking at the Christmas Eve party.

Defense attorneys were caught unprepared yesterday when the prosecution abruptly ended its case about 2:30 p.m.

After a 15-minute recess which they asked to prepared their case, Lt. Col. Clarence D. Walters Jr. of Mather Air Force Base; Chief Military defense attorney, moved that the court find Young innocent of premeditated murder, claiming the prosecution had failed to prove motive or that Young had actually done the stabbing.

Trial officer Lt. Col. Arnold C. Castle of Davis-Monthan Air motion.

Colonel Castle said today he denied the motion because it was essential he heard more evidence than would be available under the lesser charge of involuntary manslaughter, to which Young attemtped to plead guilty.

Only defense witness yesterday afternoon was David R. J. Holoviak, special agent for the office of security investigation, who questioned Young immediately after he was arrested for having a rifle in the barracks early Christmas morning, and later when he learned that Jennings had been stabbed.

Holoviak testified that at that time Young though Jennings had "jumped up into" the knife.

Jury Naming Near In Slaying Trial

Likilihood of naming a jury this afternoon in the murder trial of Jack R. Gorman and Marc Charles Osuna was expressed in Marin Superior Court today by prosecution and defense attorneys.

Selection from four 60-member panels began Monday. About 75 persons have been questioned. The prosecution had used 15 of an allowed 30 peremptory challenges against potential jurists by noon today. The defense had used 17.

Testimony in the case, heard before Judge Thomas F. Keating, will probably start Monday if jury selection is completed today. The defendants, both in San Quentin Prison for parole violation, are accused of the Labor Day shooting of Mario Ferrari at Mission Inn in San Rafael.

Gun Found

A World War II-type machine gun made in England was found yesterday in brush off Rodeo Avenue near Sausalito, sheriff's officers said.

Marin Schools Show Varying Shape, Color, Material

Story and Photos
By ELLEN BRY

There are 22 public school districts in Marin, with 42,072 students in kindergarten through high school.

Though the number of districts probably will eventually be lessened by unification and unionization, it will be years and years before the school population stabilizes.

Five years ago there were 31,138 students. The splurge in the student total has kept district officials on a dead run to build classrooms in which to put more youngsters.

The sound of taxpayers' wounded cries has been heard through the county, as they dig deeper into pockets for money to pay the cost of more schools in their still growing communities.

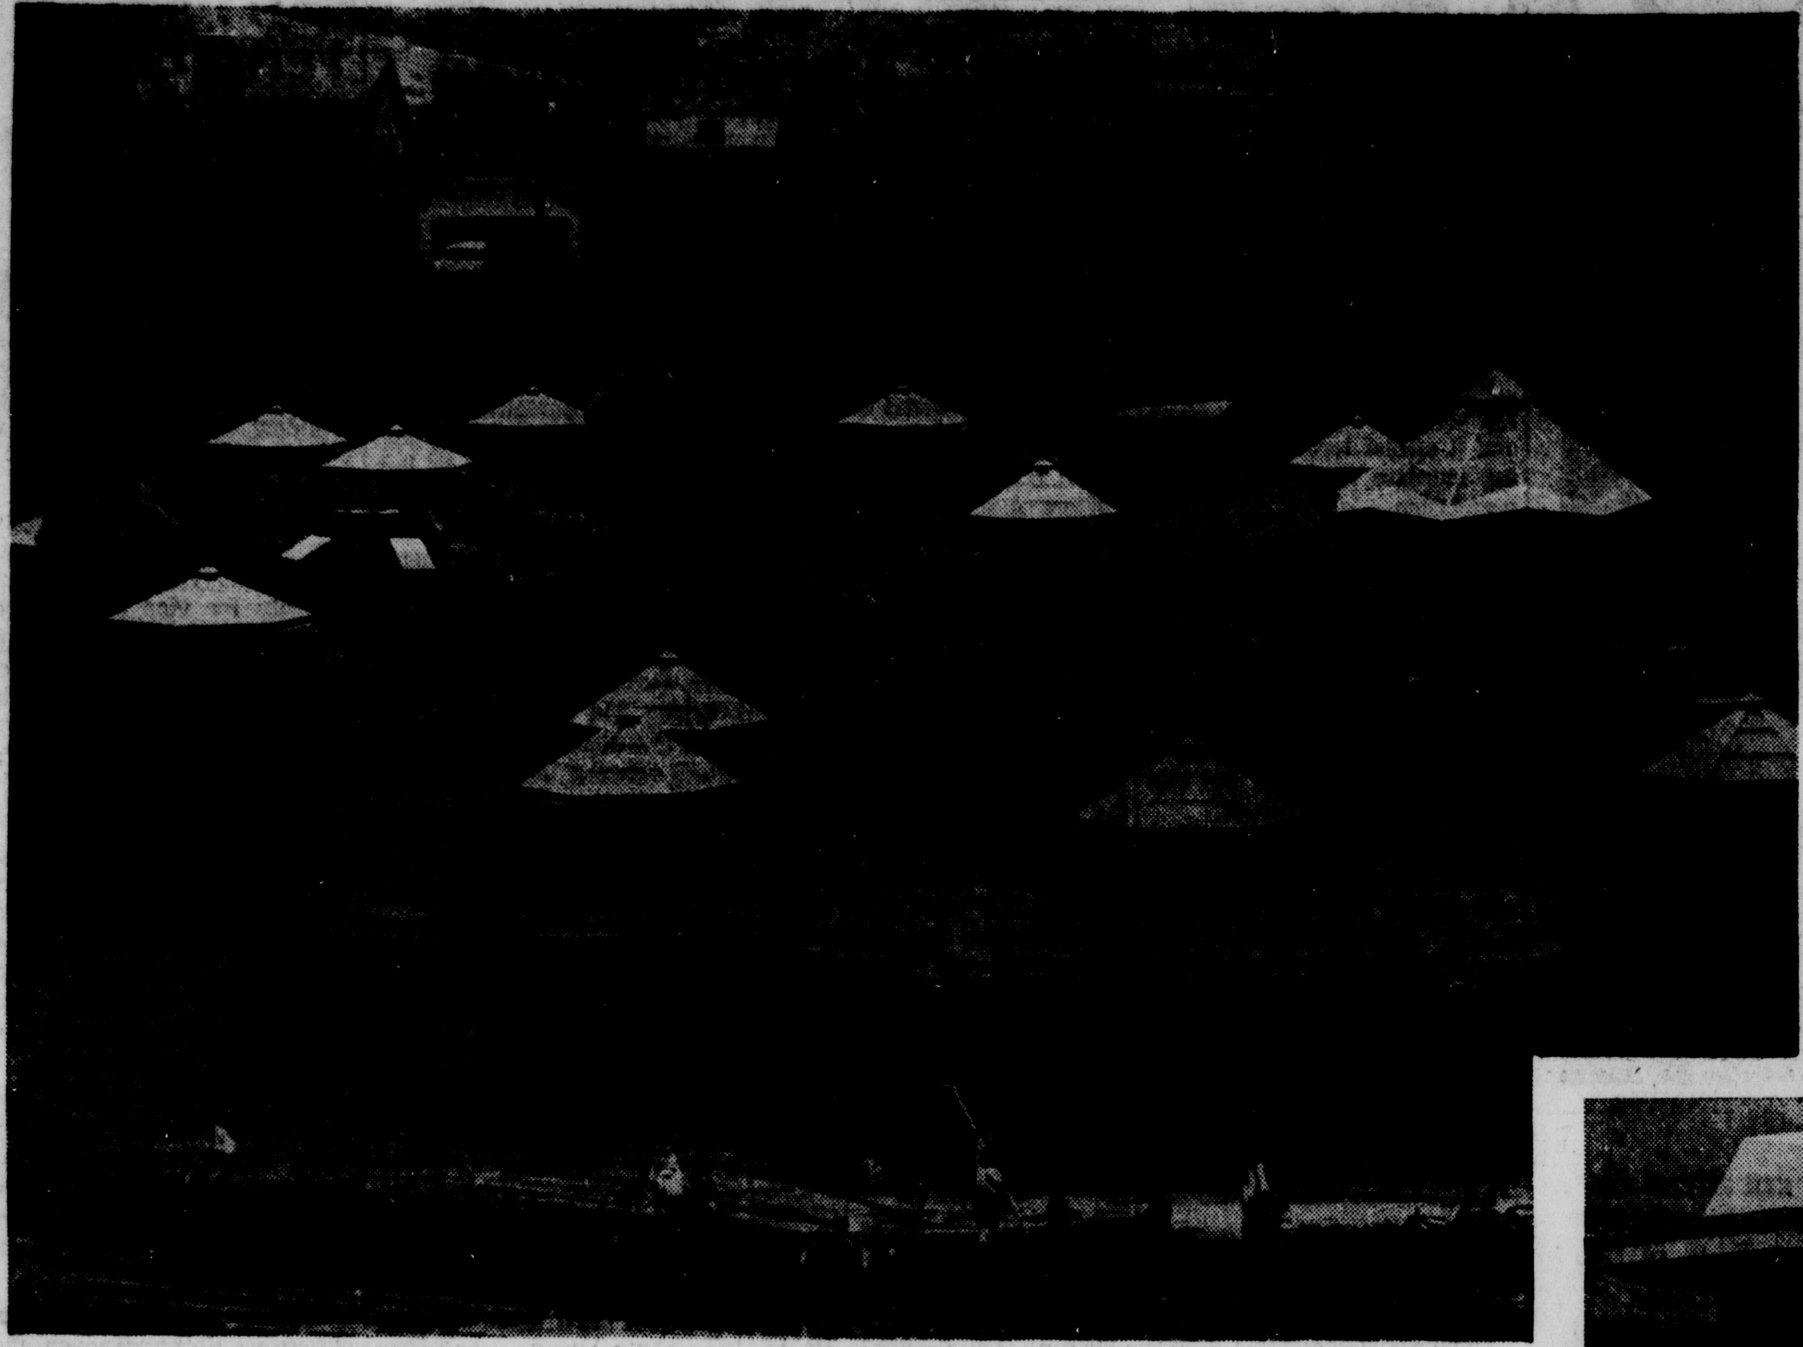
Dixie School District is a prime example. It's one-room school beside Highway 101 is just over 100 years old and was the district's only school until 1954. The suburbs caught up wood, Santa Venetia, Terra with what had been farmland.

The district covers Marin-Linda areas and today has nine schools and 4,163 students.

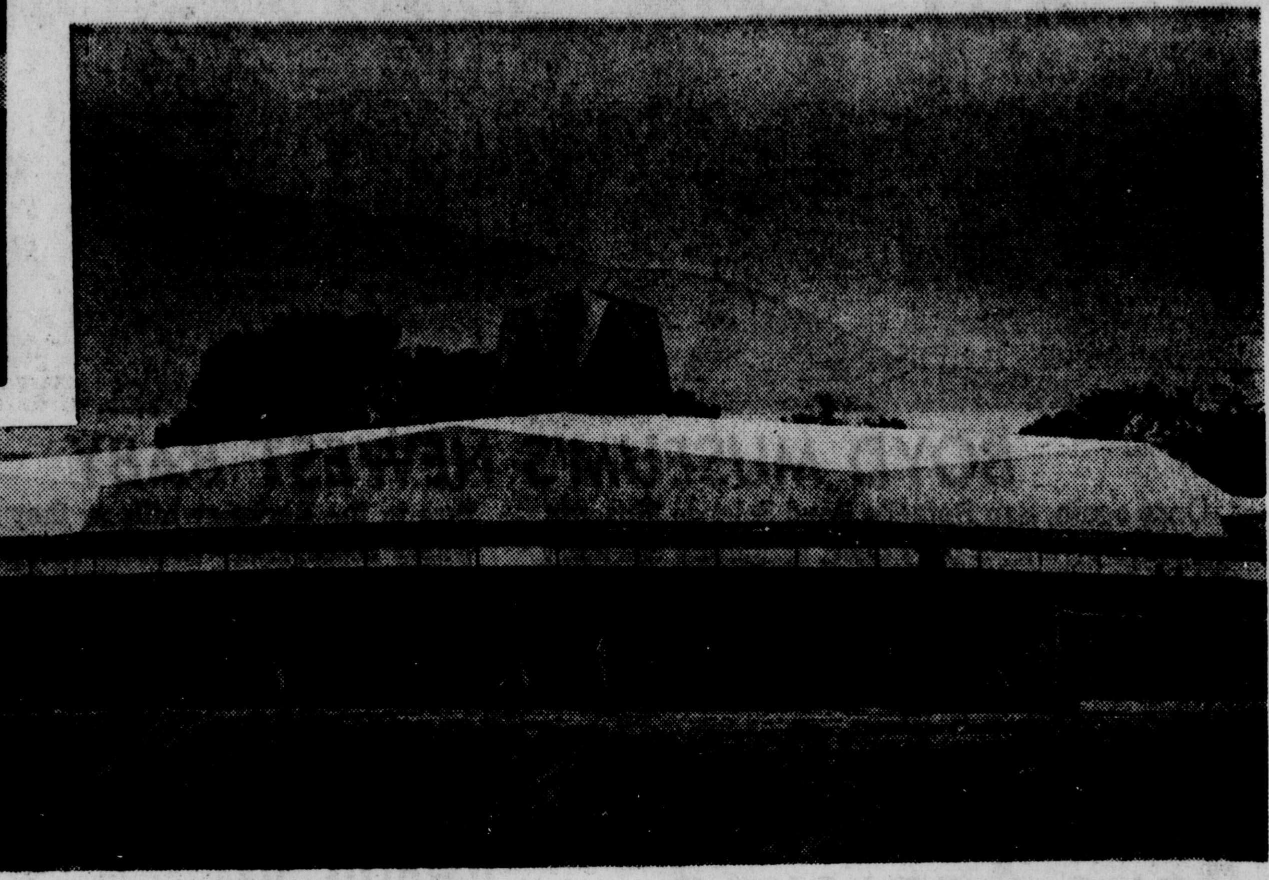
The schools which now are going up in every corner of Marin range in design from boxes with windows—the portable classrooms which are temporary desperation measures of some districts—to boxes with windows which also show district desperation but will be permanent.

School design is largely controlled by costs, and costs are controlled by voters, who may, or may not approve bond issues and state loans, and by the state which keeps a close accounting eye on where its school construction loan money goes.

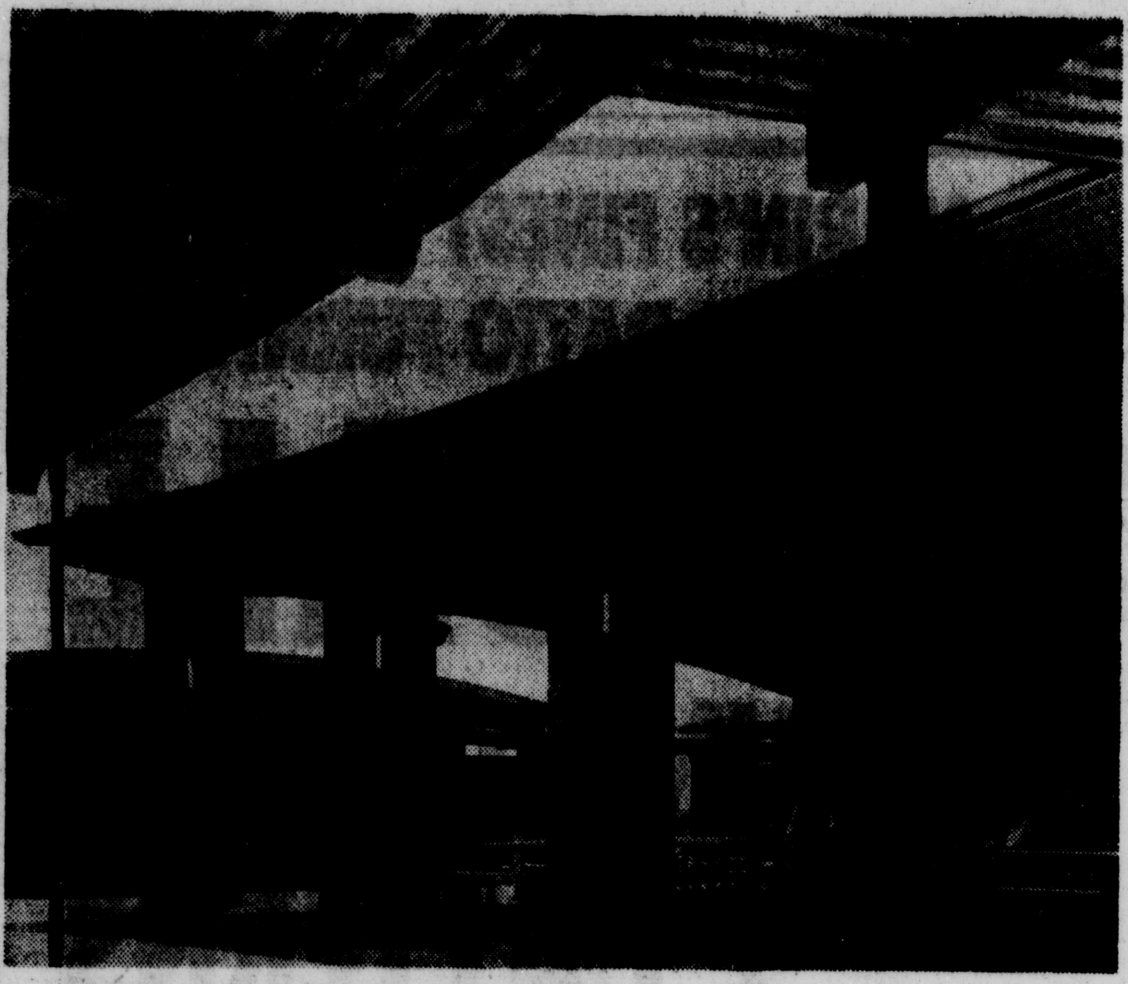
But architects and school administrators, who are part public relations men, part accountants and still try to fill their primary jobs, sometimes come up with memorable buildings.



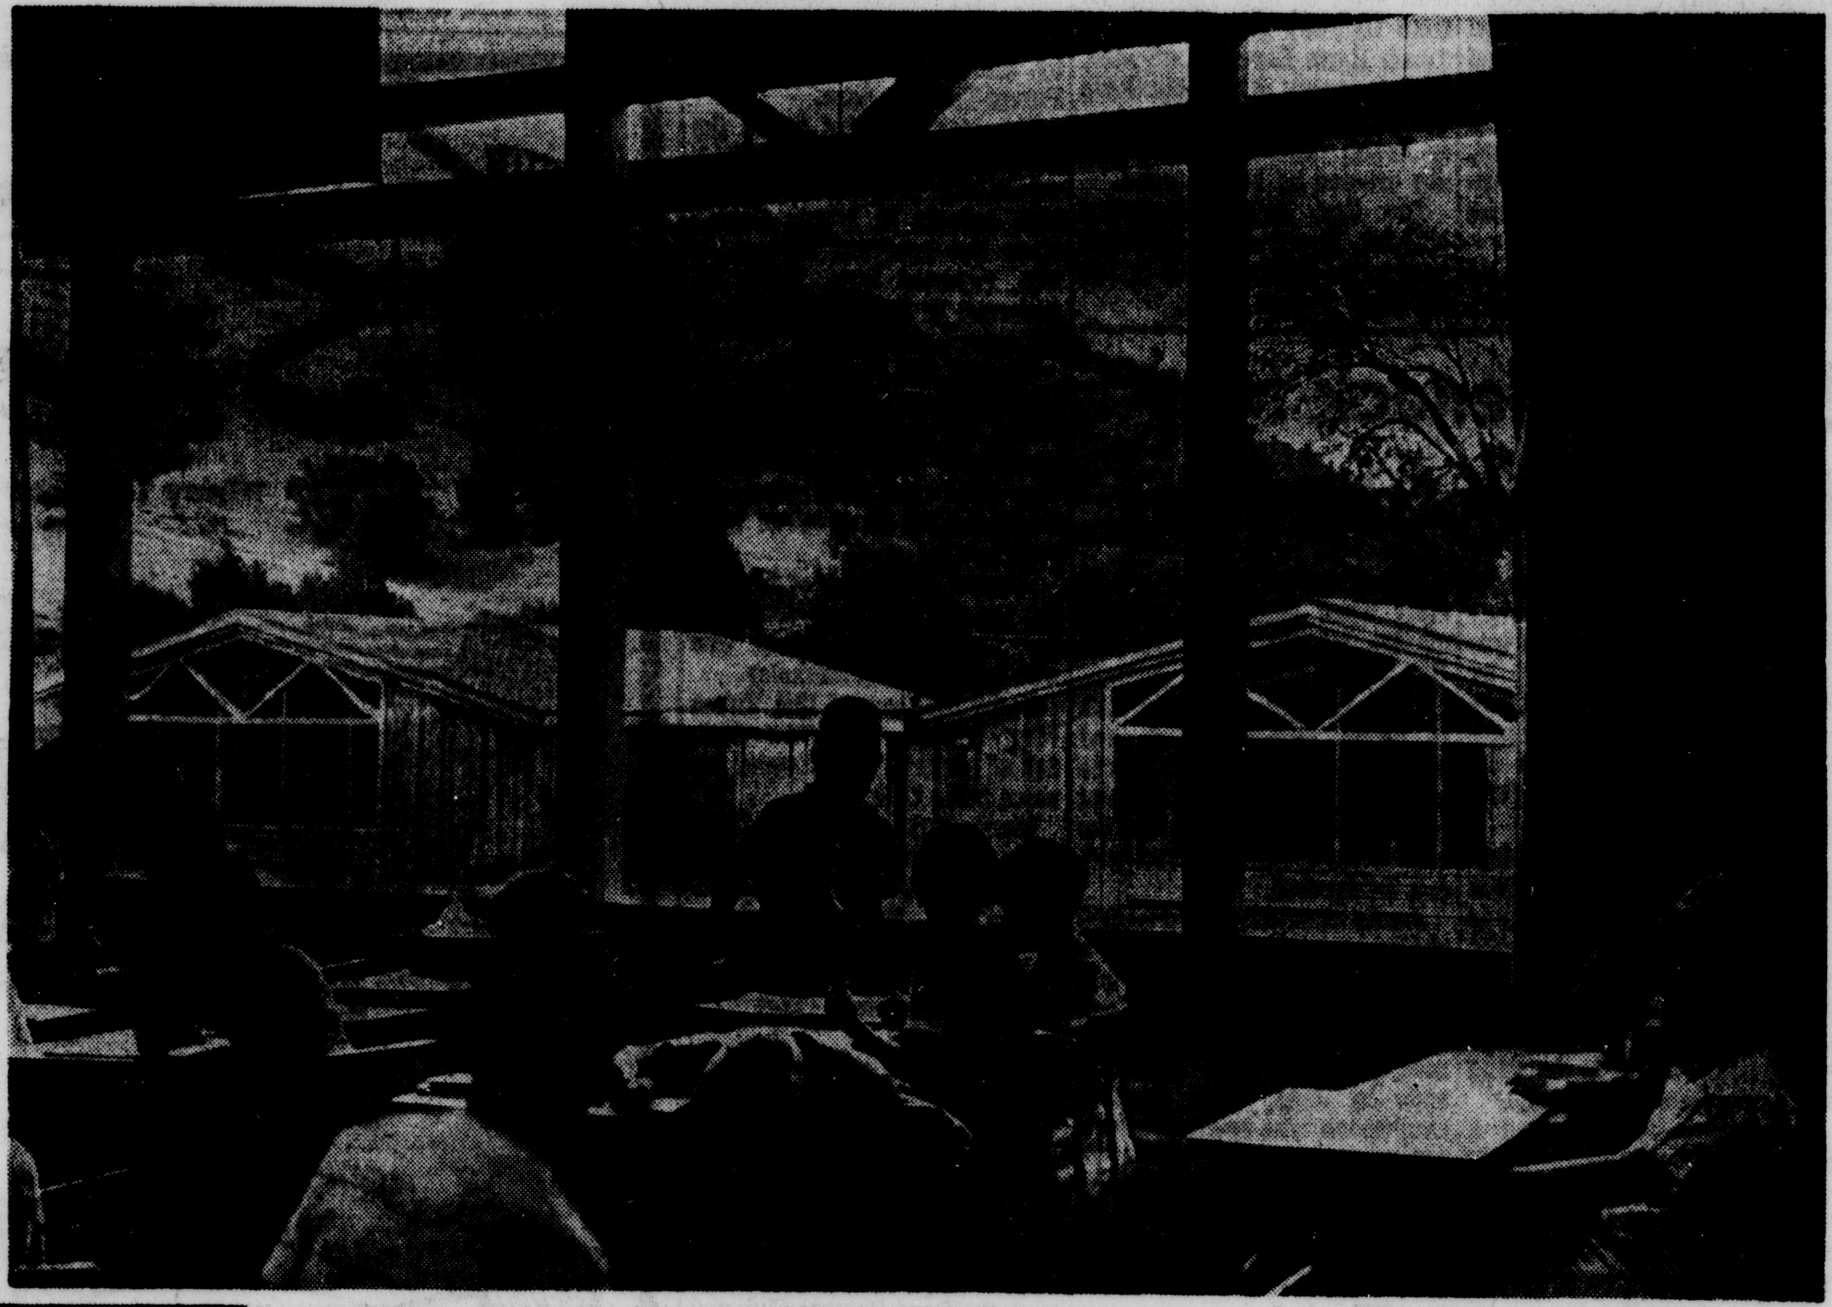
GRANADA SCHOOL — These buildings in the Reed School District were designed especially for team teaching. They huddle together, connected by outdoor, curving covered walkways. Each unit houses more than one class in a large carpeted building which allows grouping of children according to ability by changing them among instructors teaching various subjects in different corners of eachc building. There are no interior walls.



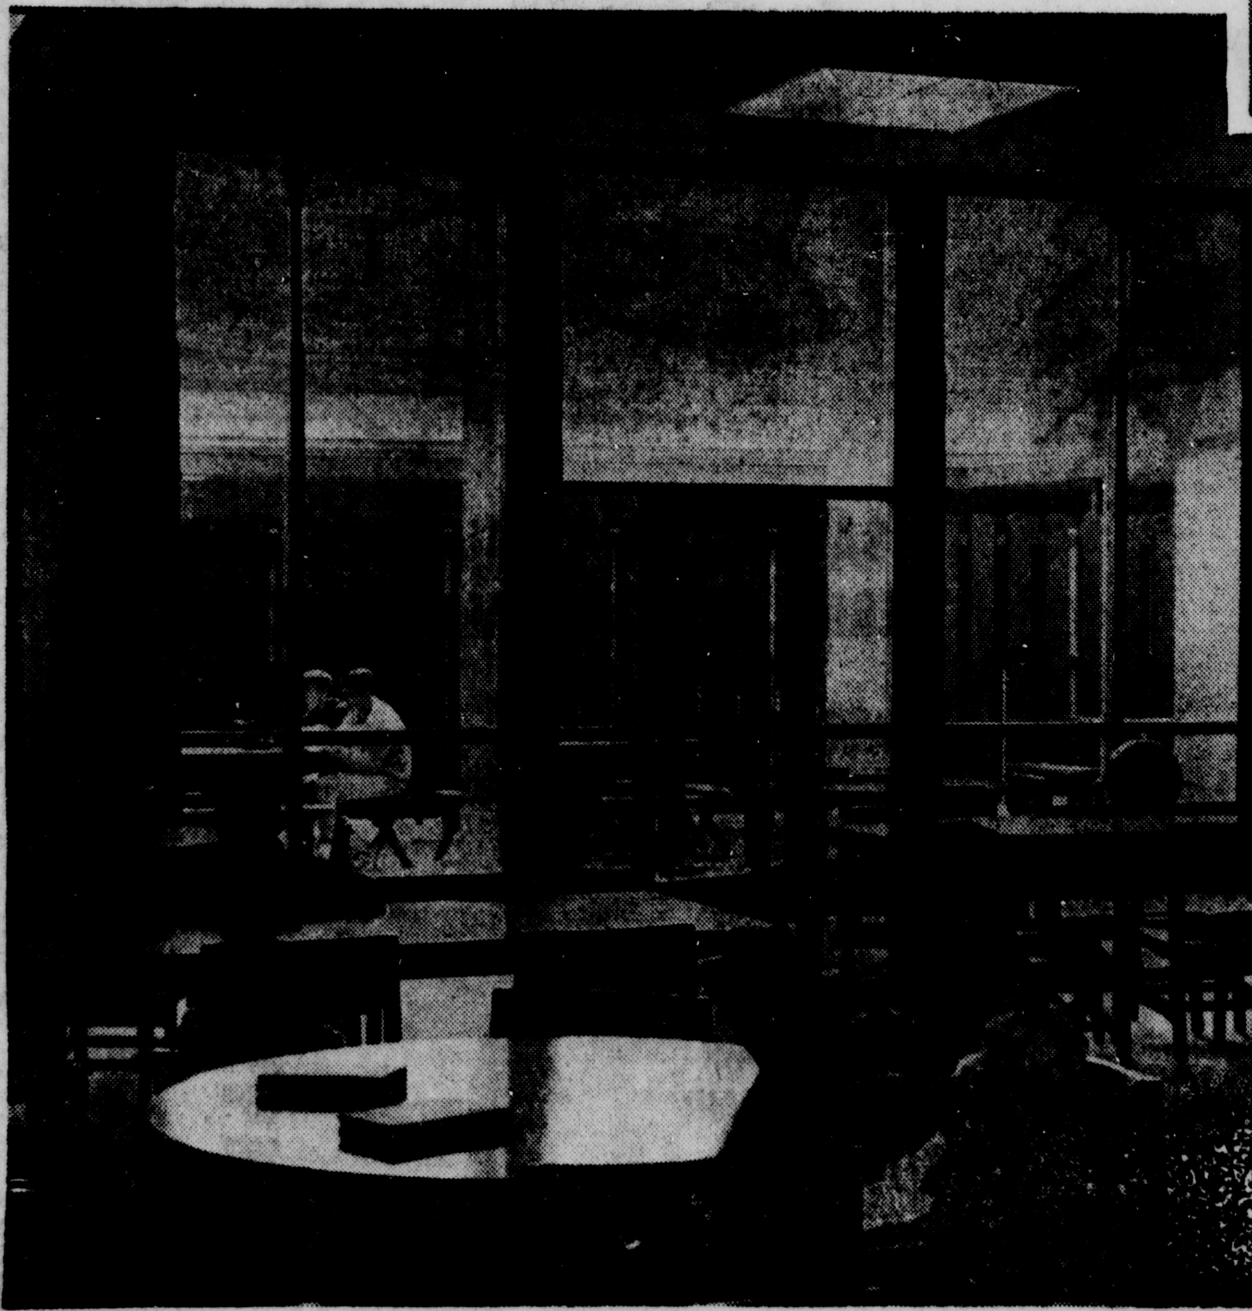
WOLFE GRADE SCHOOL — The duo-decagon shape of this building, for fourth through sixth grades, has sliding interior walls allowing the building to be changed from six individual classrooms to a variety of interior configurations or to become one big open space inside. The roof is topped by an air vent. The school is in the Kentfield district.



GLENWOOD SCHOOL — This new school in the San Rafael district has some curving, some straight walls, varicolored exterior walls of different materials. An outdoor eating area is surrounded by units of the school, covered by a roof which angles upward in a sweeping curve in an attempt to shield the area from sometimes chill winds.



DIXIE SCHOOL — Buildings house four classrooms, pairing two of them with folding partitions aimed at allowing teaching of various sized groups of students. Rooms are carpeted to cut sound bounce from larger groups of youngsters and allowing cost cutting in wall construction. The exterior design fits in with the semi-rural atmosphere of the school, located in Lucas Valley in the Dixie district.



DAVIDSON JUNIOR HIGH—Districts are placing more and more emphasis on providing good looking libraries and a large, varied stocks of books in each school, This new library at the San Rafael school has fenced outdoor reading area, room for listening to recordings, film strip room, and room for discussions.

NOVA ALBION SCHOOL — Also in the Dixie School District, this is almost a duplicate of two other district schools. The general design was repeated for the third time here, district officials say, because it fit the needs of the district. Repetition of design did not save money because of construction changes necessary to fit differing sites.

FLASH!

No "tight Money" problem at PETALUMA GARDENS
Unlimited mortgage funds to qualified buyers!

DEAR HOME BUYER:
If history repeats itself and all the experts say that it will . . .

YOU CAN LIVE RENT FREE for the next 30 years in a brand new home in . . .

● Petaluma Gardens ●

A $20,000, 30 year mortgage at 6% calls for monthly payments of $119.92. Over 30 years you pay out $43,170.19, of which $23,181.19 is tax deductible interest.

But, you end up with a home fully paid for, whereas if you rent you have NOTHING. Best of all, in 30 years your home will be worth more than it cost, if the creeping inflation prevails that we have had since 1776.

3 & 4 Bedroom Homes
2 Car Garage
Starting at $18,425

42 custom features in every home, plus membership in a swim club, adjacent to a new city park, plus 100% underground utilities plus 1 master T.V. antenna, all AT NO EXTRA COST!

Final clincher in favor of Petaluma Gardens are our protective voenants . . . your PERMANENT guarantee that neighborhood blight, caused by sloppy or thoughtless neighbors, just can't happen here.

WHAT COUNTY WOULD DO WITH BOND MONEY

If Marin voters approve the $4.3 million countywide park bond issue June 7, $2 million will be used by the county government for parks in unincorporated areas, with all but $200,000 going for land purchase. The cities will be free to use their share as they choose. County officials say they will follow a list of priorities made up of the parks shown here. Class A projects will be acquired before those labelled Class B. In many cases, cost will exceed the funds provided by the bonds, but the county hopes to get state or federal matching funds to make up the difference.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Crippling Emphysema Starts Long Before Disabling Effects Noticed

VAN DELLEN

Pulmonary emphysema is second only to heart disease as the leading disabler of working men. Most of the victims are men in their fifties and early sixties and incapacitated because they cannot move without developing shortness of breath, cough, fatigue, and wheezing.

Emphysema begins slowly and may brew for 20 years before curtailing activities. Most victims are heavy smokers and chronic bronchitis is the rule.

Infection enters the picture because chest colds aggravate the disorder and eventually each respiratory infection lasts longer and longer. When the coughing becomes a daily affair, emphysema is well on its way.

AIR POLLUTION also is a factor but it is not stressed here because smoking is concentrated air pollution, and of the two, does more damage. Heredity also plays a role. Not all smokers develop emphysema, suggesting an inherent strength or weakness of the respiratory passageways.

Air in a normal inflated lung can be eliminated within three seconds. Those with emphysema may not be able to expire all the air in 10 seconds. In other words, the air is trapped within the lung because of a partial obstruction in the bronchi. In time, the air sacs are dilated and distended with stagnant gases.

THE ENLARGED air sacs lose their elasticity and cannot expel the trapped air. Their thin walls rupture and several sacs unite, forming large air cysts that have no elastic recoil. These internal changes limit the supply of fresh air that reaches the lung tissue producing a chemical problem of too little oxygen and too much carbon dioxide.

There are many devices that measure the flow rates of the lung. They demonstrate the obstruction, poor ventilation, and faulty exchange of gases (oxygen and carbon dioxide) in the lung. Some victims are so crippled they cannot blow out a lighted match that is held 12 inches from the mouth.

(Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.)

Mrs. F. writes: What would cause a blood pressure of 110 in a 60-year-old woman?

REPLY

If we knew, we might have the solution to the blood pressure problem. A reading of 110 is ideal at any age and can be used as bragging material in the class with "I'm 40 and haven't a gray hair on my head," "I still have all my own teeth," and "People tell me I look 10 years younger than my age."

SALIVA GLAND DUCT

K. A. writes: Should a small stone in the salivary duct of a 10-year-old boy be removed surgically or is there some way to dissolve it?

REPLY

These stones cannot be dissolved, and surgery is recommended when they do not pass out of the duct spontaneously or through manipulation.

DANDRUFF AND PSYCHE

R. J. writes: Do you know if there are any psychosomatic causes of dandruff?

REPLY

Too many diseases are blamed on the poor psyche, so let's not add another. However, the unsightly appearance of dandruff may produce psychosomatic problems in highly susceptible individuals.

BULGING EYEBALLS

M. G. writes: Does bulging of the eyes associated with goiter disappear when the thyroid is removed?

REPLY

This condition usually remains unchanged, although in a small percentage it recedes gradually.

Couple, Pets Flee Apartment Fire In San Rafael

A man and his wife, a puppy and a parakeet escaped unharmed today after they awoke to find their San Rafael apartment filled with smoke.

The smoke came from a boxful of personal effects which had been placed too near a gas wall heater at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Vincent at 26-B Fairfax Street.

Battalion Chief Robert H. Rogers of the San Rafael Fire Department estimated damage in the 2:35 a.m. fire at $1,150.

He said when the couple awoke in heavy smoke, they managed to grab their pets before running outside.

Smoke was cleared for their accommodation and an adjoining apartment and the Vincents were allowed to return shortly afterwards.

LAW IN ACTION

From the State Bar Of California

Permanent Land Rights Tricky

Jim and John's father gave up farming in 1937 and deeded the family farm to them jointly. The brothers farmed for a while, but Jim married a city girl and gave up farming after some bad crop years. Jim was unwilling to put any more money or work into the farm.

He told John that he was through and that if John wanted to carry on alone it was all right with him. John did carry on. He paid off the mortgage, fixed up the farm, built new barns, drilled wells, and so on. John also kept the profits and paid the expenses of his farming business. Having no interest in farming, Jim started his own business in the city.

Twenty years later a large farming corporation wanted to buy the farm and offered a lot of money for it. All of a sudden Jim took a new interest in the farm.

John asked a court to say that the whole piece of land belonged to him, but the court refused, saying that each owner has a right to possession of jointly owned property. Just because one of them occupies the land does not give him a claim to all. Half of the property still belonged to Jim. Perhaps Jim would have to contribue to the cost of the permanent improvements, but whether he did or not he still owned one-half of the land.

Occupying another's land for a long time doesn't give you a permanent claim to it. You might be on it with ths owner's permission; you might be a mere squatter, knowing full well that some one else owned the land.

A person who wants to keep the land as his own must first claim that he owns it all as a matter of right, and he must pay taxes on it for five years. After a few years of such tax payments, an "owner" is deemed to know that someone else is on his land, trying for a right to keep it for good. He'd better act if he wants to keep title to it.

Another person can gain a right in your land (an easement) by continued use for five years. He may gain a right of way or the permanent right to take things from your land (such as water), by continued use under a claim of right. Hence any use without your permission should put you on notice. But if you give someone permission to use your land, even at a price of $1 a year, that permissive use can never become his of right.

Moon Landing Test Succeeds

ALAMOGORDO, N.M. (AP)—A test version of the Surveyor vehicle designed for an unmanned soft landing on the moon made a smooth 900-foot descent and landing in a successful final test today prior to the scheduled May 30 flight to the moon.

The space vehicle was dropped from a balloon over nearby Holloman Air Force Base.

Its three liquid fuel engines, operating on information from two radar systems aboard the vehicle, then slowed the vehicle from a descent speed of about miles per hour for the desert landing.

A spokesman described the test as a success.

No Action Seen On Quake Ruling

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The chairman of an Assembly subcommittee said today that he doubts whether this year's legislature will act on a controversial attorney general's ruling on earthquake damage to schools.

Alfred E. Alquist, D-San Jose, said his School Efficiency and Economy Subcommittee will recommend new legislation in 1967.

Atty. Gen. Thomas C. Lynch had ruled that individual school board members could be held personally liable for accidents caused by earthquake damage to schools built before 1933 if they failed to inspect the old buildings. That was the year California passed the Field Act requiring all new schools to be earthquake resistant.

Plane Crashes Tied To Alcohol

WASHINGTON (AP) — Alcoholic beverages figured in three fatal light-plane crashes investigated by the Civil Aeronautics Board. All occurred at night, in clear weather.

In one—at Upland, Calif., last Sept. 23 — all three occupants were killed and one person on the ground was injured critically.

The others — near Puyallup, Wash., last Oct. 10 and Tulsa, Okla., Oct. 7 — involved pilots flying alone.

The board said post-mortem toxicological examination of the pilot showed a blood alcohol content "considered sufficient to cause decreased inhibitions, loss of critical judgment, and impairment of memory and comprehension."

San Rafael Man Injured In Fire

A San Rafael machinist was badly burned while picnicking yesterday at Stinson Beach with his wife when he accidentally fell into a campfire.

Harry Little, 37, of 361 D Street, was reported in fair condition today in the Marin General Hospital intensive care unit with a burned left leg and back burns.

The Stinson Beach volunteer ambulance corps rendered first aid and took Little to the hospital.

Lawmaker Suggests Union Fund Probes

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A state senator called today for a probe by grand juries of worker welfare funds in every California county.

Sen. John C. Begovich, D-Jackson, said the need for such an investigation "was underlined" by the alleged connection between a Sacramento painters union welfare fund and the slaying of a painters union official.

FEATURED THIS SATURDAY

Annually, some 600,000 visitors come to Marin County to admire the majestic trees of Muir Woods National Monument. In tomorrow's Independent-Journal Marin Magazine, historian Florence Donnelly tells the story of the farsighted men who assured the preservation of this great stand of redwoods and Douglas firs. It stands as an inspiring example of how our great resources and heritage can be conserved for the enjoyment of future generations.

Tomorrow the Marin Magazine turns its "Profile of a Marinite" spotlight on yet another prominent resident of the county. This time the subject is Daniel Allen, former mayor of Larkspur and a longtime civic leader in the county. I-J reporter Ralph Chatoian has written this story of a one-time athletic great who has enjoyed both successes and defeats in the business and political arenas, but who has always perserved and worked in the public interest.

Kentfield Fire Salaries Get Bigger Boost

Kentfield Fire District board took a look at wages paid other firemen in the county Wednesday night, then decided to give Kentfield's smoke-eaters a seven and one-half per cent boost instead of the five per cent increase tentatively agreed on May 11.

The board's decision, which will cost the district an additional $5,400 next year, jumps the pay of all district firemen from $630 to $677 monthly and increases Fire Chief Kenneth Kamp's pay from $810 to $870, the chief said.

The board also voted to give extra duty pay to firemen working holidays. In the past, they have not been compensated. This will cost the district $2,000 more next year, Kamp said.

With these changes made, the board adopted a preliminary budget of $153,260 for fiscal 1967. It represents a $1,200 increase over this year's budget of $152,060, Kamp said.

"The tax rate is bound to drop at least five cents, from 85 cents to 80 cents per $100 assessed valuation," the chief said. He attributed this to property assessment increases.

Kamp said he miscalculated when reporting a tentative budget of $157,173 to the Independent-Journal last week. When the board was counting on only five per cent raise, he said, the tentative budget was about $149,000.

Miller Creek Plans First Grad Rites

Miller Creek School's first graduating class, a total of 115 eighth graders, will receive diplomas in ceremonies at 7:30 p.m., on June 16.

It will be an outdoor ceremony on the school grounds, presided over by Jo Anne Nelson, selected from the graduates to be mistress of ceremonies.

Student speakers will be Nancy Neidlinger and Mark Chambers.

David Melcon, president of the student council, will present the class gift to Steven Roach, representing the seventh grade.

Dennie B. Willis, superintendent of the Dixie School District, will present the class, and Earl H. Koehler, president of the board of trustees, will speak. Koehler and trustee T. Neal McNamara will award diplomas.

Car Safety Check Finds Problems

More than half the 306 cars inspected last Saturday in the Kiwanis Club of Southern Marin County safety check were defective, the club reported.

Of the 164 that failed, there were 134 cases of faulty lighting, 71 tire defects, 13 brakes, 17 exhaust systems and 4 horns. Many had more than one defect.

The club will conduct a second safety check tomorrow from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the Corte Madera Shopping Center.

Candidates Invited

Candidates for the Marin Republican Central Committee have been invited to speak before the GOP Central Committee Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the San Rafael courthouse. Gerald E. Misner, committee chairman, announced.

Marin's Homeowners On Move, Mostly Right In The County

By HARRY CRAFT

It is paradoxical that as a county of beautiful and well kept homes, Marin is also county of many moves.

A large segment of the populations seems to be continually shifting from one area to another — without ever leaving the county. Indeed, a recent survey of Marin householders showed that two-thirds to 70 per cent of them were giving thought to the purchase of another home.

Not all of these intentions are expected to bear fruit within the next year of course, but many of them will. Increases in the size of families, greater earning power, an opportunity to indulge esthetic tastes—all these things lead to ascensions in the process of house swapping. They are offset on the other hand by business transfers to other parts of the country, retirements, children leaving home and smaller space requirements. And if there is any imbalance in these opposite forces it is immediately adjusted by the ever present influx of new arrivals.

This continuing series of chessboard moves is more than just a game. It is the basis for one of the county's biggest industries, averaging a gross turnover in residential properties of something like six million dollars a month.

It is the substance of our many real estate offices taxed with keeping abreast of available properties and opportunities to buy, sell and exchange.

More than 95 per cent of our local real estate brokers are members of the Marin County Real Estate Board and the National Asn. of Real Estate Boards, entitling them to the designation of "Realtor" — a term not to be used lightly, for it imposes ethical responsibilities as much as it offers professional distinction.

In recognition of the part these business men play in applying their professional knowledge of real estate matters to the good of the community, next week has been designated as Realtor Week. The more than 200 members of the Marin County Real Estate Board, together with their 600 salesmen, have made extensive plans for its observance, according to the board's president James Gallagher. He said offices will be holding "open house" on their listings in an almost literal sense of the expression. Special selections during the week will include homes for sale (both existings homes and dwellings never before occupied) apartments for rent (or for sale as condominiums) and investment properties.

The merchandise the Realtor has to sell cannot be displayed in his office. The best he can do is show you a picture, give you a factual description of the property—and the rest has to be done "on location."

This Realtor Week Home show edition can only give you a suggestion of the many fine homes and homesites available for purchase. We hope it arouses your interest. After that the thing to do is to see your Realtor. He has a fistful of good listings to show you. Then look at the properties — you're bound to find one you like, in Marin.

Realtors Call Attention To Their Profession

James Gallagher, president of the Marin County Real Estate Board, said Realtors in this area will join with more than 82,000 colleagues across the nation in directing public attention to their calling and the special character of the services they render during Realtor Week, May 23 - 28.

"A Realtor is not 'just a real estate man,'" said Gallagher. "He is a professional in real estate who subscribes to a strict code of ethics as a member of the local board and of the National Assn. of Real Estate Boards.

Gallagher said Realtors take their code of ethics seriously.

"It was one of the first adopted in the history of American business," he declared. "Under its 30 articles, covering all aspects of a real estate transaction, the Realtor pledges fair treatment and the full scope of his real estate knowledge to both contracting parties—buyer and seller."

He added that Realtor is a coined term and service mark registered with the U. S. Patent Office under the trademark laws and as such should always be capitalized. It may be used only by members of NAREB.

The theme of 1966 Realtor Week is contained in its slogan —"Moving Up? Settling Down? See a Realtor!"

"The slogan underscores the quality of one of the Realtor's services in finding a large or better home for an expanding family or a first home for a family," Gallagher explained. "Two thirds of American families own their own homes, a proportion unrivaled anywhere in the world. The advantages of home ownership — financially, in convenience, and in security—are obvious. With the many forms of financing available today, any family can invest in its future by 'moving up or settling down.'"

The Marin County Real Estate Board was founded in 1920. The Multiple Listing Board was organized in 1949 and joined with the realty board the following year. The National Assn. of Real Estate Boards was founded in 1908. With offices in Chicago and Washington, NAREB furnishes Realtors with the latest information in real estate developments, mortgage rates, economic trends and other business factors.

During the coming week, a speakers group from the Marin board will appear before local service clubs and other organizations to acquaint them with the association's purposes and describe its functions.

Some Tips For Homes

A deep scratch in wood may need filling with plastic wood. When dry and hard, sand down the patch to a smooth surface and apply thin coats of fresh, white shellac.

To make the dust slide off easily, wash your dustpan in hot suds, wipe it dry, and apply a coat of wax. Repeat this wash-wax treatment often.

To free your sink from grease, apply some soap or detergent to a dry cloth or sponge and scrub the sink—also dry. Then turn on the water and rinse the grease away.

Select window hardware carefully so that it will be easy to take down and re-hang your washable draperies and curtains.

No place for the rake and spade? Build a storage fence for garden tools, barbecue equipment. Unit is incorporated into a tall privacy screen which jogs around patio, creating triangular planting niches.

FINE COUNTRY FARM — Nearly four acres, private well. Children will love it for ponies, sheep, calves, dogs, cats or 4-H projects. You can raise your own beef, vegetables and fruit even before you build. Only 30 minutes from San Rafael. $19,000.00—on very easy terms. Each property completely surrounded by white four-rail fence. DIRECTIONS: Go north on Highway 101 to Petaluma. Take Washington Street overpass and proceed WEST through Petaluma. Jog right onto Bodega Avenue, and then 5.7 miles to Green Valley Ranch. Prices Rising For Homes, Expert Says

By 1970, prices of new homes will be 20-25% above today's level, predicts Richard Bullock, editor of Practical Builder, in the June issue of the business magazine for professional builders.

Because of the spiraling costs, he advises young couples to buy a home "as soon as possible." He points out that more expensive labor and materials are adding about $1,000 a year to the cost of a $20,000 house.

Bullock bases his conclusions on an industry study just completed by M. R. Robinson, manager of the Bureau of Building Marketing Research, the research affiliate of Practical Builder.

The story, "A New Home of Your Own — Still the Best Investment for Most Young Families," cites some of the reasons for buying now:

1. Our economy is entering an inflationary period similar to that of the mid-1950s. Home ownership, like other long-term real property, is likely to appreciate faster than other commodities. In short, it's the strongest hedge against inflation.

2. Available land each year becomes harder to find and develop, so it becomes more expensive.

3. Earlier purchase of a home, preferably prior to raising a family, pays other dividends. By the time the children are ready for school, school facilities will be developed and in all probability the tax burden will be less. Schools built today, like houses, will cost less than those built tomorrow.

Another factor favoring the early purchase of a home is the creation of an estate which will grow in value and can be used as collateral for borrowing for further investments—to raise funds to start a business, to pay for college educations, to reinvest for profit, and t meet the expense of adversities.

To emphasize the concrete value of home ownership, the Practical Builder story compared two family histories. Both couples were married in 1954.

The first couple bought a $17,000 home in 1955 which today has a current market value of $22,500 — on a 20-year $15,000 mortgage at 5% interest. The $99-a-month payments during the first ten years have totaled $11,880—$5,668 of which represents the couple's equity, $6,212 interest.

The second couple rented a five-room apartment, initially for $100 a month. With steadily increasing rents, the monthly rental has averaged $138 for a total of $16,554 — and no equity.

Bullock points out that buying a home has been proven to make owners more responsible, and that their desire to improve their lives makes them better financial risks and job-holders and leads to higher family incomes.

Plants Can Make Your Home Bright

In many new homes, planting areas have become so much a part of the over-all scheme that interior designers include them in the plans from the outset. But there are less extreme ways to summerize every room of your home or apartment.

Some glass shelves in the kitchen, living room or hall window can be decked with trailing ivy, philodendron or other small plants. The bathroom is an ideal spot for growing exotic orchids because they thrive on heat and humidity.

A row of large, pole-hugging cut-leaf philodendron and graceful dumb cane plants might be placed in front of the picture window to create a living screen and offer privacy, especially while the grounds around the house look barren during the cold months.

A small, electric indoor fountain, with plants banked around the base and afloat with fresh blossoms, can perk up the entry hall during any season.

Flowering plants also are welcome in the middle of winter and they make ideal house gifts. Throughout the cold months, Florists' Telegraph Delivery will wire chrysanthemums, cyclamens and azaleas all over the country.

African violets also make splendid long-distance gifts. There are so many different types of this plant that they can be collected into exotic flowering gardens and added to on every special occasion.

Humidity The Thing —Not Heat

Worried about inadequate humidity in your house? According to the National Better Heating-Cooling Council, excess humidity can be equally uncomfortable.

The need for a humidifier (or dehumidifier) is governed by the infiltration of outside air and the exfiltration of inside air. An old, "loose" house might need humidification, while a new "tight" house might need dehumidification. It does not depend solely upon the heating system.

A house occupied by the average size family will have considerable humidity added to its atmosphere by such normal living processes as cooking, bathing, and washing.

In a house that is quite new and tight the humidity added by the family may be excessive, whereas older houses have a tendency to open up, losing humidity through exfiltration.

To solve humidity problems, there are any numer of humidifying and dehumidifying devices currently on the market. They include units used directly in the heating system itself, whether it be hydronic (hot water) heat or warm-air heat, large capacity units that may be used independently of the heating system, and portable units of room size.

How To Fit A Big Bed In Bedroom

Americans are waking up to the fact that they need not only healthful support in a mattress but also more room for truly restful sleeping. If you're thinking of buying larger bedding for more sleeping comfort, but fear your bedroom may be too small, here's help.

You can still enjoy the benefits of king-size or twin-size bedding by applying one or more of the following tricks, suggested by Ronald J. Shepherd, executive vice president of the Spring Air Co., a leading national bedding group.

1. Use a metal frame instead of a bedstead to save space. Many people think a footboard helps to hold blankets in place, but actually it has no real purpose and you'll find bedding stays put better with your longer mattress.

2. If you like the idea of a headboard, you can paint a make-believe one on the wall above the bed or create an illusion with draperies or a row of pictures.

3. Replace night stands with a shallow wall shelf.

4. Instead of separating twin beds with an aisle, put them next to each other. You can use a swing-away bed frame to simplify bedmaking.

5. Save the floor or table space required for lamps by choosing lights that can be hung on the wall above the bed.

6. If a swinging closet or bedroom door takes up too much space, you can replace it with an inexpensive accordion-fold vinyl door.

7. If a chest of drawers must be crowded out, use underbed storage chests. You'll have room for at least two.

After that, relax and get a good night's sleep.

How To Fit In Pictures

Creating a pleasing picture grouping on a wall is easy, according to Harry Linsky, consultant to the Picture and Frame Institute, if a few simple rules are followed.

1. Study the picture wall in relation to the entire room to determine how large the grouping should be.

2. Study your pictures. No matter what shape or color, each picture should look good next to another picture, and also fit into the entire picture grouping.

3. Place the pictures on the floor and arrange and rearrange them to form the grouping you desire.

4. Cut out pieces of brown paper to fit the picture sizes, and tape these to the wall to determine the "rightness" of the arrangement to please the eye.

5. Pinpoint lightly with a marker the place where the nail or picture hanger should go, to achieve the balance you want.

Money Tight But Bon Air Developing

The Bon Air Garden Apartment section of Greenbrae continues to develop in spite of the "tight money" talk, according to George Bogel of the Greenbrae Co.

The Schultz Building Co., having just recently completed one plush apartment building, with the penthouse leased for a long term by Mr. and Mrs. Niels Schultz Sr., has begun construction on still another building in the hills of Bon Air. This will contain 12 apartments, of which six will be two-bedroom units and the rest one-bedroom units. Location of the building is at the end of Corte Madera, a wide cul-de-sac off Via Belardo.

Another seven-unit building is also under construction by Mr. and Mrs. John A. Moran. Apartments will be de luxe units, with an oriental flair to the exterior. Five of them will have one bedroom and one and one-half baths, in areas of approximately 1,000 square feet each. There will be one two-bedroom unit with two baths and a floor area of 1,300 square feet.

In addition, the Morans are including an apartment for their own use containing 2,500 square feet, with three bedrooms and three baths. The building will be called Kyoto Gardens and is located on Upper Via Casitas, just above South Eliseo Drive.

Open Area Is Boon To Designers

A boon to the home designer in today's emphasis on open area interiors is the room divider. With countless variations on the room divider principle available to the ingenious decorator, the homemaker can really have her cake and eat it, too. maintaining an atmosphere of spaciousness while utilizing the divider to create additional storage and wall space.

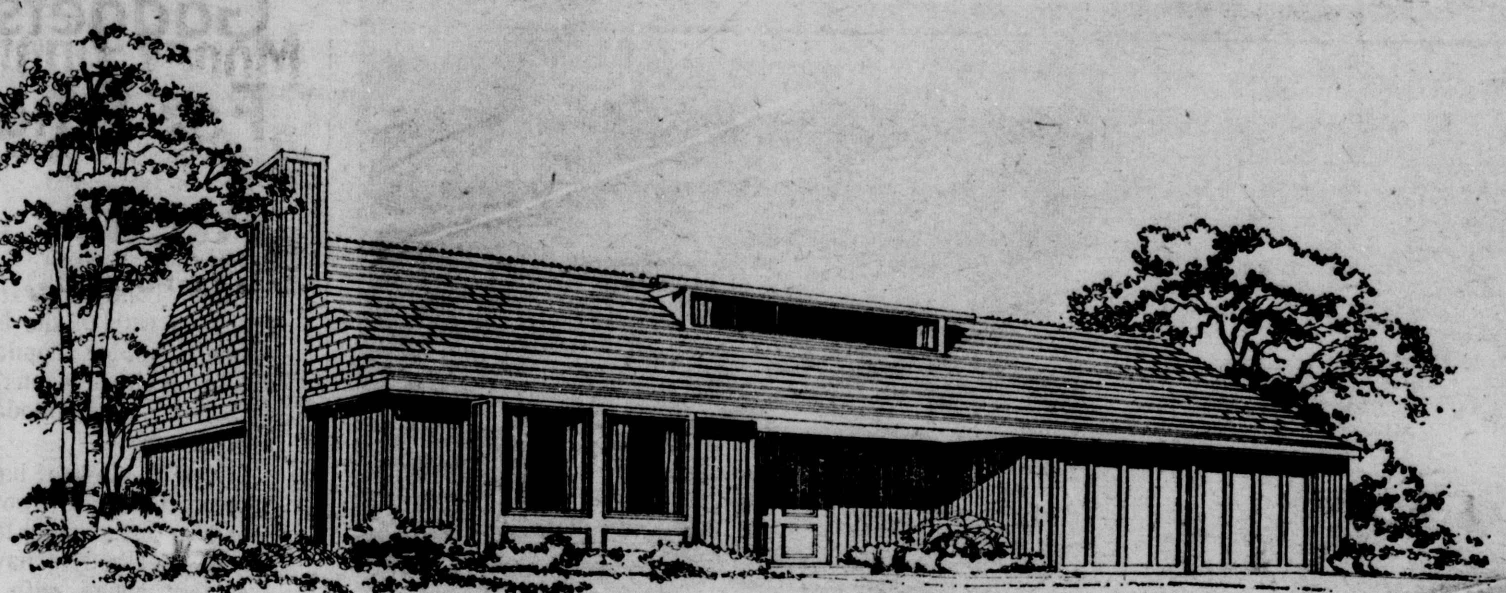
The primary function of the room divider, of course, is to define the limits and function of each room within an integrated open area layout.

Here designers, in effect, have cut away the upper portion of hitherto solid wall partitioning by devising room dividers of less than floor-to-ceiling height.

An extra dividend has been the extra function realized with a room divider. Some home planners are working book shelves, cabinet storage, and even desks into the basic design of the room divider. Actually, the possibilities of such secondary usage are as limitless as the planner's imagination.

Coffee In Gardens

Some people have had good results from treating house plants with coffee grounds and cold, leftover tea. The coffee grounds, they say, seem to nourish the plants. Sprinkle them on top of the soil, then water the plant. Cold tea is said to act as a fertilizer and insecticide.



STONERIDGE HOMES will open four models in Sunset-San Marin, Novato, this weekend. Shown here is one of 12 elevation designs. Homes are in one and two-story plans with three and four bedrooms and within easy walking distance of the San Marin Club which offers family recreation facilities.

Make Lovely Window View On Terrace

If you don't have a lovely view in front of your picture window, make one. Japanese gardens, for instance, can be built in only a few feet of space. A graden or terrace that stops only 20 feet away can look as pleasant as a country vista. A row of potted plants inside the window or ivy twined around it also provides interest when it's dreary outside, if the window, itself, is always clean and bright.

A display of a lovely crystal collection on shelves in front of a window on a staircase, for instance adds color and beauty, too, if the crystal and window both shine.

Stoneridge Homes To Open New Models This Weekend

Stoneridge Home will open four new models this weekend at Sunset/San Marin, the 2,200-acre Novato hillside planned community, it was announced by Thomas D. Zoumaras, Jr., sales manager.

The homes are available in one and two-story plans with three and four bedrooms. Each home has a minimum of two baths and some models have two-and-a-half baths.

Large master bedrooms, family rooms, Hotpoint kitchens with ash cabinets and ceramic tile counters and decorator fixtures are some of the Stoneridge features.

The homes, designed by Fisher-Friedman Associates, AIA, of San Francsico, are within easy walking distance of the San Marin Club, which offers complete facilities for swimming, tennis, handball, arts and crafts, meetings and social gatherings.

Stoneridge Homes are available on FHA, VA and conventional terms. The first 50 homes are currently under construction, thereby assuring purchasers of an early move-in date.

Sunset/San Marin is one of eight totally planned communities being developed in California by Sunset International.

Stoneridge models can be reached by driving north on Highway 101 to Novato, turning left on San Marin Drive and following the signs.

Boy Of The House Can Decorate Own Room

Don't let the task of decorating your son's room create a family row. If, like boys everywhere, he wants to add to the decorating himself, by all means encourage him. More often than not, you will find he has some interesting ideas.

A boy's hobbies, for instance, can be the home decorator's best friend. Not only can most indoor hobbies be beautifully integrated into any decorating scheme, but they project mood and character of the hobbyist, which adds to any room. Those plastic hobby kits of boats, planes and cars, as an example, are easily assembled, yet have a professional appearance when completed and displayed in a boy's room.

If your son is keen on ships, old and new, such as the famous Cutty Sark or today's SS United States, you are way ahead of the game.

Some boys take such pride in their completed models, you may find the best answer is to create an attractive display area in the room, devoted exclusively to them.

Area Rug Is Now Darling Of The Decorating Clan

Area rugs have become the darlings of the decorating clan. Used as a focal point on a well-polished floor, the area rug can be an important decorative factor. It can emphasize a color in the over-all scheme, pick up a minor one in a patterned fabric and make it important, or introduce a new accent color.

In a traditional room, an Oriental rug can be used to establish a color plan and the hues of fabrics chosen for upholstered furniture can be selected from those in the rug.

However, no matter how much a homemaker may want to add the charm of an area rug to her room, she is more often than not faced with a problem: area rlugs are wanderers at heart.

You may wait months, years (forever!) to find such liberal financing on such attractive country home sites—and just 50 minutes from San Francisco.

The Diamond A Ranch was once the real thing. Today the cowboys don't always wear boots or use saddles or have short hair! Instead of one big ranch house there are 30 ranch houses set well apart but only a moment's trot from the center of things: the Riding & Racquet Club.

The Diamond A is 1200 acres of oak-knolled beauty with miles of private riding trails that rim the Valley of the Moon. It's made for horses, for swimming before breakfast and tennis after 6.

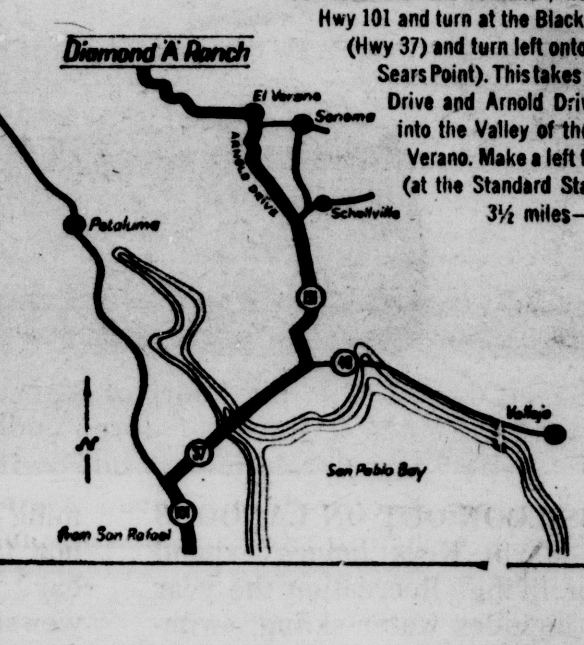
15% down will buy you 1½ acres of Diamond A Ranch. If you have been looking for land, any kind of land, you know how tough financing is these days. Diamond A is an exception because we have dedicated an amount of private capital to the financing. So come up while it lasts. You will be investing in a unique sort of life (whoever heard of a Riding & Racquet Club?) and in an area where no lot has ever been resold without a profit!

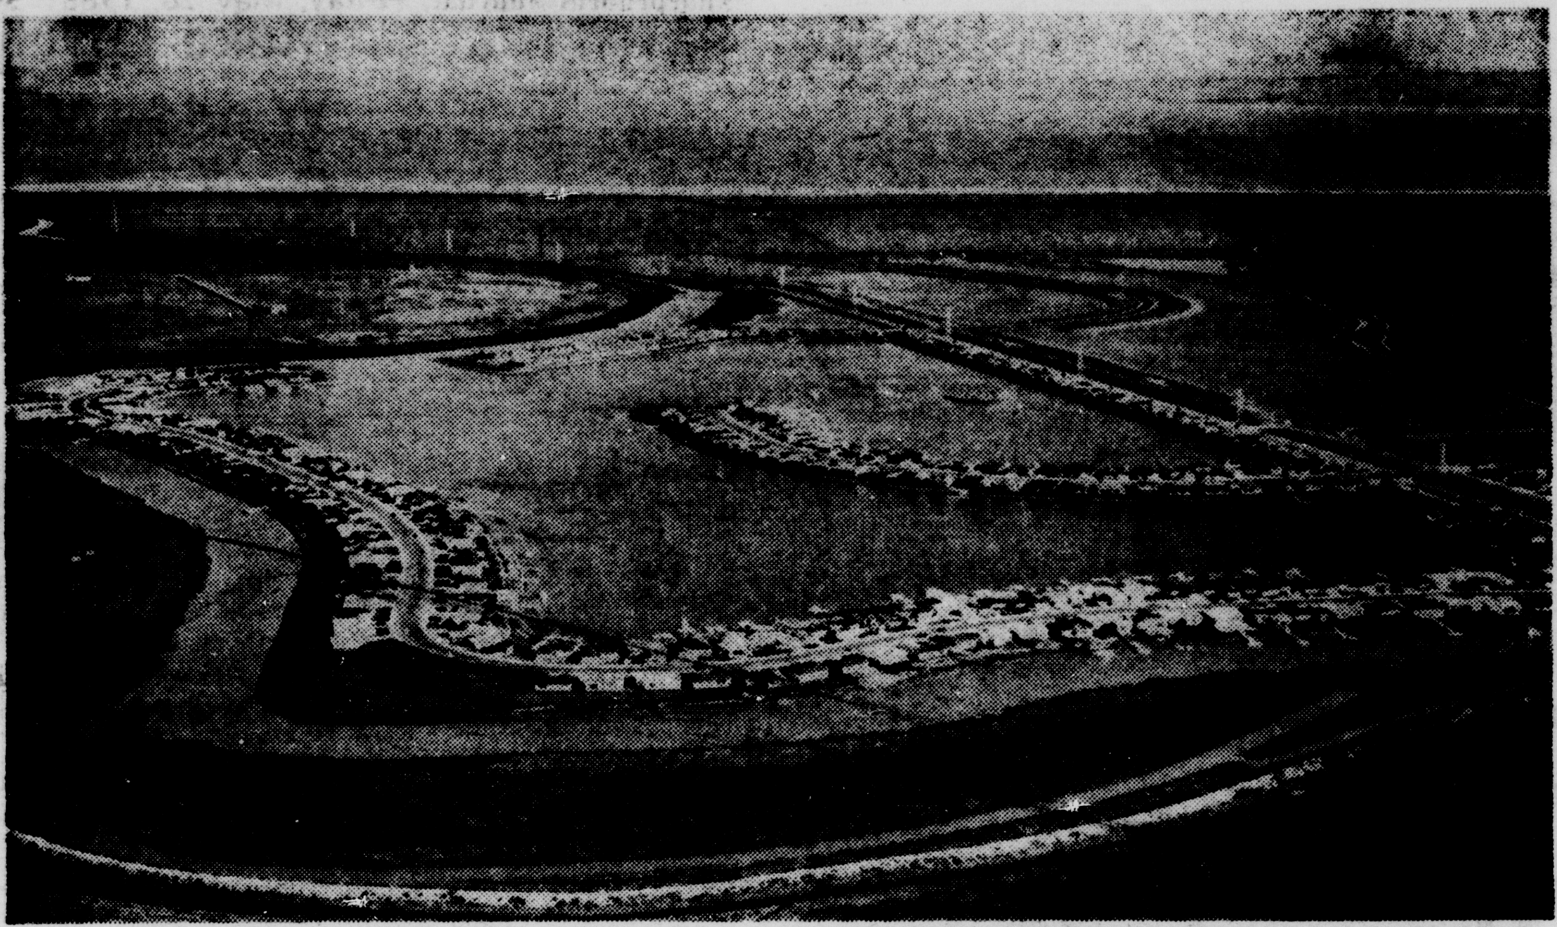
15% down, 7% interest, $100 month buys you a good piece of Sonoma's

Diamond A Ranch

Diamond A Ranch Estates are 1½ to 2½ acres with all improvements (no bonds) priced from $9950. Telephone 996-6792 (Area Code 707) collect.

To reach Diamond A Ranch, head north on Hwy 101 and turn at the Black Point cut-off (Hwy 37) and turn left onto Hwy 121 (at Sears Point). This takes you to Arnold Drive and Arnold Drive takes you into the Valley of the Moon to El Verano. Make a left turn on Grove (at the Standard Station) and in 3½ miles—you're here!





FOR 12,000 PEOPLE—Formerly the Marin Meadows Ranch, the 2,200-acre Bel Marin Keys lagoon development in Novato now provides direct deep channel access to the waters of the bay. It is located one mile north of Hamilton Air Force Base, Highway 101—Ignacio turnoff.

HOMES HAVE ATRIUM ENTRANCES — There are "look through" features at Bel Marin Keys model homes where garden lovers may follow their hobby at the front and water lovers may have their recreation in the rear. Homes are priced in the $40,000 to $50,000 range.

ROOMS LOOK OUT ON LAGOONS—Bel Marin Keys homes expand outdoor living. Recreation the year round includes water skiing, swimming and boating of all kinds and now fishing, with accessibility to the bay. Every home has at least one viewsite like this.

Resales Offer Opportunities For Shore Life

Bel-Marin Keys has been attracting many buyers interested in moving into waterway homes that are already landscaped and fenced.

These homes are resales usually where previous owners have been transferred out of the area after putting in trees, shrubs and other yard improvements which make them particularly appealing. Resales are now available in the $30,000 to $45,000 range.

In charge of sales is Fox & Carskadon Inc., who maintains a branch office at 104 Caribe Isle. W. H. Feldman is in charge. Staffing salesmen are A. H. Ecoff and his wife, Mrs. Laverne Ecoff; Robert Cook and George Neumann.

All homes in this area are planned for maximum water exposure as the deep water channels lead directly to the bay and the sea beyond. Practically every room looks out on the delightful blue lagoons.

Many of the custom-designed resale homes on the market feature recent schools of architecture utilizing redwood and brick and redwood in varying degrees of surface effects.

Bel-Marin Keys, located one mile north of Hamilton Air Force Base, will be the largest area of waterfront homes in Marin.

The concept of "Live More Each Day" at Bel Marin Keys attracts home buyers who like to enjoy vacation parties every day of the year.

100 Per Cent Mishap

BJARKOEY, Norway (UPI) — A recent study of the traffic accident rate on this tiny island showed it to be 100 per cent. The islands's only truck and only station wagon collided on the island's only road.

Gadgets For Small Areas

Many homemakers feel they must do without the benefits of modern major appliances because their kitchens are too small to accommodate these work-savers.

If your kitchen has limited space, there are two new appliances that take up little room, yet permit you to have a free-standing range with wall-type oven, and a dishwasher that fits right underneath the sink.

One new model automatic dishwasher fits into a 24-inch area underneath a six-inch-deep sink bowl.

By using the formerly wasted space underneath a sink, it's possible for homemakers with small kitchens to have all the conveniences of this popular appliance. The plumbing fits right or left in an adjacent 12-inch area, and with an off-set sink bowl, a food waste disposer can be installed for a complete clean-up center.

A new 30-inch range is a "split-level" model that provides many cooking functions within easy arm's reach. The wall-type "upstairs" oven with wide picture window includes an automatic rotisserie feature. Four surface units in a recessed G-E Sensi-Temp unit. The controls on this range carry out the "split-level" concept, with all controls for the various types of oven cooking at eye level, and surface unit pushbuttons side-mounted adjacent to the units they control.

These efficient and space-saving appliances come in many colors.

Shade Trees Are Natural Air Cooling

When one thinks of hot weather, the comfort and peace of a lovely shade tree usually comes into mind, says the American Assn. of Nurserymen.

One of the advantages of natural shade for air-conditioning is that, if your tree is planted in the right location, it will help to cool the indoors as well as the outdoors. The shade tree should be located on the west side of the house at a sufficient distance to shade the west walls and roof as the sun descends in the west during the hottest months. In cooling the house walls, it also cools the indoors.

In order to enjoy cooler mornings in bedrooms on the east side of the house, plant a tree on the east, between the morning sun and the house. Morning temperatures in east bedrooms can be made comfortable and enjoyable in this way.

Another popular place for a shade tree is a location where the shade will keep a patio cool for outdoor enjoyment. Medium and large size trees can be located to provide shade where and when you want it in the hottest months. Shade trees can be planted at any time of the year that a hole can be dug in the ground.

Build Storage Space For Photo Projectors

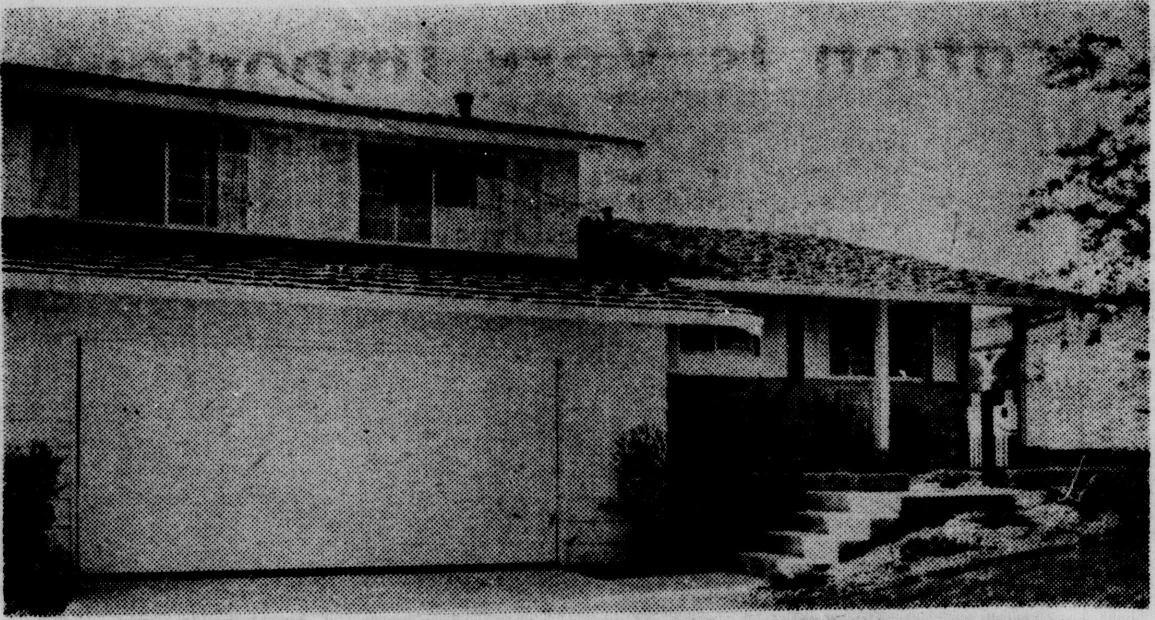
The last scene of summers' vacation has flickered off the screen and the show is over. Who is going to put away the screen and projector? And, more important, where?

In the closet behind the coats? Under the bed? Or in a cabinet specially built for this purpose. Although some projectors and screens undoubtedly do end up in the closet, this obviously is not the place for valuable equipment.

Any home movie enthusiast knows that photography equipment should be carefully stored. It is valuable, and to make it last a long time, it should be given special handling.

A most practical answer to this storage problem is to build a cabinet to fit your photographic equipment.

Specifications of the cabinet should be determined by the size of the largest piece of equipment — probably the folding screen.



IDEAL FOR SLOPED TERRAIN

This is the Y model at the Twelve-oak Hill subdivision just north of San Rafael. Functional as well as well laid out, it is a tri-level home with three bedrooms, three baths and family room with a wet bar. A development of American Housing Guild.

Sonoma Mini-Ranches Offer Memberships In Unusual Club

Diamond A Ranch Estates, a community of mini-ranches located 3 miles up in the hills West of Sonoma, is putting the finishing strokes on the charter for a unique social and recreational facility to be known as the Diamond A Riding and Racquet Club.

The clubhouse is a typical Sonoma ranch house that served as headquarters for the old Berrien Anderson working ranch. Renovation will provide a good-sized dining area and a community room which looks out from under the veranda to stables, corral and new pink and green championship tennis courts (christened just last week). A chuck wagon barbecue area, fishing lake and swimming pool will be other attractions of the new club. A limited number of memberships are being made available to residents of the surrounding area but the great majority are reserved for property owners, on a preferential basis.

The 17-acre club and every estate lot on Diamond A Ranch overlooks Jack London's storied domain and on down to the bay (15-miles south). The rolling oak-knolled character of the lands belies the sweeping panoramas that unexpectedly appear before you.

The ranch affords many miles of panoramic riding trails that are nowhere precipitous but cover country that is "above it all." Bob Garlick, Diamond A's "trail boss" (the man in charge of sales!) describes it as ". . . the kind of country you see in those movies about beavers and dogs and barefoot boys; all green and quiet and nice to come home to."

Lots average 1.8 acres in size, allowing every family to keep two horses on their property. Of the 100 parcels already sold 34 homes have been built. The horse population now stands at 20 . . . with more hoofbeats in the distance.

However, most of Diamond A's year 'round residents will be found working in Marin according to the company's president, William Troy.

Diamond A Ranch Estates' per acre costs average $6,000 which is about what an acre cost in Novato ten years ago . . . without improvements or any Riding & Racquet Club.

Anyone who would like to spread out a picnic on one of the lots for sale at Diamond A is welcome to do just that! Directions call for you to drive out the Black Point Cutoff and turn off where a sign points left for Sonoma. Drive straightaway for El Verano (just to the left of Sonoma, on Arnold Drive) and turn left on Grove which will take you 3½ miles up into that secret place in the hills that is Diamond A Ranch.

Location Is Very Important For New Patio Room

Finding a logical site for the addition of a summer patio room to your home isn't always as easy as falling off a log. Convenience, privacy, the naturalness of the addition's looks, cool breezes and usually a few other personal considerations play a role in determining a patio room's location.

Kitchens positioned at the rear of a home are ideal as the rooms adjacent to the summer living room. Not only are they food centers, but walking through them generally invades no one's privacy. But since all homes do not have kitchens at the rear, the pros and cons of locating the addition next to other rooms must be considered carefully.

An outdoor room that cannot be quickly reached through some room of the home usually proves to be a disappointment.

The naturalness of any addition's looks are important to the interior anad exterior architectural design for your home. On the inside a continuation of the adjacent room's appearance will most effectively contribute to visual unity.

Exterior lines, especially roof lines, and materials also should harmonize so that the addition does not have a "tacked-on" or "after-thought" look.

Finally, weather patterns at your home should not be ignored. The availability of cool breezes and the absence of the hot summer sun are the usual features sought for a patio room.

ADULT COMMUNITY HOME—The Sonoman is one of several plans for homes at Temelec in the Valley of the Moon. Sales for the development have been taken over by Fox and Carskadon. Homes are under construction by Nelson Construction Co. of San Rafael. Furnished models are open daily from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Adult Home Area

Fox & Carskadon, residential real estate firm has been appointed exclusive sales agents for TEMELEC, adult home community in the Valley of the Moon near Sonoma. William Falcon is in charge of the on-site sales office. An extensive building program is being reactivated.

Homes are now under constrution by Nelson Construction Company of San Rafael, who is using three different plans featuring two bedrooms, one bath; two bedrooms, two baths and three bedrooms and two baths. Exteriors are of wood siding, stucco and brick. Shake and shingle roofs are featured. All models have fireplaces, nylon carpets, and all-electric kitchens. Homes will be air-conditioned, fully insulated and will utilize perimeter forced air heating.

Prices will range from $23,950 to complement the present schedule of homes in the community which range from $14,950 for 1 and 2-bedroom weekend countryhouses to $18,450 for 2 and 3-bedroom country residences. All are completely carpeted, air-conditioned and have two-car garages. All utilities are underground.

The emphasis on selling in TEMELEC, according to Falcon, is the ideal climate and the ideal location close to the Sonoma Golf Course, the Redwood Empire recreational area and the City of San Francisco. With the building of the attractive new homes now under construction, it is anticipated that there will be an additional spurt of interest on the part of discriminating adults to buy in this established adult community.

TEMELEC caters to adults only. It is planned for people who wish to lead an active life of their own and live as they have always lived, rather than in a controlled community.

Purchase of a home entitles the buyer to membership in the historic TEMELEC Country Club with its acres of cultivated greenways near the Sonoma Golf Course. A swimming pool and barbecue area adjoins providing much enjoyment for residents who include people from all over the United States and Canada.

Furnished models and the sales office are open seven days a week from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

TEMELEC may be reached by turning off Hwy. 101 via Hwy. 37 on Arnold Drive near Sonoma. Follow the signs.

Household Chores Cut For Cuba Farm Wives

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The Cuban government has promised to relieve wives of one of their biggest household chores — cooking — if they pick coffee beans and cut sugar cane instead.

The minister of the food industry, Rolando Alvarez, said in a broadcast heard in Miami that the government would start offering precooked meals that need to be heated only a few minutes.

Sales Pace Brisk At Fox-Carskadon

Brisk action in residential real estate in Marin County has been greatly accelerated through the efforts of the various Marin offices of Fox & Carskadon, Inc., large Bay Area residential real estate firm.

In addition to the main Marin County office, located at 1435 Fourth Street, San Rafael, it also maintains several other offices, such as the office at the Loch Lomond Shopping Center off San Pedro Road, which serves Loch Lomond, Glenwood, Peacock Gap, where the firm is not only exclusive agents for that area, but also for The Knoll, half-million dollar townhouse development.

A temporary Southern Marin office is maintained at 104 Tiburon Boulevard, until a larger office building is completed in late 1966.

In addition, one-site sales staffs serve as exclusive agents for the following: Dominican Heights in San Rafael, with its lovely panoramic view; Vista Verde Homes, first major real estate development in San Anselmo; Trillium Lane on the slopes of Mount Tamalpais in Mill Valley; Mount Tiburon, with sites overlooking the entire bay; Bel-Marin Keys in Novato.

Fox & Carskadon, Inc., recently sold 35 residential properties in one month, totaling over $1,500,000. The professional sales staff now totals 30 people.

Fox & Carskadon, Inc., has been operating in the Bay Area since 1929 and maintains six offices down the Peninsula, with headquarters located at Menlo Park, California.

Thermostat Settings Not Sacred

There was a time when 68 or 72 degrees — or some other equally arbitrary thermostat setting — was believed to be the "right" temperature to maintain in your home.

This idea is old-fashioned and obsolete. The basis for selecting the temperature in a home should be the comfort of the people living in it, and this can vary during different times of the day or in accordance with certain factors.

These factors include how active you are, the type of clothing you generally like to wear around the house, what the humidity is, whether your home is located in an exposed area where it's buffeted by high winds, and so on. It also depends upon the age of the occupants. Older folks, for example, usually like more heat than do younger members of the family. Some people like to turn the thermostat down overnight to cool off the house, then raise it again in the morning.

Modern thermostats are designed to give precise control of your heat within one or two degrees.

It's Blossom Time In May At Nurseries

Maytime is blossom time at nurseries. Many different types of flowering shrubs and trees are in flower for home owners to select the plants which they like best for their home properties, according to the American Assn. of Nurserymen.

At this time of the year home owners look to the outdoors, not only glad to be out in the fresh air, but eager to plant and beautify for the summer months.

It is the time to plan for a shade tree, or for remodeling overgrown landscaping. It is the time for planting perennials, roses, as well as shrubs and trees, according to one's choice.

Bathroom Color Trick Aids Changing Decor

For a fresh look in your bathroom, plan a color scheme that is interchangeable. If colors are carefully coordinated, you can change the appearance of the room by simply changing your towels and rug.

Begin with the largest design area, such as a shower curtain, or a fixed tone such as the tiles, and work your color scheme around these basic shades. If the curtain combines two or three colors, let these hues create the basis for an everchanging decor. Select towels and rugs that co-ordinate with the tones in the curtain. Vary your choice, however. Have one set in a vibrant tone, another in pastel.

The floor is a very important color area, and the new types of bathroom rugs come in a wide variety of colors so that you can change your color scheme often. They're luxurious in appearance and feel and come in sizes and shapes to fit any room. And best of all, they take to the washing machine with the alacrity of a towel.

If the dominant color of your bathroom can't be changed, don't be intimidated. Take advantage of the situation, for unusual color combinations are big news this year. Be bold in using color, the results will be different and rewarding.

Modern Room Divider Idea Moves Outdoors

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

The room divider idea is going outdoors, especially where one wants an enclosure that is really not an enclosure. Structural forms can provide that illusion of beauty, without creating a permanent barrier.

It is a trend that Americans can now accept—something that seems to serve no practical purpose but is an asset where it is used. A cultural age that feels deprived if it doesn't have handsome statuary and specimen boxwood in the garden can accept intriguing substitutes. But if one feels that only a wall can provide enclosure, the new design idea will offer little appeal.

You can design, your own forms, once you get the general idea, and the home handyman can do the project with hand tools, although an electric saw and drill will be helpful. Make your forms tall or short, wide or skinny. Sketch the idea on paper before you begin.

Interesting redwood structures designed by landscape artist, Richard G. Murray of Carmel, Calif., might at first glance look like fancy telephone poles. They comprise a series of crossbeams and grids set on top of a single beam and two stylized cross beams comprising a 6 foot by 4 foot area. He designed them to be used either as a design element independently or to compliment each other when used in groups. They may be set far apart used at an entry or close together as a patio divider or in a row as a walk esplanade. Murray's structural forms are built of Simpson's kiln-dried California redwood.

Here are the step-by-step directions. Vary the idea to suit your own taste.

Dig a 26-inch deep hole for 6 inch by 6 inch by 10 foot redwood post. (An extra six inches deep filled in with gravel can facilitate better drainage.) Set posts in concrete.

Now — cut and taper two 2-inch by 10 inch by 6 foot stylized redwood beams. Predrill two holes on either side of the beams that will be attached to the post using ½ inch by 10 inch black iron bolts and nuts. You cut four braces from excess in the 2 inch by 10 inch beam and toe-nail two to each side of the beam. Now you nail four 4 inch by 4 inch by 4 foot redwood joists in place, two on each side placed widthwise. Indent 10 inches and place six inches apart leaving 24 inches between the two sets of joists. Nail six 2 inch by 3 inch by 6 foot redwood grid support rails over the joints lengthwise. Indent four inches from joist tips and place three on each side four inches apart with twelve inches between the sets. Put twenty 2 inch by 2 inch by 18 inch redwood top grids on to the support rails in four sets of five: Indent each set three inches from tip of support rails with each four inches apart and 15 inches between each set of two along the length. Use galvanized or aluminum nails.

If the redwood is left natural it will turn a dark russet color and eventually turn to a soft, silvery gray as it ages. But it can be stained, painted or finished with a clear water repellent sealer if one prefers.

Enjoy Silver By Using It Daily

Your silver is meant to be used and appreciated, not only on holidays and "state occasions" but all year around. And there's no reason why you can't enjoy its beauty every day.

Research has found that, actually, it is use that gives silver that fine "heirloom" patina. Just remember these few simple rules and you can keep it gleaming without fuss and bother.

After serving such foods as eggs, vinegary salad dressings or citrus fruits, rub a little silver cream over the affected areas. This saves elbow grease later.

In storing, avoid contact with rubber bands, paper or cardboard unless specially treated. Camphor fumes help to ward off tarnish, but actual contact will cause stains. Tarnish-retardent bags are great tuck-away aids, particularly when they are completely airtight.

When you treat your silver with silver cream, always rub in the direction of the "grain." If the pattern is embossed, use an old toothbrush to massage in the cream.

Dishwashers Offering Ever Better Service

More than 6½ million homemakers now own automatic dishwashers. They save themselves from one to two hours of drudgery a day. They also get their dishes cleaner because the dishwasher uses hotter water and stronger detergent than human hands can comfortably stand.

A number of misconceptions about dishwashers persist—that dishes must be pre-rinsed, that china and glassware tend to chip, that glasses spot and that the appliance can't handle pots and pans. None of these are true about current models. These are among the features homemakers like most about their dishwashers:

1. Many models have a rinsing cycle that enables the homemaker to rinse breakfast and luncheon dishes, then hold them until the machine is fully loaded after the evening meal. Then the machine can be put through the complete cycle of washing, rinsing and drying. This saves time, energy, electricity and water.

2. The racks are designed so that they are adjustable. Thus the appliance can take larger pieces such as pots and pans, and the rest of the dishes can be put in where they fit. This is in contrast to older models than called for a rigid system of loading.

3. There's a wider range of cycles available—for doing company-best china and stemware, lightly soiled dishes or very dirty pots and pans. These cycles are intended for use in special cases, since under normal day-to-day conditions, the homemaker puts everything in at once.

4. Many current models pulverize or liquefy soft foods that get into the dishwasher and flush them down the drain.

5. The new models run more quietly.

6. They have filter guards to eliminate the possibility of dirt being re-deposited on clean dishes after washing or rinsing.

7. There are certain technical advances that provide more vigorous water circulation, etc. with which the average homemaker doesn't concern herself—although she likes the results in terms of spotlessly clean dishes.

As in the case of all plumbed-in appliances, information on the models available can be obtained from your plumbing contractor.

New Plumbing, Appliances Make Home Life Happier

You can now get a showerhead that adjusts to as many as eight positions, ranging from a tingling needle spray to a soft flood. The adjustment is made by means of a handle. The showerheads are self-cleaning too.

Three little appliances for the kitchen are finding increasing favor with homemakers. One is an instant hot water device. The second is a plumbed-in coffee maker, and the third, an automatic ice maker. Women love them, not only because they simplify meal preparation but they help to provide an easy answer to the eternal question: What to serve the unexpected guest in the way of quick-to-prepare liquid refreshments.

Some North Africans are so used to drinking brackish water that they take salt with them on their travels to mix with coffee.

Teen-Age Grooming Aid Idea

Beacuse her grooming chores are usually accompanied by a chorus of wails from outside the bathroom door, to "hurry up," it's understandable, if not completely forgivable, that Miss Teen leaves the bathroom cluttered and disorderly.

One solution, suggested by a teen herself, is a beauty book shelf box, made from a shoe box, which will hold bobby pins, comb, brush, lipstick, powder, shaver, hand lotion, deodorant, hair spray and other items.

First, protect the inside of the box by covering it with shelf paper. Secure edges with cellophane tape. To create the effect of books, use vertical strips of colored plastic tape, constrasting light and dark colors. Alternate wide strips with narrower ones, so that the effect more closely resembles a book shelf.

For book titles, cut words from magazines or any new cosmetics you have recently purchased. You'll find plenty of references to bobby pins, lipstick and so on. Secure these to the "books" with doublefaced cellophane tape.

Use the same arrangement of colored plastic tapes on the shoe box cover, so when the box is closed it will give a uniform appearance.

Now the box can be toted to the bathroom for grooming and removed quickly to leave room for the next person.

Sculptured Tiles Help Alter Walls

A common wall offers more decorating possibilities than is often realized at first glance. Usually we thing of color, pattern and texture as the only dimensions of a wall that can be altered, since size, shape and form are presumed to be static.

Form, however, can be changed. New ceramic tiles that have sculptured surfaces provide the means. Tile manufacturers now offer a wide variety of sculptured tiles that fall under the general category of decorator tiles.

The sculptured tiles have different planes that are light- and eye-catching. An advantage of using a multi-pieced wall surfacing is that the design can be highly individualistic. Many designs are possible with just one type of sculptured tile, which may have either a slick, glass-like glaze finish or mat finish.

Use of the sculptured tiles is chiefly for accent walls, such as in foyers, living and dining rooms. They are also used as the main decorative feature in bathrooms. But wherever they are placed, the effect is stunning.

Hard Water Spots

If you live in a hard water area and own a dishwasher, you can prevent spotting on glassware by cutting down on the amount of detergent you use.

Computer To Replace Housemaid?

By DOROTHEA M. BROOKS
United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI)—Household help — the cheerful, reliable "member of the family" type help — is a thing of the past, as any homemaker will tell you.

The woman who would help out with the cleaning, or cooking, or washing, or with the kids, depending upon the need of the moment has gone along with the old-time handyman.

BUT . . . there's a replacement coming if you can hang on another couple of decades.

It will come in the form of a small, table-top computer that will be instructed (programmed) to help with the shopping, cooking, cleaning and other household chores — and to do it on voice command; no complicated computer school for the lady of the house.

Just what could this electronic helper do around the house?

Turn on the lights when it gets dark, close the windows when it rains, sound a burglar alarm if anyone tires to break in, control atmospheric conditions for the optimum in health and comfort.

If the bridge game were running longer than expected you could telephone the computer and give it new instructions. It could turn on the oven to start the meat and the stove-top burners to cook the vegetables, timing it so that the food would be done to a turn and piping hot when you sat down.

Or, should you decide to dine out at the last moment, you could call your electronic chef and tell it it had the night off.

Sound far-fetched? Well, electronics engineers are confident this development is not only probable, but possible within the next couple of decades. They cite the rapid scientific strides of the past two decades and predict even greater changes in the years ahead.

General David Sarnoff, Chairman of Radio Corporation of America, even foresees the day when computers will team up with the family television set to help with the shopping.

"By pressing a button," he said recently, "a housewife will be able to look at the merchandise in department stores or other local shops and make her selections. She will push another button and the computer will place the order and make the necessary deduction from her bank account. Not even a check to write!

While all these changes will be revolutionary in scope, the electronics experts stress they will come about in an evolutionary process. Most of the instruments of this revolution are at hand, and some already are in use.

It's a matter of time, but the day is coming when the family computer will act as a central control for all the electrically-run appliances and utilities in the home. Tiny electronic sensing devices located throughout the home will feed all necessary information to the computer.

For example, one sensing device will tell it when clothes in the dryer are free of moisture, and the computer will shut off the dryer. Another will tell the computer the water in the pot is boiling, and it will turn down the burner. Other sensing devices will keep track of such things as temperature, humidity and dust, cueing the computer to take action to counteract changes.

All kitchen appliances—food mixers, blenders, dish washers, ovens, refrigerators — will be run by the computer, with longer equipment life and an almost unlimited choice of performance characteristics as additional bonuses.

For example, pin-point speed control devices — would permit use of this appliance for folding an angel cake — still a hand chore with today's mixers.

Of course, when it comes to cooking food or washing clothes, the housewife will have to put the soiled laundry in the washer and the meat in the oven. The computer control center is designed to help—not to replace — the lady of the house.

Today's computers cost too much for the homeowner and before it finds its way into the home, chances are families will time-share a central computer with neighbors, paying only for time actually used. But, as computers get smaller and costs come down, the electronic helper will begin appearing in homes.

Electronics engineers estimate that 30 per cent of the cost of an appliance is in the electromechanical control. Appliances of the future will contain tiny, solid-state sensing devices with the computer providing the control mechanism. And, since it is estimated for instance, that 60 per cent of all service calls on home laundry equipment involves the electro-mechanical timers and control devices, this will mean reduced service calls and costs.

Electronic controls — under such names as silicon controlled rectifiers and triacs — already have made their appearance on the retail scene, and eventually such controls will improve the performance and usefulness of three out of four home appliances.

New Mattress Pad

Now homemakers can say goodbye to mattress pads that flatten out, get lumpy, or shrink when they're machine washed and dried. A new mattress pad, especially designed to go through the washer-dryer cycle without shrinkage, is quilted with soft Dacron polyester fiberfill that stays fluffy through frequent launderings.

Towel Economies

Save money in the kitchen by cutting up old turkish towels for use as potholders and by boiling mesh orange sacks for 15 minutes in laundry bleach to make dishcloths.

Timing Your Move Smooths Carpet, Furniture Worries

If you are moving your old carpeting to your new residence, and are planning to have it cleaned, arrange for the cleaning before you move, not after you have moved into your new home. Arrange to have the carpeting cleaned and delivered to your new residence before your furniture arrives.

In scheduling a move from one house or apartment to another, try to avoid the first and last weeks of the month. The two weeks in between offer better opportunities for service. Moving van equipment and manpower is more readily available during middle-of-the-month periods, because most moves are scheduled for month-end.

THOUGHTFUL PLANNING—This particular arrangement of living room and adjoining family room is ideal for families who enjoy entertaining. Folding doors allow the two rooms to be combined into one spacious area for large gatherings. Mackey Homes are being shown in San Marin, Novato.

Homes With Active Family In Mind

Mackay homes at Sunset/San Marin were designed with the active family in mind, reports John C. McKay, president of the building firm.

"The area's close proximity to San Francisco and the possibility of more sophisticated home buyers led us to develop plans that lend themselves to entertaining . . . Sunset/San Marin's perfect climate also dictated plans that fit into the outdoor living scheme," he said. The result is the busy family, the family with active youngsters . . . and those families who enjoy entertaining and outdoor living will find homes with the very features they want at Sunset/San Marin."

Families oriented to the outdoor way of life will appreciate the numerous details incorporated into every Mackay home for an interplay of indoor-outdoor living. Most plans feature family rooms with sliding glass doors that lead to the patio. Master bedroom suites in many of the models also have sliding glass doors for patio access. All homes have pass-through utility rooms in the garage that also serve as "buffer zones" to trap yard dirt carried in by youngsters and gardening parents. Garages have side doors that lead to play areas.

All yards are completely fenced, and all entries are tiled. Every plan features a central hall arrangement that routes foot traffic away from the more formal areas of the home for more carefree casual living. One model is available with a spacious courtyard that can double as a summer living room.

Mackay homes also have great appeal for the families who enjoy entertaining. Many plans feature adjacent living and family rooms. When the door between the two is open, there is one spacious area perfect for parties and social gatherings. Modern, fully-equipped, all-electric kitchens feature such hostess delights as built-in double oven, range, disposer, dishwasher, hood and exhaust fan. The custom-built used brick or slumpstone fireplaces, dramatic cathedral beamed ceilings, sunken living rooms and wall paneling featured in many models create an inviting atmosphere.

At Sunset/San Marin Mackay offers a wide selection of floor plans and exterior designs in ranch-type and two-story models. All have shake roofs, perimeter heating, wall and ceiling insulation, ceramic tile baths and front lawns. Every home buyer has a choice of interior and exterior colors, lighting fixtures and floor tile patterns. Home prices range from $28,550 to $31,325 with VA and FHA financing available.

To reach San Marin, take Highway 101 to San Marin Drive, just north of Novato. Turn left and follow San Marin Drive to the Mackay models.

Hard Water Can Cause Much Worry

It's estimated that 80 per cent of the United States has water that's hard enough to double or even triple the homemaker's job. If you have trouble getting your soap to suds up, then more trouble rinsing it away, you've got hard water. Film on glassware, the ring around the bathtub, a gummy feeling on your hair after a shampoo—these are other telltale signs that your water is hard.

Great grandma depended upon the rainbarrel for her soft water, and doled it out carefully for special uses, such as her monthly shampoo or laundering fancy woolens. Today's homemaker is much luckier. She can have an automatic water softener.

This modern appliance takes up little space, and its operation is simple. The water flows through a softening tank containing a chemical that removes the iron, calcium or other hardening mineral. As the chemical becomes saturated with the minerals it absorbs, it's automatically regenerated.

The automatic water softener is a real wife-saver. It makes cooking, cleaning and laundering easier. It also saves money. It's estimated that clothes washed in soft water last about 25 per cent longer. The water softener also extends the life of plumbed-in appliances that are otherwise affected by scaly mineral deposits.

Carpeting Has Own Enemies

Dirt and stains are a carpet's greatest enemies. And stains which are taken care of at once are not only easire to remove but also can usually be removed entirely.

Alcoholic Beverages — Blot up excess liquid, sponge with clean damp sponge, blot again. Using detergent foam, sponge and blot again.

Coffee, tea, colas — Quick action is necessary. Blot up excess liquid, rinse with damp cloth and then blot up moisture. Use detergent foam, sponge and blot again.

Blood Stains — Blot thoroughly. Sponge repeatedly with cold water, wiping area and blotting with towel between spongings. Sponge with detergent and dry. If still stained, apply white vinegar, blot and sponge with clear water.

Candy foodstuff—Clean with damp clean sponge, then with detergent solution foam. Wipe excess with clean sponge and dry.

Fat and Grease — Blot, then use dry cleaning fluid to sponge area. Blot dry and repeat if necessary.

If you're housebreaking a puppy, try club soda when the little charmer has an accident. Dilute the stain immediately with cold water and blot. Then apply club soda, blot after a few minutes and vacuum when dry.

Drapes Add Color

Because they provide natural drainage and protection against high room temperatures, porous clay pots are preferred containers for house plants.

Colorful drapes, brightly illuminated by fluorescent fixtures, will make your living room spring to life during the evening or dark days.

Appliances In Color

In the section of kitchen appliances, be sure to consider color as well as mechanical features. The wide range of pastel colors in which home appliances are now available will serve to add a distinctive style to your kitchen.

Be A Cool Cat With Your Wine

Is it necessary to own a cave to store wines properly? Must a wine cellar really be below ground, in the basement?

The answer to both questions is a resounding no, according to the Wine Institute. It is true, the Institute reports from San Francisco, that wines keep best in a cool place out of the light. But these requirements can be met without resorting to a dungeon's dust, cobwebs and clanging iron doors.

Wine collecting always has been an enjoyable hobby. It expresses the personality of the cellarer, gratifies his tastes and pleases his friends.

Today it also can be simple, relatively inexpensive and tidy. A budding cellarer can begin with as few or as many bottles as he likes, building his collection as the inclination moves him. There are enough different California wines for virtually any taste.

The "cellar" can be any cool, dry, dark place in the house. Some do-it-yourself types like to build their own, in cabinets or closets. Any closed cupboard will do as well, in the kitchen (away from heat), the pantry, or even the garage.

For the less ambitious, ready-made storage racks for wine are available in most department and hardware stores. These wood, wire or plastic units generally stack atop one another and come in sizes and shapes to fit most cupboards and cabinets. Here's a quick checklist for your home wine cellar:

It should provide room for a generous supply of corked wine to lies horizontally (this is to keep the corks moist and thus airtight). White and sparking wines go on the cooler bottom shelves and red table wines in the middle. Dessert and appetizer wines, which are less affected by temperature, go on top. Screw-capped bottles can safely stand upright. Their caps will not dry out.

The cellar should have space for future as well as present needs. Don't forget, generally there are case-lot savings.

It should be out of the light — in a stairwell or extra chest of drawers for example — and in a reasonably cool place. Seventy degrees is considered the maximum for good long-term storage. Ideal temperature is around 55.

Where's The Trend? It's To The Pools

The home swimming pool is receiving respectful attention from psychologists as an instrument for keeping American families together.

Recent surveys of pool owners quoted in "Poolside Living" by James Joseph indicated that less than 20 per cent of the owners bought their pools strictly for swimming. The majority—about 56 per cent—admitted that in one way or another they were investing in closer ties.

Norman Udkoff, president of Blue Haven Pools of Northern California, notes a steady trend toward larger pool patios, with more family-style furniture, accessories and outdoor games which all members of the family can use and enjoy.

"While the automobile tends to divide families, and television tends to silence them, the swimming pool and patio brings them together at every age level in a spirit of comradship and fun which promotes family unity," said Udkoff.

"Some of our customer families have told us that their pools helped the parents get 'reacquainted' with their children. In one case, grandparents told us they purchased a pool so they could see their grandchildren more often."

If the swimming pool is an effective antidote for family separation, the therapy will become more widespread because the outlook is for continually expanding sales of pools to a broadening market, according to Udkoff.

Now that the so-called "$2,500 price barrier" has been broken through most of the industry, a huge new market in the medium and lower-medium income brackets has been opened. Families who own their own home but who in the past didn't consider purchase of a pool because they regarded it a luxury they couldn't afford, are now buying pools at an accelerating rate, because a pool is considered a comfort, not a luxury.

"Budget prices and long-term payment plans make it possible for almost any home-owning family with a paycheck income to purchase a pool," said Udkoff. "Symbolically, the family hearth is moving outside to the family poolside barbecue at thousands of American homes."

Decide Ahead On Locations

One way to make moving day easier is to decide ahead of time where the furniture will be placed in your new home and draw up a floor plan of each of the rooms in your new home.

If you are not going to be present when the furniture arrives at your new home, see to it that you give the mover a copy of these room layouts as a guide.

Even if you are present, the layouts will help you direct the relocation so that the job is completed faster and with greater efficiency.

Valence Beautifies

Putting up a decorative valance is one of the simplest and most practical ways to create a beautiful window treatment. An attractive valance can be assembled by framing a section of grillework, which can be painted to coordinate with the draperies.

Ky's Planes Attack Pro-Rebel Troops

Nation Seen On Brink Of Civil War

SAIGON (UPI) — Government fighter planes today strafed a relief column of eight trucks moving rebel reinforcements to Da Nang and killed five rebels, reliable sources reported tonight in the war torn city. Heavy fighting broke out in Da Nang itself and two U.S. Marines were wounded.

The nation appeared closer to all-out civil war.

Buddhist students swept through Saigon in a wild outburst of anti-American rioting protesting continued U.S. aid to Premier Nguyen Cao Ky. Vietnamese police used clubs and tear gas to disperse the 2,000 or more demonstrators in a wild melee.

PLEA TO U.S.

Rebel forces surrounded in Da Nang near two Buddhist pagodas appealed to U.S. Marines to intervene and threatened to destroy the big U.S. Air Base on the outskirts of the city if the Leathernecks did not help.

The rebel relief column moving on Da Nang was reported from the rebel 2nd Division which has headquarters at Hoi An, south of Da Nang. The troop movement was one of the most ominous developments of the spreading chaos.

MARINE HURT

The situation worsened in Da Nang itself when rebels opened up with 91 MM mortars from their perimeter near the pagodas, lobbing shells at government paratroopers in a park six blocks away. Three rounds landed near the U.S. Marine press center and wounded two Marines when fragments riddled a tent.

Government planes have circled low over Da Nang for days but did not fire on the rebel troops although rebels fired on the planes and shot down an American observation plane earlier this week. The attack

Highway Patrol Firing Upheld

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The state Personnel Board ruled today that William H. Brennan was legitimately dismissed from the California Highway Patrol.

Brennan was fired after a killing in Salinas last October. He was acquitted of murder and appealed for reinstatement.

A recommendation was submitted to the state board by Robert L. Hill, who presided at a hearing in San Jose April 29.

Radio's Andy In Hospital

U.S. Sells Warplanes To Israel, First Time

JERUSALEM, Israel (UPI) — The United States has agreed to sell American "tactical" military aircraft to Israel, the government announced today.

It was the first time the United States has sold warplanes to the largely French-equipped Israeli air force. The sale was apparently undertaken to meet increased Soviet assistance to hostile Arab nations during the last decade.

The government announcement did not mention the type or number of American warplanes involved in the deal.

(Diplomatic sources in Washington said the deal involved military jet aircraft).

A Washingto correspondent for the New York Times identified the planes as older models of the A-4 Skyhawk, a lightweight attack bomber that has been a mainstay of the U.S. Navy's carrier strike force in Viet Nam.

(In Cairo, the Egyptian newspaper Al Ahram reported in a dispatch from New York that a number of swept-wing F-111 jet bombers and 80 F-104 jet fighters were included in the sale. The paper also said that Israel would receive 200 Patton M48 tanks).

The government said that American and Israeli negotiators concluded the deal some-time ago. It called the sale a positive step toward the maintenance of stability in the Middle East.

Some diplomatic observers here said the sale may have been made to balance a similar deal with Jordan last month.

On April 2, the U.S. State Department confirmed reports that America had agreed to let Jordan buy from U.S. manufacturers "a limited number" of F-104 jets "for its air defense system" to replace older British models.

Mountain Kidnap Girl Interviewed

SHADE GAP, Pa. (AP) — Peggy Ann Bradnick said today that other than the fear, tension and hardship of being a prisoner in the woods with a killer she emerged from her weeklong ordeal without harm.

The pretty 17-year-old spoke with newsmen at a 10-minute news conference in the Fulton County (Pa) Medical Center where she has been hospitalized since her rescue from her kidnap-killer Wednesday.

Questions were allowed only on the state of her health and her future plans.

San Rafael General Hospital Ordered Closed By May 31

Former Owner Protests

By ROBERT STREBEIGH

San Rafael General Hospital will close May 31 after 61 years of service, its board of trustees announced today.

No new patients will be accepted after Monday.

The terse announcement by the trustees of the non-profit foundation that operates the hospital offered no encouragement to the continuing efforts of former owner John K. Taylor to keep the ailing institution going.

The board said it would close, the hospital "to continue with its plan to build a new hospital in San Rafael and to relieve the pressure of trying to maintain and operate the present inadequate facility."

'NO REASON'

The decision was challenged by Taylor's attorney, Robert H. Fouke of San Francisco. "There is absolutely no insoluble reason for closing the hospital," he said.

Fouke said Taylor would meet with the trustees to seek extension of the deadline while alternatives to closing are sought.

Taylor, who sold the hospital to the foundation in 1959, holds a $365,000, 6 per cent interest mortgage on the hospital, on which payments are $2,150 a month.

Fouke said he has recommended that Taylor offer to give up all interest on the note and reduce the principal to help the foundation continue operating.

OTHER IDEAS

Fouke said other alternatives to closing are:

1. Resignation of the present trustees and appointment of a new board, in which case Taylor would assist in running the hospital and arranging financing.
2. Extension of the deadline to permit "a new group in the county, that is interested, to take over the hospital and run it as a specialized medical facility."

Fouke also said that physicians in Marin could save the hospital if they would send patients there and provide a case

POVERTY WAR RENTS TUXES FOR DANCERS

DOS PALOS (UPI) — The government's war on poverty program will outfit 16 boys in tuxedoes for the Dos Palos Union High School Junior prom next week—and treat them and their dates to dinner.

School Supt. Jack E. Mulkey, who made the announcement yesterday, said going to the Junior Prom is "an experience of cultural development."

Mulkey said that both federal officials and the school faculty agreed with him and approved spending $290 from poverty funds on youths who otherwise could not afford to attend the affair.

Abortion Charges For Two Doctors

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The state board of Medical Examiners filed today charges of unprofessional conduct against two San Francisco physicians, alleging they violated abortion laws.

The non - criminal charges, which could result in suspension or revocation of the physicians' licenses, were filed against Dr. Seymour Smith and Dr. John P. Shively.

Earlier, the attorney general's office said more than 40 Bay Area doctors would eventually be charged with performing therapeutic abortions on women who had been exposed to German measles during pregnancies.

China Atom Blast Upgraded By U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government disclosed today that the recent Red Chinese nuclear blast was considerably more powerful than originally estimated.

An announcement by the Atomic Energy Commission indicated the yield of the May 9 explosion was at least in the 200 kiloton range — equivalent to 200,000 tons of TNT.

This would be considerably higher than a preliminary estimate of 130 kilotons given to newsmen by State Department press officer Robert McCloskey on May 11.

The AEC's announcement said:

"Information now available from the May 9 Chinese Communist test indicates that the yield was in the lower end of the intermediate range."

It added:

"Intermediate range means 200 kilotons up to one megaton (one million tons)."

The commission said it had "nothing further to add" to its statement of May 13 in which it declared Red China's most recent test—the third so far — was not that of a thermonuclear (hydrogen) weapon, although there was evidence that thermonuclear material was present in the device.

"The test was probably an experimental device," the AEC said in that same announcement, "either attempting to increase the yield of the previous low-yield fission device or looking toward an eventual thermonuclear capability."

U.S. Recall Weighed

WASHINGTON (AP) — State Department officials said today the United States is considering ordering the removal of about 400 American civilians in the strife-torn Hue-Da Nang area of South Viet Nam.

Federal Renewal Funds Released

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The federal government released redevelopment grants of $36.5 million to California yesterday as a result of a recent State Supreme Court ruling that Proposition 14 unconstitutional.

Robert L. Runsey, acting director of the San Francisco Redevelopment Agency, said he received notice of the action from the regional office of the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

The grants had been held up by the government because Proposition 14 permitted property owners to discriminate in sales and rentals on the basis of race or religion.

Living Cost Rises Again

WASHINGTON (AP)— Living costs jumped four-tenths of 1 per cent last month, rounding out the biggest January-to-April price rise in 15 years, the Labor Department said today.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics said the major area of the April increase was that of consumer services. Food prices virtually leveled off for the first time since last fall.

Asst. Commissioner Arnold Chase of the bureau said the price increases totaling 1.4 per cent the past three months were the biggest for any corresponding January-to-April period since 1951, and was matched since then only one other time for any three-month period. That was from December 1957 to March 1958.

The increase brought the government's consumer price index, measuring a broad range of goods purchased by the typical American family, to 112.5.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Safety Phase Hurts Car Sales

DETROIT (UPI) — Stockholders in the nation's "big four" auto companies are learning that the safety controversy definitely has had an effect on sales.

At a three-hour meeting yesterday, Henry Ford II, chairman of the board of Ford Motor Co., admitted the "enormous publicity" given attacks on the auto industry has hurt car sales.

Ford said the decline in car sales in April and May "makes it clear that the totals for the year will be less than in '65." Last year, the auto industry made and sold a record 9.3 million cars.

General Motors Corp., which suffered the biggest drop-off in sales during the last sales-reporting period, scheduled its annual meeting for 2 p.m., here today. Safety and a decline in sales were expected to be the prime issues under discussion.

Sea Deaths Feared

MANILA (AP) — Philippine rescue officials said today most of the 122 persons still listed as missing in the sinking of the Pioneer Cebu probably are dead. Undersea Test Blast

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department says the Navy resumes its underwater seismic research program next Tuesday with the detonation of nearly 1,000 tons of obsolete explosives 4,000 feet deep in the Pacific. The blast will be 75 miles off Cape Mendocino, Calif., in an effort to improve methods of detecting underground and underwater detonations.

UAW Elects Reuther, Woman Aide

LONG BEACH (AP)—Walter Reuther has won an 11th term as president of the 1.4 million United Auto Workers, but it's the election of a woman to a high UAW post that is holding delegate interest.

The new woman official, the fourth international representative at large, is Miss Olga Madar, 51-year-old head of the UAW's Detroit-based recreation department.

She was the choice of Reuther and his caucus, but her election came yesterday only after conflict within the union and the convention's first roll call vote in a decade.

Miss Madar collected 8,274 votes to her opponent's 2,819—and it took more than five hours to poll the delegates' votes by voice.

Defeated was Mrs. Beverly Gibson McCloskey, 37-year-old General Motors upholstery worker from Oshawa, Ontario, Canada.

Reuther, 59, breezed through re-election as expected. He was elected to a new term by acclamation of the 2,500 delegates to this week-long 20th constitutional convention of the nation's auto builders.

Also re-elected, without opposition, were secretary-treasurer Emil Mazey and vice presidents Pat Greathouse and Leonard Woodcock.

Guilty Verdict In Murder Trial

SAN JOSE (AP)—A 21-year-old San Jose auto mechanic has been found guilty of murdering an elderly nurse and beating a college student so badly she may never walk again.

Clarence McDowell, a former mental patient, was found guilty yesterday by a jury of murder, assault, first degree robbery and first degree burglary.

The murder charge resulted from the stabbing last September of Mildred Pedrick, 62. The slaying occurred in a coin laundry.

The other charges involved the beating earlier of Bernadette Henderson, 21, a student at the University of California at Davis.

Miss Henderson was in San Jose last summer to visit Steve Jones, a former University of Oregon basketball player who was trying out for the San Francisco Warriors professional team at their San Jose Camp. The girl was beaten as she parked her car at a San Jose hotel garage.

Miss Henderson is confined to a wheelchair because of her injuries.

McDowell's sanity hearing before the same jury begins on Monday.

Mansfield Gets Support On NATO Troop Pullout

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional support mounted today for Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield's proposal that the United States consider pulling most of its troops out of Europe.

Sens. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., and Thomas J. McIntyre, D-N.H., two members of the Senate Armed Services Committee, endorsed the proposal in separate interviews and also voiced irritation with America's partners in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

"We're keeping our commitments and they aren't keeping theirs," Symington said.

Their comments indicated the growing congressional concern, shared by administration supporters and critics alike, that the cost of U.S. commitments around the world are too high and the NATO allies are not pulling their weight.

McIntyre told the Senate yesterday that West Germany's proposed sale of a $176-million steel complex to Red China symbolizes "the naive attitude of certain West European nations toward the very serious situation which now exists in Viet Nam."

Consideration of the removal of U.S. troops "would make it abundantly clear to Western Europe that we can and would withdraw our land forces from Europe — and put them to work in South Viet Nam where they are urgently needed to protect the lives of American soldiers who are already there."

In place of American troops, McIntyre said, U.S. Polaris submarines could be made ready "to bring the striking force of the United States to bear if Europe were attacked."

FRESNO (AP)—An explosion rocked a Fresno State College fraternity today, shattered windows, and woke residents blocks away. No one was injured. Police said the blast, apparently caused by "a bomb or military-type firecracker of some sort," went off shortly after 2:15 a.m. at Sigma Nu fraternity.

Regents Open Meeting On Anti-Kerr Charges

IRVINE (UPI) — Strong support of highly criticized University of California President Clark Kerr was expected today at a meeting of the UC Board of Regents.

The action was to come in response to a State Senate report which charged that Kerr had allowed the Berkeley campus to become a "haven for "Communists and sexual deviates."

The Kerr controversy first was planned to be discussed behind locked doors, according to Board Chairman Edward W. Carter.

However, after the Academic Council expressed "complete confidence" in Kerr and called on the regents to take a firm stand, Carter opened the doors. He first held the meeting was confidential because it dealt with personnel matters.

In other business at the Irvine campus, Daniel G. Aldrich Jr. was inaugurated as the new chancellor of the UC Irvine school.

Chancellor Aldrich reported that 1,589 students were enrolled for the university's first academic year. The enrollment included 19 foreign students.

Three regents' committees meeting jointly, yesterday approved a budget calling for $195 million for 9167-68. There will be a $13 million increase from state funds over the 1966 - 67 capital outlay budget.

Graduate School Gets Top Ranking

BERKELEY (AP) — The University of California at Berkeley was rated today the nation's most distinguished center of graduate education.

A report by the American Council of Education said the Berkeley faculty was distinguished in five categories — humanities, social sciences, biological sciences, physical sciences and engineering.

Because only the Berkeley campus is ranked so high in all five cateogries, Dr. Allen Carter the chief author, said "this finding supports the claim that it is the best - balanced distinguished university in the country."

Harvard and Stanford appeared in four of the five categories. Columbia, Illinois, Yale, Princeton, Michigan and Cal Tech are in three.

The report said more than 4,000 scholars, scientists, professors and administrators were questioned in the survey of 106 major universities. The survey, made in 1964, was intended to update similar surveys in 1924, 1934 and 1957.

U.C. President Clark Kerr said he would inform the Board of Regents meeting on the Irvine campus today, of the award.

The report, called "an assessment of quality in graduate education," does not list the top 10 universities, but concentrates on evaluations of the universities in 29 fields from anthropology to zoology.

Ten of the academic departments at Berkeley are ranked best in the nation according to the quality of the faculty, and seven departments are rated best according to the effectiveness of graduate programs.

Of 28 departments at Berkeley, only one — philosophy — was rated as low as sixth.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)— Six women candidates for state office in the June 7 election have been endorsed by the California Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs.

They are Ivy Baker Priest of Los Angeles, candidate for state treasurer, and five running for the Assembly: Pauline Davis of Portola, Eleanor Anderson of Chula Vista, Bonnie Riedel of Los Angeles, Meda Soares of Castro Valley and Norma Yocum, mayor of Alhambra.

The B&PW convention endorsed them last night. More than 1,000 delegates are attending the meeeting which ends Sunday.

Weather Spy Is Working Perfectly

GREENBELT, Md. (AP) — Nimbus 2, first of the new large class of weather satellites, is in an almost perfect orbit and operating in all respects as nearly perfectly as could be, scientists of the Goddard Space Flight Center said today.

The spacecraft, launched into a near polar orbit May 15, for the first time offers instant weather pictures from space, around the clock.

Project officials were baffled and alarmed briefly Wednesday when the power output dropped suddenly almost by half. Someone recalled, after about five minutes, that a complete solar eclipse was due in Greece.

Dr. John Clark, Goddard director, said that after Nimbus passed beyond the moon shadow—a total period of about 10 minutes—the power came back on.

Mexico Doesn't Like 'Corruption' Image

By DANIEL JAMES
Advance News Service

MEXICO CITY — "Sinatra Barred From Mexico" was the headline. Why would Frankie be barred from a country he loves and which loves him?

The officially stated reason is that Sinatra's latest film, "Marriage On The Rocks," is "offensive to Mexico. That is the verdict of the Ministry of Government, which recently ordered immigration officials to refuse Sinatra "any type of (immigration) documents without prior authorization."

Was the Sinatra film that "offensive?" The answer to this question touches on a disturbing trend in Mexico today that goes beyond the question of one actor and one film.

The Ministry of Government's film censorship office objects to the Sinatra movie because it shows a couple (Frankie and Deborah Kerr) getting a quickie divorce in "a dirty border town," with the aid of a corrupt Mexican official (Cesar Romero) who is a drunken "clown."

Was the movie untruthful in those portrayals?

Is it untrue, for example, that you can get quickie divorces in Mexico? All the world knows that you can. And as long as the Liz Taylors and Sophia Lorens continue getting them here, the world will continue to think of Mexico as a divorce mill. So much for that.

Is it untrue that Mexican border towns are "dirty?" Millions of Americans who visit them every day can attest that most, if not all, are.

Is it untrue that some Mexican border-town officials are corrupt? Again, ask the same American visitors, who know from personal experience that such officials often earn a fat living fleecing visitors.

Actually, the Mexican ministry of government never accused the film of being inaccurate. Why, then, has it banned Sinatra?

The actor himself essentially answered the question when he said:

"It appears that someone in our neighboring country is lacking in a sense of humor."

"Marriage On The Rocks," let it be said, is neither a first-rate movie nor very flattering to Mexico. Yet, as a Mexican magazine has pointed out, Sinatra was not flattering to Italians in "Von Ryan's Express" and Italy has not banned him or his movie.

A humorless and hypersensitive Mexico was understandable in the days when she was the butt of off-color jokes, contemptuous remarks, and insulting statements — sometimes made by important foreigners —and when Hollywood always showed a Mexican as a "greaser" or "bandit." But those days have passed.

Moreover, Mexico is no longer the poor little blighted country of barefoot peasants she once was. She is fast on the way toward becmoing a major industrial nation, and her voice is heard with increasing respect in hemispheric and world councils.

One would have imagined that Mexico's remarkable achievements would have given her more maturity, self-confidence and inner security. Instead, the contrary seems to be the case. The Sinatra incident is only the latest—and the most extreme—in a series which seem to reflect a Mexico more sensitive to criticism, and more nationalistic than ever.

The issue goes beyond movies. There is the famous case of "The Children of Sanchez," a book by the U.S. sociologist Oscar Lewis which portrays the seamy side of Mexican urban life. It was damned by one prominent Mexican after another, and at least one major organization demanded that it be banned.

The Mexican government had the good sense not to ban the book. But in prominent circles here it is not proper to discuss its contents.

The American magazine, "Playboy," has been quietly banned from Mexico for several years. The reason is that an article on Acapulco contained a photograph of a well-known, luxurious house of ill-repute in the resort city. (One wonders why the house, instead of the magazine, was not banned.)

Anti-foreign bias sometimes creeps into Mexican hypersensitivity. When a movie based on the novel, "Pedro Paramo," was about to be filmed, objections arose against it on the ground that its protagonist, John Gavin, is not a Mexican and therefore cannot really express Mexican feeling.

As it turns out, Gavin was born here and is of Mexican descent. But the objections implied that the most accomplished foreign actor cannot do justice to Mexico.

Hypersensitivity is accompanied by self-adulation. To read the Mexican press, one would think that Mexico is near-perfect. Her leaders are always right and never make mistakes. Her foreign policy is "impeccably correct" (the favorite current phrase). Her economy the soundest in the world.

The unhealthy trend toward self-glorification and smugness, not only threatens to make Mexico an object of universal ridicule—as in the silly Sinatra episode — but to frustrate her chances of becoming the mature and strong nation she shows promise of being.

load that would support the facility.

Hospital Administrator Arthur G. Burns said there were 32 patients today in the 59-bed hospital.

City Mgr. Dan E. Andersen, foundation president, said the average hospital stay in seven days and therefore there should be few patients by closing day. Letters are being sent to physicians with patients in the hospitals, Andersen said the foundation would bear the cost of any transfers necssary.

Andersen said the foundation will renew plans to raise money to build a new hospital on seven acres on Channing Way on Highway 101 opposite Terra Linda. The property was given to the foundation in 1962 by land developer Harry H. Heifetz.

Fouke said the foundation should seek to keep the present plant operating while it develops plans and financing for the new building. He said that Taylor cannot "for tax and personal reasons" accept the existing property back and operate it himself. If the hospital closes May 31, Fouke said, "Taylor will have to foreclose" and realize what he can "on enforced sale of the land, building and equipment."

Brown Wants Judicial Respect

REDONDO BEACH (AP) — Gov. Brown today urged California's attorneys to come to the defense of judges, who he said were the victims of mounting personal and political attacks.

Addressing a joint Bar Assn. luncheon, the governor said there is a growing tendancy in the state and nation to revile judges rather than oppose the decisions they hand down.

"Every time some public official, who should know better, makes a baseless or senseless attack on our judicial system, our whole structure of government suffers," said Brown.

by government A1E Skyraiders was disclosed when U.S. Marines brought eight wounded rebels to rebel headquarters.

Reports swept Da Nang that help for the rebels was underway. Rebels said troops of its 2nd Division were coming to the rescue of the rebels pagoda sanctuary, now so hard pressed civilians were being used for sentry duty .

Despite an increase in anti-American feeling in Da Nang and other cities, two American Marines who bumped across the battlefield in a jeep with the wounded were received gratefully and treated to beer. Just outside, Buddhist boy scouts were hammering together new coffins for victims of the near civil war.

The government thus far has avoided a direct assault against two Buddhist pagodas where hundreds of women and children have gathered behind a ring of anti-government troops. But a daylong battle nearby was reported to have killed 10 Buddhists today and wounded scores more.

Buddhists said another 10 persons were killed yesterday.

Militant Buddhist spiritual leader Thich Tri Quang virtually declared war on the regime of Premier Nguyen Cao Ky as the political chaos grew steadily worse. His statement issued in the northern rebel stronghold of Hue was broadcast over loudspeakers from pagodas in other cities.

Buddhist students threatened mass demonstrations in Saigon with bodyguards to protect themselves from government troops called in to put down just such activities. And in Hue, crowds of soldiers and civilians stood on the banks of the Perfume River in a driving rain and heard their leaders pledge to resist any government invasion "to the last drop of blood."

Buddhist monks in Da Nang stood ready to carry out their threat to burn themselves alive —in a bonfire made from scraps of American ammunition crates —if the government troops tried to storm the pagodas. At least 30 monks in Saigon threatened self immolation.

Sausalito Rejects Finance Director To Pare Budget

Sausalito city councilmen last night started paring a proposed $837,785 city budget for fiscal 1967, by deciding not to have a finance director.

City Mgr. Charles A. Brown had included the new position in his budget recommendations, at cost of $3,960 for a half year, starting Jan. 1, 1967.

"I think our finances are handled very well," said Councilman Jan Paul Dyk.

Brown, who will leave his post next month, said a finance director is necessary. "Where you have a finance director, you free the manager for more administrative tasks," he argued.

The council started the first of 11 scheduled budget review sessions with the city council account, which contains no pay for council members. They decided they wouldn't ask for any.

They cut out $40 listed for repair of the public address system at the council chambers, claiming it was never satisfactory. "It's better to talk loud and clear," said Dyk.

During the discussion Brown pointed out the value of spending $2.50 each for flu shots for employees. For those who took the shots, the incidence of flu is one in 18 while among those who didn't take the shots, one-third were ill, he said.

Councilmen agreed to discuss with the planning commission Brown's proposal that the city contract with the Marin County Planning Department for assistance in routine planning matters.

The council questioned Brown's proposal to create an additional sergeant's position in the police department, to provide a sergeant as a watch commander on each shift.

The council scheduled budget review sessions for next Thursday, May 31 and June 1, 2, 8, 9, 14, 15 and 16, all at City Hall at 7:30 p.m., and a budget review tour of public works projects June 4 at 9 a.m.

Hub Chamber Offers Help For Sick Trees

San Anselmo Chamber of Commerce will ask the city council for permission to plant now-potted magnolia trees in the sidewalks in the city's downtown area, chamber directors decided yesterday.

Roots of the trees have filled the pots, they noted, and the trees must be planted out somewhere until they regain their health, then they could be planted in the sidewalks. Directors suggested the pots be planted with flowers and placed around the City Hall.

Presbyterians Argue Confessional Change

BOSTON (AP) — A year-long, nationwide debate among United Presbyterians today churned to a head over a proposed new confession of faith, their first creedal revision in more than three centuries.

It has been a rousing issue among the 3.3 million members of the United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A. for the last year.

It touched off more sparks when it reached the floor of the denomination's governing General Assembly last night, with more discussion expected late today.

Action on the matter isn't expected until near the close of the eight-day meeting early next week.

The 4,600-word confession is the first effort to define the Church's beliefs since the Westminister Confession of 1649.

"If we're going to talk to the world today, we have to change to its language," said the Rev. Dr. Edward A. Dowey Jr., of Princeton Theological Seminary.

He headed a team of scholars which worked seven years in producing the document.

Much of the initial questioning centered on the document's treatment of the Bible, which the Westminster Confession described as verbally inspired, infallible and authored by God.

The proposed confession says:

"The one sufficient revelation of God is Jesus Christ, the word of God incarnate, to whom the Holy Spirit bears unique and authoritative witness through the holy Scriptures, which are received and obeyed as the word of God written."

Rather than asserting the Bible's word-for-word infallibility, the new confession says:

"The Scriptures, given under the guidance of the Holy Spirit, are nevertheless the words of men, conditioned by the language, thought forms and views of life, history and cosmos which were then current."

"The Church, therefore, has an obligation to approach the Scriptures with literary and historical understanding."

Resignation Of Pike Accepted

NEW YORK (AP) — The Episcopal Church's House of Bishops yesterday accepted the resignation of the Rt. Rev. James A. Pike as bishop of California, effective Sept. 15.

Pike, 53, said last week that if the resignation was accepted, he would join the Center for Study of Democratic Institutions at Santa Barbara.

The Rev. John B. Haverland, rector of St. Peter's Church in Redwood City and president of the California Diocese's standing committee, said the bishop would relinquish his duties July 15.

The Rt. Rev. G. Richard Millard, suffragan bishop of California, is to assume diocesan religions leadership then while the standing committee takes over administrative authority. Bishop Pike will serve as assisting bishop in the interim.

DOUBLE RETIREMENT NEAR—E. B. Gearhart, business education teacher at San Rafael High School, and his wife, Gladys, school librarian, scan through a school yearbook from the World War II era, when Gearhart was an adviser to the publication. They will retire at the close of the school year.

THEY RECALL THE YEARS

Gearharts Leaving San Rafael High School; Set For Travel

By FRANK FARRARA

San Rafael High School will have two large gaps in its staff when a long-standing business education teacher retires and takes the librarian along with him.

Leaving at the end of the school year are E. B. Gearhart, who has been at the school since 1930 as teacher and evening school principal, and his wife, Gladys, who has been librarian since 1954.

"I'm getting the second generation now, almost the third," said Gearhart.

"But we don't feel old," put in Mrs. Gearhart.

When Gearhart started teaching, there were 525 students at San Rafael High School, some from as far away as Novato and San Geronimo Valley.

"You knew almost all of them," Gearhart said. "The rivalry with Tamalpais High School was strong, and they used to have big bonfires before games."

One of the big educational changes has been the increasing use of visual aids, he said. Another factor was Sputnik, which changed the emphasis toward science, he said.

"There was not much of a spot for business law, business economics, and the fringe courses were frozen out."

One of the satisfactions has been watching former students move up to key positions in the business world, he said, recalling some who now hold executive positions in Marin.

Some students keep in touch, and up to a few years ago, he used to get a call every Christmas from a former student living in Texas.

Gearhart was principal of the evening department from 1940 to 1954 when his wife became librarian. With Mrs. Gearhart working days, he decided to switch back to teaching days so they "wouldn't just see each other coming and going."

Gearhart noted that the evening school program has declined since its peak years in the late 1940s. "At one time the night school was larger than the day school," he said.

Although he has been in education for 35 years, Gearhart started working in business after graduating from University of California in Berkeley. After four and one-half years in the business world he decided to enter teaching.

Aside from her term as librarian, Mrs. Gearhart worked as a substitute teacher from 1942 until 1954, and taught for a year at Nicasio Elementary School.

The Gearharts, who met at University of California, were married in 1927.

Mrs. Gearhart directed playgrounds and served as a Camp Fire Girl executive before settling down to the job of rearing two sons.

She is leaving behind a new library, about three times as large as the library where she started 12 years ago.

When the Gearharts had a sabbatical leave four years ago, she spent much time visiting school libraries to collect ideas for use at San Rafael High School.

When the school year ends, the Gearharts plan to leave their home at 121 Linden Lane, San Rafael, and take to the road with a newly purchased trailer.

"We want to see the country as teachers don't usually see it, in the spring, fall and winter," she said.

One of the Gearharts worries is providing for care of their garden while they are traveling. Both ardent gardeners, they specialize in dwarf conifers, some more than 20 years old.

The Gearharts also are among the few teachers who regularly attend meetings of the San Rafael Board of Education, and when they appeared at the last session of the board, they were given sustained applause.

"We leave with mixed feelings," said Mrs. Gearhart.

Sleepy Hollow Roads Criticized

Conditions of some of the roads in Sleepy Hollow are causing concern among residents, so the Sleepy Hollow Homes Assn. board decided last night to ask a road and traffic expert to speak to the next quarterly membership meeting on July 21.

New state fire laws concerning unincorporated area fire ordances were read to the board by Mrs. Ralph Carey, and it was announced that the new $900 entrance gates to Sleepy Hollow are complete.

Three lifeguards have been hired for the community pool this year, the board said. The pool will open Memorial Day weekend.

Former Aide To Welcome General Dean

Maj. William J. Gerard (Army retired) of 106 Brookside Drive, San Anselmo, has been appointed co-chairman of the military reception committee to honor Maj. Gen. William F. Dean on Memorial Day observance in San Rafael May 30.

Major Gerard served as an aide to General Dean in the Korean War, and is now special investigator for the 12th Region, U. S. Civil Service Commission.

General Dean, Korean War hero and holder of the Congressional Medal of Honor, will speak from the courthouse steps. Ceremonies begin at 10:30 a.m.

Francis W. Mosher Jr., general chairman of the event, said continuing efforts to locate other Marinites who served under General Dean in Korea have been to no avail. The search is being conducted by Capt. Edward F. Springer, 48 Plymouth Avenue, Mill Valley.

Also serving as co-chairman of the military reception committee is Maj. George J. Reuss of San Anselmo, a deputy sheriff stationed at the Civic Center.

Commanding officers of 31 Marin County units of the Armed forces, regular and reserve, have been invited to serve on the committee.

San Rafael Teachers Say Welcome, Goodbye

Old and new were honored Wednesday, when the San Rafael Teachers Assn. held its annual meeting for retiring staff members and newly tenured teachers.

Gladys Gearhart, librarian at San Rafael High School for 12 years, and her husband E. B. Gearhart, business education teacher and a district employee for 36 years, are both retiring, and were presented life memberships in the California Teachers Assn. and the San Rafael Teachers Assn.

Life membership was also presented to Mrs. Ruth Reist, fifth grade teacher at McPhail School, who is retiring after eight years there.

Supt. Bert C. Corona made the awards, lauding the trio for their contributions to education.

School board member Anita Strom addressed the newly tenured teachers, 22 from elementary schools, 32 from high schools, who were introduced by Asst. Supt. William C. Jordan and Principals Alfred N. Thomson of San Rafael High and George Yertson of Terra Linda High.

Several former teachers attended the meeting, including Mrs. Eleanor Murray, recently honored by the San Rafael City Council as its nominee for Marin County's outstanding senior citizen of the year; Loretta Pacheo, once principal of West End School; Irene Pacheo; Hugh Paterson; Belle McPhail; Mrs. Audrey Laurison; Mrs. Louis Lewis, and Charlotte Frehe.

The meeting was held in San Rafael High School's new library with art work by Charles Maurice's students on display. Chairman for the event was Coleman School Principal Edwina Codoni, assisted by Mrs. Peggy Levy and Mrs. Zelma Hinshaw.

Full House Set For Seminar On Medicare

An overflow audience is already assured for next Wednesday's Medicare seminar sponsored by the Marin Medical Society at Ross General Hospital's classroom.

The classroom seats 100. So far 120 physicians and medical assistants have accepted an invitation to attend the 8 p.m. session.

Society executive secretary Ed Collins is trying to arrange for sound to be piped outside the classroom for those who won't get seats.

Purpose of the seminar is to hear three authorities talk about Medicare and the Casey Act. Collins said the speakers won't explain the programs — "we already know how they work. This is more in the nature of a philosophical discussion, what's in the future, where do we go from here?"

On the panel will be Dr. Roberta Fenlon, special consultant to the Federal Bureau of Health Insurance, Department of Health, Education and Welfare. She is past president of the San Francisco County Medical Society.

The other experts are Fernando Torgerson, director, Office of Health Care Services, State Health and Welfare Agency, and William M. Whelan, who is associate executive director of the California Medical Assn.

Yoga Teacher Ponders Need Of Use Permit

By RICHARD LYTTLE

Does contemplation in search of the inner God require a county use permit?

Walter F. Baptiste, teacher of yoga and a bishop in the Liberal Church, is not sure, but he has asked the Marin County zoning administrator for one just to be safe.

Bishop Baptiste wants to establist a retreat on a 16-acre farm he has owned for two years on Franklin School Road between Dillon Beach and Valley Ford roads in northwest Marin.

His plans call for no additional structure on the property; in fact, the most who would be using the retreat at one time would be about 12 followers of the Liberal Church, and that would be on weekends, Baptiste said.

Baptiste, a resident of San Francisco, operates the Walt and Magana Baptiste gym, yoga and dance studio at 419 Sutter Street.

He became an ordained minister of the church of Ohio in 1944.

In his application for a use permit, he said the Marin property would be used mostly by those seeking also to become ordained ministers.

Baptiste said the church was an offshoot of the Liberal Catholic Church. It has adopted many of the Eastern philosophies, particularly those of the Sikh religion.

"God is within us and we must seek him through contemplation," he said. At the Marin farm, he explained, "one can also imbibe in the natural surroundings."

Baptiste was reared as a Catherty would not be used as a school. He has plans for a school on land he owns at Moss Beach in San Mateo County.

Baptist was reared as a Catholic, but joined the Liberal Church while living in Florida. "Sometimes you just need greater realities," he said.

His request for a use permit will be heard by zoning administrator Thomas E. Cordill at 11:30 a.m. Monday at the Civic Center.

"I'm really not sure we need one," Bishop Baptiste said.

Quake Described By Bay Tourists

TOKYO (AP)—Prominent San Francisco businessmen who were bounced out of their hotel beds in an earthquake in Tashkent May 11 estimate that one fourth of the Soviet city was wrecked.

"Blocks of homes collapsed," said Vincent de Domenico, an official of a San Francisco macaroni company. "There were tent cities and soup kitchens everywhere."

Tashkent, a central Asian industrial city of one million, was hit by an earthquake during the last week in April. New quakes shook the city May 11, when the Americans were there on a tour arranged by the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce. There were 20 in the San Francisco group.

Heart Award Due San Rafael Man

Arthur W. Feidler of 211 Forbes Avenue, San Rafael, will receive a silver recognition award at a banquet at the annual California Heart Assn. general assembly tonight in Los Angeles.

Feidler is a director and chairman of the budget and finance committee for the Marin County Heart Assn., and treasurer for the California Heart Assn., San Francisco.

He is the Marin County delegate to the Los Angeles assembly.

Vandalism Puts Halt To Teen Dances

The San Marin Club in Novato has cancelled its teen-age dances after more than $200 damage was done to the club last Saturday night, Larry Fagan, club manager, said today.

This was the climax to a long series of acts of vandalism at the club during teen dances, he said. The dances had been held monthly for members' children and their guests. Attendance often reached 120, Fagan said.

Vandals damaged rest rooms and stole outdoor lighting fixtures, Fagan said. One dance was cancelled several months ago as a warning.

The climax came last Saturday when the teen-agers wrecked one rest room, tearing the plumbing of the walls, chipping and cracking the urinals beyond repair, and marring the paint until the room has to be repainted.

"I wish the parents could see the damage their youngsters have done. It's a shame that the few spoil it for the majority," Fagan said.

Sausalito Class Will Be Televised

The Sausalito teacher education project will record a regular classroom session on television in the fifth grade class of Bonnie Clark at Richardson Bay School, Wednesday.

The aim is to get more participation from pupils and will be analyzed later by teachers and students, according to Elizabeth Titsworth, project staff member.

FOR 90TH BIRTHDAY: A GLIDER RIDE

"Oh, how wonderful, just wonderful. It's so pretty," enthused Mrs. May Kimball in Methuen, Mass., yesterday after glider pilot James Doyle took her on a 20-minute flight. The sprightly Boston widow made a pledge last year that if she lived to be 90, she would go aloft in a glider. Airline flight is old hat to Mrs. Kimball, and she says that San Francisco's cable cars are more scary than her glider ride. (AP Wirephoto).

Marin City's Oldest Get Party, Gifts

The two oldest residents of Marin City were honored last night at the second annual senior citizen party sponsored by the Marin City Community Services District board.

They are Mrs. Mary Frost, 86, oldest woman resident, who lives at 99 Cole Drive, and Isaac Handy, 84, oldest man, of 22 Dutton Court. Both were given gifts.

Highlight of the evening, reported John A. Thomson, board secretary, was a performance by Mickie McGowan and his folk dancing group followed by the dancers teaching some of the residents a "round dance."

Mrs. Lula Hooks was in charge of refreshments and decorations at the event, held in St. Andrew United Presbyterian Church.

The board is to meet soon with an agent of the federal urban renewal program to discuss a grant for a new community center.

County Supervisor Byron W. Leydecker attended the activity and sopke briefly urging approval of the county park bond issue.

Caddo Indians Wailed When Saying Hello

ALTO, Tex. (UPI) —The Caddo Indians who lived in the Alto area many moons ago were friendly and intelligent, but it took awhile for a stranger to find out.

They greeted travelers with wailing and moaning as if some tragedy had befallen them. If he withstood the first greeting, he was given a cordial welcome to the camp.

Many Local Issues On Primary Ballot

Marin County voters turning out for the June 7 primary elections will decide parks and school bond issues, school unification and taxes as well as candidates running for county and state offices and U.S. House of Representatives.

The principal measure put before all county voters will be the proposed $4.3 million park bond issue.

Voting on the other measures, from bonds to taxes, will be restricted to voters in the areas concerned, the Lagunitas, Fairfax, Dixie and San Rafael school districts.

Proponents of the countywide parks bond issue have said passage would benefit both incorporated and unincorporated areas of the county.

The money would be used for the acquisition and development of parks in the county, the 11 cities and five special districts.

In the county areas, the parks and recreation commission has set up a list of priority projects for recreational development. Those at the top of the list include Stafford Lake, Bolinas Lagoon, and China Camp.

The proposed $200,000 bond issue and $400,000 state loan sought by Lagunitas School District will be the second time around for district voters.

Both issues were defeated Feb. 15, but no sooner were the returns in than the trustees started up the machinery to give the voters a second chance.

Money is sought by the district to finance the acquisition of two school sites and construction of a new school, site of which was to be at Woodacre but has been changed to Forest Knolls.

Main opposition in the first election came from property owners whose homes would be torn down—or at least moved—if a school went up on the central nine-acre site in Woodacre.

A proposal to unify the Dixie and San Rafael Elementary School Districts with the San Rafael high school district will be before the Dixie and San Rafael district voters.

The future of the district will be entirely up to the decision of the electorate as the two school boards involved have taken no stand for or against unification.

A fact sheet shows the maximum allowable "general fund operating" tax rate in the new district would be $4.30 per $100 of assessed valuation.

This compares with combined elementary and high school district "general operating" rates this year of $5.10 in the Dixie district and $4 in San Rafael Elementary School District.

An increase in the maximum operating tax rate will be sought for by Fairfax School District board.

Voters will be asked to approve an increase from $2.05 to $2.70 in the operating rate. Total tax rate levied this year, including overrides and loan repayments, was $2.63.

Boy Anglers Nabbed

CRANSTON, R.I. (AP) — Five boys went fishing recently through the roof skylight at the Atlantic Thrift Center. They managed to hook one children's game before police caught them.

Budget Voted, Tam Fire Tax May Increase

Fiscal 1967 budget of $134,464 was adopted last night by Tamalpais Fire District commissioners, and the board estimated the tax rate will go up eight or nine cents per $100 assessed valuation.

Increase over the current budget of $16,712 includes about $10,000 for fire main extensions, $2,600 for a pickup truck, and regular pay increments for all firemen, reported chairman Carl H. Modell.

The commission agreed to increase volunteer firemen's insurance, now $40 per week in case a man is injured on the job, to $75 per week. This is above state compensation, Modell explained.

The board studied the possibility of calling for a bond issue to finance improved water mains and build a new main fire station, but took no action. Modell said the commission will meet next on June 15, a day earlier than normal, due to a conflict of dates among the board.

Prison Ordered For Police Killing

REDWOOD CITY (UPI)—Timothy L. Silva, 21, was sentenced to a prison term of from five years to life yesterday for the fatal shooting of a broadmoor police officer in 1964.

The sentence was imposed by Superior Judge J. A. Branson after Silva pleaded guilty to a charge of second degree murder.

Silva was committed to Atascadero State Hospital after he shot Officer Charles E. Manning, 42, near the entrance to a Daly City warehouse. Silva allegedly was stealing gasoline.

Supervisor Candidates Condemn, Defend Present County Actions

By ALAN P. CUNNINGHAM

Outcome of the June 7 election for supervisor from the first district may hinge on whether people feel the board of supervisors has been doing a good or bad job.

This, at any rate, was the impression left by the three candidates—Melvin S. Warenbeck, Dr. William F. Upton and John F. McInnis—as they spoke to 14 persons in the cafeteria at San Rafael High School last night. The meeting was jointly sponsored by the Loch Lomond and Glenwood home owners associations.

The link among the three candidates, none of whom has ever been a county supervisor, and the record of the present board was forged by McInnis, last of the three to speak in the opening round of remarks.

He insisted that the other two in their speeches, had shown a "general attitude of acceptance and approval of the present supervisorial practices and history." On the other hand, insisted McInnis, he wanted to make it plain that he was "extremely disturbed. . .by the board of supervisors' complete failure to act" on numerous pressing problems.

Warenback, who has the backing of incumbent Superivsor Byron W. Leydecker, agreed he was generally happy with the way things are going, and declared that if voters "feel the present-day concept is wrong, you should vote for him (McInnis)." This drew a quiet "thank you" from McInnis.

Upton, a 14-year member of the county planning commission, agreed the county had been doing a good job.

Upton sharply criticized the City of San Rafael, of which McInnis was formerly mayor, calling it "an example of general mediocrity."

He said the county had done a good job of controlling signs and billboards, in contrast with the neon glare of Francisco Boulevard and the huge sign on the Rafael Theater, which Upton called "an example of clutter."

"I did not build San Rafael," McInnis quoted himself as saying at another candidate's night earlier, "I changed it—and I changed it drastically for the better."

Warenback said the biggest challenge before supervisors in the next four years would be "evolving a concept of what shall the future of Marin County be."

"I represent a concept which believes we can retain control of planning and developing," he said, determining which areas shall be high or low density and which held as open space.

In regard to taxes, Warenback said the county must decide whether to reduce its services, keep the present tax rate, or somehow broaden the tax base.

Tourist traffic and attracting a University of California campus to Marin could bring about "orderly growth and development," he said.

Upton predicted the county would see "many new concepts in planning" under its new planning director, Paul Zucker.

He said he was "very encouraged" by the attitude of the Bay Conservation and Development Commission, of which he is a member, and predicted that transportation problems can be solved by imaginative ideas such as "hovercraft that could carry loaded buses."

"I don't think people should have sterile thinking," he said.

He also praised the county for encouraging "cluster development."

As for taxes, Upton said cuts, must be made in the special districts.

McInnis recited the history of his civic participation and role in city government in San Rafael.

"I am absolutely convinced some new viewpoint must be injected into the board of supervisors," he said.

He charged the county has doubled its tax rate during a period when population has increased 30 per cent, and insisted that the only improvement in services during that time has been the new mental health program-largely paid for by federal funds.

Answers to questions of audience members generally broke down along lines of whether the county had been doing its job.

One man asked for comment on recent raises for county department heads, including County Administrator Alan Bruce, and the hiring of John M. Douglas as county economic development director. Douglas was paid more than the salary originally advertised for the job.

Upton said he did not know why Douglas got the higher salary, but said there are times when it is desirable to pay more for a man whose knowledge and ability is worth it.

McInnis said the supervisors' action in granting recent raises was "beyond belief" and "should be criticized thoroughly." He particularly cited a $5,000 raise given to Bruce "before anyone spelled out the duties of his job."

Warenback said Bruce gets only $2,000 more per year than San Rafael City Mgr. Dan E. Andersen, although Andersen is in charge of a much smaller budget each fiscal year. (Bruce's current salary is $21,000 per year's Andersen's, $18,000.)

He said Bruce gets as much as he does because "the job is important."

Papers, Money Reported Gone

Loss of a box containing personal papers and about $23 cash in burglary of the home of Eric Mawson at 675 Knocknaboul Way, Terra Linda, was reported by sheriff's officers.

Deputies said Mawson discovered the loss when he returned from a vacation early today. Entry was via a rear door.

An attempted break-in of a house on Marine Way, Stinson Beach, owned by Marjorie Fowler of Richmond was reported. Officers said a garage window was broken.

Bridge Director Challenges Low Interest Income

Director Stephan C. Leonoudakis of the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District yesterday repeated his dissatisfaction with how district funds are being invested.

Instead of investing at 4.25 per cent interest, the district should shop elsewhere and get as much as 5½ per cent interest, Leonoudakis declared at a meeting of the finance committee.

Finance Committee Chairman William D. Hadeler maintains that the district does business with large banks because they offer various services to the bridge district.

"We're following sound business practices," Director Dan London added. "We're not going to invest in issues that are marginal, where there's risk."

Health Project Short Of Funds

Publicity about this year's ambitious plans for the Marin-based Alliance for Health project has brought an encouraging number of small donations from people around the county.

Unfortunately, the $1,500 raised by such small contributions is still short of the $16,050 needed.

Dr. Richard S. Hahn, who started the alliance, said he is pleased by the fact that 100 people have donated since reading about the Project Zacapu in the Independent-Journal or seeing him interviewed on a San Francisco television station this week. He feels as much of the money as possible should come from "a broad base of community support" to give the alliance more meaning as a people-to-people project.

On the other hand, Hahn is beginning to wonder if those who could afford to give a lot—including some of his colleagues—are overlooking the project on the false assumption its financial needs will be met by small contributions.

"How do you raise money?" he asked aloud yesterday. "A professional fund-raiser in San Francisco told me 'all you need is 16 people who will give $1,000 apiece,' and he was serious."

A frank appeal for funds, accompanied by a budget spelling out where every cent will go, has been mailed out to doctors, dentists nurses and those who have helped the alliance in its two previous years. But Hahn has rejected the thought of a general mailing.

Meanwhile, an Air Force C-123 cargo plane remained at Hamilton Air Force Base this week while Hahn waited for clearance to take its load of five tons of medical equipment and supplies to Zacapu in the Mexican state of Guanajuato.

Hahn said he got a call yesterday from those handling the problem in Mexico City, and was promised clearance would come in a few days.

Project Zacapu will go on, however, even if the Air Force plane does not get out of Marin.

Contrary to a statement in the May 10 Independent-Journal, the alliance does not pay transportation costs for its volunteer workers. They pay it themselves. To reduce this, however, Hahn is trying had to find private airplane owners who can make four trips—two trips for each team going at different times this summer—to Zacapu and back.

Such plane rides would cut 10 days travelling time for each volunteer and would eliminate one of the largest part of their expenses.

Private pilots would have to be prepared to take volunteers down July 10 or Aug. 1 and return them July 21 or Aug. 21.

One hope for raising more of the needed funds, said Hahn, comes from the Northern California district of the Lions Club. Spurred by William Howell of the Sharks Lions Club in Tiburon and George Croke of the San Anselmo Lions Club, clubs throughout the district have started trying to raise $1 donations with the slogan "Lions Immunize a child for $1."

Yorty Blasts Gov. Brown For Accepting CDC Support

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Los Angles Mayor Samuel W. Yorty has called Gov. Brown a "political coward" for "not having the courage to change the straight Communist line stand being taken by the California Democratic Council."

Yorty, running against Brown for the Democratic governorship nomination, blasted the governor yesterday in Sacramento in remarks prepared for telecasts throughout the state.

Yorty said that Brown has accepted the support of the 40,000-member CDC whose policies "all add up to the Communist line."

Earlier, Yorty told newsmen in Los Angeles that members of the Communist party and Communist - front groups played a leading role in organizing anti-police demonstrations in South Los Angeles Tuesday night.

Here's what other candidates had to say around the state yesterday.

Democratic Lt. Gov. Glenn M. Anderson said in a Los Angeles statement that true believers in education must unite in defense of the University of California's critics. Anderson, a member of the university's board of regents, disagrees with the State Senate UnAmerican Activities Committee report that the U.C. Berkeley campus is a haven for communists and homosexuals.

"I believe that the critics of our university are completely wrong," said Anderson, a candidate for re - election. "I think they do a great injustice to the students now in Berkeley — and the students to come."

George Christopher, candidate for the Republican gubernatorial nomination, told the League of California cities in Beverly Hills that local autonomy is being encroached upon by federal and state governments.

Christopher said, however, he can't agree with those who shun federal cooperation in such problem areas as water and hydroelectric power.

Ronald Reagan, also seeking the Republican governorship nomination, told supporters in Riverside he is taking his case to the people.

Reagan said that Robert Coate, state Democratic chairman, recently commented that Reagan avoids newsmen "who asks intelligent questions."

"Obviously," Reagan said, "Mr. Coate doesn't believe in the people's ability to ask intelligent questions. Well, I'm taking my case to the people and . . . I find that they not only ask intelligent questions but also questions that reveal their awareness of the failures of (the Brown) administration."

Fine, Probation After Bar Brawl

Judge Peter Allen Smith of Marin Municipal Court yesterday fined Dr. Gordon Havstad, 64-year-old Tiburon resident, $56 and placed him on six months probation following his no contest plea to battery on a deputy sheriff.

A second count, resisting arrest, was dismissed on recommendation of the district attorney's office after the first plea.

Dr. Havstad, of 2131 Paradise Drive, struck Deputy John Goff after three deputies arrived at a Tiburon bar April 24 to investigate a report of a disturbance.

Mother On Probation In Child-Beating Case

A year's probation was given Mrs. Clara Leigh Baker, 45 Reed Boulevard, Strawberry, yesterday by Judge Peter Allen Smith of Marin Municipal Court for misdemeanor childbeating.

Mrs. Baker, 23, had pleaded guilty to beating her 2-year-old son, John Christopher Baker, on March 27. Her husband, John Anthony Baker, returned home, learned the child was injured by the blow, and took him to Mill Valley police where photographs were taken of face and neck bruises.

Blackout Kills Man

TRACY (AP) — A mechanic blacked out while driving and was injured fatally Wednesday when his pickup truck struck a power pole. Warren L. Barber, 44, who lived four hours, told the California Highway Patrol he became unconscious while at the wheel and didn't recall a thing.

Legislature Move Toward Adjournment

SACRAMENTO (AP)—Senate approval of a compromise to rewrite the state constitution and boost lawmakers' pay was all that stood in the way of legislative adjournment today, leaders in both houses agreed.

A joint Assembly-Senate committee, after two days of intensive meetings behind closed doors, yesterday produced its compromise — a version of the Assembly -passed constitutional revision amendment that retained most of the features of the lower house wanted.

Assemblyman Don Mulford, Republican caucus chairman and a member of the two-house committee, predicted Senate acceptance of the rewritten measure and said such action would break up the legislature's lengthy budget deadlock.

"If the Senate approves this measure, the budget will immediately be considered and we'll wrap things up in a matter of days," said Mulford.

Senate President Pro tem Hugh M. Burns, while withholding any prediction, agreed Senate approval would bring the session to a speedy end.

Burns said the joint committee agreed to support annual sessions of the legislature, a move strongly backed by the Assembly.

Power Intertie Savings Claimed

DENVER (UPI)— A Bureau of Reclamation official said today the Pacific Northwest-Pacific Southwest Intertie would prevent the waste of $20 million in electrical power annually when it is completed in the early 1970s.

E.V. Lindseth, a bureau technical advisor, reported on the $697 million federal-public-private project at the week-long national meeting of the American Society of Civil Engineers (ASCE).

Lindseth said the project, covering 11 western states, also would produce continuing multiple benefits for about 250 power distributors.

Bernal Diaz, companion of Cortez, wrote of California as a "bay", following an expedition to Baja California (Lower California). For a number of years California was inscribed on the maps of Alta California (Upper California).

SWEETENING THE WIND

Sewer Board Pledges Bad Smell To Be Gone

The east wind will blow sweet for the residents of Novato's Poplar Terrace after the Novato Sanitary District gets a portable "de-smeller" to treat its excess sewer sludge, district directors promised last night.

The district has budgeted $75,000 for the device, a truck-mounted centrifuge which, said Engineer-Manager Charles Joseph, will dehydrate the sludge until it is the consistency of wet sand. The dried-out sludge will then be hauled to the dump.

Only a few such machines are in use in the United States, Joseph said.

His explaination came at last night's meeting of the sanitary district board, after Kenneth G. Smythe of 572 Louis Drive and K. I. Scott of 573 Louis Drive appeared to complain that when the wind is in the east, Poplar Terrace is not a pleasant place to breathe.

Joseph said the smell born by the east wind comes from "improperly digested sludge in ponds." Hence, it was decided to budget $75,000 for the centrifuge.

Being portable, it can be used also at the Ignacio treatment plant when the sludge is high and the wind from the wrong quarter there, he said.

It should be received and in use by the first of next year, directors promised.

The Novato Sanitary District board also approved annexation of three parcels of land totaling 14 acres on Simmons Lane at San Marin Drive, Benton Lane and Leese Lane. The request will go to the Marin County Local Agency Formation Commission.

Trial Postponed On Embezzlement

Trial of Donald J. Gordon, charged with embezzlement that put a Mill Valley man's paper company out of business, was postponed today until June 1 in San Francisco Superior Court.

Gordon is accused of taking $90,000 from the now-defunct Bonestell and Co., owned by Daniel K. Beswick of 35 Elaine Avenue, Mill Valley.

Some $270,000 was reported missing when Gordon disappeared in September. He was captured March 18 in Cleveland by Federal Bureau of Investigation agents. The indictment, however, cited only $90,000.

Second Artificial Heart Patient Fails To Survive

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)— Walter L. McCans, the second patient in Methodist Hospital to undergo a partial artificial heart implant, died today, the hospital reported.

The hospital bulletin said, "The patient had developed complications in the past 48 hours. The probable cause of death was pulmonary insufficiency."

The artificial heart unit was removed from McCans' chest Wednesday after it had functioned for 27 hours. Physicians said that during that time, the damaged portion of the heart had healed from the rest sufficiently to function normally without mechanical assistance.

Marcel DeRudder, the first patient at Methodist Hospital to undergo such a partial artificial heart implant, died April 26, about five days after the operation.

DeRudder, 65, of Westville, Ill., never regained consciousness after the operation and his death was blamed on probable rupture of the bronchia or the trachea.

McCans, 61, was conscious shortly after the operation and apparently had been doing well although he was returned to surgery twice in two days for removal of chest fluids.

Shakespeare Festival Tickets Are Available

A variety of membership tickets for the Marin Shakespeare Festival will be available up to July 1, according to John Brebner, festival director.

Tickets can be obtained by calling the festival office.

ABAG Backs Marin Parks Bond Issue

The executive committee of the Assn. of Bay Area Governments last night voted unanimous approval for Marin County's 4.3 million dollar park bond issue, which goes before the voters June 7.

The committee also gave its approval on an application of the City of Novato for a matching open space federal grant of $11,000 for a half-acre park, to be known as the Arroyo Auichi Park. The application will be forwarded to Washington, D.C.

In its motion supporting the park bond, the committee commended Marin County for the close city and county co-operation demonstrated in the park bond issue.

Larkspur City Councilman Earl J. O'Grady represented the county at the meeting in Berkeley. Also attending from Marin were County Supervisor Peter H. Behr and City Councilman W. Jack Adams of Novato.

City Servant Shot

Joe Ponte, Mill Valley motor sweeper operator, reported to police early today that, while he was operating the sweeper at 340 Magee Avenue, someone shot him in the shoulder with a B-B.

Novato Trustees Set Meeting On Salaries

WHY . . .

- While we're proud of our beautiful showroom we don't buy cars just to look at them. It costs in overhead to "floor" a car for any great length of time.
- While, just as in any other business, we have to make a profit to stay in business, we can't hold cars beyond the "break even" point. WE HAVE TO MOVE THEM OUT REGARDLESS OF PROFIT PER UNIT!
- While other dealers feel they have to get so much profit per car or they're in red ink, Ames Ford has always believed in low profit, high turnover IN GOOD TIMES OR BAD. This is our policy . . . and it has been for over 11 years. We mean it when we say Ames Ford is Marin County's only true volume dealer.

Novatan Dies; Victim Of Wreck

Theodore A. Lusher Jr., 38, of 724 McClay Road, Novato, died last night from head injuries suffered in a traffic crash in San Francisco May 7.

Lusher, a San Francisco police inspector, had been in critical condition at a San Francisco hospital since the accident in which his wife died. He did not regain consciousness.

Police were still investigating the car-bus collision which took the couples' lives.

The Lushers were riding in an unmarked police car, and apparently went through a red light with the car's siren going, according to police and witnesses. A Greyhound bus crushed the car, killing Mrs. Claire Lusher, 32, instantly.

Lusher was born in Aberdeen, Wash., and had lived in Marin County for eight years, three years in Novato and five years in Forest Knolls. He had been with the San Francisco Police Department for 17 years, and was an inspector with the missing persons bureau. He spent seven years as a motorcycle officer, and earned a number of commendations for aprehending speeders and wanted men. He became an inspector in 1956.

He is survived by four children, Mrs. Jeanette C. Dodds of Novato, who is taking care of the other three children, Lora, 15, Craig, 14, and Ted, 5; his mother, Mrs. Dorothy M. Lusher of San Francisco, and a sister, Mrs. Bertella Humphrey of San Francisco.

Mrs. Lusher's funeral was May 12. Funeral arrangements for Lusher are pending at Daphne San Francisco Funeral Service.

Marinwood Endorses County Park Bonds

Directors of the Marinwood Community Services District last night endorsed the $4.3 million county bond issue for parks to be voted upon June 7.

Directors asked, however, that there be further study on the population of the district, estimated in the distribution formula at only 4,000. Secretary Genevieve Bolding said directors believe the population is greater and the district should be in line for more than the $67,000 proposed.

County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney spoke for the bond issue. He said that he directors could use the money to pay off existing bonded indebtedness in the district if they wished.

Directors discussed again the possibility of a unified community services district that might include upper Lucas Valley, Marinwood and Terra Linda, or possibly just upper Lucas Valley and Marinwood.

Robert Morris and Guy Baty, representing the Marinwood district on a study committee, reported it was agreed at a recent committee meeting that the area did not have enough population or assessed value to justify incorporation of a new city.

Marinwood Community Services District directors also:

1. Raised from $525 to $550 a month the pay of maintenance Supt. Alan Horobin.

2. Put off discussion of hiring a landscape architect for planning of pool area development until the budget session, June 1.

3. Appointed Charles Hassell as alternate member of the Marinwood Fire Commission.

Warships Collide In Harbor

SAN DIEGO (UPI)—Two veteran aircraft carriers of the Vietnamese War, the USS Coral Sea and the USS Iwo Jima, collided today in San Diego Harbor but no serious injuries were reported.

A Navy spokesman said the Coral Sea, longer than three football fields and having a normal complement of 3,500 personnel at the North Island Naval Air Station.

She was heading for the open sea on a refresher training cruise and tugs were maneuvering her in the turning basin when the accident occurred, the spokesman said.

The Coral Sea brushed the Iwo Jima which was anchored midstream, knocking off several life rafts, smashing a whale boat but apparently causing no series damage to either carrier.

Woman Charged In Stabbing

Eileen M. Collette, 45, of 75 Billou Street, San Rafael, was booked in Marin County Jail last night on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon following the reported stabbing of her husband with a nine-inch butcher knife.

The victim Roy B. Collette, 50, was treated at San Rafael General Hospital for a wound in the left hand.

Mrs. Collette called police. She told officers her husband attacked her with a broom and she became agitated and grabbed the knife. Later, she said he fell against the knife.

Mrs. Collette was released on $550 bail today pending a hearing.

DINING OUT AND INNS

By HARRY CRAFT

Carousel Is New, Different; Captain's Curries Set To Open

Possibly something of a sleeper is a small place called Carousel Kitchen at Fourth and F Streets, San Rafael.

Nothing pretentious - just a little convenience spot in the historical West End section. I think Bissola's Grocery was once in here. So, too, was the Gourmet d'Italia Delicatessen of Jack Risso, then Gordon's Delicatessen. Generally the corner is referred to as "the old sausage factory," but which of its earlier enterprises was responsible for this escapes my recollection.

Carousel Kitchen was opened by Mrs. Lois Moir from San Jose last September and she has been operating it in diminishing volume as a delicatessen and more as a restaurant and coffee shop. With John Raynor of Washington doing the cooking, the two hope to build up this activity to respectible proportions.

It was one of my readers who called my attention to Carousel. She had scurried in for a quick snack, hoping to get moving in time for another engagement. She did, and more than that, liked the food and service so much she just had to tell me about it.

Right now it's open Mondays through Saturdays for lunches and dinners from 11 a.m. to 9 or 10 p.m. Later this schedule may be extended to include Sundays. Same menu applies at all hours—hot and cold sandwiches, spaghetti, enchiladas, tacos, salads, hamburgers, chicken, steaks and hamburgers. Full entrees run from $1 to $1.79 — all home cooked and good quality food. There are daily specials from time to time to create interest and it's one place you can have a milk shake for 25 or 35 cents, a hamburger for 39 cents — and occasionally both for the latter figure.

Anything that's prepared to eat on the premises is also available to take out.

Lois and John are now considering making the place available for banquets. Minimum group would be 20, maximum not much over 60.

AND SPEAKING of banquets, will those good people who have booked luncheons, parties or dinners at the San Geronimo National Golf Club kindly confirm their arrangements once more with Don Caseldine?

Don needs some help to remove him from a "tough spot." His engagement book listing all reservations and bookings was stolen from his car the other day and he's fearful of taking duplicate bookings for dates already filled. Please call him.

ONE OF THE MOST capable organists I know — Lee Lees — is now playing at Cherish Inn in Strawberry Town and Country Village. You can hear her at the console every night except Sunday from 8 p.m. to 1 a.m.

This, by the way, is in the cocktail lounge—a favorite haunt of many and an enjoyable stopoff for the pre-dinner period. If you should get there between 5 and 7 p.m., this is the two-hour long cocktail hour, when both hot and cold hors d'oeuvres are served.

If you've tried Cherish Inn for lunches—and it's usually pretty active that time of day—give it another whirl in the evening. The menu's different and so, in some respects, is the atmosphere. Just as charming, but a soupcon more relaxing.

CAPTAIN'S CURRIES at 71 Red Hill Avenue, San Anselmo, is now scheduled to open tomorrow, and hours will be from 4 to 10 p.m. everyday except Monday, when it's closed.

I wish I could report this as a restaurant, because with its type of food it certainly would be popular. But it's a take-home operation. Still, that's less expensive and you can eat the sumptious fare of Dick Lindauer and Gordon Morse in the quiet of your own house.

There are four main types of servings: Meat balls, chicken, lamb and sea food—all beautifully seasoned with curries and served with several condiments. I've sampled the chicken and must say the flavoring is ever so delicate—not thrown at you.

Certain to be a favorite item of everyone is the Indian bread called "puris"—a thin, wafer-like creation I'll wager you'll want in increased quantity as a side order on subsequent visits.

Individual servings are in the $1.25-$1.50 bracket, which allows you some margin for extras.

MENU AT THE ARK in Sausalito is taking on more of an international flavor as a result of its new double chef arrangement.

Now sharing honors with Swiss Louie Margnetti is Jacques Perreau, previously from Los Angeles. He'll take care of the French cuisine—with escargots, veal cordon bleu, duck l'orange, tournedos Rossini and other such preparations—while Louie continues with his popular Italian fare as heretofore.

Also, the Ark has now returned to serving lunches for the summer season.

MY ATTENTION has just been called to the fact that menu hasn't changed at Tiburon Tommie's Mai Tai since it opened in 1958 as Pier 41. Even the prices have remained the same. Tommie Cox and Johnnie Won claim they've been able to absorb rising food costs and labor by increasing business.

Two of the chicken dishes on the menu—celestial chicken and South Seas chicken—were originated by Johnnie when he was chef at Skipper Kent's Zombie Village in Oakland. Now you'll find both of them served in many Chinese restaurants in the Bay Area.

I'M INFORMED by Leon Smith at the Country Club Bowl, San Rafael that the swimming pool is opening here for the summer to family memberships. A number of repeat memberships are already booked, but a few more are available. Facilities include private room with locker. Pam Field, a student at College of Marin and qualified as a life guard, is giving private swimming lessons and is on duty six days a week. Call Leon Smith for membership details.

Dining room at the Country Club Kitchen is open from 11:30 a.m. Mondays through Fridays, and the snack bar is open from 9 a.m. seven days a week.

THERE'S A NEW ADDITION to the backyard staff at Franchini's Chateau—a tiny filly foaled by Missy the pony—and still unnamed. As soon as she gets her balance there may be a contest to remedy this deficiency.

Franchini's is holding its fifth anniversary party Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday next week. Champagne will be served on each complete dinner—compliments of Niki and Roy, whose only complaint these last five years is they'd like to expand and improve the facilities, but don't dare. The State Highway Department has plans for a cloverleaf here but won't say just when the work will start.

Panel On Taxes, Conservation Set

A panel discussion on the effect of conservation on property taxes will be held at 8 p.m. June 10 in Olney Hall on the College of Marin campus.

The public discussion will be sponsored by the Henry George School of Social Science.

Park Bond On Agenda

Almonte Improvement Club directors will discuss the proposed Marin County park bond issue at a meeting at 8 p.m. Wednesday in Almonte Hall, Almonte Boulevard and Wisteria Way, President Herbert E. Davis said today. The meeting, scheduled Tuesday night of this week, was cancelled.

Proposed rezoning will be discussed by Muir Woods Park Improvement Assn. members in a progress report at an 8 p.m. meeting, today in the clubhouse on Ridge Avenue off Panoramic Highway. The 1966 Mountain Fair plans will also be discussed.

GARDENING GARB CLEARED

Mrs. Mary Lou Hood, 21, a coed at Central State College in Edmond, Okla., wore a demure suit to municipal court last night (right) where she was cleared of charges of indecent exposure. The ruckus started over 36-24-36 coed's wearing of a bikini to mow her lawn on May 16 (left). Mary Lou had offered to model the bikini for the judge, but it wasn't necessary. (AP Wirephotos)

Apologies Given For Miswording

A carelessly worded paragraph in Monday's Independent-Journal has left some readers with the wrong idea about a Corte Madera youth's role in the theft of a tire and wheel from a parked car in San Rafael last weekend.

The story was intended to say only that Winston Butscher Jr. of 10 Baja Court, Corte Madera, had reported the theft after he parked the car in San Rafael Saturday. The wording, however, could have been taken to mean he committed the theft.

The Independent-Journal regrets any embarrassment caused the youth and his family by the ambiguity.

Tamalpais High School swimming pool will be open tomorrow and Sunday from 1 to 5 p.m. It will be open successive weekends throughout the summer with the exception of June 18 and 19.

Search Warrant Upheld In Marinites' Arrests

A municipal court judge in Santa Rosa has upheld the legality of a search warrant which led to the arrest of six persons, two of them are from Larkspur.

Judge Joseph P. Murphy ended a five-day hearing by ruling Santa Rosa police were acting within their rights March 9 when they searched the home of Patrick Cox, 25.

Cox was not at home, but police arrested Richard Johnson, 30, Michelle Miller, 22, and Michael Woodward, 21, and charged them with possession of dangerous drugs. Johnson and Miss Miller are from Larkspur; Woodward is from San Francisco.

In a second raid two days later, police arrested the same trio, plus Cox; Janet Sprol, 26, of San Francisco, and Joseph Dalzell, 22, of Oakland.

Judge Murphy called the hearing after defense attorneys accused police of trickery in conducting the searches, and moved that the search warrant be thrown out of court. In denying the motion, he ruled that Police Lt. Wallace Stephens was "attempting a legal arrest."

Supervisor Wants Tax Rate Frozen

County Supervisor Ernest N. Kettenhofen today proposed that the county tax rate be frozen and that increased budgetary needs be covered by the county's "growth rate."

He suggested the freeze be somewhere between $2.20 and $2.25 per $100 assessed valuation, well under the $2.39 estimated to support the proposed $25.9 million budget for fiscal 1967.

Kettenhofen said in a letter to fellow supervisors that the county budget, excluding capital improvement costs, has been increasing at a rate of about six per cent per year, the same rate of growth of the county.

He said he plans to recommend a bond issue to finance capital improvements and predicted this could bring the tax rate down to $2 or $2.10. Rate for this year was $2.185.

Supervisors have discussed the possibility of such a bond issue being put to the voters in November.

County Hotel Tax Idea Urged For Promotions

County Supervisor Ernest N. Kettenhofen today proposed that the county's promotion and development budget, which funds chambers of commerce and other promotion groups, be supported entirely by a new hotel-motel room tax.

Kettenhofen, who asked fellow supervisors to discuss the idea next Tuesday, promised that he will vote against any expenditures for promotion and development unless the board agrees that fiscal 1967 will be the last year it is in the budget.

In a letter to the board, he suggested creation of a Marin County promotion and development commission with representation from board of supervisors, Marin Development Assn., Marin Visitors Bureau, and Marin Council of Mayors and Councilmen.

Kettenhofen has long stumped for a hotel-motel tax in the county. He estimated in his letter that it would bring in $100,000 a year.

County Administrator Alan Bruce has recommended $101,532 be budgeted for next fiscal year, to cover allocations to the various groups and the salary of director of economic development John M. Douglas, plus a half-time secretary.

Las Vegas Has LSD Problem

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Police say the hallucinatory drug LSD is causing new problems in Las Vegas.

They have asked Gov. Grant Sawyer to ask a current special session of the legislature to outlaw the drug.

"If we had the backing of the law," said North Las Vegas Police Chief Nick Janise, "we could go out today and make a dozen arrests. We know who is using LSD and where they are getting it."

"This is a problem," said Las Vegas Police Chief Lorin Bunker. "We need a law in self defense. Without it, there is not much we can do."

Woman Missing From San Rafael

An all-points bulletin was put out by police today for a San Rafael woman reported missing between San Francisco and her home at 11 Chestnut Street.

William A. Sieter told police his wife, Nancy C. Sieter, 29, left a friend's home in San Francisco at 1 a.m. today. She had not returned by 5:30 a.m.

Mrs. Sieter was last seen wearing a blue knit suit, tan shoes and was carrying a suede purse. She was driving a 1964 convertible.

College Study Group Picks Davis Leader

Daniel C. Davis of Greenbrae last night was elected chairman of a citizens committee of the Marin Junior College District board to study, the district's policy of financing capital outlay and building programs on a pay-as-you-go basis.

Board president Elizabeth M. Deedy told the committee that the board will look for recommendations six months to a year from now.

President Stephen E. Epler of College of Marin talked of the growth of junior colleges in the state, saying their total enrollment is now larger than the combined enrollment of state universities and colleges.

College planning coordinator James W. Duke told the committee the college's enrollment is greatly outrunning predictions of 1962, which the board used as a basis for building on a pay-as-you-go plan financed by a special tax.

Other committee members are: J. L. Agnew, Fred F. Enemark, George M. Henderson, John D. LaNoue, Robert L. Parish and Charles Van Horne of San Rafael; Dr. A. J. Brinckerhoff, Henry Hicks, Clark M. Palmer and E. J. Picchi of Novato; Albert Goodwin and H. G. Marchant of Kentfield; Francis Carr and Robert Rich of Sausalito; Dr. Arnold Nutring of San Anselmo, and Edward Ward of Tiburon.

Stolen Car Found

A 1962 Chevrolet Impala, which Dave Kline of 1 Shelley Road, Mill Valley, reported was stolen last night, was discovered by sheriff's deputies at 8:45 a.m. today, above Marin City, the wheels and tires removed.

MARIN COLLEGE TEAM BEST CAR FIXER-UPPERS

Two College of Marin auto technology students corrected malfunctions in the electrical circuits, fuel line and carburetor of an automobile in one hour and 54 minutes yesterday to claim the title of best junior college mechanics in Northern California.

Donald Forsyth of Stinson Beach and Donald Holton of Marinwood, competing in a Chrysler Motors Corp.-sponsored contest for junior college mechanics in San Mateo, won first prize, correcting their car's troubles one and one-half minutes earlier than the second best team from Yuba Junior College.

The students and their instructor Jesse Salmon were awarded trophies. The youths will compete in state finals next Friday in Fresno. Winners there will receive a trip to Chrysler headquarters in Detroit.

Older Heads Still Needed To Supervise Education

Students today, particularly college students, are demanding more voice in the administration of schools and in the choice of curriculum.

Some are even going so far as to suggest that students become equal partners with the faculty and the administration.

This aspiration by students to play a bigger role in setting educational policy and developing curriculum reflects, in a sense, the growing maturity and sophistication of modern youth.

Because of big strides made in mass communication and in greater mobility by automobiles and jets, modern youth has opportunities to keep abreast of national and world developments that previous generations did not have.

There's no doubt that students today are more conversant with a wider variety of topics than those of the older generation. Responsible student groups will no doubt be entrusted with larger roles in the administration of their colleges and universities.

Nevertheless, we believe that student opinion, no matter how brilliant, must be tempered by the wisdom that comes with age and experience.

At the fifth annual California Conference on Higher Education held in Los Angeles earlier this month, a couple of college presidents expressed that idea succinctly. Education News Service quotes Richard C. Gilman, president of Occidental College as follows:

"The academic profession has the obligation to look to itself to decide what college should be about. Curriculum and other matters must be decided from a position of competency and capability.

"I submit that students have neither.

"Furthermore, the college which says it will teach only what the student wants is doomed."

The strong language used by President Gilman may be a deliberate exaggeration to emphasize his point.

Student opinion, especially constructive ideas, certainly should be encouraged, and acceptable ones should be incorporated. But we agree with President Gilman's point—that the ultimate decision making should continue to rest with the faculty, administration and trustees.

As Charles Frankel, U.S. assistant secretary of state for educational and cultural affairs observed:

"Today's protesting students must recognize that there has been a great deal of valuable knowledge and experience passed down to them from this and preceding generations. They can't start from scratch and learn everything for themselves."

Buckeyes And Crippled Bees

The California buckeye trees are blooming now on Marin's hills and dales. This tree, with its long spikes of blossoms, is a member of the Native Flora of the Golden West—a native amid a host of aliens.

Buckeye nectar is notorious among beekeepers. The worker bees gather it and their digestive system processes it into honey. Evidently it does not hurt the adult bees, but when fed to the developing larvae in the brood combs it produces deformed and crippled bees. A sort of bee thallidomide.

Conservative Action Committee Throws Backing Behind Patrick

By WAT TAKESHITA

Takeshita

REMEMBER FRED Ullner, the Larkspur TV store owner who backed Barry Goldwater, formed the 26 Million Club and the Republicans for Conservative Action, and backed Ronald Reagan?

Just this week, Ullner and his group (now called the Conservative Action Committee) pulled a surprise switch. They're deserting Reagan and supporting William Penn Patrick, the Marin cosmetic manufacturer.

"We think Reagan is a wonderful man," Ullner explained. "But we think his campaign people are something else again. They won't let Ronnie speak. We feel Patrick can really do something."

Ullner said Patrick's strong stand against the "UC Beatniks" had won his group's admiration. Ullner hopes to deliver "several hundred thousand Goldwater votes" to Patrick.

IF YOU'RE LOOKING for a respectable college position, try the College of Marin. They've got a vacancy for the post of college trustee, because Kent Seymour resigned. Only catch is, it's a non-paying position.

THE COMMITTEE to Re-Elect Governor Brown is mailing out letters, pleading for funds so that Governor Brown can get on TV to refute "the misstatements and innuendos of both the Republican candidates for Governor and the false candidate in the Democratic Primary."

The letter is signed by Libby Gatov and Roger Kent of Kentfield, and George Fleharty of San Francisco.

ACTOR RONALD Reagan won't tell you publicly, because he is committed to the 11th Commandment (not to speak ill of other Republicans). But he swears in private that he's got a transcript which shows that the word "bigot" was used by George Christopher at the Santa Monica meeting from which Reagan stalked out in anger last March. Reagan said at the time that Christopher had referred to him as a racist or bigot. Christopher emphatically denied this.

SEVERAL STAUNCH supporters of Supervisor Byron Leydecker, when he ran against John McInnis in 1964, have now swung over to the side of McInnis. Among them are Walter Zurcher and Irving Chapman.

THE GEORGE Christopher milk case of 1940-41 keeps cropping up like clockwork, each time Christopher runs for public office.

A close check of all available records show that (1) no felony was involved at any time, (2) he was never "sentenced to jail", although he was photographed, booked, and held in jail.

He did plead guilty to several counts of misdemeanors (violating sections of the California Agricultural Code). He bought milk from producers at the minimum price required by law, the got rebates from the producers. The net result was that he paid the milk producers less than the minimum price.

HE WAS FINED and put on probation for two years. During the probation, he was rebooked for violation of the terms of probation (he failed to make a monthly payment of $125). At that time, he remained in jail for five days, in lieu of bail. This is probably what causes the erroneous reports of a "jail sentence."

As the then District Attorney, A. E. Bagshaw recalls it, the "courts ultimately modified the order of probation so as to substantially reduce the amount of fines to be paid and Christopher completed the payments as thus modified and was released from probation."

All of this has been rehashed many times before. Any suggestion that the case involves felonious acts or that Christopher got a jail sentence is pure hogwash.

Free Samples Seen As Peril To Children

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Recently, we again received an envelope of "free coupons" via the Post Office, addressed to Occupant. This envelope from Lever Bros. Co. did in fact contain coupons in addition to a sample of medication, Stendin, with six tablets of an adult dosage of an aspirin compound.

Inquiries directed to the pediatrician and druggist were inconclusive as the exact amount of aspirin in the tablets was unknown to them. However, from the label of the product, they surmised the sample contained the equivalent of sixty grains of aspirin (a lethal dose for a toddler).

The outer envelope did not indicate the contents and may readily have been laid aside or discarded, a "prize" for children. Then too, apartment houses frequently have a table in the lobby where a number of these envelopes could have been left to accommodate the occupants of the building.

This dosage in itself could be harmful to any youngster but the possibility of several of these packets ingested could well go undetected with fatal results.

We urge legislation banning this practice for the safety of our children.

Fruitless Wait For Good Smog Laws

Editor, Independent-Journal:

We can sit quietly by no longer. Our vain 12 months' wait for someone to introduce sensible legislation into California's auto smog control has been fruitless, and we must protest the measures now in the legislative hopper.

Two especially noxious bills are now being considered: AB98, eliminating the previously guaranteed protection against a monopoly in the exhaust control device field; and AB's 98, 112 and 119, in conjunction, providing for the expansion of air pollution control legislation into any area of the state, whether desired by LOCAL governments, or not . . .

These bills extend the smog program beyond the currently involved counties. They eliminate the present FEW safeguards of the motoring public. They present to the Dept. of Public Health the authority to override any county board of supervisors who have previously demonstrated an interest in the people's wishes. They open the door for more disastrous and damaging requirements apparently aimed solely at profiting some manufacturers—not at alleviating or controlling air polution.

Now, the question: What can be done? For over two years our organization has urged voters to wake up and realize the extent of victimizing to which they were being subjected. The response has been dismally poor.

It is not too late yet! These bills have not yet been passed by the respective houses! They have not yet been signed into law! Write a letter to your Senator and Assemblyman — NOW! Express your displeasure—as often told to us—with the requirements already in force, and that you do not want further encroachments on your automobile, pocketbook, or your atmosphere (such as the passage of these bills will cause). Let's all present a united demand for sensible laws for the control of air purity—not panic measures for profiteering as voted for by Senator McCarthy and Assemblyman Bagley. Tell them now that you don't expect them to make the same mistake again.

Reader Explains Why He Opposed Barry

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Tonight (May 17) Morrie Ryskind rightly (no pun intended) complains that the country took a sharp swing to the left in the 1964 election but fails to comprehend why this occurred. It was because 43,000,000 people were unwilling to take an even sharper lurch to the right, which would have occurred if that wild man from Arizona had been elected.

I personally, hold rather conservative views with regard to economic policies and matters dealing with personal responsbility. But when confronted with a choice between a wild foreign policy and a wild domestic economic policy, I found the latter less menacing and voted accordingly. So did a large number of other people who would have gladly voted for a more reasonable Republican candidate. This feeling carried a huge number of liberal Democrats into Congress, hence the leftward swing Mr. Ryskind complains of.

That people who voted thus since have been betrayed and have ended up with both a wild foreign policy and a wild domestic economic policy is another issue. This latter will be attended to this fall and in 1968.

A NERVOUS DRIVER, who had just insured his shiny new car, backed it with a resounding crash into the car parked behind him. As he emerged sheepishly from behind the wheel, he found the man who had sold him the insurance policy waiting on the curb for him. "Boy," exclaimed the driver, "you sure were prompt." "You bet I was," agreed the insurance man. "That was my car you backed into."

MEL BROOKS, who used to write zany skits for Sid Caesar on TV, then made "The 2,000-Year-Old Man" album with Carl Reiner, and is now responsible for the TV comedy, "Get Smart," advises writers to stay as far away as possible from TV producers and agents. "If you don't watch out," warns Brooks, "you'll be thinking just the way they do. First thing you know, you, too, will be saying, 'I'll write this so Elke Sommer can play the lead. She's hot right now.'" The first time an agent actually asked Brooks, incidentally, "Could you make the lead suitable for Elke Sommer?" Eastern Europe Trade May Help Cut Ties To Kremlin Dictators

WASHINGTON—I wonder if the powerful chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, Rep. Wilbur D. Mills of Arkansas, is sure he is doing the nation a service by greeting with a bludgeon the Administration proposal to expand U.S. trade with Eastern Europe?

Mr. Mills doesn't like the idea and when Mr. Mills doesn't like something it usually doesn't happen — in Congress, that is.

THERE ARE, indeed, honest, arguments about widening the channels of trade with the Eastern European Communist countries. We certainly don't want to do anything to fasten these repressive dictatorships more tightly on the peoples who never chose them in the first place.

But might not the opposite be the effect of enlarging the economic relationships between Eastern Europe and the West?

I would cite three developments that show there are forces in motion there which it is greatly in our interest to encourage:

1. Nicolae Ceausescu, Rumania's Communist party chief, has just delivered a blunt attack on Soviet "meddling" in Rumania affairs. He made it clear that, while he wants Rumania Communist, he wants it independent, not run from Moscow, and that it would be all right with him if there were no Warsaw Pact.

2. A distinguished Slovak scholar, Michal Lakatos, writing in Pravny Obzor, is continuing his campaign—obviously tolerated by the regime itself — for free elections in Czechoslovakia. He contends that elections of a kind which no Communist state has ever allowed are essential if Communism is ever to produce a "just society."

3. Walter Ulbricht, Communist chief of state in East Germany, after proposing two public debates—one in East Germany and one in West Germany—between the Communist leaders and Mayor Willy Brandt and his colleagues of the Social Democratic party, is suddenly running for cover. He postponed the date and apparently is postponing the venture entirely.

REASON: the East Germans showed themselves too eager to listen and he is afraid of what the reaction would be if ideas of the West German leaders were allowed to go over the radio as promised.

Rumanians talking back to Moscow. Even the hasty trip of Leonid Brezhnev, Soviet party secretary, to Bucharest didn't soften their protests. Czechoslovakian Communists advocating free elections Western style. East Germans breathlessly waiting for closer association with the West.

SOMETHING is happening. Many of the Communist leaders of Eastern Europe want to get away from Soviet domination.

Most of the people of Eastern Europe want to free themselves from dictatorial regimes. They see increased political and economic contract with the West as a boon.

Increased trade with the U.S. can help these regimes become less dependent upon the Soviet Union.

But it will require Congressional approval to permit the necessary reciprocal tariff agreements.

FULL Congressional and public debate would be useful and Chairman Mills is not doing a good thing in refusing to conduct hearings or to introduce legislation so that Congress can decide.

President's Club Has Key Financial Chore

By ROBERT S. ALLEN
and PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — The expensively exclusive President's Club is coming to the financial rescue of the debt-ridden Democratic National Committee.

Given an unannounced $3 million fund-raising goal by the White House, the club, through its $1,000-a-year memberships, already has banked $1.5 million to pay off the party's $2 million debt.

MOST OF this money has come from three club dinners attended by President Lyndon B. Johnson at Houston and Chicago, and Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey in New York. These affairs brought the club's dues-paying members to 1,520, more than half of the 3,000 goal personally set by the President, according to club president Arthur Krim, who doubles as finance director of the Democratic National Committee.

Krim, wealthy New York attorney and movie executive, stated that the club's recent dinner in Houston was attended by 700 members and produced around $800,000 for the national committee. The extra funds, he indicated, came from members who paid $10,000 for "life memberships" — a new feature.

THE CLUB dinner in New York was attended by Vice President Humphrey and raised $186,000. Krim also reported that the "advance enrollment" of members at this week's dinner with the President in Chicago had brought in "more than $400,000."

A $1 million dinner-dance is scheduled for June 11 in New York at which the President will be the star attraction. Other parties to raise from $500,000 to $1 million are being arranged in Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Minneapolis, Des Moines and San Francisco this summer and fall.

Sixteen unions have bought memberships for top officials, despite labor complaints that the administration has failed to vigorously support their legislative proposals.

IN ADDITION to meeting and shaking hands with President Johnson or Vice President Humphrey at fund-raising affairs, President's Club members also are invited to White House events.

"The President's Club is still very exclusive, although it has been in existence since 1961," says Clifton Carter, Democratic National Committee executive director, in soliciting new members. "Its members are assured of direct relationship with President Johnson."

Carter explained that in addition to being asked to the White House social functions, "Members who want to talk to the President, the Vice President, or one of their assistants, have only to contact my office. Members will immediately be put in contact with whomever they want to reach."

In his sales pitch Carter stresses that President Johnson uses the Club's membership list "to solicit advice" in making appointments and "in developing a consensus on important domestic and foreign issues."

PRESIDENT Johnson is finally going to send his long-promised message to Congress on the handling of campaign funds by candidates for President and Congress.

Within a few weeks he will call for:

More accurate reporting of campaign contributions, and how such funds are spent, federal authority over all fund-raising committees for presidential and congressional candidates, and stiff penalties for false reporting.

Still undecided is whether to propose the creation of a special commission to study the question of limiting the cost and duration of congressional and presidential campaigns.

Sausalito's Walk-Away Dishes Come In A Variety Of Packages

Checking the walk-away dishes in Sausalito the other day, we found that you can get English fish and chips in a paper checked basket at Fish and Chips and walk-away shrimp and crab cocktails at Casserino's with a walk-away tap beer.

Edna Wells of London, temporary manager, said, "You just eat fish as you walk along . . . very common all over England." She said that shop owner Haddon Salt is from Skegness, England, and all the fish and chips sold in the place are English.

ON THE Napa Street Pier we saw a girl in one of those skirts above the knee and high heels and two women in dungarees on the fishing boat, Annabelle, fishing. The fishing wives, fishing with drop lines, said fishing was good and they had hauled in 16 smelt.

The walk-away business is old hat in Sausalito, a sea–ey town. Patty's and Porky's and The Kettle have walk-aways as does the Venice Gourmet boutique.

It was the week we kept bumping into Len Bjorklund, stumping for D.A. office and the week that Manny Gomez, away on sabbatical, returned to the Mill Valley City Council chambers. He tested the new council, found them heady and then put in a plug for his Cresta de la Norte which he said is Spanish for north ridge. Gomez is as long and strong as ever.

It was the week that Ellen Dawson, rebel of Stinson Beach, announced she is going to emigrate to Israel in late June or early July.

"I'm sending the children to their father in New York," she said, "and my library of books will be left with Elizabeth Okamura who has promised to continue allowing their use to grammar and high school students." A pacifist, Ellen says she hopes to live on a kibbutz near the frontier.

IT WAS the week Phil Palmer realized that he could sleep longer since he no longer hears the Greyhounds warming up in early morning. And Tamalpais student John Curtis, hitchhiking, worried he hopes his fare of 30 cents one way does not increase because, though he has and can ride his bike from Sausalito, he finds the route very dangerous.

Six bongo drummers sat in the grass last Sunday at Vina del Mar Plaza, apparently very much "with it," playing to numerous tourists who seemed very curious but "out of it." One man said they are not a drumming group but just get together to blow, a way of free expression.

We met a man with a half Siamese, half calico cat on a red leash. The cat, named Balgiabab after a famous Russian chess player, had chosen to sit on a stranger's lap, completely at one with his surroundings. We asked the cat owner, who wore a Jason Robards thousand clowns hat if Balgie likes music and the man replied, "He likes the beat."

At Gallery Horizons there is a sculpture by Thomas Marioni which you can walk into, then look out at the world through a one-eyed aperture. Called "Inner Space No. 1," Miss Tony Laue, gallery guarder, said these are good to place beside pools.

WE MET drug inventor Fred Mayer at Sausalito Pharmacy for the first time and he said his latest product, a wrinkle remover, is going great guns. He showed us his laboratory and said there are only four small drug manufacturers left in the U.S. and he's one. "Dick Van Dyke and the Bat Man have been in for hangover pills," he said. And, he added, we have delivered eight expectant mothers to hospitals, one of the shop's special services.

Willie Chee, 75, at Marin Fruit and Grocery Co., (he gives credit), was taking a nap and so we spoke to his son, Nathan Yee. Yee has a different name because, when his dad came to this country he came under somebody else's name—Chee.

Chee has been in the grocery business in Sausalito since 1915 and still has no automation. But he does have two wonderful red-topped stools where you can sit at a counter and order your foodstuffs. The fastest seller right now is fresh fruit, said Yee.

White House High Living Even Involves A Dancing Minister!

WASHINGTON — Representative H. R. Gross, the Republican Congressman from Iowa, has finally blown the whistle on one of the best kept secrets in Washington. And that is that the Johnson administration is composed of a swinging "mink coat set," which dances until 3 o'clock every morning through the White House halls.

The Good Congressman made a speech on the floor of the House deploring not only the swinging at the White House, but all the Dolce Vita activities that have been going on, such as Press Secretary Bill Moyers doing the Watusi and Frug, and one woman who was sent home from an opera ball because she was wearing a transparent dress which Rep. Gross said made her "half naked."

I WAS as shocked to read about all these goings-on as anyone.

As soon as I heard about Rep. Gross's speech I called my wife and said, "We haven't been invited to the White House this week, have we?"

"What's the matter with you?" she said. "We've never been invited to the White House."

"It's just as well," I said. "Do you know what they do there?"

"Don't tell me."

"They dance the Watusi and the Frug until 3 in the morning."

"THAT'S the first good thing I've heard about the White House in months," she said.

"Hush, my sweet," I said. "The Devil may have the line tapped. Did you know that an ordained Baptist minister has been leading the dancing and doing the 'Swim,' the 'Monkey,' and the 'LBJ Stomp'?"

"Heavens preserve us," my wife said. "Could it be Rev. Bill Moyers?"

"The very same," I told her. "It's as if Sadie Thompson had come back to earth and moved into the Lincoln Room of the White House."

"The LBJ crowd seemed like such nice people," my wife said.

"YOU NEVER know what goes on in someone's house after the sun goes down," I told her. "Did you know that the President dances also?"

"It couldn't be true."

"And Mrs. Johnson and Luci and Lynda Bird and Hubert Humphrey and Muriel."

"We shall have to pray for all of them," my wife said. "I'll make up some 'Repent' signs just in case we want to picket the White House."

"DO YOU KNOW what else I found out from Congressman Gross? I discovered that the women in Washington walk around half naked in evening dresses."

"Thank heavens, you would not let me buy a new evening gown," my wife said.

"Exactly what I was thinking," I replied. "We're the only ones in Washington who live in a glass house and can still throw stones."

"Is there any hope," my wife asked, "that they could change their sinful ways?"

"Not according to Congressman Gross. Once you start dancing there is no way back."

"You and I and Congressman Gross seem to be the only clean living people in this town," my wife said.

"We're twice blessed," I said. "You don't own a mink coat and I don't dance."

"WE MAY NOT have fun," my wife said, "but at least we can look each other in the eye in the morning."

Catching Up On WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Competition Could Be Better For Garbage

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Where we have exclusive franchises we eventually have price controls. A reader in today's (May 14) I-J, for instance, complains about the high cost of garbage collection and urges that cities more effectively control such prices.

It would be a lot easier and more effective to simply encourage greater competition in the scavenger business. Cities don't grant exclusive franchises for milk delivery. Does it have to be different for another public service such as garbage collection? Let the individual property owner rather than the city make a deal with which ever company he likes best. If one company's price/service ratio gets out of line, another company would soon underbid it.

If the community were willing to grant scavenger licenses to anybody who is able to meet the health and safety codes, prices would go down, service would improve, and price controls would become obsolete.

Regardless of their arrangement with our city, hats off to the Belvedere garbage collectors. Year in and year out, rain or shine we see (and often hear) them carrying out a necessary and often thankless public chore.

Steel Water Tanks Draw Reader Protest

Editor, Independent-Journal:

I feel that the recently constructed 1,500,00 gallon water storage tank in the Strawberry area is a real eye-sore and, perhaps, there is another and better solution. If there is a solution, and I believe that there is, it should be taken into consideration before work is started on the 5,000,000 gallon tank for Mill Valley or on any other future water storage tanks of similar capacity.

Mr. Craig Randall, who is chairman of the advisory committee for the Contra Costa County Water District, along with Mr. Frank Swanson, who is their chief engineer, gave me the following information:

Their district has not constructed an above-ground metal tank for the past five years and is phasing out all metal above-ground tanks as fast as economically possible. The four new reservoirs of their district are all below ground and constructed of reinforced concrete. The roofs put on these reservoirs are so designed to safely accommodate three feet of top soil and this area could be converted into a park, picnic area or developed as tennis courts.

True, the initial cost is higher but when all things are considered, the difference does not appear to be that great.

I noticed in last week's Independent-Journal that the water district showed a net profit of $753,417.00 for the fiscal year so, perhaps, some of these funds could be used to cover the additional initial cost.

To help offset the initial cost, the maintenance of a concrete tank is negligible, whereas an above ground steel tank should be repainted, and possibly cleaned on the inside as well, at least every five years. A concrete tank also has a greater life expectancy than a metal tank and, of course, we immediately eliminate the objectionable unsightly appearance of an above ground metal tank.

Support Committee Aiding Marincello

Editor, Independent-Journal:

The newly formed Citizens Committee for Justice to Marincello should be supported. The issue now transcends the merits of Marincello. If the present course of the opponents continues, the cost to tax-payers and property owners will be prohibitive.

Anyone who wishes to develop his own land in Marin must make his commitments on the strength of the commitments made to him by the Planning Commission and the Board of Supervisors. If their approval cannot be depended upon, the whole system of county government becomes tenuous and meaningless.

Pearson Called Liar By Three Presidents

Editor, Independent-Journal:

With regard to Drew Pearson's purported expose of George Christopher's alleged infraction of a state milk price regulation many years ago, and with regard to Pearson's integrity and reliability, I seem to remember that three of our Presidents, FDR, Truman and Eisenhower, have publicly called him a liar on three different occasions.

Is my recollection erroneous?

I'd like very much to know whether Pearson is Brown's self-appointed hatchet man or whether Brown has asked him to do his dirty work for him while he, Brown, remains aloof in sanctimonious silence.

Pro-Butane Writer Poorly Informed?

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Regarding the comment by Mr. Edward R. Bunting of Ross, on the editorial by the Independent-Journal entitled "People Must Act Quickly on Gas Over White's Hill."

In my opinion that editorial was an outstanding masterpiece and rates in the top five of newspaper editing. Mr. Bunting is, no doubt, sitting comfortably on the cold winter nights, with his natural gas furnace in operation, and not a worry in the world about the gas tank running out. His garden, in the summertime is probably gorgeous in flower, and not marred by an unsightly steel gas tank.

The schools in the area where Mr. Bunting lives are not compelled to surround these ugly, dangerous gas tanks with a six-foot steel and wire fence to protect the children from the possibility of fire or explosion, as our schools are.

Butane gas is not allowed to be used in San Francisco, only under certain conditions, due to its dangers.

The people of this lovely valley are not interested in gas for burning weeds or propelling of motor vehicles. We want underground pipes to carry gas to our homes for the purpose of heating and cooking, and at a reasonable cost. One must live in our valley to appreciate our needs.

Mr. Bunting writes about the other side of the coin, and calls the I-J editorial a little below standard. No doubt he meant to say, the other side of the track. As for the below standard, Mr. Bunting should be told that more than two companies supply propane gas to the valley, and that the $50 deposit to the PG&E (as ordered by the PUC), is returnable when gas is delivered.

In a few succinct words, Mr. Bunting isn't too well informed.

Professor Turning Youth From Music

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Re: "Letter to Editor" written by a Professor Kolitsch . . . regarding a recent Marin Youth Orchestra concert at College of Marin.

To the uninitiated it would appear that the level of music offered to our public school students is lacking in depth and quality and the teachers involved are poorly trained and selected. This is wholly untrue.

First of all, the concert in question was of excellent quality and showed not only fine programming and leadership, but also the coordinated efforts of young people who have trained and practiced to present a mature and thoroughly enjoyable performance. There were at least 800 people there who enthusiastically received them.

Writing to state politicians as suggested by this Professor Kolitsch would have only minor effect, because as taxpayers in Marin County know, a percentage of each school tax dollar is designated for use in furthering music education—as per school district.

Some districts spend more than others. Mr. Rinaldi is supervisor of music for all San Rafael schools. The Marin Youth Orchestra, however, is no part of the public school system. It is supported wholly through the sale of tickets and by the Sypmhony Guild of Marin—there are no public funds.

Mr. Rinaldi has been director of this truly excellent group, beyond his school responsibilities, for 11 years. The Marin Youth Orchestra is open to any young musician in Marin County who so qualifies by a regular try-out system.

This Professor Kolitsch was befriended by Mr. Rinaldi because he is a refugee of some two cr three years ago—it seems hardly "cricket" to publicly bite the hand that has helped you. He has started what he calls the Violin Institute of California and is the sole "faculty." It has no reciprocal affiliation with any other recognized music training center in this area.

His further local contribution to music is lacking and on what basis he rests his accusations of school music escapes me. We have almost without exception an outstanding faculty in all school districts teaching our children a balanced range of music at all grade levels, and Mr. Rinaldi's district can be cited as especially exemplary.

It is obvious that Le Professeur is totally unfamiliar with the music program in the local schools or community.

New Island On Road Potential Death Trap

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Highway 37 which has been the scene of many fatal accidents at the Blackpoint approach to the Petaluma River, has now had another hazard added in the last few days. This is a traffic island at the west end of the Crest Road approach to the highway.

It was meant to prevent traffic from entering the highway in the wrong direction, which is good. The island, however extends so far into the paved shoulder - about 10 feet—that a car traveling partly on the shoulder can come upon this obstruction suddenly without being able to avoid it.

Already the road sign implanted in the island has been knocked down by someone who did not see it in time.

If this obstruction is not removed from its present location it will become a death trap when the fogs are thick and motorists are hugging the outer shoulder of the road.

COUNTY COMMENT

Behr's Views On Taxes Conflict With Promotion Of Park Bonds

FUSSELMAN

In the I-J on Wednesday, "Supervisor Peter Behr called the bills (being proposed for state legislation to give tax relief to those over 62) 'nothing but a sop to the elderly citizens—an insult to the common sense of the population of this county—This little comes too late for the too many people who have had to suffer from the too high property taxes'." We must all applaud him for the speech. Nevertheless I have difficulty in reconciling it with his present activity as co-chairman of the drive to put over the $4.3 million bond issue to purchase land for parks and open spaces.

Last week I questioned the timing of this submission. When we read in the press on page after page that city after city plus the schools and other districts find that more increases in taxes are needed to carry on their activities, it seems to emphasize the bad timing.

IN THE I-J news story of the quarterly meeting of the Marin Property Owners Assn. (Not the old time Taxpayers Assn.) which was held last week in San Rafael, this was reported: "Kettenhofen, who is co-chairman of the bond drive with Supervisor Peter H. Behr, declined to make an outright appeal for the property owner group to endorse the bond issue, but insisted members should get all the facts before they opposed the plan." He then proceeded to furnish them with sufficient reason to do just that, (oppose the plan). "The current booklet of information on bonds", said Kettenhofen, "is a 'half promise to all people for all things,' and interested citizens should challenge the supervisors to show precisely what will happen if the bond issue is approved June 7."

He was asked if the supervisors wanted the bond issue passed badly enough to cut the county tax rate elsewhere by as much as the bonds would add to it. He urged that the question be thrown to the entire board. He could have brought the question up at the Tuesday meeting of the board for an answer. There was no reporting that he did.

APPARENTLY there is going to be very little effort to make any cuts, in spite of their reported concern over the size of the increase in the budget the administrator submitted. Tuesday they authorized the new $18,000 a year planning director to hire three new people for that department. He wished to hire "June graduates." Must be that an expanded staff is needed to properly support and justify the $4,000 increase in the director's salary.

If you missed the KTIM broadcast of the supervisor's meeting Tuesday afternoon, try to catch the replay Sunday afternoon. There is great rivalry by the majority members to be "top banana" of the show. You owe it to yourself to hear your top official group in action.

I hope you read Richard Lyttle's report in the I-J of this week's supervisors' meeting. It was on page 23. Here are some excerpts—"This is a hell of a deal" chairman Leydecker said. He wondered why they were just hearing about the matter before them. "We've all known about this all along—you just haven't been doing your homework" said Kettenhofen. "Now all the rest of you are being heroes. It's ridiculous."

He said Leydecker wanted to write the governor because, "he's a friend of the governor"—"You don't have to get nasty," the chairman countered. Behr said he would be the villain if it would please Kettenhofen. From a lady in the audience, "The behavior of this board is a disgrace."

"You're out of order" from the chairman, banging the gavel.

"You are out of order" said the lady.

Real nice. What?

Watts Youths Again Stone Police In Inquest Anger

LOS ANGELES (AP) —Groups of rock throwing juveniles wandered through uneasy South Los Angeles' Negro community last night as residents awaited the outcome of an inquest into the death of a Negro motorist shot by a policeman.

Police said apparently only one man, a white newspaper vendor, was injured last night. They identified him as Edward Neeley, who said he was beaten by a gang of Negroes and shot at as he fled.

Police said they could not confirm any shot had been fired and added Neeley apparently left the area after getting first-aid treatment.

The incident occurred shortly after police broke up agathering of 150 juveniles, reported throwing rocks at cars in the heart of Watts, where rioting last August took 34 lives.

Police said the crowd gathered along 103rd Street shortly after a brief demonstration in a nearby park, where about 80 persons gathered to protest the death of Leonard Deadwyler, 25. He was shot May 7 as he was driving his pregnant wife to a hospital.

A similar demonstration Tuesday on the eve of the inquest preceded several hours of violence in which two newsmen were beaten by Negroes wielding pieces of lumber.

The Deadwyler inquest, which opened yesterday was adjourned to today after a crowd which overflowed the hearing room became unruly.

Police remained on the alert as the hooting, jeering spectators, who had traveled several miles north to the Los Angeles Civic Center, dispersed and returned to South Los Angeles. Soon small crowds began to gather in Watts and, as night came on, grew uneasy.

Twenty policemen were dispatched to 103rd Street at reports of rock throwing. They marched up the middle of the street, giving the order to disperse. A police car and a radio station's mobile news unit were hit by rocks, but the crowd broke into small groups and drifted away.

At 10:30 p.m., police began enforcing the routine curfew, picking up juveniles and holding them for their parents.

Shortly before midnight, police in the area were instructed to remove their hard helmets.

"It was a lot better night than we thought it would be," said Lt. Alan Archibald, stationed at the 77th Street Precinct, which patrols the Watts area.

The officer who fired the fatal shot, 23-year-old Gerald Bova, says he stopped Deadwyler's speeding car and his revolver fired accidentally as he reached into the vehicle to rab the ignition keys.

Deadwyler's widow, Barbara, 25, claims Bova fired without questioning her husband. She says he was speeding her to the hospital because she thought she was having labor pains.

Engines Drop Off Navy Plane

SAN DIEGO (AP)—It was a routine training flight, but suddenly it was mighty quiet aboard the normally noisy twin-engine Navy P2 Neptune patrol plane.

Both engines had dropped off.

The pilot, Lt. Robert S. Richmond, 28, managed to crashlnd the plane Wednesday within 300 yards of a Coast Guard Cutter. His six crewmen preceded him in leaving the plane and all were picked up in a life raft from the cutter.

The plane sank seven minutes after landing in the water.

Greyhound Strike Still In Deadlock

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—"No real progress" was reported by federal mediators yesterday in efforts to settle a strike against Western Greyhound Bus Lines.

The AFL-CIO Amalgamated Transit Union struck six days ago after its contract expired with the firm that serves 12 western states.

Roger Randall, Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service commissioner, said the position of both parties "continues to be slightly unrealistic."

Randall spoke in San Francisco although negotiations are underway in Washington, D.C.

Court Refuses Order On Gifts

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Donald R. Scott has been denied an injunction to prevent actress Corinne Calvet from disposing of any gifts he may have given her.

In denying the injunction yesterday, Superior Court Judge Ralph H. Nutter said Scott, 35, did not allege Miss Calvet, 41, has made any threat to dispose of the disputed property.

Scott has filed suit against the French-born actress to recover $878,000 in gifts he said he gave Miss Calvet to keep her from disclosing their relationship to his wife.

The gifts, said Scott, include a $205,000 Beverly Hills home and a $155,000 ranch near Malibu.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

They 'Honey,' 'Dearie' And 'Doll' You To Death In The Better Shops

DEAR HELEN:

My (male) hairdresser calls me "honey," though he doesn't know me that well. He calls everybody "honey." I run into this a lot, and surprisingly in the better shops and stores. They "dearie," "sweetie," "dear," "doll," you to death. You'd be surprised how many male clerks go in for this. Is it part of the "new wave," like everybody kissing everybody; and first-naming you, even on the phone before you've met?

After all, I'm in my 40s. Should I feel—INSULTED?

DEAR INSULTED:

If you prefer "Ma'am" or "Madam" you can say so, but don't expect top service from here on out. Informal friendliness, even overdone, is better than the cold fish treatment. One thing for sure: you'll never be upstaged by a clerk who calls you "honey."

However, the clerk who gets my vote is the middle-aged gent who greets all female customers, from five to 55, as "young lady." This man knows his women.—H.

DEAR HELEN:

You shouldn't have been so flip in your answer to "Holey Jo" whose cat chewed up her angora sweaters. We have a cat who eats the wool off blankets. She will even crawl under the bedspread to do it. I for one would like to know why.—L.M.

DEAR L:

Three veterinarians gave me the answer: Depraved appetite: and that isn't flip—it's a medical term. A taste for wool may be due to 1. Diet deficiency; 2. A nip of oil residue, which cats relish; 3. Constipation or intestinal irritation.

Best cure? Just what I advised—keep cat and wool separated. The vets agreed you can't train instincts out of a cat, and it would take a lot of luck to track down the cause of "depraved appetite."—H.

DEAR HELEN:

I'm past 65 and never wrote a letter to a paper before, but I couldn't pass up your note on static shocks. For years I got shocks from our cars. We even put a strap on the bottom but that didn't do the trick. All your suggestions help, but I was cured by adding a cap full of fabric softener to my rinse water. Keeps nylon slips from clinging too. Try it.—GSR.

DEAR HELEN:

Dames may make the world go round but they sure slow up lines! If you have a half hour for lunch, you'd better bring it in a paper bag, because that gal in front of you at the cafeteria is sure to lose her coin purse, drop everything on the floor, and then change her mind about her order. And why don't you females ever have your money ready for the cashier?

And why is it you never have any cash at a supermarket? I stood in a line once where seven women cashed checks, which they wrote out after their groceries were totaled up. Two of them trotted back for things they forgot; one had a fistful of coupons to cash in, and another argued with the clerk over a 10-cent "mistake," (which wasn't).

It's no wonder women are lousy drivers. They can't make quick decisions and they don't think ahead or know how to "move it." And they are like cats — you can't teach them anything.—RESIGNED MALE

DEAR RESIGNED:

Granted, we're scatterbrained, but if we were perfect you men would have nothing to beef about, and that would drive you batty.

P.S. I've often wondered how a man, who can't wait in line five minutes, can spend all day fishing, catching only a sunburn.—H.

Caffeine In Tea Less Than Coffee

The brew is up to you.

A pound of tea produces about 200 cups of the beverage. A pound of coffee makes about 40 cups. There is ¾ grain of caffeine to one cup of tea, compared with 1½ grains to a cup of coffee. So reports the National Assn. for the Specialty Food Trade, Inc.

MARIN FILM FARE

Paul Newman Flashes In As 'Harper'

By LES DARD

ANNA AND THE KING — Marin's newest indoor motion picture theater, the Northgate in the Shopping center at Terra Linda, will open its doors Thursday with the showing of the Rogers and Hammerstein musical extravaganza "The King and I," starring Yul Brynner and Deborah Kerr. The stars seem to be toasting the new theater, in this scene in the opulent royal palace of Saim.

Here's what's on tap this weekend at Marin area theaters:

101 DRIVE-IN

Paul Newman takes the title role in the flashy new suspense drama "Harper," now on screen. This is no Bondian imitation — if anything, it harps back to the films of the late Humphrey Bogart.

Newman as Lew Harper is a brash, intelligent, glib private eye who is called in to locate Lauren Bacall's roving husband. She makes it clear she doesn't want him back, but is curious as to what he's up to. In her search, Newman gets involved with the frantic, sinister world of the very rich and with the slick underground that provides for them and preys on them.

The characters are as interesting as the fast action. Aside from Newman, there is Miss Bacall's stepdaughter, Pamela Tiffin, who is engaged to Robert Wagner, a carefree, ingratiating young playboy who meets a very surprising end. Arthur Hill plays the missing man's attorney — a man with a secret — and Shelley Winters is a fat, boozy onetime movie starlet.

NOVATO THEATER

Now playing is a powerful survival film—"The Flight of the Phoenix."

At first glance, the story looks familiar. An air bus carrying 12 oil firm employees crashes in the Sahara. Two die, the others must fight it out with the desert and the sun.

Ah, but take another look — the handling here is something special. The survivors salvage the workable parts from the old plane and create a smaller, hopefully flyable vehicle. This unlikely craft is the Phoenix of the title, and as it nears completion, the tension builds accordingly.

James Stewart is a veteran pilot who has little patience with modern mechanization.

His opposite is a slide rule-wielding German played by Hardy Kruger, who holds an advantage because of his knowledge of aerodynamics. Richard Attenborough, Ernest Borgnine and Ian Bannen co-star.

Co-featured is Captain Jaques Yves Cousteau's "World Without Sun."

MOTOR MOVIES

Now showing is "Morituri," a very good war picture.

Marlon Brando stars as an anti-Nazi German pacifist living in India. He is recruited by the Allies, with a bit of persuasion, for a mission on board a German freighter. The captain, Yul Brynner has been ordered to scuttle the ship in case of trouble. It is carrying a cargo of rubber—as badly needed by the Allies as by the Nazis. Brando's job is to defuse the scuttling explosive so the Allies can salvage the rubber.

Supporting actors include a German-Jewish girl who has been terribly mistreated by the SS, and a frantic Nazi first mate.

RAFAEL THEATER

Now showing is Doris Day's latest dip into domestic comedy —"Do Not Disturb."

The story is set in London. Rod Taylor, Miss Day's husband, is a newly appointed director of a British woolens firm. His task is to improve their poor sales.

When Miss Day becomes convinced that Taylor is giving another kind of sales pitch to his beautiful secretary, Maura McGiveney, drastic measures are in order. On the advice of friend Hermione Baddeley, she pretends to be infatuated with handsome antique dealer Sergio Fantoni.

Co-featured is a sensitive French picture of the two days in June 1940 when the British are evacuating troops from the beleagured beach at Dunkirk. "Weekend at Dunkirk" offers vivid photography and excellent acting by Jean-Paul Belmondo and Catherine Spaak.

TIBURON PLAYHOUSE

Now playing is a fine double bill:

First, there's "David and Lisa" for which title players Keir Dullea and Janet Margolin won Best Actor and Best Actress at a recent San Francisco International Film Festival.

The story is based on an actual psychiatric case study. David and Lisa meet in a school for problem youngsters. He is a brilliant but hysterical youth who fears he will die if anyone touches him. She is schrizophrenic, speaks only in childish rhymes.

How their relationship grows, and how they seem to emerge from their clouds of mental anguish, is the moving theme. The two young stars are magnificent, and Howard Da Silva is equally strong as their psychiatrist.

Also showing is "Lord of the Flies," ruthless and probing film version of William Golding's words, "An attempt to trace the defects of society back to the defects of human nature," and it succeeds admirably.

LARK THEATER

Holding over is the big adult entry "Darling," for which Julie Christie received the Best Actress Oscar.

She plays a jet-set jade who deserts her husband for the highflying life, first forms an alliance with bookish TV commentator Dirk Bogarde, but then sees more opportunities with advertising executive Laurence Harvey.

She ends up as a princess in an honorable Italian house, doomed to live in what is to her, suffocating luxury.

It's predatory, hopeless, fascinating world where everyone is "Darling" and nobody is dear.

SEQUOIA THEATER

Also held over is "A Thousand Clowns," featuring Jason Robards.

Robards plays a TV gag writer who resigns from gainful employment in order to pursue the true meaning of life. But there are problems: for one, he is taking care of his 12-year-old nephew, who loves and honors him for his unconventionality.

Yet when a pair of social workers drop in to check on the child, Robards is warned that he must either conform or the boy will be taken to a more "normal" home. As a sidelight, there's a touch of romance between Robards and one of the social workers, Barbara Harris, who falls in love with him and his way of life.

Particularly worth note is Martin Balsam's Oscar winning portrayal of Robards' go-getter brother.

FAIRFAX THEATER

A 1908 grudge race—by car—from New York to Paris sets the scene for the mad antics of "The Great Race."

Tony Curtis represents the side of good and pure and wears white throughout. His despicable opponent, the meanest man on four wheels, is played by Jack Lemmon (who is perpetually enshrouded by black capes and the like).

Great escapism.

TAMALPAIS THEATER

Elizabeth Hartman, Sidney Poitier and Shelley Winters join forces in "A Patch of Blue," held over, a simple, unpretentious drama that makes a statement from the heart.

The story is that of a blind girl (Miss Hartman), who has never been to school and is horribly mistreated by her sluttish mother, Miss Winters. One day in a park she meets Poitier, an educated, sophisticated young man who offers her inspiration, hope and warmth. He shows her a way out of the slavery imposed by her mother.

The theme here is one of racial understanding, but it is touched on gingerly, and never overplayed.

Congressmen Criticize Draft, Request Probe

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional critics pressed today for an exhaustive re-examination of the nation's military draft system. They charged present procedures are inconsistent, inequitable, discriminatory and as outdated as the horse cavalry.

Two resolutions were introduced in the House asking appointment of special investigating committees. In the Senate, Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., called upon the President to appoint a commission to review the "many inconsistencies and inequities" of the draft.

The developments came as Pentagon officials reported yesterday Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara opposes the idea of allowing service in the Peace Corps or similar programs to be accepted as a substitute for military service.

McNamara left this question unanswered when he said in a Montreal speech Wednesday that the inequities in the draft might be remedied "by asking every young person in the United States to give two years of service to his country" in uniform, the Peace Corps or other help-mankind programs.

In Dallas, Tex., Lt. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, Selective Service director, said he doubts Congress can be sold on a plan that would substitute some other form of service for military duty.

"It's awfully hard to keep that 'something else' within reasonable limits," Hershey said.

Rep. Donald Fraser, D-Minn., cosponsor of one of the House resolutions, termed present draft laws "patently discriminatory against the poor and uneducated." He said those who don't have the money to go to college stand a better chance of being drafted.

But Rep. L. Mendel Rivers, D-S.C., chairman of the House Armed Services Committee which normally would handle an inquiry into the draft, opposed the creation of special committees to take over the task.

Rivers said his committee would yield its jurisdiction over Selective Service for no one. He also said Hershey had been invited to testify on the "state of the health" of the draft at an early date.

'Study-In' Set To Help Profs Get More Pay

NORMAN, Okla (AP)—A student "study-in" was set for today at the University of Oklahoma in what is believed to be the first demonstration in the nation by college students in support of increased faculty salaries.

The students planned to study in an open area on the campus between 8 a.m. and 1 p.m., said Gary Blasi, chairman of the student committee on faculty salaries and working conditions.

Blasi said the "study-in" is to draw attention of gubernatorial candidates to the situation and extract from them what they plan to do for higher education in the state.

The committee seeks to reduce the average faculty load from 12 to nine hours; increase faculty wages to the "B" average on the American Assn. of University Professors' scale which runs from A to F. Oklahoma is now between "D" and "E", Blasi said.

Stanford Students March For, Against Draft Tests

STANFORD (AP) — Students at Stanford University are campaigning vocally today both for and against their school giving tests to help draft boards.

Outside President Wallace Sterling's office, 20 students staged a sit-in last night, protesting the intelligence tests.

In dormitories, another group organized for a parade backing the faculty and administration.

Carey Coulter, 23, a history senior who spent nine months as a civilian volunteer working in Viet Nam, mobilized the group backing the faculty.

Protests against the Selective Service tests, which are aimed at keeping brainier students in colleges and out of the armed forces, began with a noon rally yesterday.

About 100 of Stanford's 10,000 students attended the rally which was organized by a committee of which Craig Loudon is chairman.

Loudon, a senior from St. Paul, Minn., demanded the university call a moratorium on the tests until the Academic Council's executive committee reviews Stanford's involvement with Selective Service.

More than 300 professor members of the council had voted Tuesday for a committee study of the involvement.

Stanford gave tests to 2,000 students a week ago and plans to give 2,000 more Saturday. Loudon said his group would picket the test building and attempt to disrupt testing by noise-making and other means.

Frischauer Defense Shows Why 'Normal' Move Not Always Best

The late Edward Frischauer, one of the greatest card players in the history of the game, would have won everything in sight if he had been a disciplined bidder.

Today's hand, one of his defensive gems, was played in Los Angeles Bridge Week a few years ago.

Opening lead — ♠ 5

West opened the five of spades, and South won with the ace.

Declarer led the queen of clubs, and Frischauer took the ace of clubs and returned a spade, forcing declarer to ruff in dummy with the five of hearts.

Declarer discarded his remaining spades on the king and jack of clubs and then led the queen of hearts from the dummy.

'NORMAL' PLAY

Frischauer naturally played . . . well, the "normal" play is a low heart. West wins with the ace of hearts and leads a third round of spades. South ruffs in his hand and leads a trump, losing the jack to East's king.

What can East do? No matter what East returns, declarer draws the last trump and runs the good diamonds to take the rest of the tricks.

FIRST TIME

It's easy to see the right play now. We're looking at all four hands and have already seen how the "normal" defense goes wrong.

Frischauer got it right the first time, looking only at his own hand and the dummy.

LAST SPADE

When the queen of hearts was led from dummy, Frischauer stepped up with the king of hearts and led his last spade. South ruffed in his own hand and led another trump.

Now West took the ace of hearts and led a fourth spade. If dummy ruffed, East's nine would become the master trump.

If dummy failed to ruff, East would ruff with the nine and thus take the setting trick at once.

ANSWER: Bid one club.

When you have a strong hand with 5-4-4-0 distribution, bid the five-card suit first. If you later bid one of the other suits, your partner will assume it is just a four-card suit.

Dolly Madison, wife of President James Madison, was born on this day in 1768.

On this day in history:

In 1902, Cuba became a republic as American occupation under Gen. Leonard Wood came to an end.

In 1927, Charles Lindbergh began his 33½-hour, solo flight from New York to Paris in the spirit of St. Louis.

In 1939, Pan American Airways started the first regular air passenger service across the Atlantic.

In 1963, the Supreme Court legalized sit-in demonstrations.

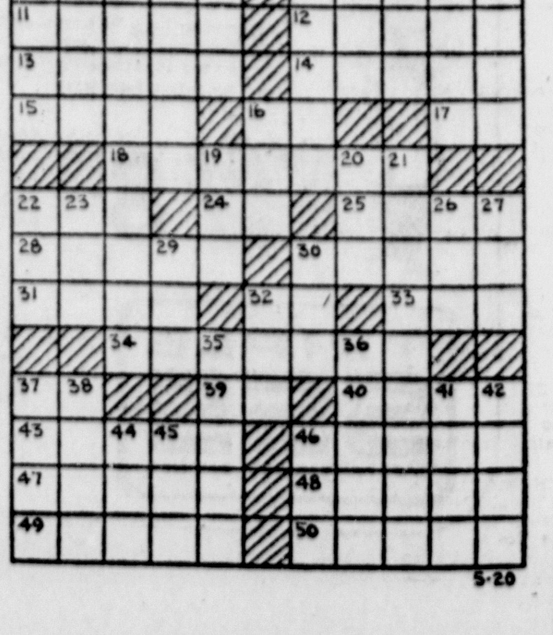
Yesterday's Answer



Kauai King Favored In Tomorrow's Preakness

BALTIMORE (AP) — Asked which horse he was concerned about in tomorrow's $150,000-added Preakness, Mike Ford replied "mine."

Ford was questioned about which of the eight other 3-year-olds he thinks has the best chance of upsetting his Kauai King.

"Well, you have to be concerned about Advocator and Blue Skyer since they finished within one-half length of us in the Kentucky Derby," he replied.

"Then there's Indulto whom we never have met. And Amberoid whom I still think is a horse to give you a lot of trouble."

Which is just about the way the odds forecasters figure the 91st running of the Preakness. Kauai King probably will leave the starting gate at 5:46 p.m. EDT about an even money favorite, with Indulto, Advocator, Blue Skyer, Stupendous and Amberoid ranging up to about 10-to-1.

That leaves Robert Lehman's Rehabilitate, Mrs. Helen Jennings' Exceedingly and Mrs. Ethel D. Jacobs' Understanding as the outsiders in the race over 1 3-16 miles.

Ford's inclusion of Indulto as among the colts to watch is widely supported around Pimlico barns. Handicapper will make him second choice at 4-1.

Owned by the former film actress Jane Greer and trained by 85-year-old Max Hirsch, Indulto is moving into the troupe of traveling 3-year-olds for the first time.

All 13 of his races have been in New York and he has never competed beyond one mile. But Indulto has won four of his five outings this year. The latest was a victory in the Withers Mile over undefeated Creme dela Creme.

Ford's concern about whether Kauai King stays fit for keeping alive his opportunity to become the ninth triple crown winner was typical of the 41-year-old owner from Omaha.

He has been at the barn and track daily.

The son of Native Dancer led all the way in the Derby for his seventh victory in nine races this year. First he beat off a challenge by Stupendous and then held off Advocator and Blue Skyer in a driving finish.

There will be $129,000 for the Preakness winner, $30,000 for second, $15,000 for third and $7,500 for fourth if none of the nine entries is scratched. Each withdrawal subtracts $1,000 from the pot.

The only predictable scratch was Exceedingly in event the track was muddy. But there was no rain forecast.

CBS will televise the event scene between 2:30 and 3 p.m., PDT.

ALONG MARIN'S SPORTS TRAIL

By JIM GILMARTIN
I-J Sports Editor

Buoys And Curls Make A Splash; Prep Gals Form Swimming Teams

DON'T LOOK NOW, you guys, but girls are beginning to make a bigger splash on the local high school sports scene.

I don't want to scare you guys, but at least three Marin high schools have organized girls' swimming teams. For interscholastic competition. And next year at least three more schools are going to jump into fun and games. First thing you know the dollies will be wearing lettermen sweaters. Their own!

UP UNTIL now athletically-inclined dames dropped all sports once they reached high school, what with the discovery of boys and bouffants occupying their time. This was particularly true of swimmers who grew up in the Amateur Athletic Union's swimming program only to drop it once they reached high school age.

The Girls Athletic Assn. decided to sanction swimming teams and spread the word, I said broadly. Redwood, Marin Catholic and San Rafael high schools had teams this year and participated in a bit of interscholastic competition. And wouldn't you know it, Clyde, they wound up in a three-way tie for first place. Or last place. Redwood dunked San Rafael, Marin Catholic sprayed Redwood and San Rafael splashed Marin Catholic.

NEXT YEAR, I am told, Terra Linda, Novato and Drake will organize teams of dogpaddlers to vie for honors. Can't you just imagine a six-way tie for first place?

Coach of the San Rafael team this year was Larry Lack who described the job as "really a lot of fun." A former varsity boys' coach, Lack said coaching the mermaids was quite different. "No high pressure," he observed, "and they have almost unbelievable spirit. Heck, after we beat Marin Catholic they almost threw me into the pool."

Coaches for Marin Catholic and Redwood are Beth Jury and Betty Blodgett.

I mention these facts today just to warn you guys that the girls are making progress in our sports world and you'll just have to share some of the spotlight next spring.

The only good thing about it is that you will get to keep your lettermen sweaters. The girls will have their own.

SAN FRANCISCO STATE College's football prospectus for 1966 lists three Marin County stars, Elmer Collett, Lyle Baucom and Dick Schultze.

Of Collett, the 225-pound guard, the prospectus boasts: "All-Far Western Conference; Little All-Coast; already drafted by the San Francisco 49ers. Along with his size 6-4, 225, 22 years old (and still growing), Elmer has the speed. He is the fastest S.F. lineman. This includes both initial start and overall speed."

OF BAUCOM, the college notes: "Middle guard or defensive tackle. Oh, what potential and power resides within the 6-6, 260-pound complex known as Lyle Baucom of Mill Valley! Along with Collett, also of Mill Valley, these two linemen could rewrite SFSC line play history. Baucom has both size and speed to continue where he left off last year as one of the squad's top defenders in the front line. He should add more in behalf of the Gator cause in '66."

The prospectus also noted that Terra Linda alumnus Schultze is a "roll-out expert" at quarterback and indicated he should see considerable action this fall.

Giants Open Met Series

Still leading the National League by 2½ games despite losing four of their last six games, the San Francisco Giants open a four-game set with the New York Mets tonight at Candlestick Park.

Manager Herman Franks had named righthander Bob Bolin to pitch for the Giants, but indicated he might switch to Gaylord Perry. Bolin has a 3-3 record and Perry is 5-1. Starting for the Mets will be ex-Giant Jack Fisher, 1-4.

It was Fisher who snapped the Giants' 12-game winning streak in New York. The Mets won two of three games back east, then the Los Angeles Dodgers took two of the next three Giant games, the last one coming last night, 3-0 behind Sandy Koufax' three-hitter.

The Giants entertain the Mets again tomorrow and then play a doubleheader Sunday.

The Foreign Touch For Colonial Open

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — The Colonial Invitation Golf Tournament had the usual foreign touch today.

Bruce Devlin of Australia led the field going into the second round. Another Aussie, Peter Thomson, was tied for second with Bob Charles, the left-handed New Zealander.

Devlin shot ahead yesterday's opening round with a three-under-par 67, while Thomson and Charles fired 68s over the Colonial Country Club's 7,123-yard layout.

Bruce Crampton of Australia and George Knudson of Canada staged a thrilling battle for the 1965 championship and jockeyed 1-2 all the way, with Crampton finally winning by three strokes. The year before Gary Player of South Africa led the first round.

In 1962 Crampton finished third and Player led the second round. In 1962 Kel Nagle of Australia led the first round and shot a hole-in-one. He won second money.

In 1960 Nagle led the second round and tied for second place. Back in 1957 Roberto de Vicenzo, from the Argentine, won the tournament.

Devlin, returning to the tour after a layoff following the Masters in mid-April, had four birdies and one bogey—when his wedge approach trickled over the green. He wound up with a saving par on 18 when he used his putter to get out of a trap and roll within five feet of the cup.

Thomson, the British Open champion, had a fine putting round, ending up with a 10-footer on 18 that gave him a tie with Charles for second.

Tied at 69 for fourth place were Bert Weaver, Dan Sikes, Don January and Gene Littler.

Doug Sanders, the year's leading winner both in money and tournaments and the favorite here, started out with a 33 on the front nine but slumped to a 37 coming in and finished at 70 with six others, including Player.

A record crowd for the first day—16,000—turned out despite a threat of rain.

ON YOUR MARK, GET SET . . .

As starter John Panagakis gets ready to fire, Marin County prep swimmers get ready to start a backstroke race at Novato High School, last Saturday in the Marin Athletic League meet. Top six finishers in all events at that meet qualified for the North Coast Division II meet scheduled tomorrow at Del Valle High School of Walnut Creek. It will begin at 9:30 a.m. Marin's track and field stars started competition today at the North Coast Division III meet in Santa Rosa.

New War Erupts In Pro Grid

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The National Football League, guilty of firing the first shot, found itself on the receiving end of a double-barreled raiding attack from aroused American League owners today.

AFL representatives have approached at least 10 players from National League clubs, trying to persuade them to play out their options and jump to the yoinger circuit.

Wellington Mara, owner of the New York Giants, confirmed last night that the San Diego Chargers of the American League had made approaches to four members of his team—Steve Thurlow, Bob Crespino, Tucker Frederickson and Greg Larson.

And in Detroit, a television sportscaster said the AFL is chasing six members of the dissension-ridden Lions, naming Alex Karras, Gail Cogdill and Wayne Walker.

The latest trouble between the rival leagues was touched off Tuesday when the Giants signed placekick specialist Pete Gogolak, who jumped to the NFL after playing out his option with the Buffalo Bills.

The Giant owner said he didn't remember if the players told him the amount of money offered by the Chargers.

Koufax Triumphs With A 3-Hitter

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Sandy Koufax has a great left arm, but he also has a good pair of feet going for him.

Koufax pitched a three-hitter and gained his first shutout and sixth victory of the season last night as Los Angeles defeated San Francisco 4-0.

While Koufax' arm baffled the Giant hitters, though, the feet dazzled the Giant fielders.

The feet, plus the rest of Maury Wills, beat out two infield singles, stole two bases and scored the first two Dodger runs.

Wills, who has won a record six straight National League base-stealing titles, now leads the league with 16 thefts — and 12 have come in games in which Koufax has pitched. Wills also has scored 18 runs over-all, half in support of Koufax.

The game against the Giants was typical.

The 33-year-old shortstop led off the first inning by beating out a grounder to second base for a single. He promptly stole second, moved to third on a ground out and scored as Willie Davis singled.

In the third inning, he again led off with an infield single, this time beating out a high bouncer to the mound. Again he stole second, and this time he scampered home on Jim Gilliam's single.

Koufax, meanwhile, was headed for his shutout, walking only two, striking out 10 and allowing just two Giants to reach second base. He also reduced his earned run average to 1.83 and recorded his sixth victory three days ahead of last season. He has lost only once.

In other National League games, St. Louis blanked Philadelphia 2-0 and Chicago whipped Houston 7-1. Rain washed out Cincinnati at New York.

In the American League, Washington stopped Cleveland 7-2, Boston trimmed Baltimore 3-1 and Minnesota nipped Chicago 4-3 in 10 innings.

The Dodgers completed their scoring with a run in the fourth inning on errors by Tito Fuentes and Cap Peterson plus Jeff Torborg's single and in the eighth on Wes Parker's homer.

St. Louis' Al Jackson limited Philadelphia to four hits until the ninth when he was pulled after walking leadoff batter John Callison on four pitches. He still extended his scoreless inning string to 21. Charlie Smith supported Jackson with three hits, including a seventh-inning homer.

Rookie Randy Hundley sparked the Cubs past Houston, driving in three runs with a double and a triple and stealing home.

Third And Final Act Has Ended The Marichal-Roseboro Drama

HANLEY

Close the book on the Juan Marichal-John Roseboro feud. The drama is over. The last bit of nerve wracking suspense was drained from it in the third and final act before a Chavez Ravine audience of 53,561 the other night in Dodger Stadium.

An epilogue is all that is necessary now and that, like all epilogues, will be anti-climactic to the most celebrated feud of modern day baseball, the first act of which started with shocking violence last Aug. 22 in Candlestick Park when Marichal bopped Roseboro with a bat.

THE SECOND ACT also was set in Candlestick May 3 when the Giants and Dodgers met in their first 1966 series and Marichal and Roseboro came face to face on the scene of their battleground. Neither spoke, neither shook hands. But there was no renewal of violence. The Candlestick crowd severely booed Roseboro, letting the Dodger catcher know that he, not Marichal, initially provoked the fight.

The third act was set in Dodger Stadium last Tuesday. It was the first appearance of Marichal there since the feud flared because the National League president had banned him from Dodger Stadium after the bat incident for the remainder of the 1965 season.

DODGER FANS, letting the Giant pitching ace know that they did not condone his illegal use of a bat, booed Marichal when he began his pre-game warmup and continued to boo him every time he came to bat. But as the game progressed and Marichal took a 1-0 shutout into the ninth inning, a subtle change took place in the crowd's attitude.

When Marichal ran to the mound in the ninth, the boos were negligible, actually drowned out by cheers of loyal Giant fans who had traveled to the southland for the game. The absence of any appreciable ninth inning boos was the tipoff that the dramatic suspense of the feud was over.

IN WITHHOLDING a volume of ninth inning boos, Dodger fans silently expressed admiration for a great pitcher. To be sure, it was grudging admiration but nevertheless admiration.

The feud momentarily was forgotten completely as the Dodgers tied it 1-1 in the ninth, later winning the game 2-1 in the 13th off Frank Linzy after Marichal had been lifted for an 11th inning pinch hitter.

THERE WILL BE diehard Giant fans who will continue to boo Roseboro in his future Candlestick Park appearances. Similarly, there will be unforgiving Dodger fans who will catcall at the Dominican Dandy whenever he appears in Chavez Ravine. When all venom in their spleens is released through vocal chords, the Marichal-Roseboro feud will become just a memory.

The epilogue may or may not be written in the courts where Roseboro still has on file a $110,000 suit against Marichal. It may even be written in a dismissal of the action by Roseboro's attorneys.

Charlie Dressen Will Undergo Further Tests

DETROIT (UPI) —Detroit Tiger Manager Charlie Dressen will undergo further tests at Ford Hospital here today to determine the extent of the heart attack that sidelined the 67-year-old skipper Monday.

Doctors reported yesterday that Dressen was resting comfortably and his condition remained stable. It was the second heart attack to sideline Dressen in just over 14 months.

The Tiger manager entered the hospital Monday after complaining of arm and chest pains. Doctors diagnosed the pains as "coronary artery thrombosis." He remains in serious condition and may be moved out of the intensive care section of the cardiac care unit at the hospital in several more days.

Third base Coach Bob Swift assumed the managerial duties as he did in 1965. A Tiger spokesman said no decision will be made for several weeks on Dressen's future with the club.

Clay Outlines Tomorrow's Title Bout

LONDON (AP)—World heavyweight champion Cassius Clay says Britain's Henry Cooper will "finish on his back" in their title fight tomorrow night.

And it could be all over in one minute, Clay predicted last night.

"Cooper comes at me, trying to land a left. I crouch low. It begins to end right at the beginning.

"I put some combinations together to the head. Cooper reels back.

"I switch to the body. Poor old Henry's hurt. I move the attack to the head again. More combinations and he goes down for the full count.

"I am sorry it only lasted a minute. Cooper could not live with me and it is all over. I am still the champ."

When Cooper heard the story he shook his head and said:

"Funny fellow. In the morning he says I'm a worthy challenger. Then this."

How does Cooper think the fight will go?

"I'll start fast. I'll win just as soon as I catch him," Cooper said.

Clay is an 11-2 favorite for the open air fight at London's Arsenal football stadium. A sellout crowd of 46,000 is expected.

The fight is being carried live on television to the United States via the Early Bird satellite, starting at 2 p.m. PDT.

PAC TRACK MEET

UCLA Favored To Win

STANFORD, Calif. (AP) — UCLA's Bruins, who last won a conference track and field championship in 1956, swing into action today favored to win another.

Undefeated in dual meets this spring, the strong and swift Bruins of Coach Jim Bush appear powerful enough to take the Pacific Athletic Conference crown if sprinter Norm Jackson and distance star Bob Day are sound.

Otherwise, defending titlist Oregon or perennial power Southern California might pull an upset at Stanford Stadium.

Jackson has been bothered by a muscle injury and Day suffered a heel cramp a week ago.

"I look for a very close meet," Bush declared. "We especially have to beat Oregon's defending champions and USC, two mighty strong teams."

Javelin thrower Dick Selby with a best of 247-11 and pole vaulter Marc Savage, the intercollegiate record holder at 16-9, should be the strongest in their events for the Bruins.

Oregon boasts NCAA champion Neal Steinhauer in the shot and he also should pick up points in the discus throw. Bob Blum has run a 13.8 in the 120-yard high hurdles and 53.5 in the intermediate hurdles. Despite injuries during the season, the Ducks won five of six dual meets and captured the PAC Northern Division crown last week. Their only loss was to UCLA.

Southern California's Trojans have individual stars who could pile up points in this conference meet.

Dwight Middleton has the fastest PAC time in the 880 this season at 46.2 and Dennis Carr has run the best 440 at 1:47.9. Mahoney Samuels leads triple jumpers with 52-2½ while Greg Heet of USC and Bob Keppel of Washington State share the high jump lead at 6-10¼.

Washington State's great sophomore, Gerry Lindgren, lowered his American three-mile record to 12:53, just six-tenths of a second off the world mark, last week and rates the class of this field.

Preliminaries opened today at 2:30 p.m. with finals tomorrow starting at 1:30.

Water Skiing Championships Set June 11-12

More than 100 contestants are expected at the annual Novato Water Ski championship tournament June 11 and 12 at the Master's Ski School at Mira Monte Marina, north of Novato.

In prior years, the tournament has been held the same days as Western Weekend, but because of crowd conflicts, the water ski event has been moved up one weekend.

Contestants will be coming from the 13 Western states. Last year about 70 entered the tourney, but since more catagories are listed this year, the figure is expected to swell.

An added feature this year will be a noon show put on by the Master's Ski School. It will be the same show that will be televised on Channel 5 on May 27.

The tournament will be held from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. both days, with a banquet scheduled June 11 at the Lodge. The tourney is being co-sponsored by the Master's Ski School and the Novato Chamber of Commerce.

Final Indy Qualifying Runs Scheduled This Weekend

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — Thirty or more 10-mile qualifying runs probably will be made tomorrow or Sunday in attempts to win the last 10 open spots in the 33-car line-up for the Golden Anniversary 500-mile auto race May 30.

None of the unqualified drivers have shown any threats to the qualifying average of 165.899 m.p.h. made last Saturday by Italian-born Mario Andretti. Most of them would be satisfied with a strong 158.

All but three of last weekend's 23 qualifiers bettered 159 but only a few of the unqualified have been in that bracket. They include rookie Carl Williams of Kansas City, who was running better than 160 before he crashed Saturday in missing an out-of-control car. He was practicing at nearly 159 Thursday in the repaired Dayton Gerhardt-Ford.

Other likely qualifiers include Bobby Unser, Albuquerque, N.M., in a Huffaker-Offenhauser; his brother, Al, in a Lotus-Ford; Cale Yarbrough, Charlotte, S.C., in a Vollstedt-Ford; Bud Tingelstad, Hawthorne, Calif., in a Gerhardt-Offy; Arnie Knepper, Belleville, Ill., in a Cecil-Ford; Sammy Sessions, Nashville, Mich., Ward-Offy; Bobby Grim, Indianapolis, Watson Turbo-charged Offy and Bobby Johns, Miami, Fla., in a BRM-Ford.

Other strong runs are expected from Eddie Johnson, Richmond Heights, Ohio, shooting for his 15th straight start in a Huffaker-Offy; Al Miller, Roseville, Mich., Lotus-Ford; Bob Wente, St. Louis, Gerhardt-Offy; Dick Atkins, Hayward, Calif., Shrike Offy, and Bob Harkey, Indianapolis, Gerhardt, Offy.

Yarbrough, Sessions and Atkins are newcomers to the Indianapolis Motor Speedway.

After 33 qualifying runs have been completed, a driver can still put a car in the line-up by exceeding the speed of the slowest earlier qualifier, who then is dropped out or bumped.

Slowest of last weekend's qualifiers were three rookies, Gary Congdon, Garden Grove, Calif., 158.688; Mel Kenyon, Davenport, Iowa, 158.555, and Art Pollard, Medford, Ore., 157.985.

The trials will run from 11 a.m., EST, to 6 p.m. tomorrow and noon to 6 p.m. Sunday.

THE GIANTS' ONE GOOD PLAY

About the only bright spot for the San Francisco Giants in their game last night in Los Angeles was this play at the plate, when rightfielder Ollie Brown threw out Dodger Willie Davis. Davis, one of the fastest men in baseball, was thrown out trying to score from second on a single to right. The tag was made by catcher Bob Barton as umpire Ed Sudol makes the call. L.A. scored four times as Sandy Koufax limited the Giants to three hits and no runs. (AP Wirephoto)

FIGURING THE MAJORS

About Face For Elroy Face

By BEN OLAN

NEW YORK (AP) — Figuring the Majors:

Elroy Face, Pittsburgh's veteran reliever, looms as a strong candidate for National League Comeback-of the-Year honors. The 38- year-old right-hander has a 3-1 record and a 2.81 earned run average. He won 18 games in 1959 and 10 the next year in relief, but had only three victories in 1964 and five last season.

Earl Battey, Minnesota Catcher, already has stolen more bases this season than in the last four combined. He has two steals, the second during the Twins' 4-3 triumph over the Chicago White Sox yesterday. Battey did not steal a base in 1962, '63, and '65 and had only one steal in 1964.

The Los Angeles Dodgers, who led the majors in home attendance 2,553,577 last year, are almost 10 per cent ahead of their 1965 pace. They lead the big leagues again with 503,643 for 16 playing dates after having attracted 144,696 for their hree-game series against the San Francisco Giants which ended last night.

Third baseman Charlie Smith and pitcher Al Jackson, both obtained from the New York Mets in the Ken Boyer deal last winter, are doing better than all right for St. Louis. Smith had three hits, including his fourth homer, and lifted his batting average to .324 and Jackson extended his scoreless streak to 21 innings last night as the Cards downed Philadelphia 2-0. The victory was Jackson's third against one loss.

Hank Aaron of the Braves, the National League home run leader, has hit nine of his 13 homers on the road and only four in the new Atlanta Stadium.

A Robinson, Brooks or Frank, has gotten at least one hit for Baltimore in ach of the Orioles' 29 games except one. Bruce Howard, Eddie Fisher and Jack Lamabe of the White Sox combined to hold both Robinsons hitless May 12.

The trade in which they obtained outfielder Matty Alou from San Francisco has turned out to be a bonanza for Pittsburgh. Alou has taken over he National League batting lead with a .350 average after hitting .388 with 19 hits in 49 times at bat during his last 13 games. He was acquired last December for pitcher Joe Gibbon nd catcher Ozzie Virgil.

Rico petrocelli, Boston's shortstop, is considerably ahead of last year's runs-batted-in pace. He has 20 RBI, eight on two grand slam homers, in 31 games. In 1965, he did not drive in his 20th run until his 65th game.

The Chicago Cubs have no reason to regret the acquisition of Adolfo Phillips. The young outfielder has slammed six doubles and four homers among 20 hits since being obtained in a five-player trade with the Phils last month. Phillips, who's batting .286 for Chicago, homered yesterday as the Cubs ended a six-game losing streak by defeating Houston, 7-1.

Beanball War Between Twins And White Sox

ST. PAUL-MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Eddie Stanky, the Chicago White Sox manager, has a budding feud going with Minnesota, and so far all he's got to show for it are five straight losses to the Twins.

The feud broke into the open yesterday in an exchange of batter-hitting in Minnesota's 4-3, 10-inning victory. Manager Sam Mele of the Twins charged afterward that Stanky had ordered one of his pitchers to hit his pitching opponent in a retaliatory move.

Stanky offered no flat denial, and countered that the Twins started it by hitting one of his players.

Umpire Nestor Chylak stopped it with a warning that the next knockdown pitch would cost the pitcher $50.

The seeds of conflict were sown May 3 when the Twins went into Chicago for a two-game series. A headline in a Chicago paper proclaimed, Sox Welcome Timid Twins.

Minnesota was in the throes of a hitting slump at the time, and coach Billy Martin plastered the headline on the bulletin board, underlining Timid.

Then the close pitches started in the three-game series here.

In yesterday's game, J. C. Martin hit a two-run homer for the White Sox off Jim Perry in the second inning. The next man up, Al Weis, got hit in the back by Perry's first pitch.

When Perry came up in the third inning, Chicago's John Buzhardt fired three inside pitches, then hit Perry just above the elbow on his right arm with his fourth pitch. Perry wasn't seriously hurt, but left the game and likely will miss at least one starting assignment.

Both Perry and Buzhardt denied throwing at batters, but Stanky and Mele exchanged charges.

"Buzhardt definitely was throwing at Perry, and I saw he was under orders to do it," Mele claimed.

And Stanky countered:

"I have managed a long time, and I have never told a pitcher to throw at a hitter in my life before a ball game. But when my hitter gets hit on the number and he's hitting only .120 . ."

Mele said it wasn't the first time Stanky had ordered his pitchers to throw at opposing batters.

"One of the Chicago players told me he ordered this in Detroit, too," Mele said. "And the kid wouldn't do it and he chewed the kid out on the bench in front of his players."

Mele identified the Chicago pitcher as Bruce Howard.

Perry said Buzhardt "certainly was trying to hit me. He tried for three pitches, and on the fourth he succeeded."

But Buzhardt said, "I wasn't throwing at him. I pitch Perry inside because he's a good hitter."

Crews Compete In Vallejo Tomorrow

VALLEJO, Calif (AP)—Washington's undefeated Huskies are favored to repeat as victors tomorrow in the Western Intercollegiate Sprint Regatta on the Mare Island Channel.

The Huskies handily defeated California over a three-mile route two weeks ago to establish their supremacy. A year ago when Cal beat Washington at the longer distance, the Huskies gained revenge at the 2,000-meter sprint distance.

Eleven schools are entered in the varsity race, 12 in the junior varsity and seven in the frosh.

(There will be three Marin County boys in the competition. Denny Lane of Ross in on the Cal varsity crew, John Hoeffer of Belvedere is on the Cal junior varsity, and Grant Tanner of Corte Madera is on the St. Mary's frosh team.)

Washington and California have hogged the Ky Ebright trophy for varsity honors in the Westerns the past five years. This time, both Stanford and British Columbia are given chances of pulling an upset. Stanford beat Cal during the regular season.

Other crews in the varsity race represent Oregon State, Santa Clara , UCLA, Southern California, Long Beach State, Loyola of Los Angeles and San Diego State.

Washington's junior varsity also is undefeated and favored against the also unbeaten Orange Coast Junior College. Stanford, UBC, Oregon State, Santa Clara, UCLA, Southern California, Long Beach State, San Diego State and UC Santa Barbara also are entered.

Racing opens at 9 a.m. with the first heat in junior varsity competition with the varsity finals closing out the day's program at 3:05 p.m.

The FISHIN' FOOL

By RALPH STEVENS
I-J Fish and Game Writer

Wanted: A Piscatorial Liaison Man; Sturgeon Flurry Reported

STEVENS

What this area needs is a good piscatorial liaison man who is able to communicate with the salmon, thus learning their present whereabouts. We know the various schools located a couple weeks ago haven't started the long trek to the spawning grounds because someone would have hooked and landed one. So we must assume that the several schools are playing hide-and-seek with the party boats.

At least a half dozen party boats worked all the usual spots where salmon have been wont to congregate on Wednesday. I know of three boats that worked the Farrallones area and pulled blanks, and another pair that finished fishless closer to the shore.

SO—HOW ABOUT chances for a mess of stripers. I talked with Tony Caruso, of Caruso's harbor at Sausalito, and he told me that the lads who know the technique for fishing the Rockpile have been doing a grand job. "Fish are all big ones," he reported—probably an average of better than 15 pounds per fish.

For the individual fisherman who wants the "Rockpile" pinpointed for direction, all I can say is that it is about midway between Alcatraz and Yellow Bluff.

UNVERIFIED REPORTS have it that some fancy fishing with artificials at the south tower of the G.G. Bridge continues to yield some nice bass to those who savey the fishing method.

Some exciting news came in from the upper San Pablo spots. Charlie Schmeltz of Dowrelio's Crockett harbor reported a new flurry of sturgeon on the Flats downstream from Crockett. "Two of our party boats netted both sturgeon and striped bass. Eeach of two party boats had two sturgeon along with 12 bass and 9 bass from 5 to 14 pounds. All the bass were definitely fresh run—with pink gills and red dorsel fin and red at the base of the tail," said Charlie.

ANY READER feel the urge to catch a bass, the classic way, with light or spinning tackle, sans sinker, and able to stand the shock of a striped bass rolling on the surface and even leaping like a tarpon? Then let him (or her) get a skiff out of Rodeo Marina or Joseph's and troll a small Pet Spoon or Big Daddy off the Union Oil Wharf and particularly in the vicinity of the "Outfall."

THE FOLLOWING waters in the central coastal region are scheduled to be planted this week—by counties: Marin—Lagunitas Reservoir, Bon Tempe Res. and Rodeo Lagoon. Napa—Hennessey Lake Impoundment. Lake—Anderson Creek and Upper Kelsey Creek. Alameda—Alameda Creek. San Mateo—Pescadero Creek. Santa Cruz—Loch Lomond Lake. Santa Clara—Stevens Creek Reservoir. Monterey—Carmel River, Los Padres Res., Lower Arroyo Creek, Upper Nacimiento River. San Luis Obispo—Lower Nacimiento River, Reserve or Canyon Lake, Chorro Reservoir and Lopez Creek.

Stock Market Makes Rally Toward Closing

NEW YORK (AP) — A brisk rally was under way at the close of trading on the stock market today.

Trading quickened after a session which went at the slowest pace in weeks until General Motors made an optimistic report about the auto business.

GM's report came in the final half hour and stock improved across the board.

Airlines and aerospace issues improved earlier prices.

Here was the picture toward the close:

Volume for the day was estimated at 6.1 million shares compared with 8.72 million yesterday.

The market was down to a fairly sharp loss at the start but recovered a great deal. The comeback, however, lacked steam, just as did the early decline.

Sperry Rand was the volume pacemaker, rising more than a point.

Western Airlines gained 5, American nearly 3, Eastern and Pan American about 2 and Continental more than a point.

Xerox, which raised its dividend, was up 5, Teledyne 4, Admiral 5, Polaroid 4, Zenith and Magnavox 3, Boeing, Burroughs, Motorola, General Instrument and U.S. Smelting about 2 each.

Gains of around a point or better were made by a wide range of stocks, including Caterpillar, Radio Corp., Anaconda, Calumet & Hecla, and Eltra Corp.

A number of key blue chips were reluctant to join the recovery movement, thereby dampening the averages.

Du Pont and International Nickel were off 1 each, General Electric nearly a point, General Motors, Texaco, Eastman Kodak, Standard Oil (New Jersey), Westinghouse Electric, American Tobacco, Woolworth and Sears, Roebuck fractions.

American South African Investment lost 3, Merck, Beneficial Finance and Atlantic Refining about 2 each.

Prices were generally higher in active trading on the American Stock Exchange.

Corporate and U.S. Treasury bonds were mostly unchanged.

Evans Products Has Record Sales, Profit

PORTLAND, Ore. — Record sales and earnings for Evans Products Co. in 1966 were predicted by Monford A. Orloff, chairman and chief executive officer, at the annual meeting of shareholders held in Portland.

He said that demand for railcars and railway equipment had produced highest ever backlogs in the transportation equipment group, that favorable plywood price levels have enhanced the profits of the building products group and that the Capp Homes Divisions completed homes and orders booked were at the highest levels in its history.

NEW MODEL HOME AT SAN MARIN

From this kitchen you can look out into a setting of green valley and rolling hills of Sunset-San Marin. The scene is in one of the new model homes now being featured by Cowley Homes, Novato. Three, four and five-bedroom plans are available. Floor areas vary from 1,440 to 2,000 square feet in a number of different designs.

Harvester Sales

OAKLAND — International Harvester set new sales and profit records in the first half of fiscal 1966, President Harry O. Bercher has announced.

Six months world sales by IH were $1,264,277,000, an increase of 12.4 per cent over last year. Consolidated net income was up 26.8 per cent to $59,952,000.

Chamber To Seek Merchant Ideas

The Mill Valley Chamber of Commerce will ask for merchants' suggestions on how to meet increased competition at an "awakening" no-host breakfast from 7 to 9 a.m., next Friday at the Outdoor Art Club.

BOYD MUSEUM'S NEWEST BABY

Once again, San Rafael's Boyd Science Museum has received a new baby deer, signalling the start of a cycle which ends each year when the museum gives its grown-up deer to the University of California for research. The animals are put to pasture in the Berkeley hills so they can attract flies which researchers believe carry a little-known type of parasite. Here, Lisa Frugoli, 9, of San Francisco, feeds the museum's new arrival.

Bret Harte Sewer Plans Approved

Plans and specifications for a quarter-million-dollar sewer system in the Bret Harte area, to be financed by an assessment district, were approved yesterday by the San Rafael Sanitation District Board.

The board called for bids to be opened June 9 on the project, estimated at $257,700 by the engineering firm of Dan Coleman Associates.

A public hearing will be held at 8 p.m., June 23 at city hall on the need for the assessment district.

About 85 property owners along both sides of Bret Harte Road from Highway 101 northwest to Twain Harte Lane are affected. The purpose is to eliminate health hazards which the county health department has said are created by septic tanks.

The San Rafael Sanitation District Board also approved annexation of three lots in the old Golf Course Tract.

Boat Bottleneck May Mean Ramp Use Fees

Charging non-residents of Sausalito $1 to use the Turney Street boat launching ramp was recommended last night by Sausalito recreation commissioners in an effort to stop people from parking boats on the ramp and "bottling up" the facility.

Commissioner Elmo V. Maggiora, upset about the boat traffic situation, will propose to city councilmen that the charge be levied on weekends and holidays, and that the ramp be handled by senior citizens, who will be paid, similar to the setup at the city's main parking lot.

The commission proposed a three-week tennis program for youngsters, each child to pay a $3 feet and the city picking up the balance, estimated at a total of $350. Lessons would start when summer school clasess let out at Richardson Bay School.

Commissioners said they wish to retain Princess Park and Tiffany Beach, as well as the municipal fishing pier adjacent to Ondine restaurant, when the city builds a sea wall and widens Bridgeway.

James E. Muldoon was named chairman, to succeed Albred M. Arenz, who resigned since he is moving to Greenbrae. Muldoon requested he be called chairman pro tem since his term ends in June. Mrs. Eleanor Cruikshank was re-elected to a full year as secretary.

The commisison praised Arenz for his seven years of work on the commission.

Court Martial Is Told Blood Changed To Plasma

Blood samples taken from an airman and the man he is alleged to have murdered at Hamilton Air Force Base were reduced to plasma the night of the killing and would not give a true blood-alcohol ratio reading, prosecuting attorney Lt. Col. Wesley C. Marsh Jr. told a court martial at Hamilton today.

He was cross-examining a defence women at the court martial of A/1c James O. Young, charged with the first degree murder of A/1c Robert M. Jennings during a Christmas Eve quarrel in the base barracks. He said he would produce evidence to back his statement.

First Lt. Richard A. Kammeier, head of the laboratory at the base hospital admitted the alcohol content in the two samples could have been changed by method used to produce plasna.

He was prevented from answering when he was asked by Sol Abrams, civilian defense attorney, if he could estimate how much alcohol Young had consumed four hours before the samples were taken.

Only other witness heard this morning was A/1c William P. Price, who told the court about drinking at the Christmas Eve party.

Defense attorneys were caught unprepared yesterday when the prosecution abruptly ended its case about 2:30 p.m.

After a 15-minute recess which they asked to prepared their case, Lt. Col. Clarence D. Walters Jr. of Mather Air Force Base; Chief Military defense attorney, moved that the court find Young innocent of premeditated murder, claiming the prosecution had failed to prove motive or that Young had actually done the stabbing.

Trial officer Lt. Col. Arnold C. Castle of Davis-Monthan Air motion.

Colonel Castle said today he denied the motion because it was essential he heard more evidence than would be available under the lesser charge of involuntary manslaughter, to which Young attemtped to plead guilty.

Only defense witness yesterday afternoon was David R. J. Holoviak, special agent for the office of security investigation, who questioned Young immediately after he was arrested for having a rifle in the barracks early Christmas morning, and later when he learned that Jennings had been stabbed.

Holoviak testified that at that time Young though Jennings had "jumped up into" the knife.

Marin PTA Awards Six Scholarships

Six scholarships of $250 each have been awarded to graduating seniors in Marin high schools by the Marin County Council, Parent-Teacher Assn.

The awards bring to 90 the number given in the P-TA's scholarship program for public high schools in Marin County since the program started in 1928, reported Mrs. Bryce W. Anderson of San Rafael, outgoing council president.

Winners this year are:

Sally Lloyd of 47 Jordan Street, San Anselmo, a Sir Francis Drake High School senior who will enter University of California at Santa Cruz next September.

Bernard Cahlander of 30 Fairfax Street, San Rafael, a San Rafael High School senior who will enter U.C. at Berkeley.

Kathy McElroy of 1241 Yukon Way, Novato, a Novato High School senior who will enter Sonoma State College.

Marie Rajewski of 57 Corte Solano, Greenbrae, a Redwood High School senior who will enroll at U.C. at Santa Barbara.

Bonnie Hansen of Mill Valley, a Tamalpais High School student who will attend Chico State College.

Bev Bronson of 33 Burgess Court, Marin City, a Tamalpais High School senior who will enroll at Galileo Adult School of Nursing.

The scholarships are financed by 10 cents from each P-TA membership, plus contributions from the Reed Parents Club and the Novato High School Parents Club.

Jury Naming Near In Slaying Trial

Likilihood of naming a jury this afternoon in the murder trial of Jack R. Gorman and Marc Charles Osuna was expressed in Marin Superior Court today by prosecution and defense attorneys.

Selection from four 60-member panels began Monday. About 75 persons have been questioned. The prosecution had used 15 of an allowed 30 peremptory challenges against potential jurists by noon today. The defense had used 17.

Testimony in the case, heard before Judge Thomas F. Keating, will probably start Monday if jury selection is completed today. The defendants, both in San Quentin Prison for parole violation, are accused of the Labor Day shooting of Mario Ferrari at Mission Inn in San Rafael.

Gun Found

A World War II-type machine gun made in England was found yesterday in brush off Rodeo Avenue near Sausalito, sheriff's officers said.

New VFW Post Set

The new Thomas A. Fordyce Post 490 of the Veterans of Foreign Wars will elect officers and apply for a charter from national headquarters at a meeting at 8 p.m. Thursday at the Hub City Barber Shop, 564 San Anselmo Avenue, San Anselmo.

City Denies Garbage Pact Violations

The City of Mill Valley has not violated its contract with the Mill Valley Carbage Co., City Mgr. Bert A. Balmer said today. Further, he declared, contrary to the company's charge, rates have been increased as recently as last month with city approval.

Balmer said the present garbage contract binds the company and it cannot terminate service nor increase rates without city permission.

The company spokesman, Albert Bianchi, said yesterday that minimum rate is to be hiked from $1.35 to $2 per can per month July 1, and that the company is willing to halt garbage collections completely or enter competitive bidding for a contract. Bianchi said the city had violated its contract.

An audit of garbage company books was undertaken by the city auditor but was not completed, Balmer explained, because information given by the scavenger company was not classified properly in terms of Mill Valley expenditures. Balmer said the city, on an interim basis, approved an increase in April from the minimum $1.35 to $1.50 per cent per month.

Bonsai Society Plans Visits To Nurseries

Members of the Marin Bonsai Society will tour several Bonsai nurseries in the East Bay Sunday.

A soil demonstration is scheduled for the next regular meeting at 7:45 p.m. Tuesday. Robert Krohn will talk on growing moss, while Alec Thomas will discuss wiring the small trees which give the society its name.

Phone Threats Bared In Union Death Case

A telephoned threat against a Richmond man and a murder suspect's vow to silence witnesses against him led police today to fear more violence in the involved scandal surrounding the union.

Earl Heller, 67, Painting Contractors Assn. executive secretary in Richmond, told police an unidentified man had called him three times and said, "You're next."

Two union officials, Dow Wilson of the San Francisco local and Lloyd Green of the Hayward local, have died of shotgun blasts. The administrator of the Sacramento local's welfare fund, Sture Youngren, a former San Rafael resident, took his own life this week after telling San Francisco and Sacramento officers he had taken money from the fund.

Yesterday, an assistant district attorney in San Francisco declared in court that Carl Moses Black, one of five men indicted in connection with Wilson's killing, had threatened the life of anyone who testifies against him.

Asst. Dist. Atty. Walter Giubbini made the statement before Judge Gerald S. Levin as he was arguing against bail for Richard Rock, 33, of Mill Valley.

Judge Levin transferred the question of bail to Judge Francis McCarty, who postponed his decision to 9:15 a.m. Tuesday.

In jail with Black and Rock, who are brothers-in-law, are Norman Call, 46, of Sacramento, Max Ward, 47, of Carmichael, and Clyde Simmonds, 75, of Sacramento.

Audits of various records connected with the case continued today. Involved are the U.S. Labor Department, San Francisco police department and the Alameda County sheriff's office. Alameda deputies hope to link the five suspects in the Wilson killing with the death of Green.

Sacramento County Sheriff John Misterly reported no new development in his end of the case today, but said deputies have concluded there was no breaking and entering involved when someone ransacked Youngren's office a few hours after his death.

Misterly said whoever entered the office used a key to open the door after breaking a coroner's seal.

He conceded it would be hard to find out which of the many people with keys to the office it had been. Sacramento Dist. Atty. John M. Price had earlier removed all welfare fund records from Youngren's office.

Ball Gone Again, But No Return

For the third time, someone has stolen a blue glass ball from outside a San Rafael home, but this time it hasn't bounced back.

On the two previous occasions, Mrs. Eileen Proctor of 8 Bayo Vista Way said yesterday, the ball had always been returned within a few days.

When it disappeared last weekend, Mrs. Proctor waited as usual, but when it hadn't reappeared by today she told police. It measures 18 inches in diameter and is worth $35.

Terra Linda Class Officer Ballots Cast

Paul Cole was elected president of next year's senior class at Terra Linda High School, Tim Elliot, president of the junior class, and Thomas Micheletti, president of the sophomores in school elections yesterday.

Three positions were left for decision in runoff elections today. Neither Dee Williams nor Jeanne Rhudy received a clear majority for vice president of the junior class, and four were in the running for two seats on the student council for the junior class. They are Jon Ambery, Nancy Brokaw, Kathy Fix and Peg Morris.

Others elected yesterday for senior class officers were Sue Mc Gee, vice president; Clare Lafrenz, secretary, Thomas Flautt, treasurer, and Ellen Greenberg, Cathy Harris, Nancy Jordan, Bob Martinez, Greg Oczkus, Wendy Parker and Dave Stapp to the student council.

Named by the junior class were Steph Schau, secretary; Carey Brink, treasurer, and Don Clement, Carey Brink, Terry Hoff, Bob Ulner, Blaire Wardlaw and Dee Williams to the student council.

Named by the sophomore class were Kathy Strachan, vice president; Terri Becker, secretary; Marilyn Rhoads, treasurer, and Marti Dekay, Sarah Heints, Rick Mulhaupt, Dave Newman, Tini Nissen, Robin Runge and Lynn Trimble to the student council.

The senior officers serve only one semester, but the others will serve the full school year.

Marin Schools Show Varying Shape, Color, Material

Story and Photos
By ELLEN BRY

There are 22 public school districts in Marin, with 42,072 students in kindergarten through high school.

Though the number of districts probably will eventually be lessened by unification and unionization, it will be years and years before the school population stabilizes.

Five years ago there were 31,138 students. The splurge in the student total has kept district officials on a dead run to build classrooms in which to put more youngsters.

The sound of taxpayers' wounded cries has been heard through the county, as they dig deeper into pockets for money to pay the cost of more schools in their still growing communities.

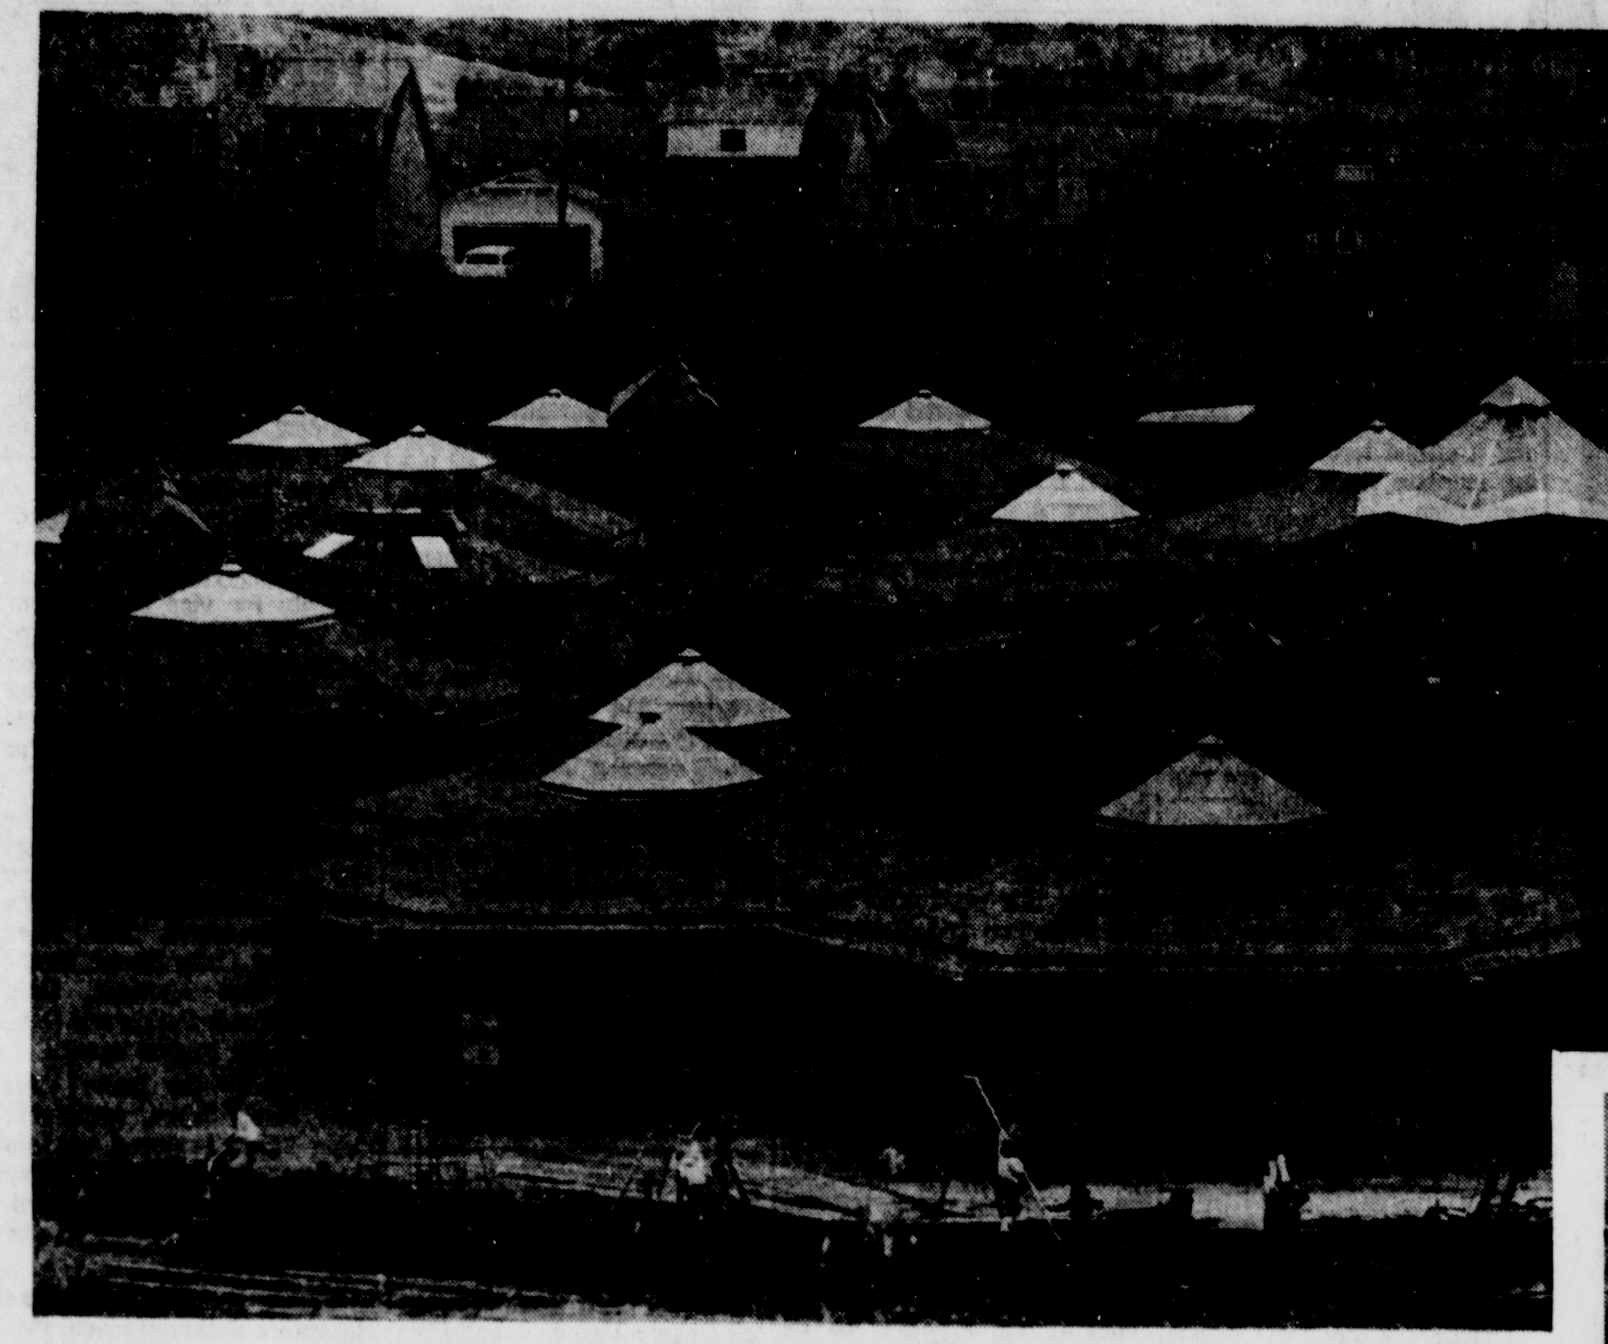
Dixie School District is a prime example. It's one-room school beside Highway 101 is just over 100 years old and was the district's only school until 1954. The suburbs caught up wood, Santa Venetia, Terra with what had been farmland.

The district covers Marin-Linda areas and today has nine schools and 4,163 students.

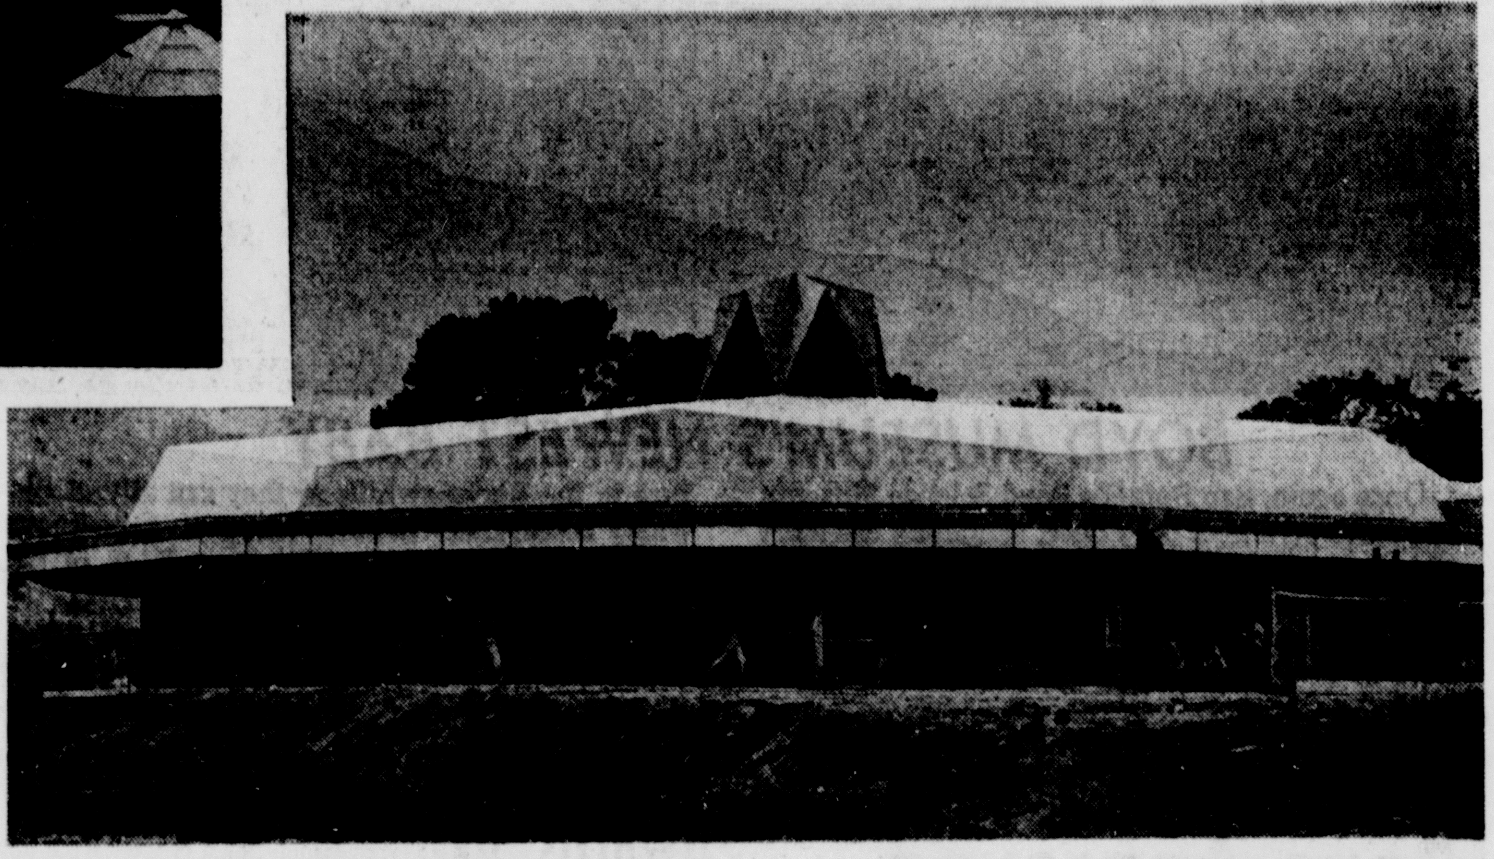
The schools which now are going up in every corner of Marin range in design from boxes with windows—the portable classrooms which are temporary desperation measures of some districts—to boxes with windows which also show district desperation but will be permanent.

School design is largely controlled by costs, and costs are controlled by voters, who may or may not approve bond issues and state loans, and by the state which keeps a close accounting eye on where its school construction loan money goes.

But architects and school administrators, who are part public relations men, part accountants and still try to fill their primary jobs, sometimes come up with memorable buildings.



GRANADA SCHOOL — These buildings in the Reed School District were designed especially for team teaching. They huddle together, connected by outdoor, curving covered walkways. Each unit houses more than one class in a large carpeted building which allows grouping of children according to ability by changing them among instructors teaching various subjects in different corners of eachc building. There are no interior walls.



WOLFE GRADE SCHOOL — The duo-decagon shape of this building, for fourth through sixth grades, has sliding interior walls allowing the building to be changed from six individual classrooms to a variety of interior configurations or to become one big open space inside. The roof is topped by an air vent. The school is in the Kentfield district.

GLENWOOD SCHOOL — This new school in the San Rafael district has some curving, some straight walls, varicolored exterior walls of different materials. An outdoor eating area is surrounded by units of the school, covered by a roof which angles upward in a sweeping curve in an attempt to shield the area from sometimes chill winds.

DIXIE SCHOOL — Buildings house four classrooms, pairing two of them with folding partitions aimed at allowing teaching of various sized groups of students. Rooms are carpeted to cut sound bounce from larger groups of youngsters and allowing cost cutting in wall construction. The exterior design fits in with the semi-rural atmosphere of the school, located in Lucas Valley in the Dixie district.

DAVIDSON JUNIOR HIGH—Districts are placing more and more emphasis on providing good looking libraries and a large, varied stocks of books in each school, This new library at the San Rafael school has fenced outdoor reading area, room for listening to recordings, film strip room, and room for discussions.

NOVA ALBION SCHOOL — Also in the Dixie School District, this is almost a duplicate of two other district schools. The general design was repeated for the third time here, district officials say, because it fit the needs of the district. Repetition of design did not save money because of construction changes necessary to fit differing sites.

FLASH!

No "tight Money" problem at PETALUMA GARDENS Unlimited mortgage funds to qualified buyers!

DEAR HOME BUYER:
If history repeats itself and all the experts say that it will . . .

YOU CAN LIVE RENT FREE for the next 30 years in a brand new home in . . .

● Petaluma Gardens ●

A $20,000, 30 year mortgage at 6% calls for monthly payments of $119.92. Over 30 years you pay out $43,170.19, of which $23,181.19 is tax deductible interest.

But, you end up with a home fully paid for, whereas if you rent you have NOTHING. Best of all, in 30 years your home will be worth more than it cost, if the creeping inflation prevails that we have had since 1776.

Starting at $18,425

42 custom features in every home, plus membership in a swim club, adjacent to a new city park, plus 100% underground utilities plus 1 master T.V. antenna, all AT NO EXTRA COST!

WHAT COUNTY WOULD DO WITH BOND MONEY

If Marin voters approve the $4.3 million countywide park bond issue June 7, $2 million will be used by the county government for parks in unincorporated areas, with all but $200,000 going for land purchase. The cities will be free to use their share as they choose. County officials say they will follow a list of priorities made up of the parks shown here. Class A projects will be acquired before those labelled Class B. In many cases, cost will exceed the funds provided by the bonds, but the county hopes to get state or federal matching funds to make up the difference.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Crippling Emphysema Starts Long Before Disabling Effects Noticed

VAN DELLEN

Pulmonary emphysema is second only to heart disease as the leading disabler of working men. Most of the victims are men in their fifties and early sixties and incapacitated because they cannot move without developing shortness of breath, cough, fatigue, and wheezing.

Emphysema begins slowly and may brew for 20 years before curtailing activities. Most victims are heavy smokers and chronic bronchitis is the rule.

Infection enters the picture because chest colds aggravate the disorder and eventually each respiratory infection lasts longer and longer. When the coughing becomes a daily affair, emphysema is well on its way.

AIR POLLUTION also is a factor but it is not stressed here because smoking is concentrated air pollution, and of the two, does more damage. Heredity also plays a role. Not all smokers develop emphysema, suggesting an inherent strength or weakness of the respiratory passageways.

Air in a normal inflated lung can be eliminated within three seconds. Those with emphysema may not be able to expire all the air in 10 seconds. In other words, the air is trapped within the lung because of a partial obstruction in the bronchi. In time, the air sacs are dilated and distended with stagnant gases.

THE ENLARGED air sacs lose their elasticity and cannot expel the trapped air. Their thin walls rupture and several sacs unite, forming large air cysts that have no elastic recoil. These internal changes limit the supply of fresh air that reaches the lung tissue producing a chemical problem of too little oxygen and too much carbon dioxide.

There are many devices that measure the flow rates of the lung. They demonstrate the obstruction, poor ventilation, and faulty exchange of gases (oxygen and carbon dioxide) in the lung. Some victims are so crippled they cannot blow out a lighted match that is held 12 inches from the mouth.

(Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.)

SHE'S LUCKY

Mrs. F. writes: What would cause a blood pressure of 110 in a 60-year-old woman?

REPLY

If we knew, we might have the solution to the blood pressure problem. A reading of 110 is ideal at any age and can be used as bragging material in the class with "I'm 40 and haven't a gray hair on my head," "I still have all my own teeth," and "People tell me I look 10 years younger than my age."

SALIVA GLAND DUCT

K. A. writes: Should a small stone in the salivary duct of a 10-year-old boy be removed surgically or is there some way to dissolve it?

REPLY

These stones cannot be dissolved, and surgery is recommended when they do not pass out of the duct spontaneously or through manipulation.

DANDRUFF AND PSYCHE

R. J. writes: Do you know if there are any psychosomatic causes of dandruff?

REPLY

Too many diseases are blamed on the poor psyche, so let's not add another. However, the unsightly appearance of dandruff may produce psychosomatic problems in highly susceptible individuals.

BULGING EYEBALLS

M. G. writes: Does bulging of the eyes associated with goiter disappear when the thyroid is removed?

REPLY

This condition usually remains unchanged, although in a small percentage it recedes gradually.

Couple, Pets Flee Apartment Fire In San Rafael

A man and his wife, a puppy and a parakeet escaped unharmed today after they awoke to find their San Rafael apartment filled with smoke.

The smoke came from a boxful of personal effects which had been placed too near a gas wall heater at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Vincent at 26-B Fairfax Street.

Battalion Chief Robert H. Rogers of the San Rafael Fire Department estimated damage in the 2:35 a.m. fire at $1,150.

He said when the couple awoke in heavy smoke, they managed to grab their pets before running outside.

Smoke was cleared for their accommodation and an adjoining apartment and the Vincents were allowed to return shortly afterwards.

The 457-member Army Reserve unit will operate an Army post in event of mobilization. Eichstaedt, a construction engineer in civilian life, lives at 135 Elm Avenue.

LAW IN ACTION

From the State Bar Of California

Permanent Land Rights Tricky

Jim and John's father gave up farming in 1937 and deeded the family farm to them jointly. The brothers farmed for a while, but Jim married a city girl and gave up farming after some bad crop years. Jim was unwilling to put any more money or work into the farm.

He told John that he was through and that if John wanted to carry on alone it was all right with him. John did carry on. He paid off the mortgage, fixed up the farm, built new barns, drilled wells, and so on. John also kept the profits and paid the expenses of his farming business. Having no interest in farming, Jim started his own business in the city.

Twenty years later a large farming corporation wanted to buy the farm and offered a lot of money for it. All of a sudden Jim took a new interest in the farm.

John asked a court to say that the whole piece of land belonged to him, but the court refused, saying that each owner has a right to possession of jointly owned property. Just because one of them occupies the land does not give him a claim to all. Half of the property still belonged to Jim. Perhaps Jim would have to contribue to the cost of the permanent improvements, but whether he did or not he still owned one-half of the land.

Occupying another's land for a long time doesn't give you a permanent claim to it. You might be on it with ths owner's permission; you might be a mere squatter, knowing full well that some one else owned the land.

A person who wants to keep the land as his own must first claim that he owns it all as a matter of right, and he must pay taxes on it for five years. After a few years of such tax payments, an "owner" is deemed to know that someone else is on his land, trying for a right to keep it for good. He'd better act if he wants to keep title to it.

Another person can gain a right in your land (an easement) by continued use for five years. He may gain a right of way or the permanent right to take things from your land (such as water), by continued use under a claim of right. Hence any use without your permission should put you on notice. But if you give someone permission to use your land, even at a price of $1 a year, that permissive use can never become his of right.

Moon Landing Test Succeeds

ALAMOGORDO, N.M. (AP)—A test version of the Surveyor vehicle designed for an unmanned soft landing on the moon made a smooth 900-foot descent and landing in a successful final test today prior to the scheduled May 30 flight to the moon.

The space vehicle was dropped from a balloon over nearby Holloman Air Force Base.

Its three liquid fuel engines, operating on information from two radar systems aboard the vehicle, then slowed the vehicle from a descent speed of about miles per hour for the desert landing.

A spokesman described the test as a success.

No Action Seen On Quake Ruling

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The chairman of an Assembly subcommittee said today that he doubts whether this year's legislature will act on a controversial attorney general's ruling on earthquake damage to schools.

Alfred E. Alquist, D-San Jose, said his School Efficiency and Economy Subcommittee will recommend new legislation in 1967.

Atty. Gen. Thomas C. Lynch had ruled that individual school board members could be held personally liable for accidents caused by earthquake damage to schools built before 1933 if they failed to inspect the old buildings. That was the year California passed the Field Act requiring all new schools to be earthquake resistant.

Plane Crashes Tied To Alcohol

WASHINGTON (AP) — Alcoholic beverages figured in three fatal light-plane crashes investigated by the Civil Aeronautics Board. All occurred at night, in clear weather.

In one—at Upland, Calif., last Sept. 23 — all three occupants were killed and one person on the ground was injured critically.

The others — near Puyallup, Wash., last Oct. 10 and Tulsa, Okla., Oct. 7 — involved pilots flying alone.

The board said post-mortem toxicological examination of the pilot showed a blood alcohol content "considered sufficient to cause decreased inhibitions, loss of critical judgment, and impairment of memory and comprehension."

San Rafael Man Injured In Fire

A San Rafael machinist was badly burned while picnicking yesterday at Stinson Beach with his wife when he accidentally fell into a campfire.

Harry Little, 37, of 361 D Street, was reported in fair condition today in the Marin General Hospital intensive care unit with a burned left leg and back burns.

The Stinson Beach volunteer ambulance corps rendered first aid and took Little to the hospital.

Lawmaker Suggests Union Fund Probes

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A state senator called today for a probe by grand juries of worker welfare funds in every California county.

Sen. John C. Begovich, D-Jackson, said the need for such an investigation "was underlined" by the alleged connection between a Sacramento painters union welfare fund and the slaying of a painters union official.

FEATURED THIS SATURDAY
Annually, some 600,000 visitors come to Marin County to admire the majestic trees of Muir Woods National Monument. In tomorrow's Independent-Journal Marin Magazine, historian Florence Donnelly tells the story of the farsighted men who assured the preservation of this great stand of redwoods and Douglas firs. It stands as an inspiring example of how our great resources and heritage can be conserved for the enjoyment of future generations.
Tomorrow the Marin Magazine turns its "Profile of a Marinite" spotlight on yet another prominent resident of the county. This time the subject is Daniel Allen, former mayor of Larkspur and a longtime civic leader in the county. I-J reporter Ralph Chatoian has written this story of a one-time athletic great who has enjoyed both successes and defeats in the business and political arenas, but who has always perserved and worked in the public interest.

Kentfield Fire Salaries Get Bigger Boost

Kentfield Fire District board took a look at wages paid other firemen in the county Wednesday night, then decided to give Kentfield's smoke-eaters a seven and one-half per cent boost instead of the five per cent increase tentatively agreed on May 11.

The board's decision, which will cost the district an additional $5,400 next year, jumps the pay of all district firemen from $630 to $677 monthly and increases Fire Chief Kenneth Kamp's pay from $810 to $870, the chief said.

The board also voted to give extra duty pay to firemen working holidays. In the past, they have not been compensated. This will cost the district $2,000 more next year, Kamp said.

With these changes made, the board adopted a preliminary budget of $153,260 for fiscal 1967. It represents a $1,200 increase over this year's budget of $152,060, Kamp said.

"The tax rate is bound to drop at least five cents, from 85 cents to 80 cents per $100 assessed valuation," the chief said. He attributed this to property assessment increases.

Kamp said he miscalculated when reporting a tentative budget of $157,173 to the Independent-Journal last week. When the board was counting on only five per cent raise, he said, the tentative budget was about $149,000.

Miller Creek Plans First Grad Rites

Miller Creek School's first graduating class, a total of 115 eighth graders, will receive diplomas in ceremonies at 7:30 p.m., on June 16.

It will be an outdoor ceremony on the school grounds, presided over by Jo Anne Nelson, selected from the graduates to be mistress of ceremonies.

Student speakers will be Nancy Neidlinger and Mark Chambers.

David Melcon, president of the student council, will present the class gift to Steven Roach, representing the seventh grade.

Dennie B. Willis, superintendent of the Dixie School District, will present the class, and Earl H. Koehler, president of the board of trustees, will speak. Koehler and trustee T. Neal McNamara will award diplomas.

Car Safety Check Finds Problems

More than half the 306 cars inspected last Saturday in the Kiwanis Club of Southern Marin County safety check were defective, the club reported.

Of the 164 that failed, there were 134 cases of faulty lighting, 71 tire defects, 13 brakes, 17 exhaust systems and 4 horns. Many had more than one defect.

The club will conduct a second safety check tomorrow from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the Corte Madera Shopping Center.

Candidates Invited

Candidates for the Marin Republican Central Committee have been invited to speak before the GOP Central Committee Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the San Rafael courthouse. Gerald E. Misner, committee chairman, announced.

Marin's Homeowners On Move, Mostly Right In The County

By HARRY CRAFT

It is paradoxical that as a county of beautiful and well kept homes, Marin is also county of many moves.

A large segment of the populations seems to be continually shifting from one area to another — without ever leaving the county. Indeed, a recent survey of Marin householders showed that two-thirds to 70 per cent of them were giving thought to the purchase of another home.

Not all of these intentions are expected to bear fruit within the next year of course, but many of them will. Increases in the size of families, greater earning power, an opportunity to indulge esthetic tastes—all these things lead to ascensions in the process of house swapping. They are offset on the other hand by business transfers to other parts of the country, retirements, children leaving home and smaller space requirements. And if there is any imbalance in these opposite forces it is immediately adjusted by the ever present influx of new arrivals.

This continuing series of chessboard moves is more than just a game. It is the basis for one of the county's biggest industries, averaging a gross turnover in residential properties of something like six million dollars a month. It is the substance of our many real estate offices taxed with keeping abreast of available properties and opportunities to buy, sell and exchange.

More than 95 per cent of our local real estate brokers are members of the Marin County Real Estate Board and the National Asn. of Real Estate Boards, entitling them to the designation of "Realtor" — a term not to be used lightly, for it imposes ethical responsibilities as much as it offers professional distinction.

In recognition of the part these business men play in applying their professional knowledge of real estate matters to the good of the community, next week has been designated as Realtor Week. The more than 200 members of the Marin County Real Estate Board, together with their 600 salesmen, have made extensive plans for its observance, according to the board's president James Gallagher. He said offices will be holding "open house" on their listings in an almost literal sense of the expression. Special selections during the week will include homes for sale (both existings homes and dwellings never before occupied) apartments for rent (or for sale as condominiums) and investment properties.

The merchandise the Realtor has to sell cannot be displayed in his office. The best he can do is show you a picture, give you a factual description of the property—and the rest has to be done "on location."

This Realtor Week Home show edition can only give you a suggestion of the many fine homes and homesites available for purchase. We hope it arouses your interest. After that the thing to do is to see your Realtor. He has a fistful of good listings to show you. Then look at the properties — you're bound to find one you like, in Marin.

Realtors Call Attention To Their Profession

James Gallagher, president of the Marin County Real Estate Board, said Realtors in this area will join with more than 82,000 colleagues across the nation in directing public attention to their calling and the special character of the services they render during Realtor Week, May 23 - 28.

"A Realtor is not 'just a real estate man,'" said Gallagher. "He is a professional in real estate who subscribes to a strict code of ethics as a member of the local board and of the National Assn. of Real Estate Boards.

Gallagher said Realtors take their code of ethics seriously.

"It was one of the first adopted in the history of American business," he declared. "Under its 30 articles, covering all aspects of a real estate transaction, the Realtor pledges fair treatment and the full scope of his real estate knowledge to both contracting parties—buyer and seller."

He added that Realtor is a coined term and service mark registered with the U. S. Patent Office under the trademark laws and as such should always be capitalized. It may be used only by members of NAREB.

The theme of 1966 Realtor Week is contained in its slogan —"Moving Up? Settling Down? See a Realtor!"

"The slogan underscores the quality of one of the Realtor's services in finding a large or better home for an expanding family or a first home for a family," Gallagher explained. "Two thirds of American families own their own homes, a proportion unrivaled anywhere in the world. The advantages of home ownership — financially, in convenience, and in security—are obvious. With the many forms of financing available today, any family can invest in its future by 'moving up or settling down.'"

The Marin County Real Estate Board was founded in 1920. The Multiple Listing Board was organized in 1949 and joined with the realty board the following year. The National Assn. of Real Estate Boards was founded in 1908. With offices in Chicago and Washington, NAREB furnishes Realtors with the latest information in real estate developments, mortgage rates, economic trends and other business factors.

During the coming week, a speakers group from the Marin board will appear before local service clubs and other organizations to acquaint them with the association's purposes and describe its functions.

Some Tips For Homes

A deep scratch in wood may need filling with plastic wood. When dry and hard, sand down the patch to a smooth surface and apply thin coats of fresh, white shellac.

To make the dust slide off easily, wash your dustpan in hot suds, wipe it dry, and apply a coat of wax. Repeat this wash-wax treatment often.

To free your sink from grease, apply some soap or detergent to a dry cloth or sponge and scrub the sink—also dry. Then turn on the water and rinse the grease away.

Select window hardware carefully so that it will be easy to take down and re-hang your washable draperies and curtains.

No place for the rake and spade? Build a storage fence for garden tools, barbecue equipment. Unit is incorporated into a tall privacy screen which jogs around patio, creating triangular planting niches.

Prices Rising For Homes, Expert Says

By 1970, prices of new homes will be 20-25% above today's level, predicts Richard Bullock, editor of Practical Builder, in the June issue of the business magazine for professional builders.

Because of the spiraling costs, he advises young couples to buy a home "as soon as possible." He points out that more expensive labor and materials are adding about $1,000 a year to the cost of a $20,000 house.

Bullock bases his conclusions on an industry study just completed by M. R. Robinson, manager of the Bureau of Building Marketing Research, the research affiliate of Practical Builder.

The story, "A New Home of Your Own — Still the Best Investment for Most Young Families," cites some of the reasons for buying now:

1. Our economy is entering an inflationary period similar to that of the mid-1950s. Home ownership, like other long-term real property, is likely to appreciate faster than other commodities. In short, it's the strongest hedge against inflation.

2. Available land each year becomes harder to find and develop, so it becomes more expensive.

3. Earlier purchase of a home, preferably prior to raising a family, pays other dividends. By the time the children are ready for school, school facilities will be developed and in all probability the tax burden will be less. Schools built today, like houses, will cost less than those built tomorrow.

Another factor favoring the early purchase of a home is the creation of an estate which will grow in value and can be used as collateral for borrowing for further investments—to raise funds to start a business, to pay for college educations, to reinvest for profit, and t meet the expense of adversities.

To emphasize the concrete value of home ownership, the Practical Builder story compared two family histories. Both couples were married in 1954.

The first couple bought a $17,000 home in 1955 which today has a current market value of $22,500 — on a 20-year $15,000 mortgage at 5% interest. The $99-a-month payments during the first ten years have totaled $11,880—$5,668 of which represents the couple's equity, $6,212 interest.

The second couple rented a five-room apartment, initially for $100 a month. With steadily increasing rents, the monthly rental has averaged $138 for a total of $16,554 — and no equity.

Bullock points out that buying a home has been proven to make owners more responsible, and that their desire to improve their lives makes them better financial risks and job-holders and leads to higher family incomes.

Plants Can Make Your Home Bright

In many new homes, planting areas have become so much a part of the over-all scheme that interior designers include them in the plans from the outset. But there are less extreme ways to summerize every room of your home or apartment.

Some glass shelves in the kitchen, living room or hall window can be decked with trailing ivy, philodendron or other small plants. The bathroom is an ideal spot for growing exotic orchids because they thrive on heat and humidity.

A row of large, pole-hugging cut-leaf philodendron and graceful dumb cane plants might be placed in front of the picture window to create a living screen and offer privacy, especially while the grounds around the house look barren during the cold months.

A small, electric indoor fountain, with plants banked around the base and afloat with fresh blossoms, can perk up the entry hall during any season.

Flowering plants also are welcome in the middle of winter and they make ideal house gifts. Throughout the cold months, Florists' Telegraph Delivery will wire chrysanthemums, cyclamens and azaleas all over the country.

African violets also make splendid long-distance gifts. There are so many different types of this plant that they can be collected into exotic flowering gardens and added to on every special occasion.

Humidity The Thing —Not Heat

Worried about inadequate humidity in your house? According to the National Better Heating-Cooling Council, excess humidity can be equally uncomfortable.

The need for a humidifier (or dehumidifier) is governed by the infiltration of outside air and the exfiltration of inside air. An old, "loose" house might need humidification, while a new "tight" house might need dehumidification. It does not depend solely upon the heating system.

A house occupied by the average size family will have considerable humidity added to its atmosphere by such normal living processes as cooking, bathing, and washing.

In a house that is quite new and tight the humidity added by the family may be excessive, whereas older houses have a tendency to open up, losing humidity through exfiltration.

To solve humidity problems, there are any numer of humidifying and dehumidifying devices currently on the market. They include units used directly in the heating system itself, whether it be hydronic (hot water) heat or warm-air heat, large capacity units that may be used independently of the heating system, and portable units of room size.

How To Fit A Big Bed In Bedroom

Americans are waking up to the fact that they need not only healthful support in a mattress but also more room for truly restful sleeping. If you're thinking of buying larger bedding for more sleeping comfort, but fear your bedroom may be too small, here's help.

You can still enjoy the benefits of king-size or twin-size bedding by applying one or more of the following tricks, suggested by Ronald J. Shepherd, executive vice president of the Spring Air Co., a leading national bedding group.

1. Use a metal frame instead of a bedstead to save space. Many people think a footboard helps to hold blankets in place, but actually it has no real purpose and you'll find bedding stays put better with your longer mattress.

2. If you like the idea of a headboard, you can paint a make-believe one on the wall above the bed or create an illusion with draperies or a row of pictures.

3. Replace night stands with a shallow wall shelf.

4. Instead of separating twin beds with an aisle, put them next to each other. You can use a swing-away bed frame to simplify bedmaking.

5. Save the floor or table space required for lamps by choosing lights that can be hung on the wall above the bed.

6. If a swinging closet or bedroom door takes up too much space, you can replace it with an inexpensive accordion-fold vinyl door.

7. If a chest of drawers must be crowded out, use underbed storage chests. You'll have room for at least two.

After that, relax and get a good night's sleep.

How To Fit In Pictures

Creating a pleasing picture grouping on a wall is easy, according to Harry Linsky, consultant to the Picture and Frame Institute, if a few simple rules are followed.

1. Study the picture wall in relation to the entire room to determine how large the grouping should be.

2. Study your pictures. No matter what shape or color, each picture should look good next to another picture, and also fit into the entire picture grouping.

3. Place the pictures on the floor and arrange and rearrange them to form the grouping you desire.

4. Cut out pieces of brown paper to fit the picture sizes, and tape these to the wall to determine the "rightness" of the arrangement to please the eye.

5. Pinpoint lightly with a marker the place where the nail or picture hanger should go, to achieve the balance you want.

Money Tight But Bon Air Developing

The Bon Air Garden Apartment section of Greenbrae continues to develop in spite of the "tight money" talk, according to George Bogel of the Greenbrae Co.

The Schultz Building Co., having just recently completed one plush apartment building, with the penthouse leased for a long term by Mr. and Mrs. Niels Schultz Sr., has begun construction on still another building in the hills of Bon Air. This will contain 12 apartments, of which six will be two-bedroom units and the rest one-bedroom units. Location of the building is at the end of Corte Madera, a wide cul-de-sac off Via Belardo.

Another seven-unit building is also under construction by Mr. and Mrs. John A. Moran. Apartments will be de luxe units, with an oriental flair to the exterior. Five of them will have one bedroom and one and one-half baths, in areas of approximately 1,000 square feet each. There will be one two-bedroom unit with two baths and a floor area of 1,300 square feet.

In addition, the Morans are including an apartment for their own use containing 2,500 square feet, with three bedrooms and three baths. The building will be called Kyoto Gardens and is located on Upper Via Casitas, just above South Eliseo Drive.

Open Area Is Boon To Designers

A boon to the home designer in today's emphasis on open area interiors is the room divider. With countless variations on the room divider principle available to the ingenious decorator, the homemaker can really have her cake and eat it, too. maintaining an atmosphere of spaciousness while utilizing the divider to create additional storage and wall space.

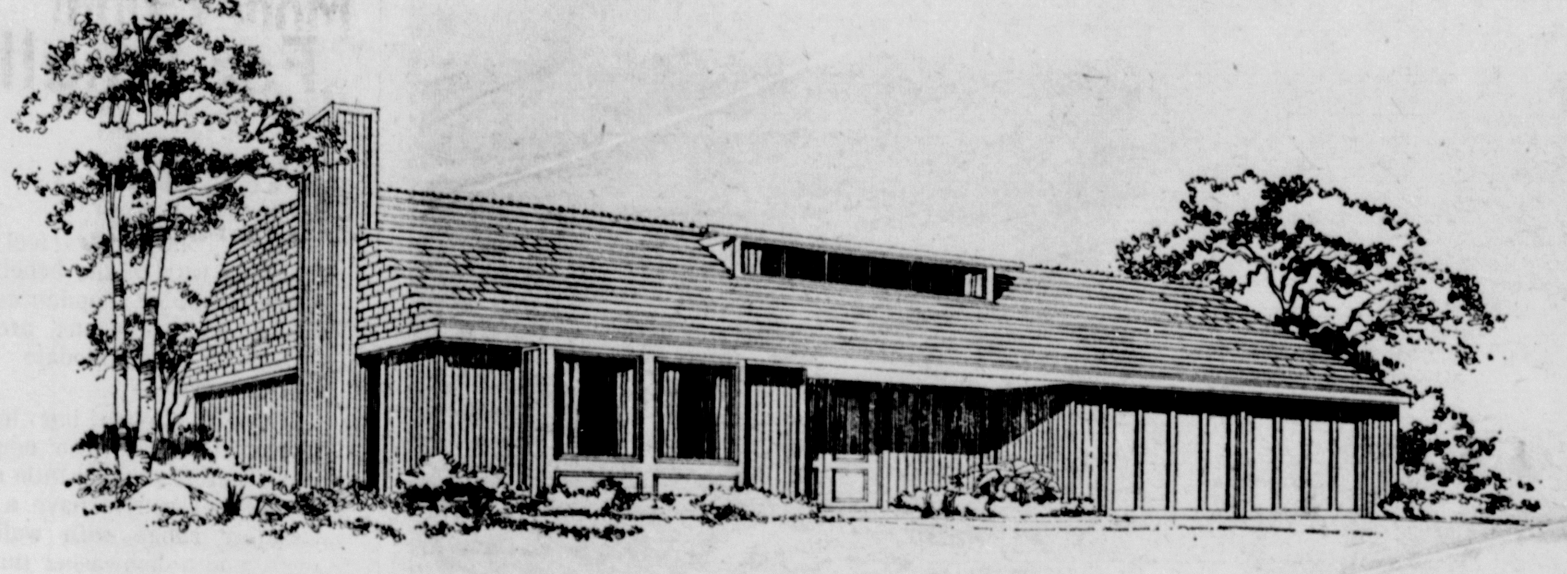
The primary function of the room divider, of course, is to define the limits and function of each room within an integrated open area layout.

Here designers, in effect, have cut away the upper portion of hitherto solid wall partitioning by devising room dividers of less than floor-to-ceiling height.

An extra dividend has been the extra function realized with a room divider. Some home planners are working book shelves, cabinet storage, and even desks into the basic design of the room divider. Actually, the possibilities of such secondary usage are as limitless as the planner's imagination.

Coffee In Gardens

Some people have had good results from treating house plants with coffee grounds and cold, leftover tea. The coffee grounds, they say, seem to nourish the plants. Sprinkle them on top of the soil, then water the plant. Cold tea is said to act as a fertilizer and insecticide.



STONERIDGE HOMES will open four models in Sunset-San Marin, Novato, this weekend. Shown here is one of 12 elevation designs. Homes are in one and two-story plans with three and four bedrooms and within easy walking distance of the San Marin Club which offers family recreation facilities.

Stoneridge Homes To Open New Models This Weekend

Stoneridge Home will open four new models this weekend at Sunset/San Marin, the 2,200-acre Novato hillside planned community, it was announced by Thomas D. Zoumaras, Jr., sales manager.

The homes are available in one and two-story plans with three and four bedrooms. Each home has a minimum of two baths and some models have two-and-a-half baths.

Large master bedrooms, family rooms, Hotpoint kitchens with ash cabinets and ceramic tile counters and decorator fixtures are some of the Stoneridge features.

The homes, designed by Fisher-Friedman Associates, AIA, of San Francsico, are within easy walking distance of the San Marin Club, which offers complete facilities for swimming, tennis, handball, arts and crafts, meetings and social gatherings.

Stoneridge Homes are available on FHA, VA and conventional terms. The first 50 homes are currently under construction, thereby assuring purchasers of an early move-in date.

Sunset/San Marin is one of eight totally planned communities being developed in California by Sunset International.

Stoneridge models can be reached by driving north on Highway 101 to Novato, turning left on San Marin Drive and following the signs.

Boy Of The House Can Decorate Own Room

Don't let the task of decorating your son's room create a family row. If, like boys everywhere, he wants to add to the decorating himself, by all means encourage him. More often than not, you will find he has some interesting ideas.

A boy's hobbies, for instance, can be the home decorator's best friend. Not only can most indoor hobbies be beautifully integrated into any decorating scheme, but they project mood and character of the hobbyist, which adds to any room. Those plastic hobby kits of boats, planes and cars, as an example, are easily assembled, yet have a professional appearance when completed and displayed in a boy's room.

If your son is keen on ships, old and new, such as the famous Cutty Sark or today's SS United States, you are way ahead of the game.

Some boys take such pride in their completed models, you may find the best answer is to create an attractive display area in the room, devoted exclusively to them.

Area Rug Is Now Darling Of The Decorating Clan

Area rugs have become the darlings of the decorating clan. Used as a focal point on a well-polished floor, the area rug can be an important decorative factor. It can emphasize a color in the over-all scheme, pick up a minor one in a patterned fabric and make it important, or introduce a new accent color.

In a traditional room, an Oriental rug can be used to establish a color plan and the hues of fabrics chosen for upholstered furniture can be selected from those in the rug.

However, no matter how much a homemaker may want to add the charm of an area rug to her room, she is more often than not faced with a problem: area rlugs are wanderers at heart.

Make Lovely Window View On Terrace

If you don't have a lovely view in front of your picture window, make one. Japanese gardens, for instance, can be built in only a few feet of space. A graden or terrace that stops only 20 feet away can look as pleasant as a country vista. A row of potted plants inside the window or ivy twined around it also provides interest when it's dreary outside, if the window, itself, is always clean and bright.

A display of a lovely crystal collection on shelves in front of a window on a staircase, for instance adds color and beauty, too, if the crystal and window both shine.

You may wait months, years (forever!) to find such liberal financing on such attractive country home sites—and just 50 minutes from San Francisco.

The Diamond A Ranch was once the real thing. Today the cowboys don't always wear boots or use saddles or have short hair! Instead of one big ranch house there are 30 ranch houses set well apart but only a moment's trot from the center of things: the Riding & Racquet Club.

The Diamond A is 1200 acres of oak-knolled beauty with miles of private riding trails that rim the Valley of the Moon. It's made for horses, for swimming before breakfast and tennis after 6.

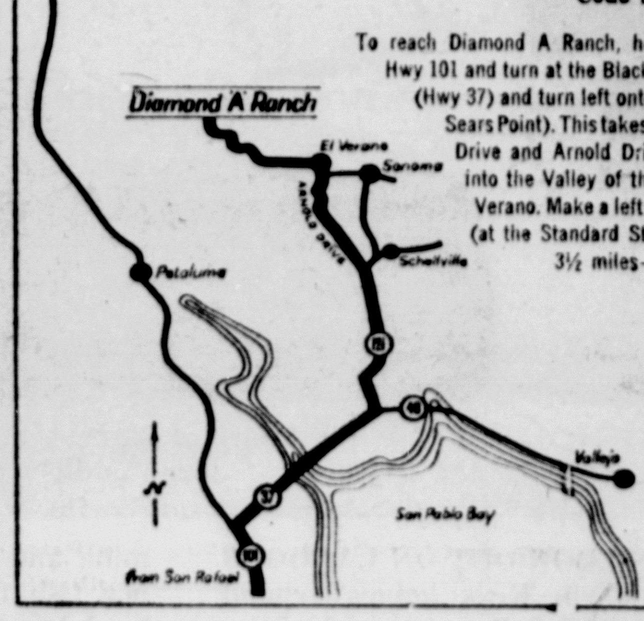
15% down will buy you 1½ acres of Diamond A Ranch. If you have been looking for land, any kind of land, you know how tough financing is these days. Diamond A is an exception because we have dedicated an amount of private capital to the financing. So come up while it lasts. You will be investing in a unique sort of life (whoever heard of a Riding & Racquet Club?) and in an area where no lot has ever been resold without a profit!

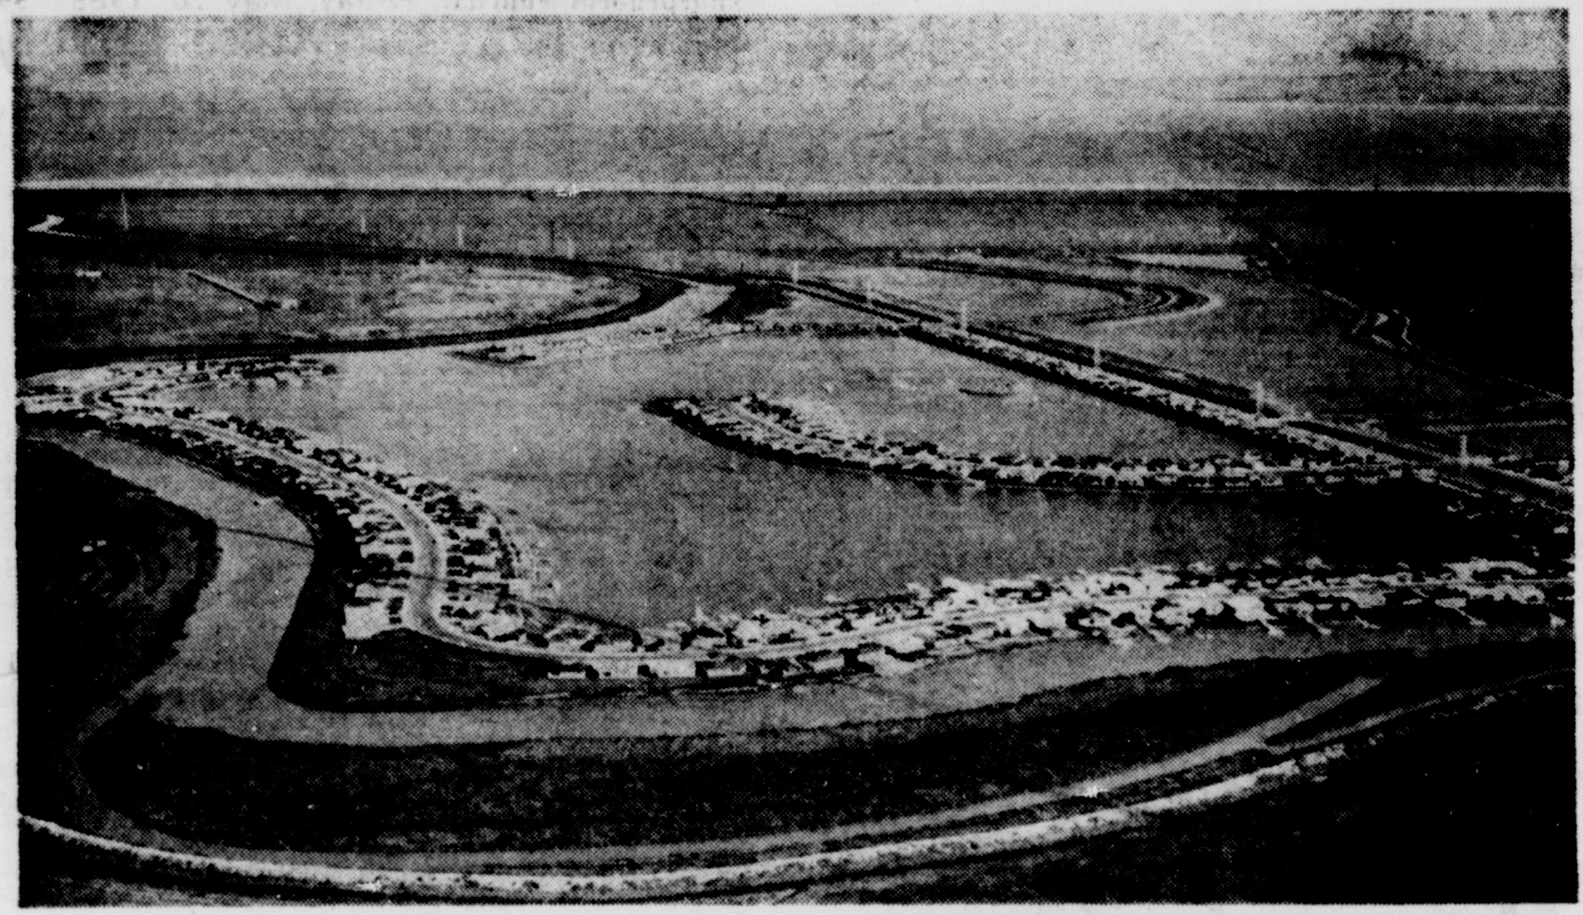
15% down, 7% interest, $100 month buys you a good piece of Sonoma's

Diamond A Ranch

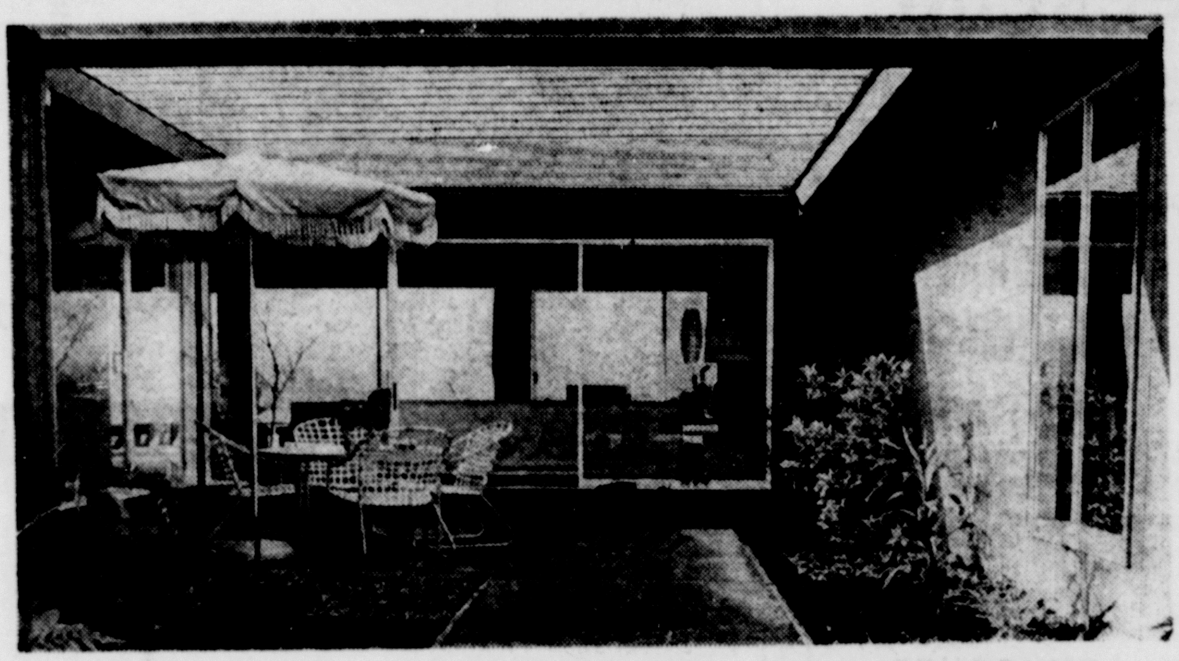
Diamond A Ranch Estates are 1½ to 2½ acres with all improvements (no bonds) priced from $9950. Telephone 996-6792 (Area Code 707) collect.

To reach Diamond A Ranch, head north on Hwy 101 and turn at the Black Point cut-off (Hwy 37) and turn left onto Hwy 121 (at Sears Point). This takes you to Arnold Drive and Arnold Drive takes you into the Valley of the Moon to El Verano. Make a left turn on Grove (at the Standard Station) and in 3½ miles—you're here!

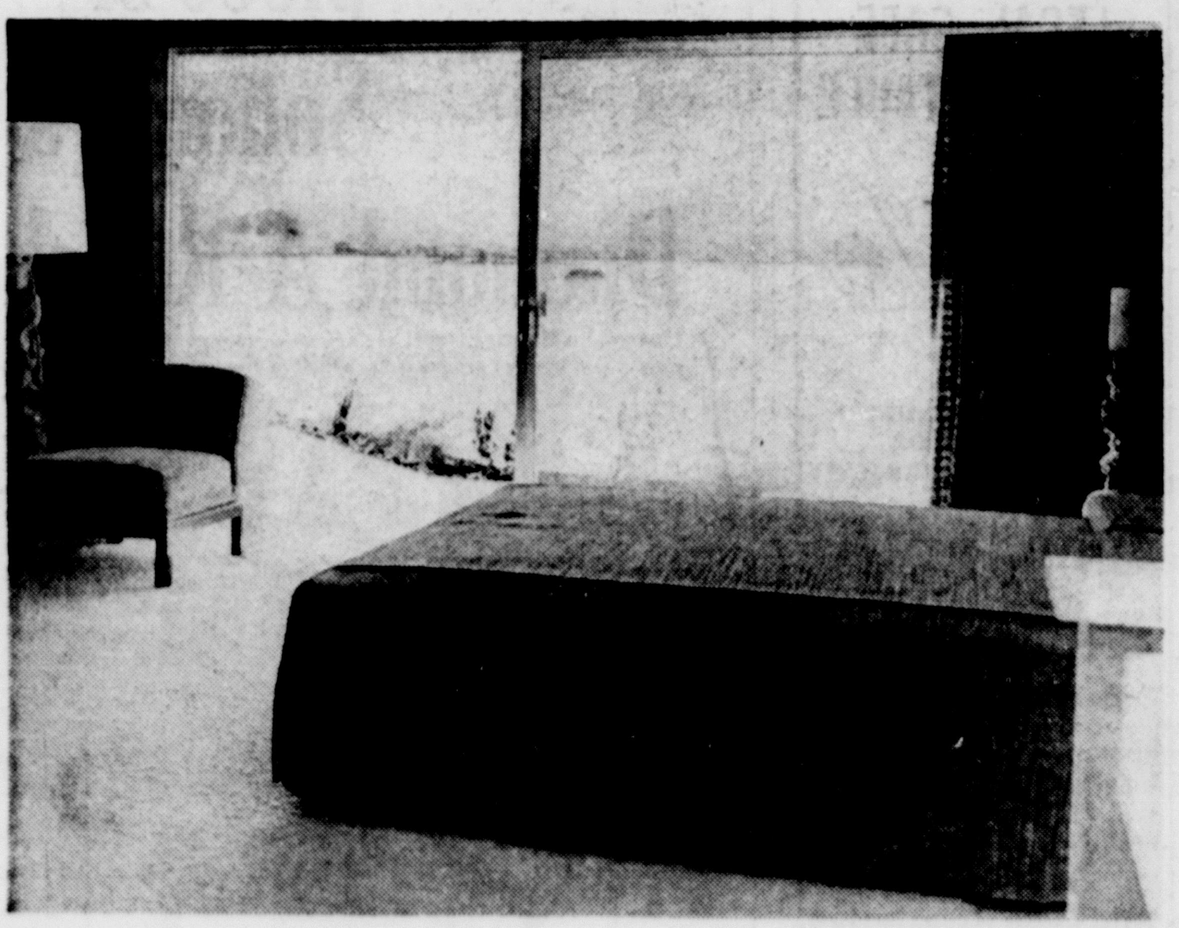




FOR 12,000 PEOPLE—Formerly the Marin Meadows Ranch, the 2,200-acre Bel Marin Keys lagoon development in Novato now provides direct deep channel access to the waters of the bay. It is located one mile north of Hamilton Air Force Base, Highway 101—Ignacio turnoff.



HOMES HAVE ATRIUM ENTRANCES — There are "look through" features at Bel Marin Keys model homes where garden lovers may follow their hobby at the front and water lovers may have their recreation in the rear. Homes are priced in the $40,000 to $50,000 range.



ROOMS LOOK OUT ON LAGOONS —Bel Marin Keys homes expand outdoor living. Recreation the year round includes water skiing, swimming and boating of all kinds and now fishing, with accessibility to the bay. Every home has at least one viewsite like this.

Resales Offer Opportunities For Shore Life

Bel-Marin Keys has been attracting many buyers interested in moving into waterway homes that are already landscaped and fenced.

These homes are resales usually where previous owners have been transferred out of the area after putting in trees, shrubs and other yard improvements which make them particularly appealing. Resales are now available in the $30,000 to $45,000 range.

In charge of sales is Fox & Carskadon Inc., who maintains a branch office at 104 Caribe Isle. W. H. Feldman is in charge. Staffing salesmen are A. H. Ecoff and his wife, Mrs. Laverne Ecoff; Robert Cook and George Neumann.

All homes in this area are planned for maximum water exposure as the deep water channels lead directly to the bay and the sea beyond. Practically every room looks out on the delightful blue lagoons.

Many of the custom-designed resale homes on the market feature recent schools of architecture utilizing redwood and brick and redwood in varying degrees of surface effects.

Bel-Marin Keys, located one mile north of Hamilton Air Force Base, will be the largest area of waterfront homes in Marin.

The concept of "Live More Each Day" at Bel Marin Keys attracts home buyers who like to enjoy vacation parties every day of the year.

100 Per Cent Mishap

BJARKOEY, Norway (UPI) — A recent study of the traffic accident rate on this tiny island showed it to be 100 per cent. The islands's only truck and only station wagon collided on the island's only road.

Gadgets For Small Areas

Many homemakers feel they must do without the benefits of modern major appliances because their kitchens are too small to accommodate these work-savers.

If your kitchen has limited space, there are two new appliances that take up little room, yet permit you to have a free-standing range with wall-type oven, and a dishwasher that fits right underneath the sink.

One new model automatic dishwasher fits into a 24-inch area underneath a six-inch-deep sink bowl.

By using the formerly wasted space underneath a sink, it's possible for homemakers with small kitchens to have all the conveniences of this popular appliance. The plumbing fits right or left in an adjacent 12-inch area, and with an off-set sink bowl, a food waste disposer can be installed for a complete clean-up center.

A new 30-inch range is a "split-level" model that provides many cooking functions within easy arm's reach. The wall-type "upstairs" oven with wide picture window includes an automatic rotisserie feature. Four surface units in a recessed G-E Sensi-Temp unit. The controls on this range carry out the "split-level" concept, with all controls for the various types of oven cooking at eye level, and surface unit pushbuttons side-mounted adjacent to the units they control.

These efficient and space-saving appliances come in many colors.

Shade Trees Are Natural Air Cooling

When one thinks of hot weather, the comfort and peace of a lovely shade tree usually comes into mind, says the American Assn. of Nurserymen.

One of the advantages of natural shade for air-conditioning is that, if your tree is planted in the right location, it will help to cool the indoors as well as the outdoors. The shade tree should be located on the west side of the house at a sufficient distance to shade the west walls and roof as the sun descends in the west during the hottest months. In cooling the house walls, it also cools the indoors.

In order to enjoy cooler mornings in bedrooms on the east side of the house, plant a tree on the east, between the morning sun and the house. Morning temperatures in east bedrooms can be made comfortable and enjoyable in this way.

Another popular place for a shade tree is a location where the shade will keep a patio cool for outdoor enjoyment. Medium and large size trees can be located to provide shade where and when you want it in the hottest months. Shade trees can be planted at any time of the year that a hole can be dug in the ground.

Build Storage Space For Photo Projectors

The last scene of summers' vacation has flickered off the screen and the show is over. Who is going to put away the screen and projector? And, more important, where?

In the closet behind the coats? Under the bed? Or in a cabinet specially built for this purpose. Although some projectors and screens undoubtedly do end up in the closet, this obviously is not the place for valuable equipment.

Any home movie enthusiast knows that photography equipment should be carefully stored. It is valuable, and to make it last a long time, it should be given special handling.

A most practical answer to this storage problem is to build a cabinet to fit your photographic equipment.

Specifications of the cabinet should be determined by the size of the largest piece of equipment — probably the folding screen.

Sonoma Mini-Ranches Offer Memberships In Unusual Club

Diamond A Ranch Estates, a community of mini-ranches located 3 miles up in the hills West of Sonoma, is putting the finishing strokes on the charter for a unique social and recreational facility to be known as the Diamond A Riding and Racquet Club.

The clubhouse is a typical Sonoma ranch house that served as headquarters for the old Berrien Anderson working ranch. Renovation will provide a good-sized dining area and a community room which looks out from under the veranda to stables, corral and new pink and green championship tennis courts (christened just last week). A chuck wagon barbecue area, fishing lake and swimming pool will be other attractions of the new club. A limited number of memberships are being made available to residents of the surrounding area but the great majority are reserved for property owners, on a preferential basis.

The 17-acre club and every estate lot on Diamond A Ranch overlooks Jack London's storied domain and on down to the bay (15-miles south). The rolling oak-knolled character of the lands belies the sweeping panoramas that unexpectedly appear before you.

The ranch affords many miles of panoramic riding trails that are nowhere precipitous but cover country that is "above it all." Bob Garlick, Diamond A's "trail boss" (the man in charge of sales!) describes it as ". . . the kind of country you see in those movies about beavers and dogs and barefoot boys; all green and quiet and nice to come home to."

Lots average 1.8 acres in size, allowing every family to keep two horses on their property. Of the 100 parcels already sold 34 homes have been built. The horse population now stands at 20 . . . with more hoofbeats in the distance.

However, most of Diamond A's year 'round residents will be found working in Marin according to the company's president, William Troy.

Diamond A Ranch Estates' per acre costs average $6,000 which is about what an acre cost in Novato ten years ago . . . without improvements or any Riding & Racquet Club.

Anyone who would like to spread out a picnic on one of the lots for sale at Diamond A is welcome to do just that! Directions call for you to drive out the Black Point Cutoff and turn off where a sign points left for Sonoma. Drive straightaway for El Verano (just to the left of Sonoma, on Arnold Drive) and turn left on Grove which will take you 3½ miles up into that secret place in the hills that is Diamond A Ranch.

Location Is Very Important For New Patio Room

Finding a logical site for the addition of a summer patio room to your home isn't always as easy as falling off a log. Convenience, privacy, the naturalness of the addition's looks, cool breezes and usually a few other personal considerations play a role in determining a patio room's location.

Kitchens positioned at the rear of a home are ideal as the rooms adjacent to the summer living room. Not only are they food centers, but walking through them generally invades no one's privacy. But since all homes do not have kitchens at the rear, the pros and cons of locating the addition next to other rooms must be considered carefully.

An outdoor room that cannot be quickly reached through some room of the home usually proves to be a disappointment.

The naturalness of any addition's looks are important to the interior anad exterior architectural design for your home. On the inside a continuation of the adjacent room's appearance will most effectively contribute to visual unity.

Exterior lines, especially roof lines, and materials also should harmonize so that the addition does not have a "tacked-on" or "after-thought" look.

Finally, weather patterns at your home should not be ignored. The availability of cool breezes and the absence of the hot summer sun are the usual features sought for a patio room.

ADULT COMMUNITY HOME—The Sonoman is one of several plans for homes at Temelec in the Valley of the Moon. Sales for the development have been taken over by Fox and Carskadon. Homes are under construction by Nelson Construction Co. of San Rafael. Furnished models are open daily from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Adult Home Area

Fox & Carskadon, residential real estate firm has been appointed exclusive sales agents for TEMELEC, adult home community in the Valley of the Moon near Sonoma. William Falcon is in charge of the on-site sales office. An extensive building program is being reactivated.

Homes are now under constrution by Nelson Construction Company of San Rafael, who is using three different plans featuring two bedrooms, one bath; two bedrooms, two baths and three bedrooms and two baths. Exteriors are of wood siding, stucco and brick. Shake and shingle roofs are featured. All models have fireplaces, nylon carpets, and all-electric kitchens. Homes will be air-conditioned, fully insulated and will utilize perimeter forced air heating.

Prices will range from $23,950 to complement the present schedule of homes in the community which range from $14,950 for 1 and 2-bedroom weekend countryhouses to $18,450 for 2 and 3-bedroom country residences. All are completely carpeted, air-conditioned and have two-car garages. All utilities are underground.

The emphasis on selling in TEMELEC, according to Falcon, is the ideal climate and the ideal location close to the Sonoma Golf Course, the Redwood Empire recreational area and the City of San Francisco. With the building of the attractive new homes now under construction, it is anticipated that there will be an additional spurt of interest on the part of discriminating adults to buy in this established adult community.

TEMELEC caters to adults only. It is planned for people who wish to lead an active life of their own and live as they have always lived, rather than in a controlled community.

Purchase of a home entitles the buyer to membership in the historic TEMELEC Country Club with its acres of cultivated greenways near the Sonoma Golf Course. A swimming pool and barbecue area adjoins providing much enjoyment for residents who include people from all over the United States and Canada.

Furnished models and the sales office are open seven days a week from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

TEMELEC may be reached by turning off Hwy. 101 via Hwy. 37 on Arnold Drive near Sonoma. Follow the signs.

Household Chores Cut For Cuba Farm Wives

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The Cuban government has promised to relieve wives of one of their biggest household chores — cooking — if they pick coffee beans and cut sugar cane instead.

The minister of the food industry, Rolando Alvarez, said in a broadcast heard in Miami that the government would start offering precooked meals that need to be heated only a few minutes.

Sales Pace Brisk At Fox-Carskadon

Brisk action in residential real estate in Marin County has been greatly accelerated through the efforts of the various Marin offices of Fox & Carskadon, Inc., large Bay Area residential real estate firm.

In addition to the main Marin County office, located at 1435 Fourth Street, San Rafael, it also maintains several other offices, such as the office at the Loch Lomond Shopping Center off San Pedro Road, which serves Loch Lomond, Glenwood, Peacock Gap, where the firm is not only exclusive agents for that area, but also for The Knoll, half-million dollar townhouse development.

A temporary Southern Marin office is maintained at 104 Tiburon Boulevard, until a larger office building is completed in late 1966.

In addition, one-site sales staffs serve as exclusive agents for the following: Dominican Heights in San Rafael, with its lovely panoramic view; Vista Verde Homes, first major real estate development in San Anselmo; Trillium Lane on the slopes of Mount Tamalpais in Mill Valley; Mount Tiburon, with sites overlooking the entire bay; Bel-Marin Keys in Novato.

Fox & Carskadon, Inc., recently sold 35 residential properties in one month, totaling over $1,500,000. The professional sales staff now totals 30 people.

Fox & Carskadon, Inc., has been operating in the Bay Area since 1929 and maintains six offices down the Peninsula, with headquarters located at Menlo Park, California.

Thermostat Settings Not Sacred

There was a time when 68 or 72 degrees — or some other equally arbitrary thermostat setting — was believed to be the "right" temperature to maintain in your home.

This idea is old-fashioned and obsolete. The basis for selecting the temperature in a home should be the comfort of the people living in it, and this can vary during different times of the day or in accordance with certain factors.

These factors include how active you are, the type of clothing you generally like to wear around the house, what the humidity is, whether your home is located in an exposed area where it's buffeted by high winds, and so on. It also depends upon the age of the occupants. Older folks, for example, usually like more heat than do younger members of the family. Some people like to turn the thermostat down overnight to cool off the house, then raise it again in the morning.

Modern thermostats are designed to give precise control of your heat within one or two degrees.

It's Blossom Time In May At Nurseries

Maytime is blossom time at nurseries. Many different types of flowering shrubs and trees are in flower for home owners to select the plants which they like best for their home properties, according to the American Assn. of Nurserymen.

At this time of the year home owners look to the outdoors, not only glad to be out in the fresh air, but eager to plant and beautify for the summer months.

It is the time to plan for a shade tree, or for remodeling overgrown landscaping. It is the time for planting perennials, roses, as well as shrubs and trees, according to one's choice.

Bathroom Color Trick Aids Changing Decor

For a fresh look in your bathroom, plan a color scheme that is interchangeable. If colors are carefully coordinated, you can change the appearance of the room by simply changing your towels and rug.

Begin with the largest design area, such as a shower curtain, or a fixed tone such as the tiles, and work your color scheme around these basic shades. If the curtain combines two or three colors, let these hues create the basis for an everchanging decor. Select towels and rugs that co-ordinate with the tones in the curtain. Vary your choice, however. Have one set in a vibrant tone, another in pastel.

The floor is a very important color area, and the new types of bathroom rugs come in a wide variety of colors so that you can change your color scheme often. They're luxurious in appearance and feel and come in sizes and shapes to fit any room. And best of all, they take to the washing machine with the alacrity of a towel.

If the dominant color of your bathroom can't be changed, don't be intimidated. Take advantage of the situation, for unusual color combinations are big news this year. Be bold in using color, the results will be different and rewarding.

Modern Room Divider Idea Moves Outdoors

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

The room divider idea is going outdoors, especially where one wants an enclosure that is really not an enclosure. Structural forms can provide that illusion of beauty, without creating a permanent barrier.

It is a trend that Americans can now accept—something that seems to serve no practical purpose but is an asset where it is used. A cultural age that feels deprived if it doesn't have handsome statuary and specimen boxwood in the garden can accept intriguing substitutes. But if one feels that only a wall can provide enclosure, the new design idea will offer little appeal.

You can design, your own forms, once you get the general idea, and the home handyman can do the project with hand tools, although an electric saw and drill will be helpful. Make your forms tall or short, wide or skinny. Sketch the idea on paper before you begin.

Interesting redwood structures designed by landscape artist, Richard G. Murray of Carmel, Calif., might at first glance look like fancy telephone poles. They comprise a series of crossbeams and grids set on top of a single beam and two stylized cross beams comprising a 6 foot by 4 foot area. He designed them to be used either as a design element independently or to compliment each other when used in groups. They may be set far apart used at an entry or close together as a patio divider or in a row as a walk esplanade. Murray's structural forms are built of Simpson's kiln-dried California redwood.

Here are the step-by-step directions. Vary the idea to suit your own taste.

Dig a 26-inch deep hole for 6 inch by 6 inch by 10 foot redwood post. (An extra six inches deep filled in with gravel can facilitate better drainage.) Set posts in concrete.

Now — cut and taper two 2-inch by 10 inch by 6 foot stylized redwood beams. Predrill two holes on either side of the beams that will be attached to the post using ½ inch by 10 inch black iron bolts and nuts. You cut four braces from excess in the 2 inch by 10 inch beam and toe-nail two to each side of the beam. Now you nail four 4 inch by 4 inch by 4 foot redwood joists in place, two on each side placed widthwise. Indent 10 inches and place six inches apart leaving 24 inches between the two sets of joists. Nail six 2 inch by 3 inch by 6 foot redwood grid support rails over the joints lengthwise. Indent four inches from joist tips and place three on each side four inches apart with twelve inches between the sets. Put twenty 2 inch by 2 inch by 18 inch redwood top grids on to the support rails in four sets of five: Indent each set three inches from tip of support rails with each four inches apart and 15 inches between each set of two along the length. Use galvanized or aluminum nails.

If the redwood is left natural it will turn a dark russet color and eventually turn to a soft, silvery gray as it ages. But it can be stained, painted or finished with a clear water repellent sealer if one prefers.

Enjoy Silver By Using It Daily

Your silver is meant to be used and appreciated, not only on holidays and "state occasions" but all year around. And there's no reason why you can't enjoy its beauty every day.

Research has found that, actually, it is use that gives silver that fine "heirloom" patina. Just remember these few simple rules and you can keep it gleaming without fuss and bother.

After serving such foods as eggs, vinegary salad dressings or citrus fruits, rub a little silver cream over the affected areas. This saves elbow grease later.

In storing, avoid contact with rubber bands, paper or cardboard unless specially treated. Camphor fumes help to ward off tarnish, but actual contact will cause stains. Tarnish-retardent bags are great tuck-away aids, particularly when they are completely airtight.

When you treat your silver with silver cream, always rub in the direction of the "grain." If the pattern is embossed, use an old toothbrush to massage in the cream.

Dishwashers Offering Ever Better Service

More than 6½ million homemakers now own automatic dishwashers. They save themselves from one to two hours of drudgery a day. They also get their dishes cleaner because the dishwasher uses hotter water and stronger detergent than human hands can comfortably stand.

A number of misconceptions about dishwashers persist—that dishes must be pre-rinsed, that china and glassware tend to chip, that glasses spot and that the appliance can't handle pots and pans. None of these are true about current models. These are among the features homemakers like most about their dishwashers:

1. Many models have a rinsing cycle that enables the homemaker to rinse breakfast and luncheon dishes, then hold them until the machine is fully loaded after the evening meal. Then the machine can be put through the complete cycle of washing, rinsing and drying. This saves time, energy, electricity and water.

2. The racks are designed so that they are adjustable. Thus the appliance can take larger pieces such as pots and pans, and the rest of the dishes can be put in where they fit. This is in contrast to older models than called for a rigid system of loading.

3. There's a wider range of cycles available—for doing company-best china and stemware, lightly soiled dishes or very dirty pots and pans. These cycles are intended for use in special cases, since under normal day-to-day conditions, the homemaker puts everything in at once.

4. Many current models pulverize or liquefy soft foods that get into the dishwasher and flush them down the drain.

5. The new models run more quietly.

6. They have filter guards to eliminate the possibility of dirt being re-deposited on clean dishes after washing or rinsing.

7. There are certain technical advances that provide more vigorous water circulation, etc. with which the average homemaker doesn't concern herself—although she likes the results in terms of spotlessly clean dishes.

As in the case of all plumbed-in appliances, information on the models available can be obtained from your plumbing contractor.

New Plumbing, Appliances Make Home Life Happier

You can now get a showerhead that adjusts to as many as eight positions, ranging from a tingling needle spray to a soft flood. The adjustment is made by means of a handle. The showerheads are self-cleaning too.

Three little appliances for the kitchen are finding increasing favor with homemakers. One is an instant hot water device. The second is a plumbed-in coffee maker, and the third, an automatic ice maker. Women love them, not only because they simplify meal preparation but they help to provide an easy answer to the eternal question: What to serve the unexpected guest in the way of quick-to-prepare liquid refreshments.

Some North Africans are so used to drinking brackish water that they take salt with them on their travels to mix with coffee.

Teen-Age Grooming Aid Idea

Beacuse her grooming chores are usually accompanied by a chorus of wails from outside the bathroom door, to "hurry up," it's understandable, if not completely forgivable, that Miss Teen leaves the bathroom cluttered and disorderly.

One solution, suggested by a teen herself, is a beauty book shelf box, made from a shoe box, which will hold bobby pins, comb, brush, lipstick, powder, shaver, hand lotion, deodorant, hair spray and other items.

First, protect the inside of the box by covering it with shelf paper. Secure edges with cellophane tape. To create the effect of books, use vertical strips of colored plastic tape, contrasting light and dark colors. Alternate wide strips with narrower ones, so that the effect more closely resembles a book shelf.

For book titles, cut words from magazines or any new cosmetics you have recently purchased. You'll find plenty of references to bobby pins, lipstick and so on. Secure these to the "books" with doublefaced cellophane tape.

Use the same arrangement of colored plastic tapes on the shoe box cover, so when the box is closed it will give a uniform appearance.

Now the box can be toted to the bathroom for grooming and removed quickly to leave room for the next person.

Sculptured Tiles Help Alter Walls

A common wall offers more decorating possibilities than is often realized at first glance. Usually we thing of color, pattern and texture as the only dimensions of a wall that can be altered, since size, shape and form are presumed to be static.

Form, however, can be changed. New ceramic tiles that have sculptured surfaces provide the means. Tile manufacturers now offer a wide variety of sculptured tiles that fall under the general category of decorator tiles.

The sculptured tiles have different planes that are light- and eye-catching. An advantage of using a multi-pieced wall surfacing is that the design can be highly individualistic. Many designs are possible with just one type of sculptured tile, which may have either a slick, glass-like glaze finish or mat finish.

Use of the sculptured tiles is chiefly for accent walls, such as in foyers, living and dining rooms. They are also used as the main decorative feature in bathrooms. But wherever they are placed, the effect is stunning.

Hard Water Spots

If you live in a hard water area and own a dishwasher, you can prevent spotting on glassware by cutting down on the amount of detergent you use.

Computer To Replace Housemaid?

By DOROTHEA M. BROOKS
United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI)—Household help — the cheerful, reliable "member of the family" type help — is a thing of the past, as any homemaker will tell you.

The woman who would help out with the cleaning, or cooking, or washing, or with the kids, depending upon the need of the moment has gone along with the old-time handyman.

BUT . . . there's a replacement coming if you can hang on another couple of decades.

It will come in the form of a small, table-top computer that will be instructed (programmed) to help with the shopping, cooking, cleaning and other household chores — and to do it on voice command; no complicated computer school for the iady of the house.

Just what could this electronic helper do around the house?

Turn on the lights when it gets dark, close the windows when it rains, sound a burglar alarm if anyone tires to break in, control atmospheric conditions for the optimum in health and comfort.

If the bridge game were running longer than expected you could telephone the computer and give it new instructions. It could turn on the oven to start the meat and the stove-top burners to cook the vegetables, timing it so that the food would be done to a turn and piping hot when you sat down.

Or, should you decide to dine out at the last moment, you could call your electronic chef and tell it it had the night off.

Sound far-fetched? Well, electronics engineers are confident this development is not only probable, but possible within the next couple of decades. They cite the rapid scientific strides of the past two decades and predict even greater changes in the years ahead.

General David Sarnoff, Chairman of Radio Corporation of America, even foresees the day when computers will team up with the family television set to help with the shopping.

"By pressing a button," he said recently, "a housewife will be able to look at the merchandise in department stores or other local shops and make her selections. She will push another button and the computer will place the order and make the necessary deduction from her bank account. Not even a check to write!

While all these changes will be revolutionary in scope, the electronics experts stress they will come about in an evolutionary process. Most of the instruments of this revolution are at hand, and some already are in use.

It's a matter of time, but the day is coming when the family computer will act as a central control for all the electrically-run appliances and utilities in the home. Tiny electronic sensing devices located throughout the home will feed all necessary information to the computer.

For example, one sensing device will tell it when clothes in the dryer are free of moisture, and the computer will shut off the dryer. Another will tell the computer the water in the pot is boiling, and it will turn down the burner. Other sensing devices will keep track of such things as temperature, humidity and dust, cueing the computer to take action to counteract changes.

All kitchen appliances—food mixers, blenders, dish washers, ovens, refrigerators — will be run by the computer, with longer equipment life and an almost unlimited choice of performance characteristics as additional bonuses.

For example, pin-point speed control devices — would permit use of this appliance for folding an angel cake — still a hand chore with today's mixers.

Of course, when it comes to cooking food or washing clothes, the housewife will have to put the soiled laundry in the washer and the meat in the oven. The computer control center is designed to help—not to replace — the lady of the house.

Today's computers cost too much for the homeowner and before it finds its way into the home, chances are families will time-share a central computer with neighbors, paying only for time actually used. But, as computers get smaller and costs come down, the electronic helper will begin appearing in homes.

Electronics engineers estimate that 30 per cent of the cost of an appliance is in the electro-mechanical control. Appliances of the future will contain tiny, solid-state sensing devices with the computer providing the control mechanism. And, since it is estimated for instance, that 60 per cent of all service calls on home laundry equipment involves the electro-mechanical timers and control devices, this will mean reduced service calls and costs.

Electronic controls — under such names as silicon controlled rectifiers and triacs — already have made their appearance on the retail scene, and eventually such controls will improve the performance and usefulness of three out of four home appliances.

New Mattress Pad

Now homemakers can say goodbye to mattress pads that flatten out, get lumpy, or shrink when they're machine washed and dried. A new mattress pad, especially designed to go through the washer-dryer cycle without shrinkage, is quilted with soft Dacron polyester fiberfill that stays fluffy through frequent launderings.

Towel Economies

Save money in the kitchen by cutting up old turkish towels for use as potholders and by boiling mesh orange sacks for 15 minutes in laundry bleach to make dishcloths.

Timing Your Move Smooths Carpet, Furniture Worries

If you are moving your old carpeting to your new residence, and are planning to have it cleaned, arrange for the cleaning before you move, not after you have moved into your new home. Arrange to have the carpeting cleaned and delivered to your new residence before your furniture arrives.

In scheduling a move from one house or apartment to another, try to avoid the first and last weeks of the month. The two weeks in between offer better opportunities for service. Moving van equipment and manpower is more readily available during middle-of-the-month periods, because most moves are scheduled for month-end.

THOUGHTFUL PLANNING—This particular arrangement of living room and adjoining family room is ideal for families who enjoy entertaining. Folding doors allow the two rooms to be combined into one spacious area for large gatherings. Mackey Homes are being shown in San Marin, Novato.

Homes With Active Family In Mind

Mackay homes at Sunset/San Marin were designed with the active family in mind, reports John C. McKay, president of the building firm.

"The area's close proximity to San Francisco and the possibility of more sophisticated home buyers led us to develop plans that lend themselves to entertaining . . . Sunset/San Marin's perfect climate also dictated plans that fit into the outdoor living scheme," he said. The result is the busy family, the family with active youngsters . . . and those families who enjoy entertaining and outdoor living will find homes with the very features they want at Sunset/San Marin."

Families oriented to the outdoor way of life will appreciate the numerous details incorporated into every Mackay home for an interplay of indoor-outdoor living. Most plans feature family rooms with sliding glass doors that lead to the patio. Master bedroom suites in many of the models also have sliding glass doors for patio access. All homes have pass-through utility rooms in the garage that also serve as "buffer zones" to trap yard dirt carried in by youngsters and gardening parents. Garages have side doors that lead to play areas.

All yards are completely fenced, and all entries are tiled. Every plan features a central hall arrangement that routes foot traffic away from the more formal areas of the home for more carefree casual living. One model is available with a spacious courtyard that can double as a summer living room.

Mackay homes also have great appeal for the families who enjoy entertaining. Many plans feature adjacent living and family rooms. When the door between the two is open, there is one spacious area perfect for parties and social gatherings. Modern, fully-equipped, all-electric kitchens feature such hostess delights as built-in double oven, range, disposer, dishwasher, hood and exhaust fan. The custom-built used brick or slumpstone fireplaces, dramatic cathedral beamed ceilings, sunken living rooms and wall paneling featured in many models create an inviting atmosphere.

At Sunset/San Marin Mackay offers a wide selection of floor plans and exterior designs in ranch-type and two-story models. All have shake roofs, perimeter heating, wall and ceiling insulation, ceramic tile baths and front lawns. Every home buyer has a choice of interior and exterior colors, lighting fixtures and floor tile patterns. Home prices range from $28,550 to $31,325 with VA and FHA financing available.

To reach San Marin, take Highway 101 to San Marin Drive, just north of Novato. Turn left and follow San Marin Drive to the Mackay models.

Cedar Closets Help

Moth-repellent cedar closets may be used for daily or seasonal storage. Doors should be kept closed tightly at all times. All clothes and fabrics should be cleaned before storage.

Hard Water Can Cause Much Worry

It's estimated that 80 per cent of the United States has water that's hard enough to double or even triple the homemaker's job. If you have trouble getting your soap to suds up, then more trouble rinsing it away, you've got hard water. Film on glassware, the ring around the bathtub, a gummy feeling on your hair after a shampoo—these are other telltale signs that your water is hard.

Great grandma depended upon the rainbarrel for her soft water, and doled it out carefully for special uses, such as her monthly shampoo or laundering fancy woolens. Today's homemaker is much luckier. She can have an automatic water softener.

This modern appliance takes up little space, and its operation is simple. The water flows through a softening tank containing a chemical that removes the iron, calcium or other hardening mineral. As the chemical becomes saturated with the minerals it absorbs, it's automatically regenerated.

The automatic water softener is a real wife-saver. It makes cooking, cleaning and laundering easier. It also saves money. It's estimated that clothes washed in soft water last about 25 per cent longer. The water softener also extends the life of plumbed-in appliances that are otherwise affected by scaly mineral deposits.

Carpeting Has Own Enemies

Dirt and stains are a carpet's greatest enemies. And stains which are taken care of at once are not only easire to remove but also can usually be removed entirely.

Alcoholic Beverages — Blot up excess liquid, sponge with clean damp sponge, blot again. Using detergent foam, sponge and blot again.

Coffee, tea, colas — Quick action is necessary. Blot up excess liquid, rinse with damp cloth and then blot up moisture. Use detergent foam, sponge and blot again.

Blood Stains — Blot thoroughly. Sponge repeatedly with cold water, wiping area and blotting with towel between spongings. Sponge with detergent and dry. If still stained, apply white vinegar, blot and sponge with clear water.

Candy foodstuff—Clean with damp clean sponge, then with detergent solution foam. Wipe excess with clean sponge and dry.

Fat and Grease — Blot, then use dry cleaning fluid to sponge area. Blot dry and repeat if necessary.

If you're housebreaking a puppy, try club soda when the little charmer has an accident. Dilute the stain immediately with cold water and blot. Then apply club soda, blot after a few minutes and vacuum when dry.

Be A Cool Cat With Your Wine

Is it necessary to own a cave to store wines properly? Must a wine cellar really be below ground, in the basement?

The answer to both questions is a resounding no, according to the Wine Institute. It is true, the Institute reports from San Francisco, that wines keep best in a cool place out of the light. But these requirements can be met without resorting to a dungeon's dust, cobwebs and clanging iron doors.

Wine collecting always has been an enjoyable hobby. It expresses the personality of the cellarer, gratifies his tastes and pleases his friends.

Today it also can be simple, relatively inexpensive and tidy. A budding cellarer can begin with as few or as many bottles as he likes, building his collection as the inclination moves him. There are enough different California wines for virtually any taste.

The "cellar" can be any cool, dry, dark place in the house. Some do-it-yourself types like to build their own, in cabinets or closets. Any closed cupboard will do as well, in the kitchen (away from heat), the pantry, or even the garage.

For the less ambitious, ready-made storage racks for wine are available in most department and hardware stores. These wood, wire or plastic units generally stack atop one another and come in sizes and shapes to fit most cupboards and cabinets. Here's a quick checklist for your home wine cellar:

It should provide room for a generous supply of corked wine to lies horizontally (this is to keep the corks moist and thus airtight). White and sparking wines go on the cooler bottom shelves and red table wines in the middle. Dessert and appetizer wines, which are less affected by temperature, go on top. Screw-capped bottles can safely stand upright. Their caps will not dry out.

The cellar should have space for future as well as present needs. Don't forget, generally there are case-lot savings.

It should be out of the light — in a stairwell or extra chest of drawers for example — and in a reasonably cool place. Seventy degrees is considered the maximum for good long-term storage. Ideal temperature is around 55.

Where's The Trend? It's To The Pools

The home swimming pool is receiving respectful attention from psychologists as an instrument for keeping American families together.

Recent surveys of pool owners quoted in "Poolside Living" by James Joseph indicated that less than 20 per cent of the owners bought their pools strictly for swimming. The majority—about 56 per cent—admitted that in one way or another they were investing in closer ties.

Norman Udkoff, president of Blue Haven Pools of Northern California, notes a steady trend toward larger pool patios, with more family-style furniture, accessories and outdoor games which all members of the family can use and enjoy.

"While the automobile tends to divide families, and television tends to silence them, the swimming pool and patio brings them together at every age level in a spirit of comradship and fun which promotes family unity," said Udkoff.

"Some of our customer families have told us that their pools helped the parents get 'reacquainted' with their children. In one case, grandparents told us they purchased a pool so they could see their grandchildren more often."

If the swimming pool is an effective antidote for family separation, the therapy will become more widespread because the outlook is for continually expanding sales of pools to a broadening market, according to Udkoff.

Now that the so-called "$2,500 price barrier" has been broken through most of the industry, a huge new market in the medium and lower-medium income brackets has been opened. Families who own their own home but who in the past didn't consider purchase of a pool because they regarded it a luxury they couldn't afford, are now buying pools at an accelerating rate, because a pool is considered a comfort, not a luxury.

"Budget prices and long-term payment plans make it possible for almost any home-owning family with a paycheck income to purchase a pool," said Udkoff. "Symbolically, the family hearth is moving outside to the family poolside barbecue at thousands of American homes."

Decide Ahead On Locations

One way to make moving day easier is to decide ahead of time where the furniture will be placed in your new home and draw up a floor plan of each of the rooms in your new home.

If you are not going to be present when the furniture arrives at your new home, see to it that you give the mover a copy of these room layouts as a guide.

Even if you are present, the layouts will help you direct the relocation so that the job is completed faster and with greater efficiency.

Valence Beautifies

Putting up a decorative valance is one of the simplest and most practical ways to create a beautiful window treatment. An attractive valance can be assembled by framing a section of grillework, which can be painted to coordinate with the draperies.
